AT CAREER'S PEAK

Famed Producer Mike Todd Dies In Plane Crash

GRANTS, N. M. (AP) — Famed producer Mike Todd perished in flames early Saturday with three others in the crash of his twin-engined airplane "The Liz", named for his actress wife Elizabeth Taylor.

The executive-type plane plunged with tremendous force, exploded and burned in the Zuni Mountains of western New Mexico southwest of here at 2:05 a.m. in a storm.

One who died was a movie writer, Art Cohn, who was working on the story "The First Nine Lives of Mike Todd."

The secretary for the colorful and flamboyant 50-year-old producer of "Around the World in 80 Days" said in Los Angeles that Todd, Cohn, 49, pilot Bill Verner, 45, and co-pilot Tom Barclay, 34, definitely were aboard. He saw them off at Burbank at 10:41 p.m. Friday.

Parts Of Bodies

But officers who made their way to the remote crash scene about 20 air miles southwest of this uranium mine-mill town said they could recover only what appeared to be parts of three bodies. Condition of the bodies made positive identification at least temporarily impossible.

Miss Taylor did not accompany her husband. She stayed at their West Coast home because of a cold. She collapsed when she heard the news and was placed under sedation.

Todd, an enthusiastic air traveler, was flying to New York for a testimonial dinner Sunday night. Film writer Cohn was along so they could discuss the book Cohn was writing about Todd, who often was called the modern Barnum and boy wonder producer.

Cohn wrote a column for the San Francisco Examiner. In his first one, he wrote, "Things seem to happen where I happen to be."

Air Force Major

Verner, the pilot, was a major in the Air Force Reserves and flew a C46 during World War II over the Himalayas between India and China.

Co-pilot Barclay was obtained at Burbank when the regular co-pilot failed to show for the flight, said Eick Hanley, Todd's secretary, in Los Angeles.

The burned wreckage of the Lockheed Lodestar was on the edge of an arroyo in a small dished-out opening ringed by mountains running up to about 9,300 feet. The pilot who found the wreckage estimated the small valley floor was about 7,000 feet.

Simms C. Nettles Dies Here; Rites Scheduled Today

Simms C. (Squenchy) Nettles, past vice-commander of the American Legion here and well-known for his civic activities, succumbed yesterday morning in a local clinic, after a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. today in the chapel of Hixson Brothers Funeral home. The Rev. Dennis Curren, assistant pastor of Our Lady of Fatima Catholic church and chaplain of the L. B. Faulk Post No. 13, American Legion, will officiate.

Interment will follow, in the Memorial Park cemetery, under direction of Hixson Brothers.

Mr. Nettles was born in Columbia 65 years ago. In 1914 he joined the Louisiana National Guard, and in 1916 was part of a military force which chased Pancho Villa from Texas back into Mexico.

The year 1917 saw the First Louisiana Infantry activated into the 39th Infantry. Mr. Nettles went overseas with Co. D, 156th Infantry Regiment, 39th Division. Popularly known as the "top sergeant of Co. D," he was later commissioned an officer.

Mr. Nettles was very active in all American Legion and 40 and 8 circles.

Seaman Killed In Winnfield Area Accident

The dead man was identified as James M. Lundy, 21, a man first class in the U.S. Coast Guard, who died of head injuries according to Dr. George M. Rodgers, deputy coroner of Winn Parish. According to traffic officers, this was the third traffic fatality in Winn Parish in the past eight days.

Lundy was a passenger in the car driven by Lamonte Wright, Jr., 39, of Ruston, an employee of the state highway department, officers said.

Wright suffered minor lacerations of the scalp and was treated at a local hospital and later released.

A woman bought her eggs and butter from a farmer noted for the high grade product he sold and for promptness in making deliveries. But one time company was expected and the housekeeper was straining every nerve to have the affair go off correctly. But just then for the first time the farmer failed to make his badly needed delivery.

The next week when he came she very sharply chided him for the inconvenience that he had caused. He bowed his head and a sorrowful look spread over his countenance. "I am so sorry, ma'am," he explained, "but my mother died suddenly and I had to call off all deliveries."

The housekeeper later declared that never again would she reprimand anyone until she was fully aware that a failure was wholly unwarranted.

Former W.M. Police Clerk Dies In Fire

Mrs. Effie May Roberts, desk clerk at the West Monroe police department for several years, died early yesterday in a blaze which charred the inside of her home at 3000 Cypress St., West Monroe.

"Accidental suffocation - death by carbon monoxide poisoning," was the verdict given by Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita parish coroner.

Firemen battled through a blaze in the front part of her home, and had it under control, before they found Mrs. Roberts lying on the floor in the back bedroom of her home, about 12:30 a.m.

She suffered only a few blisters and apparently was overcome by the smoke before she could reach a door.

"The home was almost a total loss - everything was charred inside and the ceilings were burned through in every room, except the back bedroom where Mrs. Roberts was" stated Chief Earl Taylor, of the West Monroe fire department.

Path Of Fire

"The fire had started to burn through that bedroom door too but that door had been shut, and otherwise, the room was not damaged," he added.

Fire engines six, seven, eight and car five of the West Monroe department sped to the blaze, after an unidentified youth reported the fire to the West Monroe police at 12:14 a.m. "It had burned through the floor in the kitchen, but it didn't look like it started from the stove. Everything was too badly charred for us to tell exactly how it started," Chief Taylor explained.

"We don't know when the fire started" the coroner pointed out, "but if Mrs. Roberts had only had a quilt or something heavy to wrap around her, she might have been able to get out. There was only one door out of the bedroom, and the kitchen, dining room and living room were side by side in the front of the house, where the fire was the worst," he stated.

Desk clerk at the West Monroe police department for approximately five years, Mrs. "Effie May," as she was known affec-

Monroe Bridge Carries Second Heaviest Traffic

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Highway Director R. B. Richardson Saturday released figures to prove that the most traveled bridge in the state was in Shreveport.

The Texas Avenue bridge over the Red River between Shreveport and Bossier City carries an average of 27,000 vehicles daily.

The second busiest bridge is not across the Mississippi River at New Orleans or Baton Rouge as might be expected, but crosses the Ouachita River at Monroe. It had 26,830 trips daily.

The New Orleans Mississippi River bridge is third with 21,650 daily trips and the Lake Charles bridge over the Calcasieu River fourth with 21,300 trips.

Baton Rouge's bridge across the Mississippi is fifth with 19,990 daily trips, but highway traffic experts said it is rising fast.

FABULOUS CAREER

Dynamic Producer Had Made Millions

Born 50 years ago in Minneapolis, he lost and made millions.

After a string of Broadway successes, he produced a movie "Around the World In 80 Days"—his first picture—that won five Hollywood oscars last year and has done fabulous business.

He married film star Elizabeth Taylor, his third wife, Feb. 2, 1957. His second wife actress Joan Blondell, divorced him in 1950. His first died in 1946.

Todd, often described as the modern Barnum and boy wonder producer, did everything on a lavish scale.

On Broadway he was a legend as producer of extravagant tall-girl musicals, who was loaded on Monday and broke on Tuesday.

He was known as a spectacular gambler who could drop $25,000 in one knight's gin rummy and a shrewd but erratic showman-promoter who didn't spend $100,000 where it was possible to spend $400,000.

A cigar-puffing big operator, he lived up to his 100 suits and $2,000-a-month personal telephone bill.

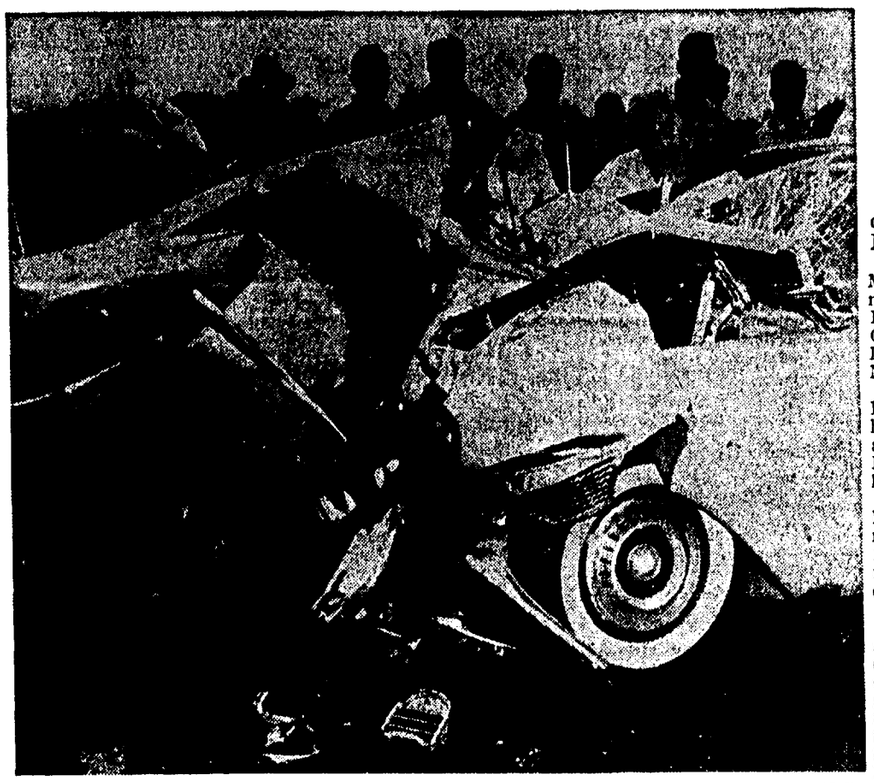

But a few years ago he told an interviewer that all that was behind him.

"Give me peace of mind, friendship," he said. "That's important. To do the right thing. I'm sorry for the guys who can't do the right thing. . . ."

"There's nothing you can buy that will give you as much satisfaction as making an honest buck.

"Like I told my son recently, you trust everybody but don't put

LOUISIANA SOLON

Rep. Long Dies Of Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. George S. Long (D-La.), who left dentistry in 1952 and followed his brothers into Louisiana politics, died Saturday at Bethesda Naval Hospital. He had suffered a heart attack at his home here two days ago.

The 74-year-old Long was a brother of Louisiana Gov. Earl Long and the late U. S. Sen. Huey P. Long. He was an uncle of Sen. Russell Long (D-La).

The congressman's death came at 1:55 p.m., just a few hours after his office reported he was making satisfactory progress. The hospital said he had suffered an acute coronary thrombosis.

Gov. Long could not be reached immediately for comment. He was in Hot Springs, Ark. The governor had the same type heart attack in 1950, but apparently has recovered.

His survivors include his widow, the former Jewell Tyson of Pineville, La., whom he married in 1953. Their home was in Pineville.

Born In Log Cabin

Dr. Long, born Sept. 11, 1883 in a log cabin on his parents' small farm near Winnfield, La., was first elected to Congress from the eighth congressional district Nov. 4, 1952. He was re-elected in 1954 and again in 1956.

He practiced dentistry in Oklahoma and Louisiana from 1904 to 1952 and had been admitted to the bar in Oklahoma in 1923.

Active in matters concerning veterans, he was a member of the House Administration and Veterans Affairs committees.

His death leaves the lineup in the House at 232 Democrats, 198 Republicans and 5 vacancies.

Long and his late parents, Huey Pierce Long Sr., and Caladonia Tison Long, moved to Winnfield when he was five years old.

He attended public school in Winn Parish. Later, he attended Mount Lebanon College and taught school in Winn Parish.

Long was in officers training camp at Waco, Tex., during World War I when peace was declared.

First To Run

Long once said he was the first member of his family to enter politics.

Rumor Premier Bulganin Slated For Early Firing

WASHINGTON (UP) — Nikolai Bulganin may be ousted as Russian premier next week in the continuing battle for power in the Soviet Union, usually reliable diplomatic quarters reported Saturday.

His removal would increase the already great authority concentrated in the hands of Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist Party. There was speculation that Khrushchev will take over the premiership. The late Josef Stalin held both posts at the time of his death in 1953.

Experts following the game of Kremlin politics are betting that Bulganin, despite his close association with a possible East-West summit parley, will be sidelined. They said that if Khrushchev wants to make a change he will have a perfect opportunity next Thursday when the Supreme Soviet (parliament) meets in the wake of the recent Soviet election. Under the election laws and the Soviet Constitution Bulganin and his government are required to resign. The answer to his fate will come when the new government is formed.

Relations between Khrushchev and Bulganin were strained during the last Kremlin shakeup in June, 1957, when Khrushchev ousted bigwigs V. M. Molotov, Georgi M. Malenkov, and Lazar M. Kaganovich.

Khrushchev further tightened his power in the fall when he fired Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov as Soviet defense minister and a member of the Presidium.

Diplomats said evidence has been accumulating that Bulganin's prestige has been skidding since the June power struggle. The split between him and Khrushchev apparently developed when Bulganin sided with his old cronies who were fired.

More recently, Bulganin lost his

Clara W. Hall, Retired City Teacher, Dies

Miss Clara Wendell Hall, retired teacher in the Monroe city schools and daughter of a former supreme court justice and governor of Louisiana, died late yesterday at her home in New Orleans. She had been in failing health for several years.

The body will arrive in Monroe 7:10 a.m. Monday and will be taken to Bastrop for graveside services at the Old City Cemetery at 11 a.m. The Rev. Dick Cook, Episcopal minister will officiate.

Miss Hall retired three years ago as a teacher at Neville High School and the following year moved to New Orleans. She had lived in New Orleans since that time.

Born in Bastrop, Miss Hall was the daughter of the late Luther E. Hall, who served as judge of the Fourth Judicial District and later was elected to the Court of Appeals from this District. He was appointed to the Louisiana Supreme Court, but before taking his seat was elected governor of the state.

Moved to Monroe

While Miss Hall's father served as district judge, the family moved to Monroe, where she was educated in the Ouachita Parish Schools. She attended Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans and graduated in 1916 from the school of music.

Following her graduation, she taught in the schools in Lake Charles, but later moved to Monroe, where she was in charge of the music instructions for the city schools for a number of years. She was teaching in Neville High School at the time of her retirement.

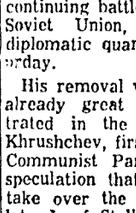

Miss Hall was a member of the Episcopal Church in New Orleans, Delta Kappa Gamma honorary teaching society and the Alpha Omicron Pi society at Newcomb College.

She is survived by a brother,

Rainy Day Looms In Area Forecast

Clouds and rain are forecast for today, following a Saturday which alternated from warm, sunny weather to threatening black clouds.

The weather bureau warns area residents to be ready for possible thunderstorms with high winds. If this fails to materialize, watch out for thundershowers tonight.

Monday will be partly cloudy and colder.

Highest temperature Saturday was 74, a jump over the 66 recorded Friday. Low was 46, compared with the previous day's 40.

2 Are Injured In Collision On 165

Three women died and two men were injured—one critically—in a head-on collision five miles north of Monroe on U.S. 165 about 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

The dead were identified as Mrs. B. F. Keahey, 71, of Beekman community, just north of Bastrop; her daughter, Mrs. George Duffy, 31, of Bastrop, and Lizza Jives, 28-year-old Monroe Negro.

In serious condition at St. Francis Hospital was B. F. Keahey, 71, Mrs. Keahey's husband; and Lewis Easter, 33-year-old Monroe Negro was placed on the hospital critical list.

According to Troopers, Mrs. Duffy was driving a 1958 Chrysler north on U.S. 165 when Easter's 1950 Oldsmobile — traveling in the northbound lane — crashed head-on into her vehicle.

Died Instantly

Mrs. Duffy died instantly of a severed throat; Mrs. Keahey was dead on arrival at the hospital of a fractured skull; and the Negro woman also died of skull fractures shortly after entering the hospital, according to Ouachita Parish coroner Dr. J. T. French.

Hospital physicians reported Easter suffered skull fractures and a broken leg. Mr. Keahey sustained a fracture of the left leg and head lacerations.

Troopers said a witness confirmed the report that Easter's vehicle was traveling in the northbound traffic lane at the time of the crash. Officers said they planned to file negligent homicide charges against Easter, but withheld action pending the outcome of the Negro's condition.

Investigating officials said that both vehicles remained squarely in the northbound traffic lane after the fatal impact.

Mr. and Mrs. Keahey retired and moved to Beekman about four years ago, after being affiliated with a Pickens, Ark., farming corporation for about 30 years.

Mrs. Duffey for the past five years had been a secretary in the personnel division of the International Paper Company mill at Bastrop. Her husband is a rice farmer. The couple have no children.

Shopping Trip

Mrs. Duffy and her parents had come to Monroe shortly after noon yesterday to do some shopping and were returning home when the fatal crash occurred. Mr. Duffy had remained at the new home the Duffys purchased on the Bonner Ferry Road in Bastrop about three weeks ago.

Following the crash, a Mulhearn ambulance rushed the victims to the hospital where State police and coroner Dr. French began the identification of the victims.

Mrs. Keahey has five surviving children. They include, Travis Keahy, of Pickens, Ark.; Mrs. Otto Click of Beekman; Harold K. Keahey of Bastrop; Mrs. W. N.

2-Month-Old Girl Suffocates In Sleep

Ouachita parish coroner Dr. J. T. French announced yesterday that a 2-month-old Negro girl suffocated in her sleep Friday night in West Monroe.

The coroner identified the infant as Ladell Davis, daughter of Helen Davis, of 100 Parker St., West Monroe. According to investigators, the baby had pulled the covers over its head. The death was discovered about 5 a.m. yesterday, Dr. French said.

FOR MEMORIAL PARK

Contributions Come From Distant Points

Contributions to the Bendel Memorial Fund as a benefit to Little League baseball here came in from the faraway places yesterday — Little Rock, Ark.; Denver, Colo.; Dallas, Tex.; Tulsa, Okla. —as well as the home area to send the fund climbing to $5,299 in actual cash already collected by the trustees of the fund.

Collections yesterday came from Major Henry P. Florsheim, Little Rock, Ark.; Keller Brothers of Monroe, Ries Feith, Paul Manasseh of Denver, Colo.; G. A. Foster of Pollock; Rodriguez and Farr Insurance Agency of Monroe; Mrs. M. R. Meyer and family of Tulsa, Okla.; Frances and Bernard Marcus of Dallas, Tex.; and A. L. Booth of "Jim Dandy Homes" of Archibald.

Major Florsheim first knew the late Dr. William L. Bendel as an athlete at the old Monroe City High School and at Neville High School where he performed for coaches Paul Neal and Percy Brown in football, baseball, and basketball. Dr. Bendel was team physician and gave his services freely.

Note From Dallas

'Dr. Bendel gave all his thoughts and spare time to promoting youth in sports. It is wonderful that the community of Monroe is raising a memorial fund for the erection of a permanent Little Baseball League Park. Enclosed is our check to go to this fund. This will be a monument befitting our dear Dr. William Bendel.

Cancer Suit Opens Monday In U.S. Court

NEW ORLEANS — UP — A federal district court jury will be selected Monday to hear a $779,500 damage suit filed by Mrs. Victoria St. Pierre Lartigue who claims cigaret smoking caused her husband to die of lung and throat cancer.

Mrs. Lartigue charged that her husband, Frank J. Lartigue of St. Mary Parish, La., started smoking when he was nine years old.

Defendants in the civil suit are the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., makers of Camel cigarets, and the Liggett and Myers Co. makers of King Bee Tobacco and Picayune cigarets.

Call Medical Experts

Both sides are expected to summon widely known medical experts in the field of cancer research.

In her complaint, Mrs. Lartigue said her husband smoked two packs of cigarets a day starting in 1899. She said he smoked camels, Picayune and King Bee.

She charged the "use of these tobaccos in that amount either precipitated or contributed to development of a cancer (squamous cell carcinoma) of the vocal cords . . . (and lungs) which ultimately caused his death July 13, 1955." Cancer also occurred in the lungs, according to medical reports.

She said he smoked until Oct. 4, 1954, a day or two before he was operated on at the Ochsner Clinic, of New Orleans, widely known for its treatment of cancer victims.

Contends Companies Negligent

Dr. Alton Ochsner, world famed surgeon who contends prolonged cigaret smoking can cause cancer, is scheduled to testify.

Mrs. Lartigue's lawyers will attempt to prove the companies were negligent in not warning the public that their tobaccos as mixed and blended could cause cancer when smoked. They stated in pre-trial filings that the companies through their advertising implied their products were actually good for people and would not cause harm.

The companies answered they made no such warranty and contended there is no solid evidence to show smoking of their products could cause cancer.

Three Lawyers

One of Mrs. Lartigue's lawyers is Melvin M. Belli of San Francisco, a widely known damage suit attorney. He helped win a $265,000 suit against Conrad Hilton and was an attorney for clients who sued the Cutler laboratory for selling faulty polio vaccine.

Other lawyers for Mrs. Lartigue are Jack C. Caldwell of Franklin, La., and H. Alva Brumfield of Baton Rouge.

At the Jan. 29 hearing, the lawyers—in a jocular vein—expressed views on the case after U. S. District Judge Herbert Christenberry, who will preside at the trial, commented:

"It took so long for these products to kill this man, it seems to

Romeo In Russia Has Tough Time

MOSCOW (AP) — Arnold Astretov, a Russian Romeo, decided the girl he married had to have an apartment and a car.

In all Moscow, Arnold couldn't find the one girl of his dreams. But he found two: one with a car; one with an apartment.

The youth newspaper Komsomol Pravda said Saturday Arnold hatched this plot:

1. Marry girl with apartment.
2. Divorce her; claim share of apartment.
3. Marry girl with car.
4. Live happily ever after in apartment with girl with car.

But alas for poor Romeo, girl with apartment met girl with car just as Arnold was about to file for divorce.

And so Arnold is a lonely man in Moscow, with two black eyes, no bride, no car and no apartment.

"The home was almost a total loss - everything was charred inside and the ceilings were burned through in every room, except the back bedroom where Mrs. Roberts was" stated Chief Earl Taylor, of the West Monroe fire department.

Path Of Fire

"The fire had started to burn through that bedroom door too but that door had been shut, and otherwise, the room was not damaged," he added.

Fire engines six, seven, eight and car five of the West Monroe department sped to the blaze, after an unidentified youth reported the fire to the West Monroe police at 12:14 a.m. "It had burned through the floor in the kitchen, but it didn't look like it started from the stove. Everything was too badly charred for us to tell exactly how it started," Chief Taylor explained.

"We don't know when the fire started" the coroner pointed out, "but if Mrs. Roberts had only had a quilt or something heavy to wrap around her, she might have been able to get out. There was only one door out of the bedroom, and the kitchen, dining room and living room were side by side in the front of the house, where the fire was the worst," he stated.

Desk clerk at the West Monroe police department for approximately five years, Mrs. "Effie May," as she was known affec-

Monroe Bridge Carries Second Heaviest Traffic

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Highway Director R. B. Richardson Saturday released figures to prove that the most traveled bridge in the state was in Shreveport.

The Texas Avenue bridge over the Red River between Shreveport and Bossier City carries an average of 27,000 vehicles daily.

The second busiest bridge is not across the Mississippi River at New Orleans or Baton Rouge as might be expected, but crosses the Ouachita River at Monroe. It had 26,830 trips daily.

The New Orleans Mississippi River bridge is third with 21,650 daily trips and the Lake Charles bridge over the Calcasieu River fourth with 21,300 trips.

Baton Rouge's bridge across the Mississippi is fifth with 19,990 daily trips, but highway traffic experts said it is rising fast.

FABULOUS CAREER

Dynamic Producer Had Made Millions

Born 50 years ago in Minneapolis, he lost and made millions.

After a string of Broadway successes, he produced a movie "Around the World In 80 Days"—his first picture—that won five Hollywood oscars last year and has done fabulous business.

He married film star Elizabeth Taylor, his third wife, Feb. 2, 1957. His second wife actress Joan Blondell, divorced him in 1950. His first died in 1946.

Todd, often described as the modern Barnum and boy wonder producer, did everything on a lavish scale.

On Broadway he was a legend as producer of extravagant tall-girl musicals, who was loaded on Monday and broke on Tuesday.

He was known as a spectacular gambler who could drop $25,000 in one knight's gin rummy and a shrewd but erratic showman-promoter who didn't spend $100,000 where it was possible to spend $400,000.

A cigar-puffing big operator, he lived up to his 100 suits and $2,000-a-month personal telephone bill.

But a few years ago he told an interviewer that all that was behind him.

"Give me peace of mind, friendship," he said. "That's important. To do the right thing. I'm sorry for the guys who can't do the right thing. . . ."

"There's nothing you can buy that will give you as much satisfaction as making an honest buck.

"Like I told my son recently, you trust everybody but don't put

2 Are Injured In Collision On 165

Three women died and two men were injured—one critically—in a head-on collision five miles north of Monroe on U.S. 165 about 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

The dead were identified as Mrs. B. F. Keahey, 71, of Beekman community, just north of Bastrop; her daughter, Mrs. George Duffy, 31, of Bastrop, and Lizza Jives, 28-year-old Monroe Negro.

In serious condition at St. Francis Hospital was B. F. Keahey, 71, Mrs. Keahey's husband; and Lewis Easter, 33-year-old Monroe Negro was placed on the hospital critical list.

According to Troopers, Mrs. Duffy was driving a 1958 Chrysler north on U.S. 165 when Easter's 1950 Oldsmobile — traveling in the northbound lane — crashed head-on into her vehicle.

Died Instantly

Mrs. Duffy died instantly of a severed throat; Mrs. Keahey was dead on arrival at the hospital of a fractured skull; and the Negro woman also died of skull fractures shortly after entering the hospital, according to Ouachita Parish coroner Dr. J. T. French.

Hospital physicians reported Easter suffered skull fractures and a broken leg. Mr. Keahey sustained a fracture of the left leg and head lacerations.

Troopers said a witness confirmed the report that Easter's vehicle was traveling in the northbound traffic lane at the time of the crash. Officers said they planned to file negligent homicide charges against Easter, but withheld action pending the outcome of the Negro's condition.

Investigating officials said that both vehicles remained squarely in the northbound traffic lane after the fatal impact.

Mr. and Mrs. Keahey retired and moved to Beekman about four years ago, after being affiliated with a Pickens, Ark., farming corporation for about 30 years.

Mrs. Duffey for the past five years had been a secretary in the personnel division of the International Paper Company mill at Bastrop. Her husband is a rice farmer. The couple have no children.

Shopping Trip

Mrs. Duffy and her parents had come to Monroe shortly after noon yesterday to do some shopping and were returning home when the fatal crash occurred. Mr. Duffy had remained at the new home the Duffys purchased on the Bonner Ferry Road in Bastrop about three weeks ago.

Following the crash, a Mulhearn ambulance rushed the victims to the hospital where State police and coroner Dr. French began the identification of the victims.

Mrs. Keahey has five surviving children. They include, Travis Keahy, of Pickens, Ark.; Mrs. Otto Click of Beekman; Harold K. Keahey of Bastrop; Mrs. W. N.

Cancer Suit Opens Monday In U.S. Court

NEW ORLEANS — UP — A federal district court jury will be selected Monday to hear a $779,500 damage suit filed by Mrs. Victoria St. Pierre Lartigue who claims cigaret smoking caused her husband to die of lung and throat cancer.

Mrs. Lartigue charged that her husband, Frank J. Lartigue of St. Mary Parish, La., started smoking when he was nine years old.

Defendants in the civil suit are the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., makers of Camel cigarets, and the Liggett and Myers Co. makers of King Bee Tobacco and Picayune cigarets.

Call Medical Experts

Both sides are expected to summon widely known medical experts in the field of cancer research.

In her complaint, Mrs. Lartigue said her husband smoked two packs of cigarets a day starting in 1899. She said he smoked camels, Picayune and King Bee.

She charged the "use of these tobaccos in that amount either precipitated or contributed to development of a cancer (squamous cell carcinoma) of the vocal cords . . . (and lungs) which ultimately caused his death July 13, 1955." Cancer also occurred in the lungs, according to medical reports.

She said he smoked until Oct. 4, 1954, a day or two before he was operated on at the Ochsner Clinic, of New Orleans, widely known for its treatment of cancer victims.

Contends Companies Negligent

Dr. Alton Ochsner, world famed surgeon who contends prolonged cigaret smoking can cause cancer, is scheduled to testify.

Mrs. Lartigue's lawyers will attempt to prove the companies were negligent in not warning the public that their tobaccos as mixed and blended could cause cancer when smoked. They stated in pre-trial filings that the companies through their advertising implied their products were actually good for people and would not cause harm.

The companies answered they made no such warranty and contended there is no solid evidence to show smoking of their products could cause cancer.

Three Lawyers

One of Mrs. Lartigue's lawyers is Melvin M. Belli of San Francisco, a widely known damage suit attorney. He helped win a $265,000 suit against Conrad Hilton and was an attorney for clients who sued the Cutler laboratory for selling faulty polio vaccine.

Other lawyers for Mrs. Lartigue are Jack C. Caldwell of Franklin, La., and H. Alva Brumfield of Baton Rouge.

At the Jan. 29 hearing, the lawyers—in a jocular vein—expressed views on the case after U. S. District Judge Herbert Christenberry, who will preside at the trial, commented:

"It took so long for these products to kill this man, it seems to

LOUISIANA SOLON

Rep. Long Dies Of Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. George S. Long (D-La.), who left dentistry in 1952 and followed his brothers into Louisiana politics, died Saturday at Bethesda Naval Hospital. He had suffered a heart attack at his home here two days ago.

The 74-year-old Long was a brother of Louisiana Gov. Earl Long and the late U. S. Sen. Huey P. Long. He was an uncle of Sen. Russell Long (D-La).

The congressman's death came at 1:55 p.m., just a few hours after his office reported he was making satisfactory progress. The hospital said he had suffered an acute coronary thrombosis.

Gov. Long could not be reached immediately for comment. He was in Hot Springs, Ark. The governor had the same type heart attack in 1950, but apparently has recovered.

His survivors include his widow, the former Jewell Tyson of Pineville, La., whom he married in 1953. Their home was in Pineville.

Born In Log Cabin

Dr. Long, born Sept. 11, 1883 in a log cabin on his parents' small farm near Winnfield, La., was first elected to Congress from the eighth congressional district Nov. 4, 1952. He was re-elected in 1954 and again in 1956.

He practiced dentistry in Oklahoma and Louisiana from 1904 to 1952 and had been admitted to the bar in Oklahoma in 1923.

Active in matters concerning veterans, he was a member of the House Administration and Veterans Affairs committees.

His death leaves the lineup in the House at 232 Democrats, 198 Republicans and 5 vacancies.

Long and his late parents, Huey Pierce Long Sr., and Caladonia Tison Long, moved to Winnfield when he was five years old.

He attended public school in Winn Parish. Later, he attended Mount Lebanon College and taught school in Winn Parish.

Long was in officers training camp at Waco, Tex., during World War I when peace was declared.

First To Run

Long once said he was the first member of his family to enter politics.

Rumor Premier Bulganin Slated For Early Firing

WASHINGTON (UP) — Nikolai Bulganin may be ousted as Russian premier next week in the continuing battle for power in the Soviet Union, usually reliable diplomatic quarters reported Saturday.

His removal would increase the already great authority concentrated in the hands of Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist Party. There was speculation that Khrushchev will take over the premiership. The late Josef Stalin held both posts at the time of his death in 1953.

Experts following the game of Kremlin politics are betting that Bulganin, despite his close association with a possible East-West summit parley, will be sidelined. They said that if Khrushchev wants to make a change he will have a perfect opportunity next Thursday when the Supreme Soviet (parliament) meets in the wake of the recent Soviet election. Under the election laws and the Soviet Constitution Bulganin and his government are required to resign. The answer to his fate will come when the new government is formed.

Relations between Khrushchev and Bulganin were strained during the last Kremlin shakeup in June, 1957, when Khrushchev ousted bigwigs V. M. Molotov, Georgi M. Malenkov, and Lazar M. Kaganovich.

Khrushchev further tightened his power in the fall when he fired Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov as Soviet defense minister and a member of the Presidium.

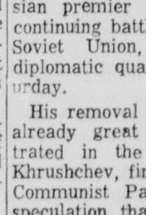

Diplomats said evidence has been accumulating that Bulganin's prestige has been skidding since the June power struggle. The split between him and Khrushchev apparently developed when Bulganin sided with his old cronies who were fired.

Rainy Day Looms In Area Forecast

Clouds and rain are forecast for today, following a Saturday which alternated from warm, sunny weather to threatening black clouds.

The weather bureau warns area residents to be ready for possible thunderstorms with high winds. If this fails to materialize, watch out for thundershowers tonight.

Monday will be partly cloudy and colder.

Highest temperature Saturday was 74, a jump over the 66 recorded Friday. Low was 46, compared with the previous day's 40.

Clara W. Hall, Retired City Teacher, Dies

Miss Clara Wendell Hall, retired teacher in the Monroe city schools and daughter of a former supreme court justice and governor of Louisiana, died late yesterday at her home in New Orleans. She had been in failing health for several years.

The body will arrive in Monroe 7:10 a.m. Monday and will be taken to Bastrop for graveside services at the Old City Cemetery at 11 a.m. The Rev. Dick Cook, Episcopal minister will officiate.

Miss Hall retired three years ago as a teacher at Neville High School and the following year moved to New Orleans. She had lived in New Orleans since that time.

Born in Bastrop, Miss Hall was the daughter of the late Luther E. Hall, who served as judge of the Fourth Judicial District and later was elected to the Court of Appeals from this District. He was appointed to the Louisiana Supreme Court, but before taking his seat was elected governor of the state.

Moved to Monroe

While Miss Hall's father served as district judge, the family moved to Monroe, where she was educated in the Ouachita Parish Schools. She attended Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans and graduated in 1916 from the school of music.

Following her graduation, she taught in the schools in Lake Charles, but later moved to Monroe, where she was in charge of the music instructions for the city schools for a number of years. She was teaching in Neville High School at the time of her retirement.

Miss Hall was a member of the Episcopal Church in New Orleans, Delta Kappa Gamma honorary teaching society and the Alpha Omicron Pi society at Newcomb College.

She is survived by a brother,

2-Month-Old Girl Suffocates In Sleep

Ouachita parish coroner Dr. J. T. French announced yesterday that a 2-month-old Negro girl suffocated in her sleep Friday night in West Monroe.

The coroner identified the infant as Ladell Davis, daughter of Helen Davis, of 100 Parker St., West Monroe. According to investigators, the baby had pulled the covers over its head. The death was discovered about 5 a.m. yesterday, Dr. French said.

FOR MEMORIAL PARK

Contributions Come From Distant Points

Contributions to the Bendel Memorial Fund as a benefit to Little League baseball here came in from the faraway places yesterday — Little Rock, Ark.; Denver, Colo.; Dallas, Tex.; Tulsa, Okla. —as well as the home area to send the fund climbing to $5,299 in actual cash already collected by the trustees of the fund.

Collections yesterday came from Major Henry P. Florsheim, Little Rock, Ark.; Keller Brothers of Monroe, Ries Feith, Paul Manasseh of Denver, Colo.; G. A. Foster of Pollock; Rodriguez and Farr Insurance Agency of Monroe; Mrs. M. R. Meyer and family of Tulsa, Okla.; Frances and Bernard Marcus of Dallas, Tex.; and A. L. Booth of "Jim Dandy Homes" of A chibald.

Major Florsheim first knew the late Dr. William L. Bendel as an athlete at the old Monroe City High School and at Neville High School where he performed for coaches Paul Neal and Percy Brown in football, baseball, and basketball. Dr. Bendel was team physician and gave his services freely.

Note From Dallas

'Dr. Bendel gave all his thoughts and spare time to promoting youth in sports. It is wonderful that the community of Monroe is raising a memorial fund for the erection of a permanent Little Baseball League Park. Enclosed is our check to go to this fund. This will be a monument befitting our dear Dr. William Bendel.

Romeo In Russia Has Tough Time

MOSCOW (AP) — Arnold Astretov, a Russian Romeo, decided the girl he married had to have an apartment and a car.

In all Moscow, Arnold couldn't find the one girl of his dreams. But he found two: one with a car; one with an apartment.

The youth newspaper Komsomol Pravda said Saturday Arnold hatched this plot:

1. Marry girl with apartment.
2. Divorce her; claim share of apartment.
3. Marry girl with car.
4. Live happily ever after in apartment with girl with car.

But alas for poor Romeo, girl with apartment met girl with car just as Arnold was about to file for divorce.

And so Arnold is a lonely man in Moscow, with two black eyes, no bride, no car and no apartment.

Coleman's Pleas Get No Response

Legislative halls have been silent on the possibility of a convention; no bill has been introduced in either house; and no lawmaker has used the idea in floor debate on other matters.

The governor used a Negro's challenge of Mississippi's voter registration laws to issue another convention request, saying a new constitution is the only way the state can protect itself against "unqualified voting" under the Federal Civil Rights Act.

He suggested revision of the voter registration laws and creation of a three-member board of registrars to process applications.

Instead, the House approved a bill setting up a single, court-appointed registrar with authority to open the boos for registration no more than five days a month.

A lawyer would advise him and the sheriff could be asked to assist.

Coleman has said circuit clerks —present registrars — normally are not trained in federal laws and could not be expected to cope with the expected onslaughts under the Civil Rights Act.

Possibly significant is the fact that when the bill came up in the House, no administration supporter rose to argue the governor's claims for a new constitution.

The bill passed without a dissenting vote and without arguments regarding its merits. It also has been approved by the Senate Elections Committee and faces floor action in the Senate.

The 1957 special legislative session—called to consider a constitutional convention—rejected that idea in the House after anti-administration forces argued the Constitution needed only amending to be perfected.

At that time, Coleman told the lawmakers they could try the amendment route during the 1958 session and he would not interfere.

He said nothing about a convention until he addressed a joint session Tuesday.

So far, the Legislature has been unable to agree on constitutional amendments.

Two amendments are ready for consideration in the House—to add seven House seats and five Senate seats and to simplify the amendment process.

The reapportionment amendment—not on the basis of population for the House nor of area for the Senate — is a concession to south Mississippi where population has expanded while representation remains the same.

Apparently, sponsors of the amendment route have found the required two-thirds vote in each House on each of three days, ratification by the people and insertion by the next Legislature too unwieldy a procedure for rapid change.

The proposed simplification of the process would require only one two-thirds vote in each House, ratification by the people and insertion of the approved amendment by the secretary of state.

Presumably, all other proposed amendments—and there are many dealing with education and abolition of schools—will await insertion of this simplified process.

The voter registration suit in federal District Court also resulted in passage of a bill in which few senators had placed confidence of passage.

The day the story of the suit was published, the Senate voted 39-2 to approve authority for cities and counties to donate $100 per million dollars of assessed valuation to the pro-segregation, secret Citizens Councils.

The bill faces House action Monday.

Sponsors of the bill say the additional money would be used to help the Councils fight the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People and other groups seeking to desegregate in the state.

W. J. Simmons of Jackson, state administrator of the Mississippi Assn. of Citizens Councils, has said the group's books and records are not available for public inspection.

This means if the bill is signed into law, the people would be required to contribute the money but would not be able to control its use or to determine how it was spent.

Other major action in the Legislature last week:

Sen. George Owens of Pontotoc, Education Committee chairman and author of the Senate bill, said it would be a good idea to put the program in Senate-House conference to "find out what the differences really are."

Differences include:

House: $100-$400 raises for teachers and optional nine-month school terms, costing 101 million dollars.

Senate: $200-$725 raises and mandatory nine - month terms, costing 104 million dollars.

The Budget Commission and several members of the Legislature have reappraised the budget and concluded the largest surplus the state could expect in June 1960 would be five million dollars.

That means, the commission said, the other 17 million dollars needed for education would have to come from new tax sources.

Neither House has provided an acceptable series of new taxes.

Opposition came from senators who believed the prison would be in competition with private industry as it is with farmers on agricultural products.

The House passed two bills boosting the statewide combination hunting-fishing license from $4 to $5 and requiring a $1 license for fishing outside the fisherman's resident county.

'RELIEF' SAYS SINGER

Draft Set Monday For Shorn Elvis

By JOE MCDAVID
United Press Staff Correspondent

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 22—UP—Side-burn shorn Elvis Presley gets drafted here Monday in one of the best covered "Army maneuvers" since the Explorer blasted into space.

Plans for a "quiet, routine" induction have gone up in smoke.

Newsmen, photographers and newsreel cameramen will record every step of the change from million dollar a year rock 'n roll entertainer to $78 a month Army private.

Presley is "ready to go." A final physical checkup will start him saluting for the next two years.

A Relief To Elvis

"The Army will be a relief in some ways," the 23 year old Presley says, but he doesn't appear "too happy" over the prospect.

Presley was deferred 60 days to complete his fourth movie in New Orleans and Hollywood.

Capt. Joseph R. Blanchette of the armed forces examining and induction station here had hoped to get Presley into the Army "just like any other inductee."

But then came a flood of telephone calls from newspapers, and radio and TV networks seeking information on how Presley will be handled through the induction station.

No Poses

Blanchette said the proceedings will be open to all newsmen, but "no posed pictures."

"Cameramen may take all the pictures they want, just so long as they do not interfere with the orderly procedure of the processing," the captain said.

"We want to cooperate as much as we can," he added.

Coverage of the big Presley draft will give many local newsmen their first chance to get a close look at the rock 'n roll flash. In the past, Presley's manager had made it tough to reach the singer for interviews. Presley's home telephone number has been a secret.

Always Protected

All business with Presley had to go through his manager Tom Parker even to special interviews. One columnist submitted a list of questions, and instead of getting answers from Presley a "management spokesman" gave out "polished" answers.

Then the singer and 12 other inductees will be carted by bus to Kennedy veterans hospital where they get another physical to make sure they are fit for the military.

Off To Chaffee

Induction station officials aren't sure themselves when Presley will leave for Ft. Chaffee, Ark., where by coincidence singer Charley Applewhite is getting out.

In preparation for his induction, Presley went to a barber shop here last week and had his famous locks and sideburns trimmed to a "near crew-cut."

Begged For A Lock

Young girl fans beseiged the barber for Presley's hair, but Lloyd said "it went into the trash."

Presley shouldn't find it too difficult getting along on a private's pay. He receives $1,000 a week in record royalties from RCA Victor.

And he will get $250,000 plus 50 per cent of the gross of his new picture, "King Creole," completed earlier this month, scheduled for showing by June.

Girl Captures Memphis Cotton Pageant Honors

For Margaret, it was a real surprise. She thought she was way out in left field due to a slip of the tongue. She had called one of the male judges "M'am."

Margaret is the daughter of Mrs. Marguerite Foote. Her father is Shelby Foote, a writer. He lives in Memphis. The parents are divorced.

Donna Stewart, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Stewart of Ruleville, Miss., was named first alternate. Rombye Kay Basista, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Basista of Jackson, Tenn., was chosen second alternate. Twenty-five girls were entered.

Coleman's Pleas Get No Response

Legislative halls have been silent on the possibility of a convention; no bill has been introduced in either house; and no lawmaker has used the idea in floor debate on other matters.

The governor used a Negro's challenge of Mississippi's voter registration laws to issue another convention request, saying a new constitution is the only way the state can protect itself against "unqualified voting" under the Federal Civil Rights Act.

He suggested revision of the voter registration laws and creation of a three-member board of registrars to process applications.

Instead, the House approved a bill setting up a single, court-appointed registrar with authority to open the boos for registration no more than five days a month.

A lawyer would advise him and the sheriff could be asked to assist.

Coleman has said circuit clerks —present registrars — normally are not trained in federal laws and could not be expected to cope with the expected onslaughts under the Civil Rights Act.

Possibly significant is the fact that when the bill came up in the House, no administration supporter rose to argue the governor's claims for a new constitution.

The bill passed without a dissenting vote and without arguments regarding its merits. It also has been approved by the Senate Elections Committee and faces floor action in the Senate.

The 1957 special legislative session—called to consider a constitutional convention—rejected that idea in the House after anti-administration forces argued the Constitution needed only amending to be perfected.

At that time, Coleman told the lawmakers they could try the amendment route during the 1958 session and he would not interfere.

He said nothing about a convention until he addressed a joint session Tuesday.

So far, the Legislature has been unable to agree on constitutional amendments.

Two amendments are ready for consideration in the House—to add seven House seats and five Senate seats and to simplify the amendment process.

The reapportionment amendment—not on the basis of population for the House nor of area for the Senate — is a concession to south Mississippi where population has expanded while representation remains the same.

Apparently, sponsors of the amendment route have found the required two-thirds vote in each House on each of three days, ratification by the people and insertion by the next Legislature too unwieldy a procedure for rapid change.

The proposed simplification of the process would require only one two-thirds vote in each House, ratification by the people and insertion of the approved amendment by the secretary of state.

Presumably, all other proposed amendments—and there are many dealing with education and abolition of schools—will await insertion of this simplified process.

The voter registration suit in federal District Court also resulted in passage of a bill in which few senators had placed confidence of passage.

The day the story of the suit was published, the Senate voted 39-2 to approve authority for cities and counties to donate $100 per million dollars of assessed valuation to the pro-segregation, secret Citizens Councils.

The bill faces House action Monday.

Sponsors of the bill say the additional money would be used to help the Councils fight the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People and other groups seeking to desegregate in the state.

W. J. Simmons of Jackson, state administrator of the Mississippi Assn. of Citizens Councils, has said the group's books and records are not available for public inspection.

This means if the bill is signed into law, the people would be required to contribute the money but would not be able to control its use or to determine how it was spent.

Other major action in the Legislature last week:

Sen. George Owens of Pontotoc, Education Committee chairman and author of the Senate bill, said it would be a good idea to put the program in Senate-House conference to "find out what the differences really are."

Differences include:

House: $100-$400 raises for teachers and optional nine-month school terms, costing 101 million dollars.

The Budget Commission and several members of the Legislature have reappraised the budget and concluded the largest surplus the state could expect in June 1960 would be five million dollars.

That means, the commission said, the other 17 million dollars needed for education would have to come from new tax sources.

Neither House has provided an acceptable series of new taxes.

Opposition came from senators who believed the prison would be in competition with private industry as it is with farmers on agricultural products.

The House passed two bills boosting the statewide combination hunting-fishing license from $4 to $5 and requiring a $1 license for fishing outside the fisherman's resident county.

'RELIEF' SAYS SINGER

Draft Set Monday For Shorn Elvis

By JOE MCDAVID
United Press Staff Correspondent

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 22—UP—Side-burn shorn Elvis Presley gets drafted here Monday in one of the best covered "Army maneuvers" since the Explorer blasted into space.

Plans for a "quiet, routine" induction have gone up in smoke.

Newsmen, photographers and newsreel cameramen will record every step of the change from million dollar a year rock 'n roll entertainer to $78 a month Army private.

Presley is "ready to go." A final physical checkup will start him saluting for the next two years.

A Relief To Elvis

"The Army will be a relief in some ways," the 23 year old Presley says, but he doesn't appear "too happy" over the prospect.

Presley was deferred 60 days to complete his fourth movie in New Orleans and Hollywood.

Capt. Joseph R. Blanchette of the armed forces examining and induction station here had hoped to get Presley into the Army "just like any other inductee."

But then came a flood of telephone calls from newspapers, and radio and TV networks seeking information on how Presley will be handled through the induction station.

No Poses

Blanchette said the proceedings will be open to all newsmen, but "no posed pictures."

"Cameramen may take all the pictures they want, just so long as they do not interfere with the orderly procedure of the processing," the captain said.

"We want to cooperate as much as we can," he added.

Coverage of the big Presley draft will give many local newsmen their first chance to get a close look at the rock 'n roll flash. In the past, Presley's manager had made it tough to reach the singer for interviews. Presley's home telephone number has been a secret.

Always Protected

All business with Presley had to go through his manager Tom Parker even to special interviews. One columnist submitted a list of questions, and instead of getting answers from Presley a "management spokesman" gave out "polished" answers.

Presley will leave his $100,000 mansion at suburban Whitehaven at sunrise Monday and head for his draft board office in one of his expensive automobiles.

Then the singer and 12 other inductees will be carted by bus to Kennedy veterans hospital where they get another physical to make sure they are fit for the military.

Off To Chaffee

Induction station officials aren't sure themselves when Presley will leave for Ft. Chaffee, Ark., where by coincidence singer Charley Applewhite is getting out.

In preparation for his induction, Presley went to a barber shop here last week and had his famous locks and sideburns trimmed to a "near crew-cut."

Begged For A Lock

Young girl fans beseiged the barber for Presley's hair, but Lloyd said "it went into the trash."

Presley shouldn't find it too difficult getting along on a private's pay. He receives $1,000 a week in record royalties from RCA Victor.

And he will get $250,000 plus 50 per cent of the gross of his new picture, "King Creole," com - pleted earlier this month, scheduled for showing by June.

Girl Captures Memphis Cotton Pageant Honors

For Margaret, it was a real surprise. She thought she was way out in left field due to a slip of the tongue. She had called one of the male judges "M'am."

Margaret is the daughter of Mrs. Marguerite Foote. Her father is Shelby Foote, a writer. He lives in Memphis. The parents are divorced.

Donna Stewart, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Stewart of Ruleville, Miss., was named first alternate. Rombye Kay Basista, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Basista of Jackson, Tenn., was chosen second alternate. Twenty-five girls were entered.

Margaret won a $100 savings bond, an all-cotton wardrobe and a tr. for herself and her mother to Nashville, the Tennessee state capital.

She will compete against entries from 16 other cities in the national Little Miss Cotton contest here May 16.

One Killed, Two Hurt In Crash

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — A two-car collision near here Saturday killed one person and seriously injured three others.

The highway patrol said W. J. Rawles, 62-year-old retired merchant marine seaman, died some two hours after the accident. His last known home address was the Hotel LaSalle, New Orleans.

The injured were listed as Fenton Stringer, 35 of Petal, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde D. Burden of Jackson. The Burdens were passengers in a car driven by Rawles. Stringer was driving the other car.

TODD FLIGHT

Newsman, Others Remained Behind

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Ten hours before he died in a plane crash in New Mexico jaunty Mike Todd sat in his plush MGM studio office attempting to locate companions for his fatal flight.

"Ah, c'mon," he said. "It's a good safe plane. I wouldn't let it crash. I'm taking along a picture of Elizabeth (Taylor, his wife), and I wouldn't let anything happen to her.

"Besides, I got three million bucks worth of insurance. You'd be covered, too."

Mankiewicz begged off and thereby preserved his life. Todd also called actor Kirk Douglas, who couldn't make it either.

Last Interview With U.P.

Todd's last interview was with United Press.

He looked at me. "Why don't you come along?" he asked. "I want somebody to play gin rummy with."

He flipped out a sheaf of papers and read off the figures.

"So far the picture's shown in only 204 theaters, but it's made 30 million dollars," he said. "It only cost six million.

"It will be the first movie ever to make 100 million dollars—and I don't know how I'm going to spend it all."

Kisses Portrait Of Liz

"She's the greatest," he observed.

His office door opened and Todd's biographer, Art Cohn (who was killed in the crash with Todd) stepped in to ask what time their plane would leave.

"At 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, unless the weather looks bad. If so, we'll take off late tonight," Todd said. Cohn nodded and said he was going home to pack.

"I'm flying east to accept the Showman of the Year award," Mike went on. "If I can talk Elizabeth into it, I hope to stop by Chicago to see the Robinson-Basilio fight on the way back."

He said Miss Taylor would not accompany him because she was working in the movie "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof." She also was suffering from an attack of bronchitis.

Awards Presented At Writers' Meet

RUSTON, March 22 (Special) — Presentations of awards for student manuscripts highlighted a banquet meeting of the College Writers' Society of Louisiana held at Louisiana Tech last night.

Students of McNeese State College of Lake Charles scored a grand slam with the prize - winning entries.

McNeese won the sweepstakes cup given by the Tech chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, national English fraternity. The trophy was presented by Jimmy Love of Ruston, president of the organization, who presided at the dinner.

The $100 savings bond offered by the Shreveport Times for the past individual contribution in any of the literary fields went to Andre J. Dubus, Jr. of McNeese, whose winning entry was a short story, "Vendetta." The presentation was made by Keith Coulbourn, Sunday editor of the Times. The contribution was judged by Autry Nell Wiley of Texas Women's University.

Welcoming Talk

The banquet program included a welcoming talk by Dr. R. L. Ropp, Tech president, and an address by John Mason Brown, noted literary critic and lecturer. The announcement of awards was made by Dr. Frances Fletcher, professor of English at Tech and the story of the winning manuscripts was related by Dr. Rudolph Fiehler, professor of English at Tech.

Awards were announced as follows:

Donors of the awards are as follows:

Poetry, the Fletcher family, in memory of Joel L. Fletcher, Sr.; short story, Sigma Tau Delta; one - act play, Mrs. Elise Hughey, in memory of Sam A. Alleman, with the Ruston Writers' Club co-operating; feature story, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Faulk, Jr., of Ruston.

Two Students To Compete In Science Event

RUSTON (Special) — Two high school students winning top honors with exhibits in the fourth annual Regional Science Fair at Louisiana Tech Saturday will compete in the National Science Fair in Flint, Mich. in May. They are Scotty Weathersby of Ruston and Betty Ann Moore of Chatham.

Other senior finalists in the Tech Fair and junior high school winners in general science here are eligible to participate in the State Science Fair in Alexandria on April 11-12.

Medals and certificates were presented to the winning students by Dr. R. L. Ropp, Tech president, in a program held in Memorial gymnasium Saturday afternoon. James W. DeMoss, associate professor of chemistry at Tech and director of the science event, presided.

The first three winners in each of seven categories who will enter the state meet are:

Demoss said 225 exhibits were entered in the regional fair here.

WASHINGTON'S LIBRARY

BOSTON — (UP) — George Washington's private library—835 books and pamphlets — has reposed in the Boston Athenaeum for the past 110 years. In 1847 Henry Stevens a bookseller, bought the books from a grandnewphew of the first President. Soon afterward a group of Boston businessmen raised $3,800 and bought the library for the Athenaeum.

Millionaire Sentenced For London Fraud

LONDON (UP) — Leonard P. Jackson, a high-living millionaire and self-styled "Napoleon of high finance" found his waterloo in a woman and went to jail for nine months Saturday on charges of fraud.

An Old Bailey court jury Friday found the 57-year-old Jackson guilty of two counts of defrauding Gordon Hotels Ltd. into buying a swank restaurant for $168,000 when he knew it was losing $1,400 per week.

Jackson was stunned. He had been so sure of acquittal he had arranged a champagne party at the Mayfair Hotel to celebrate victory.

It was a woman who did him in. Zena Daniels, racehorse owner and businesswoman, led a group of stockholders in Gordons Hotels against Jackson and helped put police on his trail.

It was a bitter pill for the man whose slogan was "Nothing but the best for L.P.J."

Born poor he parlayed a business in rags to the directorships of 30 companies and the chairmanship of Gordon Hotels which owns the plush Mayfair Hotel in London's West End.

With his immaculate dress, tortoise shell glasses, taste for champagne and freespending ways he lived up to his title of "Napoleon of West London's high finance."

But the jury decided that he tried to make a killing on the Cascade Restaurant in which he held controlling interest. According to police, the sale to Gordons Hotels would have saved Jackson $106,400 in liabilities.

AEC Reports Third Recent Russian Test

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Saturday that Russia has tested another nuclear weapon "in the medium range."

The test explosion was the third in the last three days and the sixth in the last nine days. It was the ninth since the current Soviet test series began Feb. 22.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said the medium range burst occurred at the "usual test site." A small burst occurred Thursday at the Soviet Union's "usual Siberian testing grounds." A test burst Friday was reported to have occurred somewhere north of the Arctic Circle.

There was no official indication as to the kind of nuclear weapons involved.

There has been speculation the Russians have been testing both smaller atomic weapons for tactical battlefield use and larger warheads for strategic use against cities and other major targets.

HITCH-HIKER

WILLINGTON, Conn. (UP)—Trailer truck driver Roland Ives had to be flagged down by another motorist to learn he had a hitch-hiker. A tiny foreign-made car had skidded under the truck's tailgate. It was wedged there and dragged along until Ives halted the truck.

Grocers Plan To Fight Miss. Sunday Closing

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—Several Hattiesburg grocery store owners said Saturday they will be open Sunday in defiance of a city order against operating on the Sabbath.

The businessmen, who declined to be identified, said they wished to make a legal issue of the city order. They called the order unfair and discriminatory.

The Forrest County grand jury recently criticized enforcement of the blue laws against a certain group while ignoring the laws in connection with others. Only small grocery stores are affected by the recent enforcement.

More than 20 of the small groceries were operating on Sundays until about a month ago when the city began enforcement of the order.

The announcement of awards was made by Dr. Frances Fletcher, professor of English at Tech and the story of the winning manuscripts was related by Dr. Rudolph Fiehler, professor of English at Tech.

Awards were announced as follows:

Poetry — Judged by Louise Bogan of New York; first place, Vivian Thomas of Northeast State College; second, James Bolner, Louisiana State University; third, James Bolner, LSU; honorable mention, Elizabeth Phillips, McNeese; Virgil Dalrymple, Northeast; Stanley Rambin, Northwestern State College.

Short Story — Judged by Cecil B. Williams, Oklahoma State University; first, Andre J. Dubus, Jr., McNeese; second, William L. Perkins, McNeese; third, Virgil Dalrymple, Northeast; honorable mention, Jean Jeffries, Louisiana College; George Fox, Northeast.

One - Act Play — Judged by George G. Williams, Rice Institute; first, James D. Lyon, Tech; second, John Dawson Royse, Southeastern Louisiana College; third, William G. Chamberlain, Northwestern; no honorable mention selections.

Feature Article — Judged by Dickson Terry of the St. Louis Post - Dispatch; first, Dallas Roper, Northwestern; second, Geraldine M. Acosta, Francis T. Nicholls State College; third, Lorraine L. Danos, Nichols; honorable mention, Vadelia Boudreaux, Nicholls; Jean Jeffries, Louisiana College; Davis James III, Tech.

Donors of the awards are as follows:

Poetry, the Fletcher family, in memory of Joel L. Fletcher, Sr.; short story, Sigma Tau Delta; one - act play, Mrs. Elise Hughey, in memory of Sam A. Alleman, with the Ruston Writers' Club co-operating; feature story, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Faulk, Jr., of Ruston.

Two Students To Compete In Science Event

RUSTON (Special) — Two high school students winning top honors with exhibits in the fourth annual Regional Science Fair at Louisiana Tech Saturday will compete in the National Science Fair in Flint, Mich. in May. They are Scotty Weathersby of Ruston and Betty Ann Moore of Chatham.

Other senior finalists in the Tech Fair and junior high school winners in general science here are eligible to participate in the State Science Fair in Alexandria on April 11-12.

Medals and certificates were presented to the winning students by Dr. R. L. Ropp, Tech president, in a program held in Memorial gymnasium Saturday afternoon. James W. DeMoss, associate professor of chemistry at Tech and director of the science event, presided.

The first three winners in each of seven categories who will enter the state meet are:

Demoss said 225 exhibits were entered in the regional fair here.

WASHINGTON'S LIBRARY

BOSTON — (UP) — George Washington's private library—835 books and pamphlets — has reposed in the Boston Athenaeum for the past 110 years. In 1847 Henry Stevens a bookseller, bought the books from a grandnewphew of the first President. Soon afterward a group of Boston businessmen raised $3,800 and bought the library for the Athenaeum.

Millionaire Sentenced For London Fraud

LONDON (UP) — Leonard P. Jackson, a high-living millionaire and self-styled "Napoleon of high finance" found his waterloo in a woman and went to jail for nine months Saturday on charges of fraud.

An Old Bailey court jury Friday found the 57-year-old Jackson guilty of two counts of defrauding Gordon Hotels Ltd. into buying a swank restaurant for $168,000 when he knew it was losing $1,400 per week.

Jackson was stunned. He had been so sure of acquittal he had arranged a champagne party at the Mayfair Hotel to celebrate victory.

It was a woman who did him in. Zena Daniels, racehorse owner and businesswoman, led a group of stockholders in Gordons Hotels against Jackson and helped put police on his trail.

It was a bitter pill for the man whose slogan was "Nothing but the best for L.P.J."

Born poor he parlayed a business in rags to the directorships of 30 companies and the chairmanship of Gordon Hotels which owns the plush Mayfair Hotel in London's West End.

With his immaculate dress, tortoise shell glasses, taste for champagne and freespending ways he lived up to his title of "Napoleon of West London's high finance."

But the jury decided that he tried to make a killing on the Cascade Restaurant in which he held controlling interest. According to police, the sale to Gordons Hotels would have saved Jackson $106,400 in liabilities.

AEC Reports Third Recent Russian Test

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Saturday that Russia has tested another nuclear weapon "in the medium range."

The test explosion was the third in the last three days and the sixth in the last nine days. It was the ninth since the current Soviet test series began Feb. 22.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said the medium range burst occurred at the "usual test site." A small burst occurred Thursday at the Soviet Union's "usual Siberian testing grounds." A test burst Friday was reported to have occurred somewhere north of the Arctic Circle.

There was no official indication as to the kind of nuclear weapons involved.

There has been speculation the Russians have been testing both smaller atomic weapons for tactical battlefield use and larger warheads for strategic use against cities and other major targets.

HITCH-HIKER

WILLINGTON, Conn. (UP)—Trailer truck driver Roland Ives had to be flagged down by another motorist to learn he had a hitch-hiker. A tiny foreign-made car had skidded under the truck's tailgate. It was wedged there and dragged along until Ives halted the truck.

Grocers Plan To Fight Miss. Sunday Closing

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—Several Hattiesburg grocery store owners said Saturday they will be open Sunday in defiance of a city order against operating on the Sabbath.

The businessmen, who declined to be identified, said they wished to make a legal issue of the city order. They called the order unfair and discriminatory.

The Forrest County grand jury recently criticized enforcement of the blue laws against a certain group while ignoring the laws in

Long And Teachers

Louisiana's Governor Earl K. Long is cracking the whip at the teachers again with the full expectation that they will dutifully jump through the hoop every time he holds it up. And who says they won't?

We wonder how long a thing like this can go on. Every time Governor Long wants to put on the pressure for an increase in taxes he or one of his representatives puts out the word either that the teachers won't get a raise or that they will get a cut in pay unless taxes are raised.

The governor not only wants the teachers to back his demands for tax increases but he wants them to specify which industry shall be called upon to fork over the additional money. Acting under the pressure imposed by the governor, the teachers on various occasions have come out in support of a special punishment tax on the gas-gathering industry. The teachers have claimed, along with the governor, that most of this money would be paid by out-of-state interests but they have failed to give any reason that these out-of-state interests would pay several cents more per thousand cubic feet of Louisiana gas than they would be obliged to pay for gas from other states.

In two news items carried in the same issue of a newspaper the governor, through his spokesman, seemed to be talking out of both sides of his mouth at the same time.

Speaker of the House Robert Angelle, a leading spokesman for Governor Long asserted that either taxes go up or teachers get their salaries whacked. He said: "We thought the teachers were underpaid in 1956. Well, if we don't get a tax increase, their salaries will be cut to where they were in 1956. That's all we can do."

About the same time Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar made the emphatic statement that the state administration will not sponsor a two-cent gas-gathering tax in this summer's session of the legislature. Frazar said: "I know the teachers need more money and I know their committee recommended it, but who is going to introduce it? I don't know."

Cleverly, as usual, the governor is maneuvering the teachers into the position of demanding the thing he wants while he sits in the background, purring to himself like a contented cat, and denies that he is sponsoring the gas-gathering tax.

Asked point-blank recently if he would sign a gas-gathering tax if it were passed, Governor Long replied, "Certainly I would sign it if it passed."

The proposal is to raise the tax from one cent per thousand cubic feet to three cents. Since the tax in Louisiana is already higher than in other states, the increase would mean that Louisiana gas piped to other states would cost more than two cents more per thousand cubic feet than gas from other states. The United States has lost a large percentage of is export trade by creating prices higher than those in other countries. Louisiana could lose its interstate trade by the same method.

The two statements by the Long spokesman are enough the put the teachers into a frenzy—which was what the governor wanted.

Free Enterprise Works

It makes no difference whether one believes in socialism or not — it just won't work. Socialism kills incentive, stifles initiative and destroys ambition. Socialism doesn't propose to create anything; it only proposes to take over what free enterprise has already created and handle it in the so-called 'better interests' of the people. Socialism drags everybody down to a low level of mediocrity. Socialism has been tried time and again throughout history and has always failed.

On the other hand, it also makes no difference whether one believes in free enterprise or not — it works. Free enterprise provides incentive, kindles initiative and spurs ambition. Free enterprise provides more benefits for more people than any other system yet devised by man. Free enterprise raises the standard of living for everybody.

The philosophies of socialism and capitalism are therefore directly opposed to each other. A famous English scientist once summed up the difference between a socialist and capitalist in the following terms:

"A capitalist is a man who, if he himself is living well, doesn't mind if others are living better. A socialist, on the other hand, is a man who doesn't care how badly he himself is living as long as nobody else is allowed to live better."

Possibly, in the difference in the two attitudes indicated here, one may find something of the basic reasons for what has become known as the "German miracle" that has happened since the end of the Second World War.

After substantial autonomy was granted West Germany in 1948, that nation was faced with a basic economic choice. Should she follow the prevalent European and United Kingdom socialist labor pattern and go in for heavy control, rationing, state directed investment, sharply progressive taxation and tremendous emphasis on equality—or, on the other hand, should she place emphasis upon incentive rather than literal equality, upon a free market rather than planning. West Germany decided upon the free enterprise economy, and as a result has risen from the rubble of World War II to economic and financial pre-eminence in Western Europe.

Particular enlightenment as to the results to be obtained from the two economic systems may be obtained by comparing what has happened in West Germany since the War and what has happened in Great Britain, where they do not seem to be able to shake themselves loose from the tentacles of socialism fastened upon their economy under the Labor government. Of course, faster improvement might have been expected in West Germany during the early years following the war, as they started from a very low base, but the point is they have kept on gaining at a much faster rate.

West German workers' real wages (adjusted for price increases) advanced 99 per cent between 1948 and 1957, whereas in Britain real wages went up only 11 per cent measured from 1946, two years earlier, when its postwar expansion began. Industrial production in Germany in 1948-57 soared 254 per cent while in Britain it went up only 70 per cent. Per capita output of goods and services in constant prices rose 115 per cent in Germany as against 15 per cent in Great Britain.

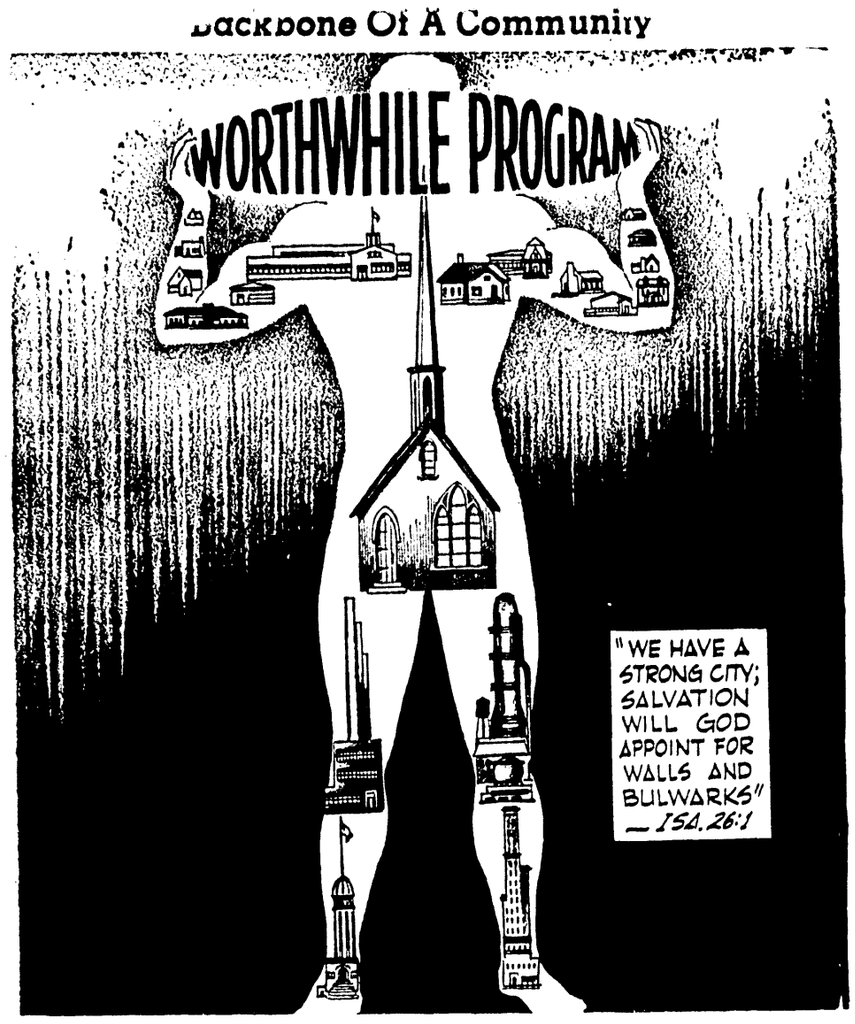

Back in 1948 some 328,000 autos rolled off assembly lines of British factories while only 30,000 were produced in West Germany, but in 1957 German auto output amounted to 950,000 cars—some 100,000 above Great Britain's. Starting from scratch in 1948, West Germany by 1957 had moved up to third place among the world's shipbuilders. With about the same population, West Germany has built more housing in the past seven years than Britain has in the past eleven.

In what has happened to West German tax rates during this period, there is not only a lesson for Great Britain but for the United States as well. Starting with tax rates as high as 95 per cent in 1948, West Germany has gradually revised them downward until now the top rate is 55 per cent, compared with 92½ per cent in Great Britain and 92 per cent in this country. High tax rates not only blunt the desire to work and to take risks for profit, they also siphon off funds that could otherwise be available to launch new ventures. In other words, they stifle progress.

The highest percentage of farm accidents occur during the late morning and mid-afternoon hours when fatigue becomes a menace to safety. Farmers are advised to take a 10 minute break between 10 and 11 a. m. and about 2 or 2:30 p. m.

The number of working women has risen nearly one million annually during the past five years, with women now making up one third the nations working force.

Views Of Our Readers

HE'S DISAPPOINTED

Dear sir

In referance to your "editorial," in the March, 20th, 1958 "Monroe Morning World."

Iam deeply disapointed in you after reading your editorial for some time.

I find that you are as mixed up as the meny scientists of our time are, I have always admired people, "with brains" But, when they let them selfs be over powered with vast dreams of takeing over the universe, then he is just around the corner from the mentle instuction,

As the meny smart men in the past have ended there perfesion, because they over did there dreaming.

"Man Kind" will never make it, and if you put this in your scrap book and keep it just years, Iam sure you will turn back to this letter, because it will come to past.

"you cant go but just so for up a mountian, and you stop.

That's what's going to happen to Man Kind, in stead he will fall hard, and be set back to find himself lucky he can breath this good old air aroud the earth.

Let's you and me pick up the little peaces after the big brains get through, if we are able.

Maby they will look around while they are cruiseing the wide space and find "God."

if they do they better tuck there little tails and hurry back to earth, before they get blowed out of the heavens.

What in heck are these smart men trying to do anyway? are they trying to disprove everything that the bible has tought human kind for so long?

"God," wont let man take over the heavens, are nothing ealse, that's for sure.

Are dont you beleave in the Bible? of coruse you dont, are you would'ent write such junk.

I'll have to admit that the "Russians" have certianly rucked this country into a big water fall, just to be sucked under.

If this country would try and get to there own people, instead of Mars, we would all have a better way of life that's for sure.

And if this goverment would put Bibles in the schools, instead of sign post to mars, and the moon, our childern wouldent be so mixed up.

Sincerely
GRIFFIN GT

LAUDS RIVER WORK

New York, N. Y.

Editor, Morning World,

The editorial, "River Towns Grow," in a recent issue of The World, has come to our attention. We note the statement, "River and harbor improvements have always been held up as 'pork barrel' legislation." We hope that you will believe that the following facts will be interesting to your readers:

There is probably no legislation enacted in Washington that is less understood by the public than that for waterway improvements. It is astounding that so many people, many of them well informed, still believe that old cliche "pork barrel" applies to all waterway legislation. Such legislation is free from so - called "pork" by reason of the method of its adoption and enactment and has been for a generation. Moreover, almost all projects are initiated by local interests, not by politicians or by army engineers.

Approved projects are those that have been certified economically sound after public hearings and long study by the corps of engineers, U. S. army, made first by the district officer, reviewed by his superior, the division engineers for rivers and harbors, and finally by the chief of engineers. No part of the study is perfunctory. Having passed that test, they go to the public works committee of the house. If approved there, and later by the senate public works committee, they are incorporated in a river and harbor authorization bill which carries no money. After the bill becomes law, funds for those selected for prosecution are eventually made available by congress.

With over one - half of the projects investigated down through the years, the decisions by army engineers have been "the principal grounds upon which the adverse conclusions are based are that the benefits to be anticipated . . . are insufficient to warrant the expenditure of federal funds for the purpose."

There is not other federal expenditure subjected to closer scrutiny as to its worth. Labeling such legislation "pork barrel" impugns the integrity of the corps of engineers and its chief, committee members, and all others of the house and senate.

It is rarely mentioned that piers, wharves, elevators, warehouses, trackage and other necessary facilities are wholly the work of local authorities or private interests; the federal government improves only the waterways. The two, of course, are inseparable: one is utterly useless without the other. The waterway might have been derided as a "pork barrel" project; the land structures serving it commended as civic advances. Civic interests also often contribute to the cost of harbor and channel improvements with cash, rights - of - way and spoil areas for dredged material. The derisive term "pork barre" is absurd. While not always deliberate, it is a disservice to the people.

The great strength of the nation today owes largely to harbor and channel development done in the past. The greater strength of the future will come largely from continuing development. Money spent for this purpose is an investment in the building of the nation.

FOREIGN AID SHOW

West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World,

Since President Eisenhower, Harry S. Truman and Adlai Stevenson, along with show man Eric Johnston, put on an all day show to put foreign aid over on the people, they should know about what it has failed to do.

The president tells us if we do not come up with about four more billion dollars, more men will have to go in uniform, and we will be surrounded by Communists, the same thing we have been hearing since World War II. Also, he said that defense spending would go up. It has already gone up. But here are some of the things he did not tell you. France used some of the bombers we let France have to protect her, to bomb a village in Tunisia, killing women and children. We have poured 350 million into Indonesia, yet President Sukarno, takes communists into his government. When the people objected he, Sukarno bombed them. Now I understand that we are dropping guns and ammunition to the so called Rebels. So, we are supplying arms for both sides. Our government wants to let Communist Poland have another 95 million in loans and surplus grain while cows starve in Cameron parish for lack of it.

The government wants to spend billions abroad for all kinds of projects. Yet, I have not heard them say a word about building a seawall around Cameron parish to protect these people from another hurricane that might again cover them with salty sea water.

Our government has run around over the world looking after other people's business, and has only recently found out that our own economy is all run down at the heel, with thousands out of work. From the way they talk about spending one would not think there was a poor person in the U. S. A.

I think the Christian people are confused about the difference in foreign aid and foreign missionaries. The missionaries have done an excellent job of winning us friends abroad, while foreign aid has served to confuse our so-called allies and also the uncommitted nations. Neither seem to know which side we are on.

J. R. BLALOCK.

PLUMBERS STATEMENT

Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

We of the plumbing and steamfitting profession feel it our duty to answer your statement concerning the high cost of plumbing in your editorial of Monday, February 3, 1958.

Without state and city laws to govern the practice of plumbing there would be a lot more fires, explosions and epidemics in our cities and in our state than we could cope with. We feel that the present laws do not have enough teeth in them.

Someone has evidently received some misinformation as to the requirements of the hiring of journeyman and helpers in the business. We would like for your paper to be in cognizance with the situation in our fair city as we gather you were referring to.

As for the smallest pipe-threading job, lasting thirty minutes or less, that may cost almost twenty dollars ($20.00).

The facts are, the going rates for the best shops in town ranges from $4.50 per hour to $6.75 per hour which includes wages, tools, trucks insurance and bond along with the business establishment they maintain for the service of the public.

This mentioned operator must have been one of those back yard, unlicensed, not bonded operators who ply their illicit business without paying taxes nor carrying any form of insurance. Doing a job that may cause a disastrous fire or explosion that some property owners will have to accept full responsibility for.

Very truly yours,
ED HISLOP,
President Master Plumbers Association.

HITS AT SOKOLSY

Oak Ridge, La.

Editor, Morning World:

George Sokolsky has struck a subversive blow at our cherished American heritage, the separation of church and state. I was utterly astonished that such a column appeared on the editorial page of the Morning World on Saturday, March 15. The caption was good: "People Fight Over 10 Command-

That much of what he wrote is true; but he did not discuss what he promised and did not promise what he discussed.

In arguing for a bill authorizing the posting of the Ten Commandments in public schools, he suggested that one is an atheist and that he opposes teaching children the Word of God if he raises "the old argument about church and state." This absolute falsehood and manifest propaganda can be refuted best by the fact that it would be exceedingly difficult to find even a handful of atheists among the readers of the World, or one who opposes teaching children the Word of God, although about 99 per cent of us believe the Constitution guarantees the separation of church and state.

The great Oracle has spoken, however, and he is smart. He can quote "the original text in Hebrew." Some of the rest of us are not so facile, for we have to get along with a lexicon, but we know that all of the translations most certainly do not "come to the same thing." Maybe Sokolsky can explain what he surely knows but has chosen to ignore, namely, that some lists omit the Commandment "Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image" (one that the tradition out of which he comes lays great stress upon) and cut another one in two in order to come out with ten. What list would be posted in the schools? The poor teachers, underpaid and overworked, surely have enough problems already without injecting the religious issue.

Now to see the results of posing as an authority in fields of one's incompetence, let us notice what the great man calls us for believing in the Constitution. He thinks that we condone "vulgar exhibitions of sex" and that we are the "authors of our present teen-age distress." What an easy way to clear one's conscience of what is going on in New York! For such "distress" I am willing to assume only as much blame as I assess Mr. Sokolsky. As for the teenagers I know best, who have been exposed to the Ten Commandments since birth and not in public school, their greatest "distress" that is apprent has to do with the use of the family car and the distribution of the family budget. But then, who can be perfect? I have even known clergymen and columnists who coveted; and they knew the Commandments too. It is unfortunate that George brought in the question of "vulgar exhibitions of sex" while deploring what he conceived to be opposition to the reading of the Word of God. I suspect that many a school marm, confronted with the embarrassing necessity, of doing so, would appreciate his explaining certain passages containing "exhibitions of sex" in what is called the Song of Solomon in the Old Testament, just to cite one example. And what, pray tell, are we going to do about classical literature? It abounds in "vulgar exhibitions" worse than I have witnessed on television.

It would be futile to report to George what I have written. He would only feel all the more sorry for us poor, ignorant swampers, who chop cotton, chew tobacco and cuss the Yankees. It would be better to leave his little space in the World blank. His erudition is beyond us, as we still believe that the "English of the Constitution" clearly and irrefutably prohibits a state church in this country, and that it guarantees one's individual freedom to be a believer or an atheist as he chooses. What kind of man would want to live under the tyranny of any other kind of Constitution?

Sincerely yours,
GLEN LEE GREENE,
Pastor, Oak Ridge Baptist Church.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Thinks Television Is Killing Goose

Last Sunday, I pursued my habit of tuning in the television at 6 p. m. to listen to Meet the Press, a program that sometimes raises my blood-pressure because the guests are so blunt or so skillful in evading the questions of the newspaperman, who sometimes ask wrong or immature questions. At all times, I find it a most informative period.

At any rate, one reason that we have more than one television set in this house is that no one should prevent me from listening to Meet the Press, by tuning in a cowboy who must kill a villain, the way cowboys have been killing villains on the stage forever and a day.

So, last Sunday there was no Meet the Press. Instead there was something else. I spent maybe ten minutes fiddling about, looking for Meet the Press on the airwaves. No can find. So I turned the darn thing off and would not listen to a single singing ad about how one cigarette captures more tar than another.

Then, when we telephoned to inquire what happened we were told that "the time was pre-empted by the Bell Telephone Hour, which ran from 5:30 to 6:30. This happens once in a while, not often. Meet the Press will be on next Sunday."

I should worry about next Sunday. Here is another program pre-empting a whole hour on the television to interfere with a good program to which many Americans look forward. Maybe I am all wrong about pay television, as thousands of citizens have written to say. They claim that they cannot afford to pay for the sets and then for the shows. Well, if they can't afford to pay, we shall have to go on being interrupted by a girl singing on the perfections of beer and a he-man talking about fancy linens in the washing machine.

But neither the network nor the telephone company does itself any good when it pushes off a program that people wait to see. The argument can be used that as I do not pay for the program, I ought to be satisfied with what I get. Actually, I cannot exactly tell you what program I got because all that I seemed to get was an excited professor talking about one-celled animals which may have been interesting to a kid who was preparing for college entrance examinations, except that around these parts, the exams were held the day before.

I have seen other stunts like this on radio and television. For instance, one of my favorite radio commentators is Quincy Howe, with whom I agree on very little. I find him stimulating, largely because he presents most ably a point of view with which I do not hold. It is what might be called the internationalist point of view. Few present that side with knowledge, historical background, and balanced thought. Quincy Howe does. Most speakers on that side, I find to be either special pleaders or starry-eyed liberals who repeat slogans and cliches. It is good to listen to a mature, educated, literate adversary.

In a word, from Quincy Howe, I can learn something. Therefore I want to listen to him. But he has disappeared from my radio. Instead a pitchman is on for 15 minutes selling a book about how to get rich by reading a book. He must know and the radio people must know that nobody ever got rich by reading such a book. To his pitch, one can only put the question: Why don't you read the book yourself and get richer than the Rockefellers? Old John D. never got rich by reading a pitchman's book, although he would probably have been interested in knowing what pitchmen were doing, his father, William Rockefeller, having been one of the breed; but he sold medicine instead of a book.

Anyhow, I cannot hear Quincy Howe any more because his time has been pre-empted by a pitchman.

Television and radio are making a mistake by this kind of programing, because what with FCC scandals, the high cost of sets, the move for pay television and, the destruction of the motion picture industry, television and radio are in the news and are attracting attention to purposes and practices. It requires a little intelligence to operate a public institution in stormy times to prevent the government from pre-empting it.

Daily Devotions

For the children of Israel walked in all the sins of Jereboam which he did. — 11 Kings 17:22.

We are fortunate in the high character of most of the leaders of our nation — because sinful leaders can play havoc with any country. We know this from the examples of misrule throughout the world and in business, labor and political circles in our own nation. Misrule will eventually be the downfall of Russia for, without God, there is no dependability and thus no security. The real problem, everywhere, is to keep faith in God and Christ in the face of misrule. Eventually, God's principles will prevail.

Merciful Father, keep us strong in faith when we are tempted to doubt and to go astray. In Christ's holy name we pray. Amen.

Long And Teachers

Louisiana's Governor Earl K. Long is cracking the whip at the teachers again with the full expectation that they will dutifully jump through the hoop every time he holds it up. And who says they won't?

We wonder how long a thing like this can go on. Every time Governor Long wants to put on the pressure for an increase in taxes he or one of his representatives puts out the word either that the teachers won't get a raise or that they will get a cut in pay unless taxes are raised.

The governor not only wants the teachers to back his demands for tax increases but he wants them to specify which industry shall be called upon to fork over the additional money. Acting under the pressure imposed by the governor, the teachers on various occasions have come out in support of a special punishment tax on the gas-gathering industry. The teachers have claimed, along with the governor, that most of this money would be paid by out-of-state interests but they have failed to give any reason that these out-of-state interests would pay several cents more per thousand cubic feet of Louisiana gas than they would be obliged to pay for gas from other states.

In two news items carried in the same issue of a newspaper the governor, through his spokesman, seemed to be talking out of both sides of his mouth at the same time.

Speaker of the House Robert Angelle, a leading spokesman for Governor Long asserted that either taxes go up or teachers get their salaries whacked. He said: "We thought the teachers were underpaid in 1956. Well, if we don't get a tax increase, their salaries will be cut to where they were in 1956. That's all we can do."

About the same time Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar made the emphatic statement that the state administration will not sponsor a two-cent gas-gathering tax in this summer's session of the legislature. Frazar said: "I know the teachers need more money and I know their committee recommended it, but who is going to introduce it? I don't know."

Cleverly, as usual, the governor is maneuvering the teachers into the position of demanding the thing he wants while he sits in the background, purring to himself like a contented cat, and denies that he is sponsoring the gas-gathering tax.

Asked point-blank recently if he would sign a gas-gathering tax if it were passed, Governor Long replied, "Certainly I would sign it if it passed."

The proposal is to raise the tax from one cent per thousand cubic feet to three cents. Since the tax in Louisiana is already higher than in other states, the increase would mean that Louisiana gas piped to other states would cost more than two cents more per thousand cubic feet than gas from other states. The United States has lost a large percentage of is export trade by creating prices higher than those in other countries. Louisiana could lose its interstate trade by the same method.

The two statements by the Long spokesman are enough the put the teachers into a frenzy—which was what the governor wanted.

Free Enterprise Works

It makes no difference whether one believes in socialism or not — it just won't work. Socialism kills incentive, stifles initiative and destroys ambition. Socialism doesn't propose to create anything; it only proposes to take over what free enterprise has already created and handle it in the so-called 'better interests' of the people. Socialism drags everybody down to a low level of mediocrity. Socialism has been tried time and again throughout history and has always failed.

On the other hand, it also makes no difference whether one believes in free enterprise or not — it works. Free enterprise provides incentive, kindles initiative and spurs ambition. Free enterprise provides more benefits for more people than any other system yet devised by man. Free enterprise raises the standard of living for everybody.

The philosophies of socialism and capitalism are therefore directly opposed to each other. A famous English scientist once summed up the difference between a socialist and capitalist in the following terms:

"A capitalist is a man who, if he himself is living well, doesn't mind if others are living better. A socialist, on the other hand, is a man who doesn't care how badly he himself is living as long as nobody else is allowed to live better."

Possibly, in the difference in the two attitudes indicated here, one may find something of the basic reasons for what has become known as the "German miracle" that has happened since the end of the Second World War.

After substantial autonomy was granted West Germany in 1948, that nation was faced with a basic economic choice. Should she follow the prevalent European and United Kingdom socialist labor pattern and go in for heavy control, rationing, state directed investment, sharply progressive taxation and tremendous emphasis on equality—or, on the other hand, should she place emphasis upon incentive rather than literal equality, upon a free market rather than planning. West Germany decided upon the free enterprise economy, and as a result has risen from the rubble of World War II to economic and financial pre-eminence in Western Europe.

Particular enlightenment as to the results to be obtained from the two economic systems may be obtained by comparing what has happened in West Germany since the War and what has happened in Great Britain, where they do not seem to be able to shake themselves loose from the tentacles of socialism fastened upon their economy under the Labor government. Of course, faster improvement might have been expected in West Germany during the early years following the war, as they started from a very low base, but the point is they have kept on gaining at a much faster rate.

West German workers' real wages (adjusted for price increases) advanced 99 per cent between 1948 and 1957, whereas in Britain real wages went up only 11 per cent measured from 1946, two years earlier, when its postwar expansion began. Industrial production in Germany in 1948-57 soared 254 per cent while in Britain it went up only 70 per cent. Per capita output of goods and services in constant prices rose 115 per cent in Germany as against 15 per cent in Great Britain.

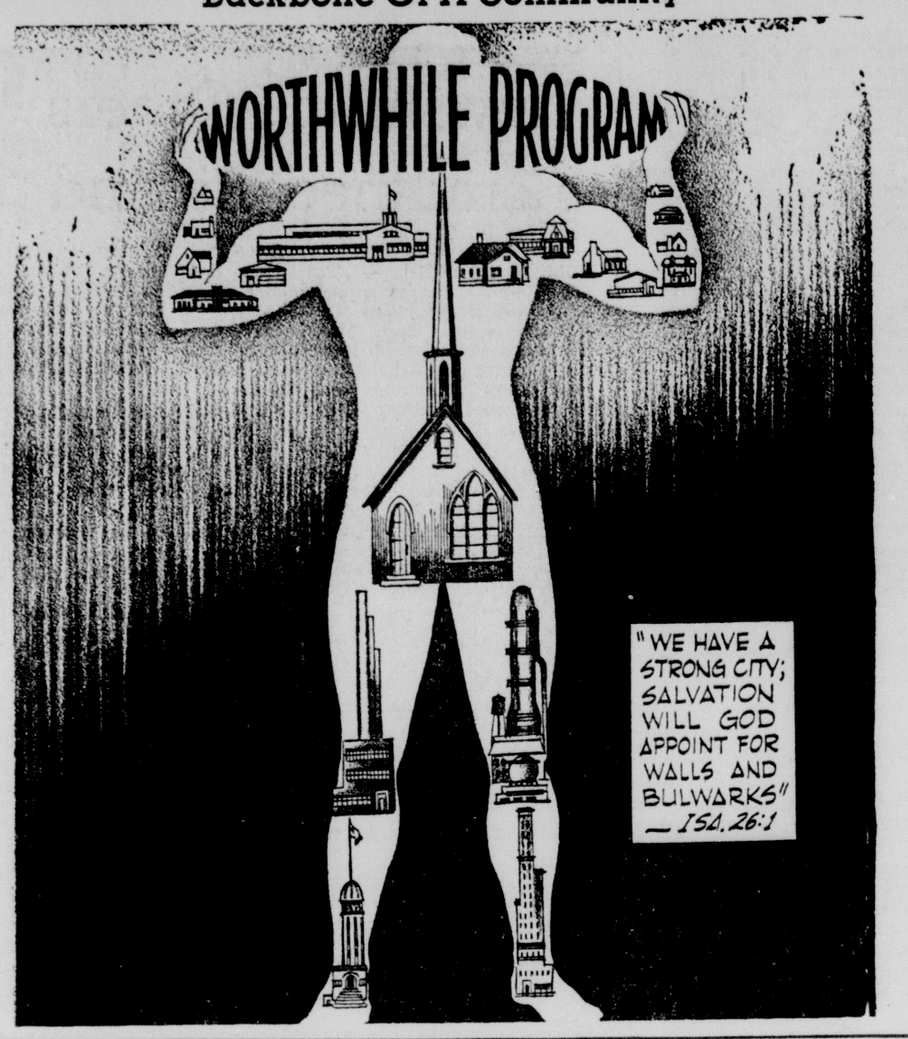

Back in 1948 some 328,000 autos rolled off assembly lines of British factories while only 30,000 were produced in West Germany, but in 1957 German auto output amounted to 950,000 cars—some 100,000 above Great Britain's. Starting from scratch in 1948, West Germany by 1957 had moved up to third place among the world's shipbuilders. With about the same population, West Germany has built more housing in the past seven years than Britain has in the past eleven.

In what has happened to West German tax rates during this period, there is not only a lesson for Great Britain but for the United States as well. Starting with tax rates as high as 95 per cent in 1948, West Germany has gradually revised them downward until now the top rate is 55 per cent, compared with 92½ per cent in Great Britain and 92 per cent in this country. High tax rates not only blunt the desire to work and to take risks for profit, they also siphon off funds that could otherwise be available to launch new ventures. In other words, they stifle progress.

The highest percentage of farm accidents occur during the late morning and mid-afternoon hours when fatigue becomes a menace to safety. Farmers are advised to take a 10 minute break between 10 and 11 a. m. and about 2 or 2:30 p. m.

The number of working women has risen nearly one million annually during the past five years, with women now making up one third the nations working force.

Views Of Our Readers

HE'S DISAPPOINTED

Dear sir

Iam deeply disapointed in you after reading your editorial for some time.

I find that you are as mixed up as the meny scientists of our time are, I have always admired people, "with brains" But, when they let them selfs be over powered with vast dreams of takeing over the universe, then he is just around the corner from the mentle instuetion,

As the meny smart men in the past have ended there perfesion, because they over did there dreaming.

"Man Kind" will never make it, and if you put this in your scrap book and keep it just years, Iam sure you will turn back to this letter, because it will come to past.

"you cant go but just so for up a mountian, and you stop.

That's what's going to happen to Man Kind, in stead he will fall hard, and be set back to find himself lucky he can breath this good old air aroud the earth.

Let's you and me pick up the little peaces after the big brains get through, if we are able.

Maby they will look around while they are cruiseing the wide space and find "God."

if they do they better tuck there little tails and hurry back to earth, before they get blowed out of the heavens.

What in heck are these smart men trying to do anyway? are they trying to disprove everything that the bible has tought human kind for so long?

"God," wont let man take over the heavens, are nothing ealse, that's for sure.

Are dont you beleave in the Bible? of coruse you dont, are you would'ent write such junk.

I'll have to admit that the "Russians" have certianly rucked this countery into a big water fall, just to be sucked under.

If this countery would try and get to there own people, instead of Mars, we would all have a better way of life that's for sure.

And if this goverment would put Bibles in the schools, instead of sign post to mars, and the moon, our childern woulden't be so mixed up.

LAUDS RIVER WORK

New York, N. Y.

Editor, Morning World,

The editorial, "River Towns Grow," in a recent issue of The World, has come to our attention. We note the statement, "River and harbor improvements have always been held up as 'pork barrel' legislation." We hope that you will believe that the following facts will be interesting to your readers:

There is probably no legislation enacted in Washington that is less understood by the public than that for waterway improvements. It is astounding that so many people, many of them well informed, still believe that old cliche "pork barrel" applies to all waterway legislation. Such legislation is free from so - called "pork" by reason of the method of its adoption and enactment and has been for a generation. Moreover, almost all projects are initiated by local interests, not by politicians or by army engineers.

Approved projects are those that have been certified economically sound after public hearings and long study by the corps of engineers, U. S. army, made first by the district officer, reviewed by his superior, the division enneers for rivers and harbors, and finally by the chief of engineers. No part of the study is perfunctory. Having passed that test, they go to the public works committee of the house. If approved there, and later by the senate public works committee, they are incorporated in a river and harbor authorization bill which carries no money. After the bill becomes law, funds for those selected for prosecution are eventually made available by congress.

With over one - half of the projects investigated down through the years, the decisions by army engineers have been "the principal grounds upon which the adverse conclusions are based are that the benefits to be anticipated . . . are insufficient to warrant the expenditure of federal funds for the purpose."

There is not other federal expenditure subjected to closer scrutiny as to its worth. Labeling such legislation "pork barrel" impugns the integrity of the corps of engineers and its chief, committee members, and all others of the house and senate.

It is rarely mentioned that piers, wharves, elevators, warehouses, trackage and other necessary facilities are wholly the work of local authorities or private interests; the federal government improves only the waterways. The two, of course, are inseparable; one is utterly useless without the other. The waterway might have been derided as a "pork barrel" project; the land structures serving it commended as civic advances. Civic interests also often contribute to the cost of harbor and channel improvements with cash, rights - of - way and spoil areas for dredged material. The derisive term "pork barre" is absurd. While not always deliberate, it is a disservice to the people.

The great strength of the nation today owes largely to harbor and channel development done in the past. The greater strength of the future will come largely from continuing development. Money spent for this purpose is an investment in the building of the nation.

FOREIGN AID SHOW

West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World,

Since President Eisenhower, Harry S. Truman and Adlai Stevenson, along with show man Eric Johnston, put on an all day show to put foreign aid over on the people, they should know about what it has failed to do.

The president tells us if we do not come up with about four more billion dollars, more men will have to go in uniform, and we will be surrounded by Communists, the same thing we have been hearing since World War II. Also, he said that defense spending would go up. It has already gone up. But here are some of the things he did not tell you. France used some of the bombers we let France have to protect her, to bomb a village in Tunisia, killing women and children. We have poured 350 million into Indonesia, yet President Sukarno, takes communists into his government. When the people objected he, Sukarno bombed them. Now I understand that we are dropping guns and ammunition to the so called Rebels. So, we are supplying arms for both sides. Our government wants to let Communist Poland have another 95 million in loans and surplus grain while cows starve in Cameron parish for lack of it.

The government wants to spend billions abroad for all kinds of projects. Yet, I have not heard them say a word about building a seawall around Cameron parish to protect these people from another hurricane that might again cover them with salty sea water.

Our government has run around over the world looking after other people's business, and has only recently found out that our own economy is all run down at the heel, with thousands out of work. From the way they talk about spending one would not think there was a poor person in the U. S. A.

I think the Christian people are confused about the difference in foreign aid and foreign missionaries. The missionaries have done an excellent job of winning us friends abroad, while foreign aid has served to confuse our so-called allies and also the uncommitted nations. Neither seem to know which side we are on.

PLUMBERS STATEMENT

Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

We of the plumbing and steamfitting profession feel it our duty to answer your statement concerning the high cost of plumbing in your editorial of Monday, February 3, 1958.

Without state and city laws to govern the practice of plumbing there would be a lot more fires, explosions and epidemics in our cities and in our state than we could cope with. We feel that the present laws do not have enough teeth in them.

Someone has evidently received some misinformation as to the requirements of the hiring of journeyman and helpers in the business. We would like for your paper to be in cognizance with the situation in our fair city as we gather you were referring to.

As for the smallest pipe-threading job, lasting thirty minutes or less, that may cost almost twenty dollars ($20.00).

The facts are, the going rates for the best shops in town ranges from $4.50 per hour to $6.75 per hour which includes wages, tools, trucks insurance and bond along with the business establishment they maintain for the service of the public.

This mentioned operator must have been one of those back yard, unlicensed, not bonded operators who ply their illicit business without paying taxes nor carrying any form of insurance. Doing a job that may cause a disastrous fire or explosion that some property owners will have to accept full responsibility for.

Very truly yours,
ED HISLOP,
President Master Plumbers Association.

HITS AT SOKOLSY

Oak Ridge, La.

Editor, Morning World:

George Sokolsky has struck a subversive blow at our cherished American heritage, the separation of church and state. I was utterly astonished that such a column appeared on the editorial page of the Morning World on Saturday, March 15. The caption was good: "People Fight Over 10 Commandments." That much of what he wrote is true; but he did not discuss what he promised and did not promise what he discussed.

In arguing for a bill authorizing the posting of the Ten Commandments in public schools, he suggested that one is an atheist and that he opposes teaching children the Word of God if he raises "the old argument about church and state." This absolute falsehood and manifest propaganda can be refuted best by the fact that it would be exceedingly difficult to find even a handful of atheists among the readers of the World, or one who opposes teaching children the Word of God, although about 99 per cent of us believe the Constitution guarantees the separation of church and state.

The great Oracle has spoken, however, and he is smart. He can quote "the original text in Hebrew." Some of the rest of us are not so facile, for we have to get along with a lexicon, but we know that all of the translations most certainly do not "come to the same thing." Maybe Sokolsky can explain what he surely knows but has chosen to ignore, namely, that some lists omit the Commandment "Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image" (one that the tradition out of which he comes lays great stress upon) and cut another one in two in order to come out with ten. What list would be posted in the schools? The poor teachers, underpaid and overworked, surely have enough problems already without injecting the religious issue.

Now to see the results of posing as an authority in fields of one's incompetence, let us notice what the great man calls us for believing in the Constitution. He thinks that we condone "vulgar exhibitions of sex" and that we are the "authors of our present teen-age distress." What an easy way to clear one's conscience of what is going on in New York! For such "distress" I am willing to assume only as much blame as I assess Mr. Sokolsky. As for the teenagers I know best, who have been exposed to the Ten Commandments since birth and not in public school, their greatest "distress" that is apprent has to do with the use of the family car and the distribution of the family budget. But then, who can be perfect? I have even known clergymen and columnists who coveted; and they knew the Commandments too. It is unfortunate that George brought in the question of "vulgar exhibitions of sex" while deploring what he conceived to be opposition to the reading of the Word of God. I suspect that many a school marm, confronted with the embarrassing necessity, of doing so, would appreciate his explaining certain passages containing "exhibitions of sex" in what is called the Song of Solomon in the Old Testament, just to cite one example. And what, pray tell, are we going to do about classical literature? It abounds in "vulgar exhibitions" worse than I have witnessed on television.

It would be futile to report to George what I have written. He would only feel all the more sorry for us poor, ignorant swampers, who chop cotton, chew tobacco and cuss the Yankees. It would be better to leave his little space in the World blank. His erudition is beyond us, as we still believe that the "English of the Constitution" clearly and irrefutably prohibits a state church in this country, and that it guarantees one's individual freedom to be a believer or an atheist as he chooses. What kind of man would want to live under the tyranny of any other kind of Constitution?

Sincerely yours,
GLEN LEE GREENE,
Pastor, Oak Ridge Baptist Church.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Thinks Television Is Killing Goose

Last Sunday, I pursued my habit of tuning in the television at 6 p. m. to listen to Meet the Press, a program that sometimes raises my blood-pressure because the guests are so blunt or so skillful in evading the questions of the newspaperman, who sometimes ask wrong or immature questions. At all times, I find it a most informative period.

At any rate, one reason that we have more than one television set in this house is that no one should prevent me from listening to Meet the Press, by tuning in a cowboy who must kill a villain, the way cowboys have been killing villains on the stage forever and a day.

So, last Sunday there was no Meet the Press. Instead there was something else. I spent maybe ten minutes fiddling about, looking for Meet the Press on the airwaves. No can find. So I turned the darn thing off and would not listen to a single singing ad about how one cigarette captures more tar than another.

Then, when we telephoned to inquire what happened we were told that "the time was pre-empted by the Bell Telephone Hour, which ran from 5:30 to 6:30. This happens once in a while, not often. Meet the Press will be on next Sunday."

I should worry about next Sunday. Here is another program pre-empting a whole hour on the television to interfere with a good program to which many Americans look forward. Maybe I am all wrong about pay television, as thousands of citizens have written to say. They claim that they cannot afford to pay for the sets and then for the shows. Well, if they can't afford to pay, we shall have to go on being interrupted by a girl singing on the perfections of beer and a he-man talking about fancy linens in the washing machine.

But neither the network nor the telephone company does itself any good when it pushes off a program that people wait to see. The argument can be used that as I do not pay for the program, I ought to be satisfied with what I get. Actually, I cannot exactly tell you what program I got because all that I seemed to get was an excited professor talking about one-celled animals which may have been interesting to a kid who was preparing for college entrance examinations, except that around these parts, the exams were held the day before.

I have seen other stunts like this on radio and television. For instance, one of my favorite radio commentators is Quincy Howe, with whom I agree on very little. I find him stimulating, largely because he presents most ably a point of view with which I do not hold. It is what might be called the internationalist point of view. Few present that side with knowledge, historical background, and balanced thought. Quincy Howe does. Most speakers on that side, I find to be either special pleaders or starry-eyed liberals who repeat slogans and cliches. It is good to listen to a mature, educated, literate adversary.

In a word, from Quincy Howe, I can learn something. Therefore I want to listen to him. But he has disappeared from my radio. Instead a pitchman is on for 15 minutes selling a book about how to get rich by reading a book. He must know and the radio people must know that nobody ever got rich by reading such a book. To his pitch, one can only put the question: Why don't you read the book yourself and get richer than the Rockefellers? Old John D. never got rich by reading a pitchman's book, although he would probably have been interested in knowing what pitchmen were doing, his father, William Rockefeller, having been one of the breed; but he sold medicine instead of a book.

Anyhow, I cannot hear Quincy Howe any more because his time has been pre-empted by a pitchman.

Television and radio are making a mistake by this kind of programing, because what with FCC scandals, the high cost of sets, the move for pay television and the destruction of the motion picture industry, television and radio are in the news and are attracting attention to purposes and practices. It requires a little intelligence to operate a public institution in stormy times to prevent the government from pre-empting it.

Gisele's TV Show To Die On Saturday

By BOB THOMAS

Now is the time when many of the network programs face the life-or-death issue. One which failed to make the grade is Gisele MacKenzie's musical half-hour, which will breath its last next Saturday night. I asked the talented Canadian what happened.

But, she added the show did win some critical praise and was building an audience. Unfortunately, the project appeared doomed from the start.

"We came on after Perry Como and Polly Bergen," she remarked. "Two hours of music is just too much. Half the audience drops off after Perry's show, and we had to try to build it up again. It was tough sledding. I think we might have had a better chance if we had followed a Western or another kind of show."

She also faced rugged opposition. She had to fight the straight-shooting Paladin of "Have Gun, Will Travel" plus Lawrence Welk and his devoted following.

She hasn't time for regrets. She's embarking on some exciting projects that will keep her busy until fall. Two days after her show goes off the air she begins rehearshals for "The King and I" She'll play it in the civic light opera season in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Three days after she closes in "The King and I," she opens at Las Vegas' Flamingo with Jack Benny. Then she'll go to Europe, where she'll do a little work, but mostly take a delayed honeymoon with her husband-manager Bob Shuttleworth.

Jury Returns 10 True Bills In Jackson Parish

JONESBORO (SPECIAL) The Spring term of the Jackson Parish Grand Jury concluded its meeting this week returning ten true bills, nine no bills, and further passed for investigation one case. An inspection of the parish jail and its facilities followed this decisions.

In its final reports, the jury called attention to various needed repairs in the jail and courthouse, and commended the Police Jury for its present plans in seeking the renovation of the courtroom and the repair of the jail. Attention was also called to the need for additional office space by various offices.

Dino Alberti, Grand Jury foreman, stated that the people of the parish should at all times support the Grand Jury and that the violation of laws in the parish should be reported to the Jury. He also remarked that the fullest support was backed to the people by the Grand Jury.

Poetry Contest Slated In La.

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The Louisiana State Poetry Society announced yesterday a statewide contest to be held at college level on a poem dealing with Christian faith of our founding fathers.

Annabel Atkinson Pankey (Mrs. G. E.) of Ruston is offering 50 for the best poem submitted in a contest which will be a memorial to her mother, Mrs. Louise Williams Atkinson, who was a resident of Shreveport.

In a separate sealed envelope, the applicant must enclose a card bearing the title of the poem, first line of poem, name address and college. On the outside of the envelope the student must indicate the title and first line of the poem.

The subject of the poem must deal with a "a tribute to the Christian principles of our founding fathers with emphasis on the relationship between our founders' deeds and their Christian faith." The poem must concern founding.

Million Dollar Suits Dismissed

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Damage suits of more than one million dollars were dismissed Friday on the agreement of both parties to a tangled alienation of affection suit.

Charges and counter-charges in the case involved alleged slander and complaints by Roman Catholic parents who accused a Milwaukee industrialist of inducing their son to give up his faith.

Judge Ronald Drechsler dismissed the suits when Leland Cummings Sr., Wyncote, Pa., and Arnold J. Werner, president of the Milwaukee Wagner Iron Works, signed papers dropping all action against the other.

Cummings had sued Werner for $500,000 last year on charges the Milwaukeean and his wife had alienated his son's affections and led him to abandon his religion.

Gisele's TV Show To Die On Saturday

By BOB THOMAS

Now is the time when many of the network programs face the life-or-death issue. One which failed to make the grade is Gisele MacKenzie's musical half-hour, which will breath its last next Saturday night. I asked the talented Canadian what happened.

But, she added the show did win some critical praise and was building an audience. Unfortunately, the project appeared doomed from the start.

"We came on after Perry Como and Polly Bergen," she remarked. "Two hours of music is just too much. Half the audience drops off after Perry's show, and we had to try to build it up again. It was tough sledding. I think we might have had a better chance if we had followed a Western or another kind of show."

She also faced rugged opposition. She had to fight the straight-shooting Paladin of "Have Gun, Will Travel" plus Lawrence Welk and his devoted following.

She hasn't time for regrets. She's embarking on some exciting projects that will keep her busy until fall. Two days after her show goes off the air she begins rehearshals for "The King and I" She'll play it in the civic light opera season in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Three days after she closes in "The King and I," she opens at Las Vegas' Flamingo with Jack Benny. Then she'll go to Europe, where she'll do a little work, but mostly take a delayed honeymoon with her husband-manager Bob Shuttleworth.

Jury Returns 10 True Bills In Jackson Parish

JONESBORO (SPECIAL) The Spring term of the Jackson Parish Grand Jury concluded its meeting this week returning ten true bills, nine no bills, and further passed for investigation one case. An inspection of the parish jail and its facilities followed this decisions.

In its final reports, the jury called attention to various needed repairs in the jail and courthouse, and commended the Police Jury for its present plans in seeking the renovation of the courtroom and the repair of the jail. Attention was also called to the need for additional office space by various offices.

Dino Alberti, Grand Jury foreman, stated that the people of the parish should at all times support the Grand Jury and that the violation of laws in the parish should be reported to the Jury. He also remarked that the fullest support was backed to the people by the Grand Jury.

FIRST ASSAULT

Rebel Aircraft Attacking Java

SINGAPORE (UP) — The rebel Padang Radio claimed Saturday two revolutionary government planes bombed the Indonesian central government "summer capital" of Bandung. It was the first reported attack on the home island of Java.

Tension was building up in the big American oil and rubber centers of Pakanbaru and Medan in Sumatra and three U.S. warships stood by at Singapore, a few hours' sailing time away, to evacuate Americans if necessary.

The rebel radio said two bombers flying from Menado, in rebellious North Celebes, attacked and damaged the air field at Bandung, scene of the 1955 Afro-Asian Conference. It did not say when.

Bandung is 75 miles east of Jakarta, the capital along the north coast of Java. It is an industrial city of 170,000 but has a cool climate and President Sukarno uses it during Indonesia's sweltering equatorial summers.

The reported attack was the first indication the rebels had planes. Just Friday they announced they had an operating navy.

The broadcast did not say where the rebels got the planes. It said they flew the 1,125 miles from Menado to Bandung and were believed to have gone on to Sumatra.

Revolutionary sources in Singapore said Maj. Boyke Nanggolan's troops had broken through a trap in the Seribudolok Mountains south of Medan, the North Sumatra capital, and had linked up with Maj. Zita Pohan's three battalions from Tapanuli Province.

There was a near - complete blackout of reliable news from the area but rebel sources said they were converging on Medan from the Lake Toba area about 50 miles away.

Tallulah High Top Winner In Literary Meet

RUSTON, (Special) —Three high schools today have trophies acclaiming repetition of their literary supremacy and one school has returned to the championship ranks after a year's lapse as a result of the annual North Louisiana rally held at Louisiana Tech.

The top-place repeaters are Tallulah's students, who last year were Class A winners; Plain Dealing, first-place winners in Class B for the 29th consecutive year, and Lisbon, title holders in Class C for four straight years.

Homer High School took the cup in Class AA after having been nosed out last year by Springhill. This was the second year for the Homer students to compete in the Double-A division. Previously Homer was tops in Class A for 10 years.

Scores by schools were as follows: Class AA—Homer, 151 points; Ruston, 147; Springhill, 114; Jonesboro - Hodge, 75. (Only four schools were entered in this class).

Class C — Lisbon 77; Bienville and Summerfield tied with 53 points; Converse, 41; Sikes, 34; St. Joseph, 26, and Saline, 25.

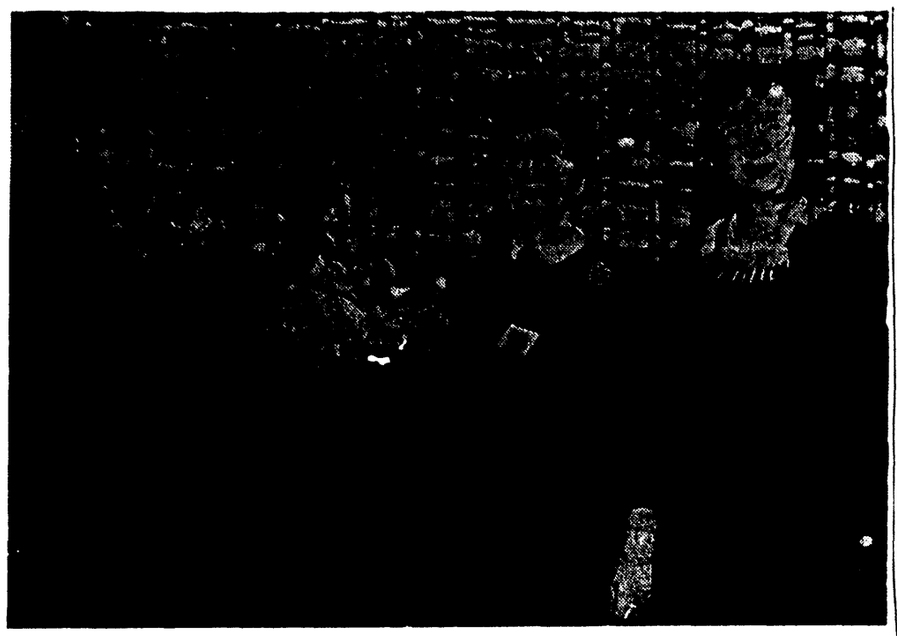

More than 1,200 pupils from 49 schools participated in the competition, according to Dean C. T. Woodard of the School of Education, general secretary of the rally.

Methodist Group Picks 3 Officers

Officers for the seventh annual Louisiana Conference Wesleyan Service Guild were elected yesterday as 200 Methodist women from all parts of Louisiana gathered for a two - day meet.

Officers elected were Miss Sue Batton, Minden, conference secretary; Miss Arline Tyler, Shreveport, chairman of spiritual life and Miss Marilyn Carter, New Iberia, recording secretary.

Miss Lillian Johnson, New York, general secretary of Wesleyan Service Guilds was speaker at a dinner for missions last night. Her topic was "Watching or Marching —Which?"

Mrs. F. G. Phillips of Plain Dealing, chairman of missions, presided.

Honorary life memberships were bestowed upon Mrs. Minza Rabun, Mrs. Helen Adams Preston and Miss Jenibe Westbrook. Miss Elizabeth Langford, Monroe, made the presentations.

Invocation was rendered by the Rev. James T. Harris, Monroe district superintendent. Welcome was given by Mrs. T. D. Guthrie, Bastrop, Monroe district secretary.

Benediction was given by Mrs. Harriet Russell, West Monroe.

In vivid colors it illustrated the theme of the conference — "Missions — Endless Line of Splender" as the peoples of every land, through the ages move toward the cross.

The Wesleyan Service Guild, an auxiliary of the Woman's Society of Christian Service which closed its 18th annual meeting last week is geared to needs of the working woman.

The conference will continue through today with a breakfast at the Frances Hotel, a meeting at 8:30 a.m.; general session 9 a.m.; church services at 10:50 a.m. and a buffet luncheon at 12:15 p.m.

Winnie Stays In Bed After Getting Tired

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill spent the entire day in his room Saturday, eating both lunch and dinner in bed.

Dr. David Roberts, Churchill's Riviera physician, visited him three times during the day.

Roberts did not talk to reporters but members of Churchill's staff at his vacation villa at Roquebrune-Cap - Martin said his fatigue "has increased slightly" They said this apparently was a result of an outing a week ago in a nearby restaurant.

These sources emphasized, however, there is no question of any relapse. Churchill has been recovering from a recent seige of pneumonia and pleurisy.

Members of Churchill's entourage said his planned departure for London will be postponed until the end of the month.

Neville High Student Named To State Post

Other students in the Monroe area winning posts in the organization were Alice Smith, Ouachita, recording secretary; Nelda Stewart, West Monrpe public relations chairman.

Nancy Snellings, Neville sophomore and Patsy Flint, West Monroe, were nominated to attend the national convention to be held at Ann Arbor, Mish. in August.

Prof. Richmond Y. Hathorn, Northwestern State College spoke on "Latin for Today" at the session which had the theme "Classical Learning — A Bridge To Infinity."

Approximately 500 delegates attended the convention. Purpose of the organization is to promote study of Latin as a broadening educational experience and to teach an appreciation for the Greek and Roman heritage.

Mrs. Margaret Hayes of Istrouma High School, is state chairman.

Honorary pallbearers will be members of the 40 and 8, Voiture 186, Old Timers club and the American Legion.

The body will lie in state in the funeral home until time of services.

Rep. Long Dies Of Heart Attack

last, Long elected to office, he once said in an interview.

"I was serving in the Oklahoma Legislature before Huey ever made his first race. In fact, Huey got his first campaign experience when he was 17, helping me manage a campaign in Oklahoma for Jim McClintick, the congressman."

Like most Longs, he was known for his energy.

He explained his vitality was probably due to the Long family habit of "living 99 years." He said he had several uncles and cousins who reached 99 and one made it to 99½.

"But it looks like they can't hardly get by that 99th year. It gets them every time."

Long and his brother Earl and nephew Russell were on different sides in several political races.

But he once remarked that one thing he was certain of — they were all three solidly together on the Democratic Party.

Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar called Dr. Long's death very regrettable.

REP. GEORGE LONG

"I understand he was making a real fight for veterans benefits. He had a fine record in Congress and will be most difficult to replace," Frazar said.

FIRST ASSAULT

Rebel Aircraft Attacking Java

SINGAPORE (UP) — The rebel Padang Radio claimed Saturday two revolutionary government planes bombed the Indonesian central government "summer capital" of Bandung. It was the first reported attack on the home island of Java.

Tension was building up in the big American oil and rubber centers of Pakanbaru and Medan in Sumatra and three U.S. warships stood by at Singapore, a few hours' sailing time away, to evacuate Americans if necessary.

The rebel radio said two bombers flying from Menado, in rebellious North Celebes, attacked and damaged the air field at Bandung, scene of the 1955 Afro-Asian Conference. It did not say when.

Bandung is 75 miles east of Jakarta, the capital along the north coast of Java. It is an industrial city of 170,000 but has a cool climate and President Sukarno uses it during Indonesia's sweltering equatorial summers.

The reported attack was the first indication the rebels had planes. Just Friday they announced they had an operating navy.

The broadcast did not say where the rebels got the planes. It said they flew the 1,125 miles from Menado to Bandung and were believed to have gone on to Sumatra.

Revolutionary sources in Singapore said Maj. Boyke Nanggolan's troops had broken through a trap in the Seribudolok Mountains south of Medan, the North Sumatra capital, and had linked up with Maj. Zita Pohan's three battalions from Tapanuli Province.

There was a near - complete blackout of reliable news from the area but rebel sources said they were converging on Medan from the Lake Toba area about 50 miles away.

Tallulah High Top Winner In Literary Meet

RUSTON, (Special) —Three high schools today have trophies acclaiming repetition of their literary supremacy and one school has returned to the championship ranks after a year's lapse as a result of the annual North Louisiana rally held at Louisiana Tech.

The top-place repeaters are Tallulah's students, who last year were Class A winners; Plain Dealing, first-place winners in Class B for the 29th consecutive year, and Lisbon, title holders in Class C for four straight years.

Homer High School took the cup in Class AA after having been nosed out last year by Springhill. This was the second year for the Homer students to compete in the Double-A division. Previously Homer was tops in Class A for 10 years.

Scores by schools were as follows: Class AA—Homer, 151 points; Ruston, 147; Springhill, 114; Jonesboro - Hodge, 75. (Only four schools were entered in this class).

Class C — Lisbon 77; Bienville and Summerfield tied with 53 points; Converse, 41; Sikes, 34; St. Joseph, 26, and Saline, 25.

More than 1,200 pupils from 49 schools participated in the competition, according to Dean C. T. Woodard of the School of Education, general secretary of the rally.

Methodist Group Picks 3 Officers

Officers for the seventh annual Louisiana Conference Wesleyan Service Guild were elected yesterday as 200 Methodist women from all parts of Louisiana gathered for a two - day meet.

Officers elected were Miss Sue Batton, Minden, conference secretary; Miss Arline Tyler, Shreveport, chairman of spiritual life and Miss Marilyn Carter, New Iberia, recording secretary.

Miss Lillian Johnson, New York, general secretary of Wesleyan Service Guilds was speaker at a dinner for missions last night. Her topic was "Watching or Marching —Which?"

Mrs. F. G. Phillips of Plain Dealing, chairman of missions, presided.

Honorary life memberships were bestowed upon Mrs. Minza Rabun, Mrs. Helen Adams Preston and Miss Jenibe Westbrook. Miss Elizabeth Langford, Monroe, made the presentations.

Invocation was rendered by the Rev. James T. Harris, Monroe district superintendent. Welcome was given by Mrs. T. D. Guthrie, Bastrop, Monroe district secretary.

Benediction was given by Mrs. Harriet Russell, West Monroe.

In vivid colors it illustrated the theme of the conference — "Missions — Endless Line of Splender" as the peoples of every land, through the ages move toward the cross.

The Wesleyan Service Guild, an auxiliary of the Woman's Society of Christian Service which closed its 18th annual meeting last week is geared to needs of the working woman.

The conference will continue through today with a breakfast at the Frances Hotel, a meeting at 8:30 a.m.; general session 9 a.m.; church services at 10:50 a.m. and a buffet luncheon at 12:15 p.m.

Winnie Stays In Bed After Getting Tired

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill spent the entire day in his room Saturday, eating both lunch and dinner in bed.

Dr. David Roberts, Churchill's Riviera physician, visited him three times during the day.

Roberts did not talk to reporters but members of Churchill's staff at his vacation villa at Roquebrune-Cap - Martin said his fatigue "has increased slightly" They said this apparently was a result of an outing a week ago in a nearby restaurant.

These sources emphasized, however, there is no question of any relapse. Churchill has been recovering from a recent seige of pneumonia and pleurisy.

Members of Churchill's entourage said his planned departure for London will be postponed until the end of the month.

Neville High Student Named To State Post

Other students in the Monroe area winning posts in the organization were Alice Smith, Ouachita, recording secretary; Nelda Stewart, West Monrpe public relations chairman.

Nancy Snellings, Neville sophomore and Patsy Flint, West Monroe, were nominated to attend the national convention to be held at Ann Arbor, Mish. in August.

Prof. Richmond Y. Hathorn, Northwestern State College spoke on "Latin for Today" at the session which had the theme "Classical Learning — A Bridge To Infinity."

Approximately 500 delegates attended the convention. Purpose of the organization is to promote study of Latin as a broadening educational experience and to teach an appreciation for the Greek and Roman heritage.

Mrs. Margaret Hayes of Istrouma High School, is state chairman.

Era Of Growth Hits Mississippi

By C.H. EISENDRATH
Managing Editor
The Biloxi Herald
Written for The Associated Press

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — In the heart of the Mississippi Gulf Coast of Biloxi, where many Alabamians, Mississippians and others from nearby states enjoy vacations and conventions, an era of growth is developing.

Mayor Laz Quave and other officials are projecting a program for a 31 million dollar development, the east, is the Port of Pascament of Deer Island, about 1,000 feet off the mainland at Biloxi.

The city is looking ahead to contemplated doubling in size of Keesler Air Force Base to a strength of 25,000.

Coast officials are planning to develop an inland deep water project which will provide a canal from the Bay of Biloxi to the Bay of St. Louis and will create many industrial sites.

In the planning stage also is a new four-lane bridge to connect Biloxi and Ocean Springs and replace an old two-lane structure.

Near Biloxi, about 20 miles to goula, home of Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp., the South's largest shipyard. Ingalls has contracts backlogged that total 40 million dollars, employs around 7,500 workmen with a yearly payroll of about 20 million dollars, and is now building two nuecalr submarines, the USS Sculpin and the USS Snook.

Also at Pascagoula is the Bayou Casotte area, a section of 5,000 acres of land for industrial use. Some plants have already been built at Bayou Casotte and are now in production.

The Deer Island development program at Biloxi calls for filling in the island to enlarge it from 750 acres to about 3,300 acres. Pending state legislation proposes adding the island development to the city. This would double the city's size and add tax revenues.

Preliminary survey, by Rader and Associates, Miami, Fla. engineering firm, indicates the island will be laid off with areas marked for public beaches, parks, a golf course, picnic areas, seaquarium, marinas, municipal and civic sections, puiblc docks, utilities, streets and residential and commercial areas.

The development will be financed by revenue bonds issued by the Biloxi Bridge and Park Commission. The bonds will be retired by proceeds from sale of the land and income from concessions, tolls on the causeway to the mainland, and utilities.

When completed, the engineers say, Deer Island will be similar to Key Biscayne, Fla. Dauphin Island, Ala., and Jekyll Island, Ga.

Other indications of growth include:

A contract is expected to be let this month for a $1,070,000 post office and federal building; one resort hotel has just completed an 84-unit luxury motel, costing about $1,250,000; a $130,000 24-unit motel is under construction now; work started earlier this month on another 24-unit motel and swimming pool, to cost an estimated $100,000.

New advanced training courses at Keesler AFB, including a proposed missiles school, should make the base one of the largest in the Air Force, according to Maj. Gen. John R. Sutherland, base commander. In addition, some 300 Capehart housing units are planned for Keesler personnel.

Miss. Solons Won't Argue Segregation

By JOHN HERBERS
United Press Staff Correspondent

JACKSON, Miss., March 22—UP—It isn't hard to start an argument in the Mississippi Legislature—unless you've got a bill bearing a segregation label.

Then it's not considered proper to raise a voice in protest even when established principles of government are involved.

That's the way it was this week on a bill that would authorize donation of public tax funds to the pro-segregation Citizens Councils.

Breezed Through

The bill breezed through the senate with only two dissenting votes and the main comment came from the chairman of the judiciary committee who made haste to explain he was not behind a move to trim the amount to be parceled out.

Then it went to the house where the rules committee shoved it ahead of some 200 other bills for consideration, probably Tuesday. A handful of representatives are prepared to be branded integrationists when they oppose the bill for reasons that have nothing to do with the race issue.

The bill authorizes county and city governments to donate up to $100 for each one million dollars of property within the city or county. It would go to "any association or organization having as its purpose the perpetuation and preservation of constitutional government and the division of powers thereunder as guaranteed thereby."

NAACP Says It's Eligible

A lot of organizations would qualify for that (the NAACP claims it could). But the author, Sen. Hayden Campbell of Jackson, said it's definitely meant for the Citizens Councils, organized to resist racial integration.

Once put into law the local Councils could start pressuring their boards of supervisors and city officials for a donation.

But what, one house member asked, would keep a crooked board of supervisors from chartering a "society for constitutional government" with the officials and their friends as members and making themselves a $10,000 donation?

No Restriction

There's nothing that says how the money should be spent. Under the present law counties and cities can contribute to a list of specific "patriotic and charitable" organizations for specific purposes.

The Legislature has refused to allot tax money to be spent for political organizations. But the Councils are deeply involved in politics. One of their purposes has been to screen political candidates

Philbrick Also Invited By SMU

By CHARLES E. WEBB
United Press Staff Correspondent

DALLAS, (UP)— Former Communist John Gates said Saturday although he considers it "degrading and insulting" to appear on the same program with Herbert Philbrick he will make the scheduled appearance at SMU on April 23.

Gates, informed of Southern Methodist University's invitation to Philbrick to appear on a panel in "a case study of communism," said if he had known originally that Philbrick could appear he would have declined the invitation.

However, he said later that he would make the appearance although he has nothing in common with Philbrick and holds the "utmost contempt for everything he stands for."

"I am not afraid of any questions he may ask."

Panel Discussion Expanded

The announcement that the panel discussion had been expanded to include Philbrick was made Saturday by Spencer Harris, SMU Student Forum Committee chairman, following a week-long barrage of criticism and defense of the invitation to Gates.

Gates, the last editor of the Communist Daily Worker before the newspaper folded because of lack of funds, told the United Press in New York that the Philbrick invitation shows "SMU has succumbed to outside pressures and changed the nature of the invitation to me to speak."

Gates said he had been invited originally to tell why he had left the party and to answer questions from the audience.

Philbrick A Counter Spy

Gates' dislike of Philbrick stems from the 1949 trial of 11 top Communists in the famed Judge Harold Medina hearings in which Philbrick testified for the government.

Philbrick entered the Communist party as a counter spy for the FBI and for nine years spied on the Reds. His exploits were made into a movie and into a television series called "I Led Three Lives."

Philbrick's testimony in the Medina trial led to Gates' conviction and imprisonment.

Gates had said earlier he would appear with any panel, including columnist Fulton Lewis Jr. and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, but not with Philbrick.

TWO VOTES

GREENE, N.Y. — (UP) — Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Fairfield decided they favored the sale of the Greene Central School District's one-room schoolhouse. They went to the polls and so voted. The district school board officials then went ahead with plans to sell the building since the entire vote went two to nothing in favor of selling.

HUNT SOLUTION

Vanguard Off, Economy Lags

By ROBERT G. SHORTAL
United Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — America successfully shot off its Vanguard missile this week and now the government is trying to figure out how to fire its economic rocket.

The economy is being fueled with increased government spending in an effort to get it back into orbit. If this doesn't work, the economy may be supercharged with lower taxes.

The recession and moves to bring it to an end dominated the business news, as has been the case for months.

Economist A. W. Zelomek, in his weekly economic roundup said the government stimulus to the economy in the form of public works programs and a tax cut may approximate eight billion dollars during the next fiscal year.

However, he cautioned that the immediate effects of these moves may be overestimated.

The investment firm of Arthur Wiesenberger said the surest way to get the economy back to new highs is through price cuts.

Prentice - Hall, in its weekly economic review, said one of the most disturbing things is the sharp decline in business spending for new plants and equipment.

Dun & Bradstreet noted that retail sales topped a year ago despite some adverse weather. Its survey noted some slight improvement in new car sales, although volume ran well below a year ago.

A thread of optimism was noted in many of the annual reports now being issued by industry. Business men appear more optimistic about their own businesses than about the economy in general.

National Steel Corp. Chairman George Humphrey, for example, said there is "some evidence of a little better general demand" in the steel industry, but added that "no immediate, substantial improvement (is) in prospect."

Ed F. Buryan, marketing vice president of Shaeffer Pen Co., said his company looks for substantially higher sales this year and is increasing its work force to meet the demand.

Steel magazine reported that business is picking up or holding steady in such key lines as construction, freight carloadings, machine tool orders, auto sales and coal.

IN LOUISIANA

Polio Vaccination Drive Underway

NEW ORLEANS, March 22—UP—The Louisiana State Medical Society kicked off a state-wide polio vaccination program today with the reminder that Louisiana is still among the top 10 states in the frequency of polio cases in proportion to the population.

The society cited Louisiana Department of Health figures to back up its war against polio, which reaches its highest incidence during warm months.

Dr. H. Ashton Thomas, president of the society, said the drive will begin immediately.

Dr. Thomas estimated about 500,000 residents of the state received Salk vaccine during last year's vaccination drive, conducted by parish and district medical societies under direction of the state society.

Dr. Philip H. Jones, who heads a society committee on Salk vaccine, said the number of new polio cases in Louisiana reached an all-time low during the past summer because of vaccinations.

Cases Drop

The Louisiana department of health said only 169 cases of polio were reported in 1957 compared to 608 in 1956. The number of paralytic cases dropped from 414 in 1956 to 74 in 1957.

Dr. Jones said Louisiana is lagging, however. He said the state is still among the top 10 states in the frequency of polio cases in proportion to the population.

Dr. Jones said all parish and district medical societies are again being urged to encourage those who have not already been vaccinated to receive the Salk injections before the polio "season" begins.

At the present time, vaccine supplies are plentiful and the cost of being vaccinated is inexpensive, he said.

While medical authorities advise taking the vaccine before the advent of warm weather, it may actually be administered at any time of the year.

Dr. Jones said the Louisiana State Medical Society does not contemplate the all-out "crash" type of vaccination program such as was conducted last year. He said the Society believes that private physicians will now be able to handle all vaccinations in the future without resorting to the use of special polio vaccination clinics.

Voting Purge May Be First Right Target

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A purge of Negro voters in Jefferson Davis County may have sparked the first invocation of the federal civil rights act against Mississippi voting laws.

Rumors have circulated for months that Negroes were marked off of the rolls en masse in Jefferson Davis County last year. That's the home county of the Rev. H. D. Darby, Negro mininter who brought the suit.

The New Orleans Times - Picayune said last November that the re-registration trimmed the number of Negro voters there from 1,221 to "a reported 70."

Re-registrations also are reported under way in Madison and Lauderdale counties, with no indications yet of whether Negroes were purged. A re-registration in Adams County reportedly has left most Negroes on the rolls.

Re-registration is designed to clear the rolls of all names of those who have died or left the county or who have otherwise ceased to be qualified voters.

Voting records, like Mississippi election laws, make no direct reference to color. In some counties, circuit clerks are known to use symbols of some sort so that those in their confidence can tell the race of registrants.

Generally speaking, a stranger looking at the records would have difficulty making his own determination.

Even so, Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson told Missisnippi circuit clerks in the fall of 1956 that they needn't open their record books to federal snoopers.

In the wake of a U.S. Justice Department an announcement of plans to send investigators to the South after the 1956 presidential election, Patterson wrote circuit clerks:

"This is to advise you that you are not required to answer any questions that may be propounded to you by these agents with reference to the administration of the affairs of your office.

"Neither are you required to turn over to these agents for their inspection any of the records in your office, unless you should receive a court order directing you to make such records available to them."

Gov. J. P. Coleman called the Justice Department announcement "a cheap political bluff" and Mass slander."

But the suit filed in federal district court here by the Prentiss Negro invokes a section of the civil rights law which gives the court the right to act without Darby having to "exhaust administrative remedies." In other words, state agencies could be circumvented.

The latest official figures on the number of Negro voters in Mississippi were provided by Coleman in 1954 when he was attorney general. He said then that a survey showed only 22,000 of Mississippi's 900,000 Negroes had registered, only 8,000 had paid their poll taxes and fewer than that had voted.

The re-registrations such as that in Jefferson Davis County are the result of a 1954 constitutional amendment which requires the applicant to give a reasonable demonstration, in writing, that he is aware of the responsibilities of citizenship.

Darby's suit asks the court to determine if this amendment is not being used to disfranchise Negroes. During legislative debate, proponents said it would serve to hold down Negro voting.

Darby also asked the court to determine whether the requirement that applicants interpret a section of the state constitution to the clerk's satisfaction is not being used to keep Negroes from registering to vote.

Judges from other states—mostly neighboring southern states — have been giving him a hand.

When the suit will come to trial is difficult to say. Patterson was served Friday with copies of the papers and has 20 days in which to respond.

The last diving dodo was reported seen in 1681. It was the survivor of the huge, flightless birds that roamed the ebony forests of Mauritius, a small island in the Indian Ocean, the National Geographic Magazine says. The dodo vanished so completely that its very existence came to be doubted until skeletal proof was found in 1865.

UN Urged To Call Conference On Space Claims

NEW ORLEANS, March 22 (UP) — A specialist on contracts at Tulane university said today that an international convention sponsored by the United Nations should be set up to outline controls on outer space before property disputes arose.

J. F. Wilson, visiting professor of law at Tulane, said a basic framework of the new field of law must be formed today if any form of legal control in the future is to be exercised.

Professor Wilson, who is an instructor at the University of Wales, Great Britain, said that the problems which will arise are real, and pressing.

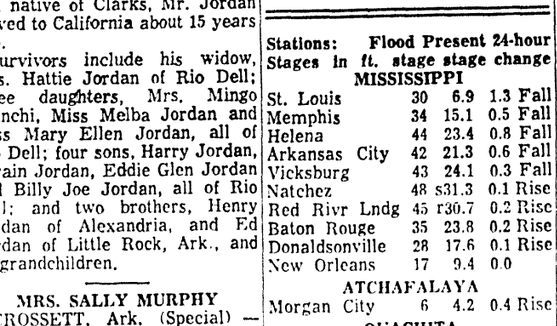

He said one is trespass laws dealing with artificial satellites circling the earth. "There are at present international agreements concerning air transport over countries, but, until now, no objections have been brought by either the Eastern or Western powers concerning trespassing involving artificial satellites."

He said the pilot had reported icing conditions at 11,000 feet and asked permission to climb to 13,000 feet. He said permission was granted, and the pilot reported again when he reached the higher altitude.

Last Heard

That was the last heard. Shortly afterward, Johnson saw the flash.

Todd was the father of two, Michael Jr., by his first marriage, and Elizabeth Frances, born to him and Miss Taylor.

The actress has two sons, Michael Howard, 5, and Christopher, 3, by her previous marriage to actor Michael Wilding.

Cohn formerly was sports editor of the Oakland Tribune and was a press service correspondent in World War II beside doing film writing, he was writing a column for the San Francisco Examiner. He was 48 and lived in Beverly Hills, Calif., with his wife, Marta, and his two sons, Ian and Ted.

Todd, born in Minneapolis, was on his way to a testimonial dinner in New York Sunday night. It was to have been given by the Friars Club. His route was through Tulsa, Okla.

He was at the height of his career as a dynamic, colorful producer. He had a string of Broadway successes, and his first picture, "Around the World in 80 Days," won five Hollywood Oscars last year.

Miss Taylor was his third wife. His first died in 1946, his second, actress Joan Bondell, divorced him in 1950, and he married Miss Taylor Feb. 2, 1957.

Todd did everything on a lavish scale and was known as a spectacular gambler who could drop $25,000 in one night of gin rummy.

He was a shrewd but erratic showman-promoter—a legend as a Broadway producer of extravagant tall-girl musicals. He could own a fortune on Monday and be broke on Tuesday.

FUSED METAL DEATH SPOT — Tangled and twisted remains of Producer Mike Todd's privately owned Lockheed Lodestar is inspected by officers and others at the western New Mexico scene of the famed showman's death in a storm early yesterday. Three others died in the crash. The plane, named "Liz" after the producer's wife, actress Elizabeth Taylor, is the same in which Todd flew to Albuquerque for a visit just three days ago. opening of an annual poetry writing contest for college students.

W.J. Bleckley, contest chairman, explains that a $50 prize will be awarded for the best poem. The award is being offered by Annabel Atkinson Pankey of Ruston as a memorial to her mother, Louise Williams Atkinson.

Bleckley explained that any student enrolled in a Louisiana college or any Louisiana student attending college elsewhere but holding membership in the Louisiana State Poetry Society is eligible to enter the contest.

The subject upon which the poems are to be written is "A tribute to the Christian principles of our founding fathers, with emphasis upon the relationship between our founders' deeds and their Christian faith." Deadline for entries is May 30.

Enriched

Coffers of the Sterlington band at the A. L. Smith School were enriched substantially through holding of a pancake supper in the school cafeteria Friday night. C. L. Denson, while not making known the exact sum, stated that the best possible supper was served and there was excellent support.

This band, organized three years ago, comprises 45 students from the fourth through the ninth grades.

After participating in the district musical festival at Louisiana Tech, March 28 the band will climax the year's activities with a spring concert early in May.

Seaman Killed In Winnfield Area Accident

curred at 4:45 a.m. yesterday at Cedar Creek Bridge.

State police said the driver apparently lost control of the vehicle.

Wright stated he had picked up Lundy who was thumbing a ride at the intersection of highways 71 and 167 near Alexandria. He stated Lundy told him he was on leave and was going to his home in Hobbs.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete last night, but will be under direction of Southern Funeral Home here.

Negro, 33, Admits Theft Of Lumber Valued At $150

Earnest Mann, 33 - year - old Negro of 817 Layton Ave., yesterday admitted the theft of about $150 worth of lumber here, city police announced. He was charged with felony theft.

Asst. Chief George Wood said the Negro admitted taking the lumber from the Missouri - Pacific Railroad here. The material was collected over a period of two or three weeks, Wood said.

Dynamic Producer Had Made Millions

yourself in the position where they can make you a sucker. . . .

"Why do I stick to show business? Well, supposing I had a hundred million dollars. What could give me more fun—a yacht, 20 dames? Naw, nothing.

"I've never been poor, only broke. Being poor is a frame of mind. Being broke is a temporary situation."

In 1947 he was close to bankruptcy, with creditors demanding more than a million dollars.

Since 1937 he had produced nearly a score of shows including "Hot Mikado" "Mexican Hayride," "Something For the Boys" and "Up In Central Park."

The shows had grossed a total of nearly 18 million, but in 1947 Todd had nothing close to a million.

Afterward he settled the claims against him.

He joined Joseph M. Schenck, Richard Rodgers, Oscar Hammerstein II and Lee Shubert in the formation of a production and distributing movie company employing a combined wide - angle screen and three - dimensional technique.

In 1956 Todd hit Hollywood with unprecedented impact.

"He put a few million into "Around the World In 80 Days" and made it a smash.

The show, televised in part to a nationwide audience, was a hodge - podge of blaring bands, prancing ponies, speeches, and spectacle.

Thousands lingered after the program to dance and partake of pizza pies, doughnuts, ice cream, beer, champagne, and hot dogs.

There were criticisms of the blowout. "We've been had," one veteran said as the guests, a cross section of the entertainment world and cafe society moved through the exits.

Todd said at the time:

"The whole spirit of the idea tonight is to have fun. We had a few unforeseen difficulties. Maybe they added to the carnival spirit."

In September last year Todd made news as a patron of the arts. He and Miss Taylor loaned some $600,000 worth of paintings to the Los Angeles County Art Museum.

Asked how he got started collecting art work, Mike quipped:

"My governess got me started. Of course, I only collected hot postage stamps at first.

"I buy this stuff so that everybody can see it. And then you never know where you might turn up broke and have to hock a painting."

In New York comedian Bob Hope was stunned upon being informed of the crash.

"I can't believe it," he said.

Hope received the report at a news conference he had called a few hours after his return from a week's trip to Moscow.

Todd had two children—Michael Jr., by his first marriage, and Elizabeth Frances, born Aug. 6 last year to him and Miss Taylor.

Miss Taylor has two sons, Michael Howard, 5, and Christopher, 3, by her previous marriage to actor Michael Wilding.

The body will lie in state at the Mulhearn Funeral Home until services.

Mrs. Roberts is survived by one son, James C. Roberts, of Shreveport.

Pallbearers will be Tommy Coleman, Travis Russell, D.A. Johnston, J. R. Cullipher, Hobson Norris and Hobson Norris Jr.

Ellender Sees Little Chance Of Veto Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Anticipating a veto of a stop-gap farm price support bill, Sen. Ellender (D-La) said Saturday there is "some doubt whether we can muster sufficient strength" to override the President.

Ellender, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, pleaded with farm groups and congressmen to form "a united front."

"Unless the producers of various agricultural commodities can stick together, there is no hope for obtaining long-range beneficial farm legislation," he said.

The Senate sent to President Eisenhower Friday a bill that would peg price supports on this year's crops at not less than the dollar-and-cents averages of last year. It also would prevent Secretary of Agriculture Benson from reducing planting and marketing limits below 1957 levels.

Both Eisenhower and Benson have criticized this attempted reversal of their flexible price support program.

A two-thirds vote is required in both Senate and House to override a vet Ellender noted that the 48-32 Senate vote and earlier 210-172 House vote were far short of the 2-1 margin.

Ellender described the price freeze measure as "a stop-gap." He said it would "hold matters in status quo" until Congress can consider a long-range program.

Weapons Charge Placed Against 2 Persons Here

City Police last night reported they had charged a man and a woman with use of weapons. No shots were fired, officers said.

Officials said that J. W. Morris, 25, of 1205 Bailey in West Monroe, and Mary Jackson, 22, who listed no address, had both been jailed for "use of a weapon when it was forseeable bodily harm" might result.

Morris was also charged with aggravated burglary and use of loud and offensive language. Nothing was taken and officers explained the burglary charge was validated by Morris' having entered a residence at 608 Wilson St., while carrying a shotgun.

The Jackson woman was put under a weapons charge, the same as Morris', and was also charged with use of loud and offensive language, police said.

Bond for Morris was set at $1,500 and the Jackson woman's bond was $1,000. Both were held in city jail in lieu of bonds.

Youth Admits $369 Burglary, Police Report

Monroe City police announced that a 19-year-old Transylvania man had admitted the $369 burglary of the Seven-Eleven store on Forsythe Avenue Friday night.

Asst. Chief George Wood said that Herman N. Denton had been arrested by Ruston authorities early yesterday. Wood said the youth admitted the burglary when returned to Monroe about noon yesterday. He was later charged with burglary, Wood said.

According to police, entrance to the building was gained by cutting a hole in the roof of the establishment.

Most of the money taken was recovered, Wood said.

NIXON TO VISIT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon announced Saturday he will visit seven South American countries on an April 26-May 15 good-will tour.

Accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, the vice president will represent President Eisenhower at the inauguration in Buenos Aires on May 1 of President-elect Arturo Frondizi of Argentina.

Thousands Seek Relief At Lourdes

LOURDES, France (AP) — The lame, the ill, and pilgrims by the thousands gathered in this mountain hamlet Saturday for this week's commemoration of the miracle of Lourdes.

A hundred years ago Tuesday, says the Roman Catholic Church, a little peasant girl saw a vision who told her:

"I am the Immaculate Conception."

The day was March 25, 1858. The peasant girl was Bernadette Soubirous. The vision, says the church, was Mary of Nazareth, mother of Jesus.

The church says that after the child saw the vision and heard the voice a spring with great curing power sprang miraculously from a grotto.

Thousands of Roman Catholic pilgrims from all over the world—many of them desperately ill and on stretchers were arriving by train-loads.

Pilgrims stricken by disease will bathe in the spring, whose waters are said to have cured thousands.

Joseph Cardinal Roncalli, Patriarch of Venice and former papal nuncio to France, arrives, on a new French Caravelle jet airliner Monday. He will consecrate a big underground basilica built especially for this 100the anniversary. It was built underground so as not to change the appearance of the grotto.

At 8:30 p. m. Monday and all-night vigil will start before religious relica, including parts of the habit worn by St. Bernadette when she became a nun.

At 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, the relics will be carried in a procession from the Basilica of the Rosary —the church atop the grotto—to the new basilica. The first mass will be celebrated at the basilica at 11 a.m. With a 500-voice choir of singers from the Benedictine Monastery at Tournay.

He said the pilot had reported icing conditions at 11,000 feet and asked permission to climb to 13,000 feet. He said permission was granted, and the pilot reported again when he reached the higher altitude.

Last Heard

That was the last heard. Shortly afterward, Johnson saw the flash.

Todd was the father of two, Michael Jr., by his first marriage, and Elizabeth Frances, born to him and Miss Taylor.

The actress has two sons, Michael Howard, 5, and Christopher, 3, by her previous marriage to actor Michael Wilding.

Cohn formerly was sports editor of the Oakland Tribune and was a press service correspondent in World War II beside doing film writing, he was writing a column for the San Francisco Examiner. He was 48 and lived in Beverly Hills, Calif., with his wife, Marta, and his two sons, Ian and Ted.

Todd, born in Minneapolis, was on his way to a testimonial dinner in New York Sunday night. It was to have been given by the Friars Club. His route was through Tulsa, Okla.

He was at the height of his career as a dynamic, colorful producer. He had a string of Broadway successes, and his first picture, "Around the World in 80 Days," won five Hollywood Oscars last year.

Miss Taylor was his third wife. His first died in 1946, his second, actress Joan Bondell, divorced him in 1950, and he married Miss Taylor Feb. 2, 1957.

Todd did everything on a lavish scale and was known as a spectacular gambler who could drop $25,000 in one night of gin rummy.

He was a shrewd but erratic showman-promoter—a legend as a Broadway producer of extravagant tall-girl musicals. He could own a fortune on Monday and be broke on Tuesday.

FUSED METAL DEATH SPOT — Tangled and twisted remains of Producer Mike Todd's privately owned Lockheed Lodestar is inspected by officers and others at the western New Mexico scene of the famed showman's death in a storm early yesterday. Three others died in the crash. The plane, named "Liz" after the producer's wife, actress Elizabeth Taylor, is the same in which Todd flew to Albuquerque for a visit just three days ago. opening of an annual poetry writing contest for college students.

W.J. Bleckley, contest chairman, explains that a $50 prize will be awarded for the best poem. The award is being offered by Annabel Atkinson Pankey of Ruston as a memorial to her mother, Louise Williams Atkinson.

Bleckley explained that any student enrolled in a Louisiana college or any Louisiana student attending college elsewhere but holding membership in the Louisiana State Poetry Society is eligible to enter the contest.

The subject upon which the poems are to be written is "A tribute to the Christian principles of our founding fathers, with emphasis upon the relationship between our founders' deeds and their Christian faith." Deadline for entries is May 30.

Enriched

Coffers of the Sterlington band at the A. L. Smith School were enriched substantially through holding of a pancake supper in the school cafeteria Friday night. C. L. Denson, while not making known the exact sum, stated that the best possible supper was served and there was excellent support.

This band, organized three years ago, comprises 45 students from the fourth through the ninth grades.

After participating in the district musical festival at Louisiana Tech, March 28 the band will climax the year's activities with a spring concert early in May.

State police said the driver apparently lost control of the vehicle.

Wright stated he had picked up Lundy who was thumbing a ride at the intersection of highways 71 and 167 near Alexandria. He stated Lundy told him he was on leave and was going to his home in Hobbs.

Negro, 33, Admits Theft Of Lumber Valued At $150

Earnest Mann, 33 - year - old Negro of 817 Layton Ave., yesterday admitted the theft of about $150 worth of lumber here, city police announced. He was charged with felony theft.

Asst. Chief George Wood said the Negro admitted taking the lumber from the Missouri - Pacific Railroad here. The material was collected over a period of two or three weeks, Wood said.

Dynamic Producer Had Made Millions

yourself in the position where they can make you a sucker. . . .

"Why do I stick to show business? Well, supposing I had a hundred million dollars. What could give me more fun—a yacht, 20 dames? Naw, nothing.

"I've never been poor, only broke. Being poor is a frame of mind. Being broke is a temporary situation."

In 1947 he was close to bankruptcy, with creditors demanding more than a million dollars.

Since 1937 he had produced nearly a score of shows including "Hot Mikado" "Mexican Hayride," "Something For the Boys" and "Up In Central Park."

The shows had grossed a total of nearly 18 million, but in 1947 Todd had nothing close to a million.

Afterward he settled the claims against him.

He joined Joseph M. Schenck, Richard Rodgers, Oscar Hammerstein II and Lee Shubert in the formation of a production and distributing movie company employing a combined wide - angle screen and three - dimensional technique.

In 1956 Todd hit Hollywood with unprecedented impact.

"He put a few million into "Around the World In 80 Days" and made it a smash.

The show, televised in part to a nationwide audience, was a hodge - podge of blaring bands, prancing ponies, speeches, and spectacle.

Thousands lingered after the program to dance and partake of pizza pies, doughnuts, ice cream, beer, champagne, and hot dogs.

There were criticisms of the blowout. "We've been had," one veteran said as the guests, a cross section of the entertainment world and cafe society moved through the exits.

Todd said at the time:

"The whole spirit of the idea tonight is to have fun. We had a few unforeseen difficulties. Maybe they added to the carnival spirit."

In September last year Todd made news as a patron of the arts. He and Miss Taylor loaned some $600,000 worth of paintings to the Los Angeles County Art Museum.

Asked how he got started collecting art work, Mike quipped:

"My governess got me started. Of course, I only collected hot postage stamps at first.

"I buy this stuff so that everybody can see it. And then you never know where you might turn up broke and have to hock a painting."

In New York comedian Bob Hope was stunned upon being informed of the crash.

"I can't believe it," he said.

Hope received the report at a news conference he had called a few hours after his return from a week's trip to Moscow.

Todd had two children—Michael Jr., by his first marriage, and Elizabeth Frances, born Aug. 6 last year to him and Miss Taylor.

Miss Taylor has two sons, Michael Howard, 5, and Christopher, 3, by her previous marriage to actor Michael Wilding.

Coleman Set For Another Amending Try

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Gov. J. P. Coleman, who wants a new Mississippi constitution, has agreed to give opponents another opportunity to try to amend the 1890 document.

Apparently, he has not given up his idea of a constitutional convention.

He agreed, according to a report Saturday from a source close to him, not to oppose a proposed constitutional amendment liberalizing the procedure for amending the constitution.

Anti-administration forces, who favor the amendment route, have been unable to push any constitutional amendments through the Legislature—now in its 12th week.

After Coleman lost his fight for a constitutional convention in the 1957 special session, he told the lawmakers he would not interfere with their amendment attempts.

Coleman said a new document is the state's only change for protection against such suits under the federal civil rights act.

The latest agreement—between leaders of the Coleman faction and those of House Speaker Walter Sillers of Bolivar County concerns two proposed constitutional amendments, both of which will be called up for House consideration Tuesday.

The amendments would:

1. Liberalize the method of amending the constitution by permitting one two-thirds vote, instead of three, in each and amending permitting more than one section to be amended at a time.

2. Add seven House seats and five Senate seats as a concession to those who believed a convention is the only way to provide legislative reapportionment. The additional seats, following the pattern of the constitution, are not allocated on the basis of population.

The agreement also includes:

1. A September special session, if the liberalizing amendment is ratified in the Aug. 26 general election, to consider a package amendment to strengthen the state's position on segregated schools.

The amendment would take the state out of the educational business, authorize abolition of public schools and creation of a private system paid for with public tax funds, and creation of a board with complete authority over who shall attend the private schools.

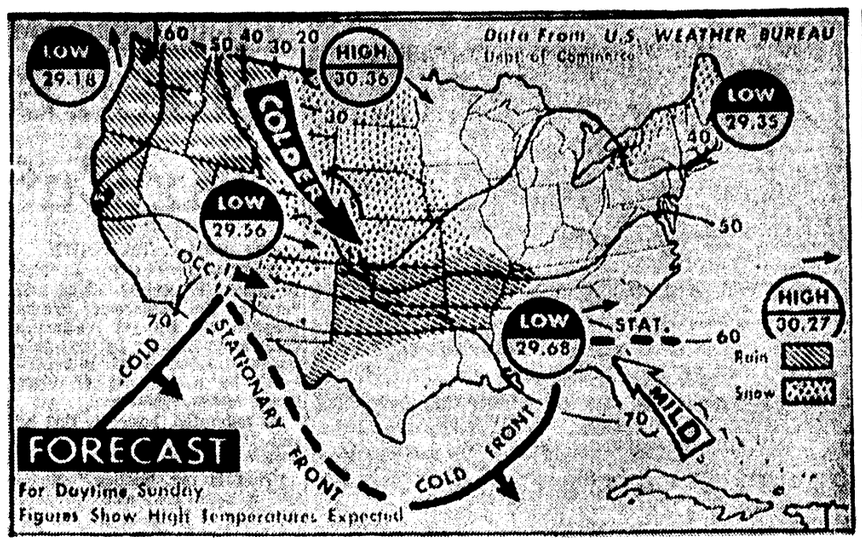

2. Also scheduled for consideration in the September special session would be an amendment inserting the Balance Agriculture with Industry program in the constitution and assessment of property in proportion to its value instead of at its true value.

3. Approval during this session of giving constitutional status to homestead exemptions whereby the state pays property taxes for homeowners.

4. A special session would be called to consider two pending House bills setting up the methods for abolishing public schools on a district basis if integration becomes imminent before completion of the agreed program.

HOUSE PAINTERS

If you are planning to paint your house, scrape or sand off all loose and peeling paint, apply primer coat to bare wood surfaces, fill cracks and holes with putty, sand surfaces that have been filled, clean surfaces free from dust and loose particles, apply a final coat of paint.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Rain or snow is expected in the central plains states. Snow is expected in the northern plains. Showers are forecast elsewhere in the area westward from the plains states and mid-Mississippi valley. Excluded from the precipitation pattern will be southern Texas, southern California and Nevada. Thunderstorms are expected in northern Texas and in Arkansas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Ayers To Head DeMolay Group In Mississippi

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—Ray Ayers of Biloxi, Miss., Saturday night became new master councilor of the Mississippi order of the DeMolay.

The names of the new officers were announced at a banquet which highlighted the four-day state conclave, which ends Sunday morning.

Other new officers are Allen Wimberly of Jackson, senior councilor; Bobby Yelverton of Hattiesburg, junior councilor; Arthur McIntosh of Meridian, scribe; Butch Cothren of McComb, treasurer; Clyde Jackson of Brookhaven, state dad; Mrs. John Lockett of Biloxi, state mother; Martha Jo Morris of Hattiesburg, sweetheart; and Merry Rea of Meridian little sister.

Biography Of Musician Set For Publication

BATON ROUGE March 22—UP—A biography of the colorful New Orleans musician nicknamed "Zombi" will be published tomorrow by the Louisiana State University Press.

Louis Moreau Gottschalk, whose strange compositions based on African themes won acclaim on three continents, was born in New Orleans in 1829 and died at the age of 40 in Rio De Janeiro.

Gottschalk grew up in New Orleans and at the age of five played the piano so well that his family's servants called him "Zombi." At the age of 15 he had made a highly successful musical debut in Paris and was hailed as another Liszt by men like Berlioz, Hugo and Dumas.

Getting a second income may be easier than you think

Once you've experienced the pleasure of getting extra income from dividend checks on stock, you'll wonder why on earth it took you so long to do something about it. Let's see whether any of the following reasons for doing nothing fit you.

I need a lot of cash to invest YES ☐ NO ☐

Did you check Yes? Oh my! You can own stock in some of America's greatest and soundest companies for as little as $40 every three months, up to $1000 a month . . . on the Monthly Investment Plan. You can start or stop whenever you want to.

Any dividends will automatically buy more stock, or, if you prefer, they can be paid to you in cash.

Because you make your investments regularly, the Plan helps you to be thrifty, to get ahead financially. And if your stock temporarily goes down in price, you have the satisfaction of knowing that the same number of dollars will buy more of it. Buying regularly, regardless of the short-term rise and fall of prices, appeals to many very large investors, too.

I need to be an expert YES ☐ NO ☐

Yes? Wrong again. More than 8½ million Americans own stock. And hardly an "expert" in the lot. Two out of three have incomes under $7500 a year. Do what the wise ones do. Use only extra money left over after your living expenses are paid and emergencies provided for. Remember that stock prices go up and down, that a company may not make a profit or pay a dividend. Always get the facts and never depend on tips or rumors. And be sure to get the advice of a broker—making certain that he's with a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange.

I don't know where to start YES ☐ NO ☐

No need for a compass. Begin with our useful booklets . . . "INVESTMENT FACTS" and "$40—AND I'M AN OWNER OF COMMON STOCK." They give information that will help start you on your way to being a sensible investor. You will also find a list of more than 300 stocks that have paid dividends every three months from 20 to 94 years, and a description of the convenient Monthly Investment Plan. The coupon will bring you a copy of each, free.

I don't know a broker in a Member Firm YES ☐ NO ☐

A frightful state of affairs. But, happily, easily remedied. Just get in touch with one—preferably drop in and see him. You'll have an interesting time. Ask him to help you plan a sensible program for extra income through the Monthly Investment Plan. His job is to help you buy or sell. And when you own securities, ask him from time to time to review your securities with you.

There are many reasons for looking into investing for extra income. Here's a coupon to make it easier. Send it today.

Coleman Set For Another Amending Try

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Gov. J. P. Coleman, who wants a new Mississippi constitution, has agreed to give opponents another opportunity to try to amend the 1890 document.

Apparently, he has not given up his idea of a constitutional convention.

He agreed, according to a report Saturday from a source close to him, not to oppose a proposed constitutional amendment liberalizing the procedure for amending the constitution.

Anti-administration forces, who favor the amendment route, have been unable to push any constitutional amendments through the Legislature—now in its 12th week.

Coleman said a new document is the state's only change for protection against such suits under the federal civil rights act.

The latest agreement—between leaders of the Coleman faction and those of House Speaker Walter Sillers of Bolivar County concerns two proposed constitutional amendments, both of which will be called up for House consideration Tuesday.

The amendments would:

1. Liberalize the method of amending the constitution by permitting one two-thirds vote, instead of three, in each and amending permitting more than one section to be amended at a time.

2. Add seven House seats and five Senate seats as a concession to those who believed a convention is the only way to provide legislative reapportionment. The additional seats, following the pattern of the constitution, are not allocated on the basis of population.

The agreement also includes:

1. A September special session, if the liberalizing amendment is ratified in the Aug. 26 general election, to consider a package amendment to strengthen the state's position on segregated schools.

The amendment would take the state out of the educational business, authorize abolition of public schools and creation of a private system paid for with public tax funds, and creation of a board with complete authority over who shall attend the private schools.

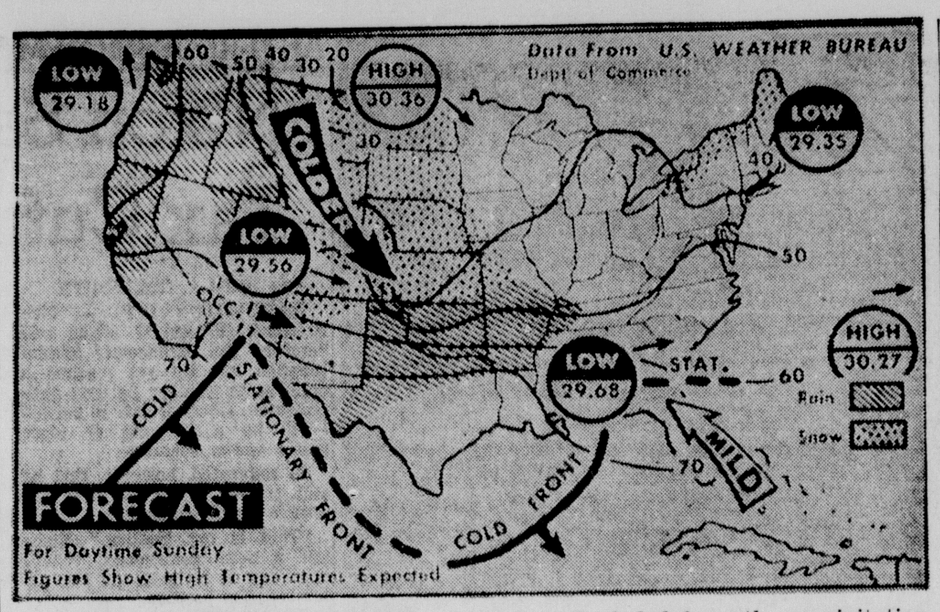

2. Also scheduled for consideration in the September special session would be an amendment inserting the Balance Agriculture with Industry program in the constitution and assessment of property in proportion to its value instead of at its true value.

3. Approval during this session of giving constitutional status to homestead exemptions whereby the state pays property taxes for homeowners.

4. A special session would be called to consider two pending House bills setting up the methods for abolishing public schools on a district basis if integration becomes imminent before completion of the agreed program.

HOUSE PAINTERS

If you are planning to paint your house, scrape or sand off all loose and peeling paint, apply primer coat to bare wood surfaces, fill cracks and holes with putty, sand surfaces that have been filled, clean surfaces free from dust and loose particles, apply a final coat of paint.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Rain or snow is expected in the central plains states. Snow is expected in the northern plains. Showers are forecast elsewhere in the area westward from the plains states and mid-Mississippi valley. Excluded from the precipitation pattern will be southern Texas, southern California and Nevada. Thunderstorms are expected in northern Texas and in Arkansas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Ayers To Head DeMolay Group In Mississippi

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP)—Ray Ayers of Biloxi, Miss., Saturday night became new master councilor of the Mississippi order of the DeMolay.

The names of the new officers were announced at a banquet which highlighted the four-day state conclave, which ends Sunday morning.

Other new officers are Allen Wimberly of Jackson, senior councilor; Bobby Yelverton of Hattiesburg, junior councilor; Arthur McIntosh of Meridian, scribe; Butch Cothren of McComb, treasurer; Clyde Jackson of Brookhaven, state dad; Mrs. John Lockett of Biloxi, state mother; Martha Jo Morris of Hattiesburg, sweetheart; and Merry Rea of Meridian little sister.

Biography Of Musician Set For Publication

BATON ROUGE March 22—UP—A biography of the colorful New Orleans musician nicknamed "Zombi" will be published tomorrow by the Louisiana State University Press.

Louis Moreau Gottschalk, whose strange compositions based on African themes won acclaim on three continents, was born in New Orleans in 1829 and died at the age of 40 in Rio De Janeiro.

Gottschalk grew up in New Orleans and at the age of five played the piano so well that his family's servants called him "Zombi." At the age of 15 he had made a highly successful musical debut in Paris and was hailed as another Liszt by men like Berlioz, Hugo and Dumas.

Getting a second income may be easier than you think

Once you've experienced the pleasure of getting extra income from dividend checks on stock, you'll wonder why on earth it took you so long to do something about it. Let's see whether any of the following reasons for doing nothing fit you.

I need a lot of cash to invest YES ☐ NO ☐

Did you check Yes? Oh my! You can own stock in some of America's greatest and soundest companies for as little as $40 every three months, up to $1000 a month . . . on the Monthly Investment Plan. You can start or stop whenever you want to.

Any dividends will automatically buy more stock, or, if you prefer, they can be paid to you in cash.

Because you make your investments regularly, the Plan helps you to be thrifty, to get ahead financially. And if your stock temporarily goes down in price, you have the satisfaction of knowing that the same number of dollars will buy more of it. Buying regularly, regardless of the short-term rise and fall of prices, appeals to many very large investors, too.

I need to be an expert YES ☐ NO ☐

Yes? Wrong again. More than 8½ million Americans own stock. And hardly an "expert" in the lot. Two out of three have incomes under $7500 a year. Do what the wise ones do. Use only extra money left over after your living expenses are paid and emergencies provided for. Remember that stock prices go up and down, that a company may not make a profit or pay a dividend. Always get the facts and never depend on tips or rumors. And be sure to get the advice of a broker—making certain that he's with a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange.

I don't know where to start YES ☐ NO ☐

No need for a compass. Begin with our useful booklets . . . "INVESTMENT FACTS" and "$40—AND I'M AN OWNER OF COMMON STOCK." They give information that will help start you on your way to being a sensible investor. You will also find a list of more than 300 stocks that have paid dividends every three months from 20 to 94 years, and a description of the convenient Monthly Investment Plan. The coupon will bring you a copy of each, free.

I don't know a broker in a Member Firm YES ☐ NO ☐

A frightful state of affairs. But, happily, easily remedied. Just get in touch with one—preferably drop in and see him. You'll have an interesting time. Ask him to help you plan a sensible program for extra income through the Monthly Investment Plan. His job is to help you buy or sell. And when you own securities, ask him from time to time to review your securities with you.

There are many reasons for looking into investing for extra income. Here's a coupon to make it easier. Send it today.

REGIONAL FAIR

Two Local Boys, Girl Win Honors

Grand championship honors in the fourth annual Northeast Louisiana regional fair yesterday were captured by a Bastrop girl and two boys from the Twin Cities.

Miss Florette Snyder took highest award in the junior division, which included seventh, eighth, and ninth grades. Phillip Kerry, West Monroe High School student, and Calvin Pipes, Ouachita Parish High, tied for top place in the senior division comprising tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades.

Awards were made at an afternoon convocation in the amphitheater of the Administration at Northeast State, which sponsored the fair. They were presented by E. J. Foster, head of the Pure and Applied Science Department of the College. Certificates were awarded to participants in the elementary group but no winners were designated.

Fair director, Dr. H. F. Cross, assistant professor of biology emphasized the improvement noted in exhibits this year in comparison with last spring's displays. He also pointed to the "fine interest shown by the large number of spectators at the current event."

Senior division winners and the various fields of science in which they exhibited are listed according to first, second and third place honors that they received: biology - Linda Johnson, Grayson; Charles Bates, Grayson; Mary Catherine Ross, Pioneer.

Chemistry - Phillip Kerry, West Monroe; Judy Lane, Neville High School of Monroe; Louise Moak, Neville; earth science - Frances Thompson, Delhi; Charles Catching, Ouachita Parish High, Monroe. Electronics - Harold Crowell, Grayson; Terry Holloway, Bastrop; John Douglas, Ouachita High; mathematics - John E. Burns, Neville High. Only one award was presented in this area.

Physics - Calvin Pipes Ouachita High; Lewis Hardy, Ouachita High; George Forman, Neville; social science - Polly Riser, West Monroe. Only first place was given in this field of study.

Junior and senior group awards went to the following: Ouachita High, first place, with winners including Sandra Boyd, Mickey Moody, and Wayne Shipp; Holly Ridge, second, with the winning team comprising John D. Walker and Billy McKnight; Tallulah, third place, including the team of Patricia Dykes, Patsy Duncan and Tony Reed.

Junior division winners and fields of science in which they exhibited include the following according to first, second and third place: biology - Florette Snyder, Bastrop; Robert Traylor, Delhi; Frank Faust, Holly Ridge; chemistry - Jerry Mehl, North Side Junior High of Monroe; Houston Pickett, West Monroe; Nancy O'Quinn, Holly Ridge; earth science - Sandra Austin, Mangham; Sandra Goodwin, West Monroe; Jacquelyn Burris, Ouachita Parish High.

Electronics - Ashley Pardue, Mangham; Curtis Adams, Delhi; Bob Moncrief, Tallulah; mathematics - Ronnie Smith, Delhi; Sherry Elmore, Delhi. No third place was given. Negro Mother 'Didn't Mean' To Kill Child

BATON ROUGE (AP)—A 25-year-old Negro mother hysterically told police she didn't mean to kill her six-month-old invalid son as she shook him during a fit of anger Saturday.

She told officers her husband, Leon Curry, left her about a week ago with no food and no money. When the baby began to cry she said she grabbed it and shook it violently. The infant gasped and went limp.

The baby was paralyzed from the waist down with a plastic tube protecting its spinal cord. Deputy coroner Dr. Douglas Gordon said the child died from the violent shaking.

Arnold Named Head Of Neuros

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Dr. James G. Arnold Jr. of Baltimore was elected president Saturday of the Southern Neurosurgical Society.

Dr. Arnold, chairman of the department of neurosurgery at the University of Maryland, succeeds Dr. William F. Meacham, professor of neurosurgery at Vanderbilt University.

Dr. Charles L. Neill of Jackson, clinical assistant professor of neurosurgery at the University of Mississippi Medical Center, was elected vice president; and Dr. C. D. Hawkes of Memphis, Tenn., associate professor of neurosurgery at the University of Tennessee, was re-elected secretary.

Although land was not at a premium, the Mesopotamians and other ancient peoples built new cities on the sites of settlements destroyed by fire, floor or war. Not only was it easy to level a place built on sun-baked bricks; the increasing height of the site added to the city's prestige and defensibility, says the National Georgraphic Magazine.

At the tip of Florida's Key Biscayne — 200 miles south of the United States moon-launching base at Cape Canaveral — stands an abandoned lighthouse that dates to the days of piracy. Cape Florida Light is 130 years old, says the National Georgraphic Magazine. Indians burned it during the Seminole War. Federal gunboats shelled it in the Civil War.

ANTI-RECESSION MOVES

Nixon Says Decision On Tax Cut Not Made 'Yet'

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON (UP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday the Eisenhower administration has not yet reached a decision on whether its next anti-recession move—if one is needed—will be a tax cut or more public works spending.

He reiterated, however, that he still prefers a tax cut over big federal pump-priming.

"That is my position," Nixon told a news conference, "but I don't say it is or is not the administration position."

The vice president said he wanted to assure the people "that this administration is on top of the economic situation" and "that we are aware of the fact that a prolonged economic downturn cannot be tolerated."

He said there are two factors that "should reassure them as they plan for 1958." These are, he said, "the basic soundness of the economy" and "the fact that that soundness will be supported if necessary by government action to stimulate the economy in those areas where it is proper to do so."

The news conference was called primarily to announce Nixon's plans for his goodwill tour of South America April 28-May 15.

He said he and Mrs. Nixon will visit eight South American countries, including Argentina, where he will represent President Eisenhower at the inauguration of President Arturo Frondizi.

Besides Argentina, Nixon will visit Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela.

Discussing the recession, Nixon took a swipe at "those who complain the administration is not bold enough" in its attack on the business slump.

"We are concerned with the immediate problem of those who are unemployed," he said, "but we are also concerned with the problem of millions of American families who must have enough income to pay their bills."

He said anti-recession actions "must be taken at a time when they will not set off another inflationary spiral which would raise prices, not only for wage-earners, but for millions on fixed incomes."

Nixon said there were a few encouraging signs in the economic picture early this month but that a definite judgment on what further recovery moves to take should be delayed "a few weeks."

Although land was not at a premium, the Mesopotamians and other ancient peoples built new cities on the sites of settlements destroyed by fire, floor or war. Not only was it easy to level a place built on sun-baked bricks; the increasing height of the site added to the city's prestige and defensibility, says the National Georgraphic Magazine.

At the tip of Florida's Key Biscayne — 200 miles south of the United States moon-launching base at Cape Canaveral — stands an abandoned lighthouse that dates to the days of piracy. Cape Florida Light is 130 years old, says the National Georgraphic Magazine. Indians burned it during the Seminole War. Federal gunboats shelled it in the Civil War.

Reds Charge UN Build-Up In S. Korea

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — The Communist North Koreans Saturday charged that more United Nations Command jet planes have violated the frontier where Red gunners shot down a S. Air Force fighter last month.

At the 184th meeting of the Military Armistice Commission secretariat in the Panmunjom neutral zone, North Korean Col. Kim Joon Kyung demanded from U.S. Col. Frank F. Carr that the pilots be punished.

Carr in turn demanded for the fifth time that the Reds return the DC3 South Korean airliner they hijacked last Feb. 16. The Reds, who have returned the 2 Americans, 2 Germans and 22 of the Korean passengers aboard the plane, again refused except on direct negotiation with the Republic of Korea.

The ROK regime does not recognize North Korea and has refused such a meeting.

Kim concentrated on "violations" of the armistice agreement and said U.N. Command planes had violated the North Korean frontier 22 times between Feb. 4 and March 19.

He said that on March 12 alone, four jets flew over North Korean soil and that only last Wednesday a propellor-driven plane "invaded' North Korea.

Carr said he "acknowledged" Kim's list of charges, but he added:

"I am not prepared to deny or confirm the allegations."

The charges will be investigated Carr said.

State Attorneys To Ask 10-Mile Offshore Limit

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Atty. Gen. John Patterson of Alabama said Saturday night he and four other attorneys general will appear before the U.S. Supreme Court to ask that state tidelands boundaries be broadened to 10 miles.

Patterson said in a speech prepared for delivery before a political rally at Madison Cross Road's high school near Huntsville that he would be accompanied by attorneys general from Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida and Texas.

Patterson, campaigning for governor of Alabama, said they first would meet with U.S. Solicitor General Lee Rankin. The first meeting with Rankin is scheduled for Wednesday in Washington, Patterson said.

States currently have control over tidelands for a distance of three miles, while the federal government has control beyond the three-mile limit.

"This will bring millions of dollars to our state, as the tidelands are leased to oil companies," Patterson declared.

Grain Prices Swing Widely

CHICAGO (AP)—The strongest influences in grain futures trading emanated from Washington again this week and while prices swung rather widely at times on the Board of Trade they finished with narrow changes.

Wheat closed the week 1¼-2¾ cents a bushel under a week ago, corn 1¼ higher to ¼ lower, oats ½ higher to 1½ lower, rye 1 cent lower to ½ higher, soybeans 1¼ lower to 1⅜ higher, and lard 5 cents a hundred pounds higher to 10 cents lower.

ANTI-DECLINE TAX CUT

Committee Suggests 20 Per Cent Slash

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The committee for Economic Development Saturday called for a temporary 20 per cent cut in all income tax rates if the economy in March and April drops below the February level.

The privately supported research organization said this 7½-billion-dollar booster shot, possibly starting at midyear and running for nine months, should be enforced with short-term public works and accelerated federal spending.

The CED argued against including any corporation or excise tax relief in this quickie cut in paycheck withholdings. If emergency action is needed at all, it said, the government should concentrate on a simple, strong measure "on which quick agreement would be most readily forthcoming."

The CED said the recession by last month was as severe in terms of unemployment and production as those of 1949 and 1953-54. Its statement emphasized the committee is not predicting a worsening situation or discounting the possibility that we are in the early stages of a more serious decline.

The government therefore should agree at once on what emergency measures it would take if a further drop occurs, CED said, as well as upon the conditions which would trigger the remedial measures.

"If the economic situation becomes clearly worse than in the earlier postwar recessions, strong action should be taken," the statement said.

"We suggest that this would be the case if, after allowance for seasonal influences, business activity continues to contract for another two months, after February, unless there is unmistakable evidence of quickly forthcoming improvement."

The call for an immediate decision clashed with the views of some administration officials. The latter, even while exploring various tax measures and combinations of measures, have argued that it would be premature to decide now on which of the meansures should be used.

The CED said its proposed 20 per cent cut should be an across-the-board affair and should provide for automatic termination. Any other proposals for revising the tax system should be given longer and more careful consideration, it said, adding:

"We must resist the temptation to use the recession as an occasion for trying to fasten permanent changes upon federal policy with respect to expenditures, taxes, or anything else."

Some Concern West Victory In Talks War

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—U. S. officials saw signs Saturday of some success in the West's stand against Soviet Pressure to hold a quick, showy, ill-prepared summit conference.

They said Russia's "instant summit" propaganda appears to be losing its appeal in the face of Western insistence on laying the groundwork or a meeting that could lead to results.

And futher, they said, the Russians seem to be moderating their high-pressure drive for a summit meeting by June.

O particular interest at the State Department were these hints:

1. Moscow reports quoting Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko as saying the only important consideration is that meetings of some sort be held soon. This statement, reported made at a diplomatic cocktail party, was interpreted as possible evidence that the Kremlin might be willing to accept a delay in the meeting of top leaders.

2. Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev's statement, in a March 14 speech, that U.S.-Soviet talks "on any level" could go into East-West problems. Russia had been insisting that only a summit conerence could deal with the actual problems, leaving nothing or lower levels to do but work out urocedures for a summit talk.

The United States prodded Russia this week for a reply to President Eisenhower's question to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin:

"What is the purpose for which a summit meeting would be held? Is it the purpose merely to stage a spectacle? Or is the purpose to take meaningul decisions?"

More than two weeks have elapsed since the question was put in a U.S. memo to Moscow March 6. Last Thursday a State Department declared: "We are . . . awaiting a reply."

When Prince Carl Bernadotte, now 46 years old, lost his title of Prince of Sweden by marrying the daughter of a commoner, he wasn't out of the royal brackets for long. He was then given the personal title of prince by his brother-in-law, the former King Leopold of Belgium.

LAWMAKER'S MAIL

Public's Concern About Dip Grows

WASHINGTON (UP)—A random check of Senate offices showed Saturday that congressional mail is reflecting growing public concern about the recession but is not yet indicating a general clamor for tax cuts.

Some senators' offices reported mail from constituents running heavier than last year when congressional mail sacks were bursting with letters demanding a cutback in the federal budget.

The budget is larger this year than last but the mail indicates a desire for more, not less, federal spending.

That portion of the mail dealing with the economic situation touches on many subjects—farm income, public works, unemployment benefits, taxes, and imports of foreign products.

The office of Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), which makes a daily analysis of mail, received 860 letters during five days of this week. Of those, only 36 called for a general tax reduction while 41 others asked for repeal of taxes on freight and travel.

Ives also received mail for and against congressional action to freeze farm price supports. In one day, he received 460 letters opposing the reciprocal trade program from a single city containing an industry which presumably is feeling the effects of foreign competition.

Letter - writers in Texas and other oil - producing states are complaining about the impact of oil imports on domestic production.

The office of Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D - Ill.) reported that about a third of his mail involves the economic situation and most of this relates to taxes. It said he received upwards of 70 letters Friday on taxes, most of them applauding his demand for tax reduction now to combat the recession.

But another Democratic senator from a populous southern state said he had not yet received a single letter this year from a constituent calling for a personal income tax cut. Another said the mail was heavy with demands for action by Congress to create jobs but light on question of tax reduction.

Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) is receiving 20 to 25 letters a day on taxes, most of them supporting his proposal of last week to halve withholding taxes during the last half of 1958 if Congress decides to go for tax reduction.

Hennings Says Rogers 'Baffling'

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.) said Friday Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers has taken a "completely baffling" stand on a "freedom of information" bill before Congress.

Hennings, chairman of the Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee, released a letter from Rogers explaining his testimony before the subcommittee March 6.

Rogers said in the letter that an old law which would be changed by the pending bill has supported the right of the President and his aides to refuse certain information to Congress since 1789.

However, the letter said, "the historic refusals of the executive branch to acquiesce in congressional demands for executive documents have been based, not on any statute alone, but on the Constitution alone."

He said the pending bill could not repeal the executive's right to refuse documents but could "confuse" the traditional separation of the branches of government.

Assistant Defense Secretary Murray Snyder meantime suggested that newspapermen should spend some time on the "other side of the fence" learning about the government they often criticize.

He said secrecy remains the basic information problem faced by government—"how to make the maximum available" without hurting the operations, groups or individuals involved.

Snyder, who heads the Pentagon's information program, said in an address before a college forum here Friday night that the American people had a right to know that their officials are not playing fast and loose with security information.

But, he said, both the government and political writers with "no personal knowledge of how government operates might profit by a little experience on the other side of the fence."

Ike Likely To Veto Freeze On Farm Props

WASHINGTON (UP) Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson's formal announcement of new lower price supports for dairy products underscored today the likelihood that President Eisenhower will veto a bill to freeze farm prices.

Benson reiterated late Friday that reduced supports on milk and butter will go into effect April 1. He claims the cuts may mean lower retail prices of milk, butter and cheese.

His announcement came shortly after the Senate approved and sent to the White House a measure to freeze all supports for one year at 1957 levels.

The Senate voted 48 to 32 in favor of the bill passed by the House on Thursday. Besides blocking Benson's proposed support cuts this year, the bill would compel him to peg planting allotments next year at not less than 1957 levels.

List Vote Changes

Advocates of the price freeze picked up nine votes compared with the 50 to 43 vote Thursday on the Senate version of the bill.

Senators who changed their vote included Republicans Carl T. Curtis (Neb.), Henry Dworshak (Idaho), Roman L. Hruska (Neb.) and Charles E. Potter (Mich.) and Democrats Clinton P. Anderson (N.M.), J. Allen Frear (Del.) and Carl Hayden (Ariz.).

But the 48 to 32 vote still did not show the necessary two-thirds majority for overriding a presidential veto. The earlier House vote of 210 to 172 was even less encouraging to the bill's supporters.

Benson has indicated he would recommend the President reject any bill to freeze supports this year at 1957 levels. Eisenhower himself has asked Congress for authority to make further reductions.

Benson's scheduled April 1 reduction would put the average support price for manufacturing milk, used in making cheese, at $3.03 per hundredweight, compared with $3.25 in the current marketing year.

Announce Wheat Quota

He set supports for butter fat at 56.2 cents a pound, compared with the current 58.6 cents.

Soon after the Senate approved its bill to block the contemplated cuts, Benson also proclaimed federal market quotas on the 1959 wheat crop and announced a 55 million acre planting allotment for the grain, the legal minimum.

Benson said he was forced to invoke marketing quotas for the sixth straight year because wheat supplies were 57 per cent above the level defined as normal by farm law.

To go into effect, the quotas must be approved by two-thirds of wheat farmers participating in a June 20 referendum.

LONGER HOME LOANS

CHICAGO (UP) —Home buyers likely will be able to buy homes with longer-term loans in 1958, according to the United States Savings and Loan League.

The league said that as a result of "easier money," institutions which have made loans only up to 20 years will be making some loans for as long as 25 years.

Monroe Students Make Honor Roll At Tulane School

Neville high school officials have been notified that two graduates were listed on the honor roll during the first semester at Tulane's School of Business Administration.

They are Louise F. Doernberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steward Doernberg, 1400 Park Avenue, Monroe, and Stephen P. Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Nichols, 701 Loop Road.

Paul V. Grambsch, dean, said in his letter notifying the school, "we feel that their good work here reflects the splendid training that they received in your school..."

Hennings Says Rogers 'Baffling'

Hennings, chairman of the Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee, released a letter from Rogers explaining his testimony before the subcommittee March 6.

Rogers said in the letter that an old law which would be changed by the pending bill has supported the right of the President and his aides to refuse certain information to Congress since 1789.

However, the letter said, "the historic refusals of the executive branch to acquiesce in congressional demands for executive documents have been based, not on any statute alone, but on the Constitution alone."

He said the pending bill could not repeal the executive's right to refuse documents but could "confuse" the traditional separation of the branches of government.

Assistant Defense Secretary Murray Snyder meantime suggested that newspapermen should spend some time on the "other side of the fence" learning about the government they often criticize.

He said secrecy remains the basic information problem faced by government—"how to make the maximum available" without hurting the operations, groups or individuals involved.

Snyder, who heads the Pentagon's information program, said in an address before a college forum here Friday night that the American people had a right to know that their officials are not playing fast and loose with security information.

But, he said, both the government and political writers with "no personal knowledge of how government operates might profit by a little experience on the other side of the fence."

Honor Aulds, Johnson, Roach

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

"Okay, boys, let's go!"

Those, we have been told, were the last words of Coach Devone Payne of Northeast State College as he lapsed in the coma preceeding his death here Thursday morning.

You can make your own decision as to the turn of his thoughts as he was entering, without fear, that Valley.

Maybe, he was thinking back to heights of his career as a high school coach at Tallulah. Possibly he still had the Northeast Indians and spring football training fresh on his mind. Maybe he was a schoolboy athlete again at Crowville, urging his team onward, or he could have been back on mommory's trail at Louisiana College as a Wildcat football star striving to get the best from his mates there. Again he could have been thinking of his own four boys, seeking to leave them a message of faith and hope in the future.

The sentence is a familiar one to every athlete. They've heard the words frequently from coaches everywhere. They're usually the last words before their coach sends them into their big game.

The Rev. Shirley Biggs of Ferriday, who was the coach's pastor at Tallulah, said an eulogy for Coach Payne at the last rites:

"I knew Coach Payne when he was developing all those championship teams at Tallulah . . . we organized a Quarterback Class in our young people's department. He was the first teacher. . . . He was a spiritual coach on Sunday, a physical coach during the week. . . . He was a law-abiding citizen . . . a clean, moral man . . . an honest person . . . a good husband and father . . . an excellent coach dedicated to his profession. He practiced the discipline he prescribed to his athletes . . . may we not be unhappy about our seeming loss knowing how happy he is with his gain."

Monroe first began to really know Devone Payne when he came here in 1942 as assistant to George Riser at Ouachita Parish High. Mack Avants had left as the Lion coach, and Riser was moved into the job. He was told to pick an assistant. "I had seen Devone handling a Winnsboro team against L.T.I. I liked the way he worked. He was my only choice," said Riser.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein, then girls coach at Ouachita and a friend of Mrs. Payne, lent her support to Riser. "I didn't know much about Devone as a coach, but I knew he was a man of fine character." So Ouachita lured him away from Winnsboro, and Monroe began to know him.

In 1944 he became coach at Neville High here but took the job at Tallulah the next year when he, like many others, felt Percy Brown, on war leave, would return to Neville. Bill Ruple, who had left as Brown's aide to develop a farm, returned as head coach in 1945. Payne and Ruple had much to do with Neville's rise as an athletic power, and Principal Paul Neal once said," If we could have kept Payne and Ruple as a coaching team we could lick anything in the state."

A memorial fund for establishment of a Little League park in memory of the doctor is in progress. Donations are being accepted in Dr. Bendel's name by "Monroe Little League, P.O. Box 1293, Monroe, La."

Coach Payne's sons have, are, and possibly will benefit by Little League.

"Okay, boys, let's go!"

Twin Cities' Stars Named All-District

By BILL MCINTYRE
(Shreveport Times Sports Writer)

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special) — Three unanimous selections, Doug Cherry of Byrd, Lannie Johnson of Ouachita of Monroe and Shelby Aulds of West Monroe, emerged as the best basketeers in district 1-AAA during the 1957-58 season, according to ballots cast last week in the sixth annual all-district basketball poll.

Cherry, Johnson, and Aulds were joined on the five-man array by Ouachita's gangling Billy Roach and Fair Park's peppery Linus Lopez. Slightly taller than last winter's all-district lineup which averaged out a mere 5-11 in height, the current club lists only one "repeater" in Cherry who became the seventh cager in the six-year history of the all-district team to make the roster twice.

Past two timers were Larry Barnes of Ouachita (1953-54), Bob Loftin of Bastrop (1954-56), Cecil Rhodes of Fair Park (1953-55,) Eddie Burt of Byrd (1955-56), Jimmy Orton of Fair Park (1956-57), and Dickie Crowe of Ouachita (1956-57)

No player has ever made the team the three years in a row.

While Cherry, Johnson and Aulds were collecting full support from the voting panel coaches Herbert Holliman of Ouachita, Scotty Robertson of Byrd, L. V. Norris of West Monroe, and Clem Henderson of Fair Park, Roach's name appeared on three first - team ballots and Lopez was tabbed on two. But they made up the difference by grabbing second team votes the rest of the way.

Aulds was the second West Monroe Rebel ever to make the district lineup, succeeding Jeep Sanders the leading scorer on last winter's roster.

Johnson, a 6-footer, and Roach, 6-2, were major cogs in Ouachita's march to the 1-AAA championship this season. The Lions finished up with a 24-13 season record and 5-1 in the circuit while rewarding Coach Holliman with hos eighth district title in 14 seasons on the Monroe campus.

Through 37 games Johnson poured in 796 points for a glossy 21.5 average while Roach was averaging 14.3 points per night with a total of 529 tallies. Johnson's point total in all games stamped him as the district's No. 1 Pointmaker for the year.

Cherry, the only player on the 1956-57 team to escape unanimous backing, was the second high scorer in Byrd's climb to a 22-12 season and 4-2 within the ranks. A slender forward with a sensational shot from the corners and baseline Cherry peppered the nets for 439 points an average of 12.9.

Auld's the teams only player under 6-feet tall, was one of the best backcourt players in the north Louisiana, firing from outside the circle and from under the boards. Aulds scored 720 points for a 20-point average as the Confederates bounced up to 23-13 record and 3-3 in the league.

Fair Park was far from being a powerhouse during the past season, ending with a 5-23 slate and 0-6 in the loop, but Lopez, the district squad's only junior, rocketed along at a 14-8 point per game clip with 415 points.

Celtic Rally, Philadelphia Falls, 109-87

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Boston Celtics rallied in the second half to whip the Philadelphia Warriors 109-87 and gain a 2-0 edge in their National Basketball Assn. best-of-seven playoff series before 10,894 fans Saturday night at Convention Hall.

Bill Sharman's 32 points paced Boston to its triumph. The two clubs meet again Sunday afternoon in Boston.

Sharman's prolific scoring and Bill Russell's great rebounding proved the difference after the Warriors had led throughout most of the first half and midway in the third period.

Kentucky Takes 4th NCAA Title

By DON WEISS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky battled to its fourth National Collegiate championship Saturday night, coming from way back behind miracle men Vern Hatton and Johnny Cox to whip Seattle 84-72.

A record NCAA crowd of 18,803 —99 per cent wild about Baron Adolph Rupp and his scrappy kids —roared as Hatton and Cox combined for 35 points in a brilliant second half rally that gave the Southeastern Conference champions a spectacular victory.

Hatton, whose driving layups with 12 seconds left snapped Temple's 25-game winning streak Friday night, fired in 30 points in all, 17 of them in the second half. Cox, a deadly one-hand shooter from 30 feet away, scored 18 points after the intermission and closed with 24 for the night.

The Seattle Chieftains, attempting to become the first independent team to bag the national title since 1950, got a rugged break when its All-America Elgin Baylor drew his fourth personal foul with 16½ minutes remaining.

2 Wreslers To Battle Humphrey

There'll be two husky wrestlers trying to pin ultra-heavyweight Happy Humphrey at Kallio's Arena Monday night as Louisiana heavyweight champion Bernard Hodgemyer joins Karl Karlsson against the 750 pound Georgia farm boy.

This one-against-two affair will be the second bout on a three-match card at the local arena with a tag team affair taking top billing and a 10-minute fray to open the program.

Hodgemyer will be quite a busy chap since he's scheduled to appear in all three matches. He'll oppose Bill Barney or Phil Brummett in the prelim, then battle Humphrey and finish up in the tag match. The champion will pick his own partner for the main event against Barney and Brummett.

Karlsson, a 278-pound Swede, tried Humphrey alone last week and had the misfortune to have the big lad fall on him. The Swede decided 750 pounds to 278 was no fair match and asked for a partner. He selected big Hodgemyer.

Hodgemyer and Mr. X lost to Barney and Brummett in last week's riotous main event and made known their displeasure at the decision. It's quite possible Mr. X will be back as Bad Bernard's partner Monday night. Charley Laye is also a possibility.

Promoter Gus Kallio says that, from all indications, an even larger crowd than last week's standing - room - only attendance will attend the Monday show. He urges fans to come early or order tickets in advance. The doors will open at 7 and the bouts start at 8:15.

Tomorrow night's fans will get a chance to vote for a title opponent for Hodgemyer. Kallio has prepared a ballot to be given to each ticket holder listing Bill Barney, Phil Brummett, George and Jack Curtis and Charley Laye as possible opponents for Bernard. Fans are to vote for whoever they want to face Hodgemyer for the Louisiana heavyweight wrestling crown.

Cage, Brant Winners At Track Meet

Two young Monroe athletes participated in the Tri - State Track meet at Shreveport yesterday with Joe Cage of Neville High, which does not have a team this season, winning the javelin throw and placing fifth in the discus throw.

Cage, appearing in the senior division, threw the javelin 183 feet, the discus 114.

Don Brant, an eighth grader from North Monroe Junior High, running in the junior division against ninth graders, won the 100 - yard dash (11.2), the broad jump (18'1") and placed second in the 220 run (25.9) and the pole vault. Young Brant piled up 16 points and was individual high scorer of the junior division.

Coach Van Leigh of North Monroe J. H. took the two young athletes to the meet.

Collins-Hill Team Claims Sebring Race

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Peter Collins and Phil Hill drove a bright red Italian Ferrari to a record-shattering victory Saturday night in the 12-hour Florida Grand Prix of Endurance, one of the world's toughest sports car races.

Collins, an Englishman, was at the wheel of the roaring racer when it flashed across the finish line at 10 p.m. EST, about six miles ahead of the second-place car, another Ferrari driven by Luigi Musso of Rome.

It was a thrilling win for Collins and his american co-driver, Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif. Alternating at the wheel, they wrote a new set of speed records for the 8-year-old Sebring race.

Gilmore Most Valuable On LaSalle Team

OLLA, La., (Special) — All athletes, girls and boys, of LaSalle High School held their annual athletic banquet, sponsored by the Quarterback Club, here Friday night with Coach Joe Aillet of Louisiana Tech as guest speaker.

Charles Gilmore was named by his teammates as "most valuable football player" last season and was presented a trophy by Coach Philip White.

Two all-state players of the 1957 team were presented awards. They were Doris Taylor, guard on the girls' team, and Everett Brooks, member of the football team. Brooks moved to Istrouma of Baton Rouge in the middle of basketball season, but returned Friday night for his recognition. Ray McCartney, president of the Quarterback Club, made the all-state presentations.

Coach Aillet, in his speech, made an excellent talk on hte requirements to make a champion — desire, effort to work, self sacrifice, intelligence.

Amateur Boxers Planning Friday Bastrop Show

Joe Knighten's boxers at Joe's Gym, West Monroe, plan a Friday invasion of Bastrop with Will Sam Shatzer, Joe's Gym, challenging for a match with heavyweight Shelby Waites of Bastrop who decisioned Travis Ward, West Monroe, last Thursday night at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in West Monroe.

Knighten said the Friday card will be announced later. Also on the Thursday West Monroe card, Charlie Harris, Bastrop lightweight, scored a TKO over Jimmy Jackson, West Monroe, and Jimmu Collins, West Monroe, TKO'ed Bennie McKenzie, Bastrop.

Northeast Opens Baseball Season By Sweeping Pair

Lyle Dorsey's pinch-hit triple and Jackie Brooks' single in the bottom of the seventh gave Northeast a 12-11 triumph over Arkansas A&M in the second game and a doubleheader sweep over the Bollweevils here yesterday in the Indian baseballers' opening games of the season.

George Luffey's Redskins took an easy 11-4 victory in the first of the two seven-inning contests behind the fine pitching of James Mock and Jay Gross and then came back to take the thrilling nightcap with a three-run uprising in the last frame.

Behind, 11-9, going into the last inning of the second game, the Indians started their ralley when Mock led off with a single. Bob Groves then walked, Homer Rouse advanced the runners with a sacrifice and Mock came on a wild pitch for the first run of the frame.

After Faye Thurmon fanned for the second out, Dorsey, batting for pitcher Huey Jinks, clubbed a triple to drive in Groves with the tying run and Brooks followed with his single to score Dorsey and win the ball game.

Jinks got the win although he was wild and was touched for seven runs on an as many hits. Carroll George started for Northeast and did fairly well after a rocky first inning when the Bollweevils scored three runs. He gave way to Jinks in the fifth.

Mock started and went five innings to gain credit for the opening game victory. He allowed three runs on five hits. Lefty Gross took over in the sixth and gave up a run on one hit.

Northeast salted the first game away in a big third inning when they scored six tallies. Homer Rouse's double that drove in two and Ike McMullen's two-run single were the big blows.

Northeast had a big third inning in the second game, scoring four, two of them on Gary Huckaby's tremendous triple. Huckaby was the Tribe's heavy clubber with seven runs batted in for the two games.

Before the game, Rev Earl Ogg, pastor of College Place Baptist Church, said a brief prayer in memory of the late Devone Payne, Northeast football coach who died Thursday. The Northeast players wore black arm bands in memory of the popular coach.

Northeast will play Centenary Monday afternoon at Shreveport.

Manassas First In Record Dash

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Manassas clipped a full second off a track record in capturing the $5,000 Oaklawn Handicap before 16,090 fans at Oaklawn Park Saturday.

The 5-year-old winner, owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Zitnik of Cripple Creek, Colo., covered the mile and a sixteenth distance in 1:41 3-5. The old record of 1:42 3-5 was set by Challenge Me, 1944 Arkansas Derby winner, in taking the Oaklawn Handicap on March 25 of that year.

It was Manassas' second Oaklawn record. He set a new 6-furlong mark of 1:09 4-5 when he won the Mountain Valley Handicap March 1.

An odds-on favorite, Manassas returned $5.80, $4.00 and $3.20. Ezgo paid $3.40 and $2.80 while Styrunner returned $3.40.

Mutuel handle was $817,068.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

"Okay, boys, let's go!"

Those, we have been told, were the last words of Coach Devone Payne of Northeast State College as he lapsed in the coma preceeding his death here Thursday morning.

You can make your own decision as to the turn of his thoughts as he was entering, without fear, that Valley.

Maybe, he was thinking back to heights of his career as a high school coach at Tallulah. Possibly he still had the Northeast Indians and spring football training fresh on his mind. Maybe he was a schoolboy athlete again at Crowville, urging his team onward, or he could have been back on mommory's trail at Louisiana College as a Wildcat football star striving to get the best from his mates there. Again he could have been thinking of his own four boys, seeking to leave them a message of faith and hope in the future.

The sentence is a familiar one to every athlete. They've heard the words frequently from coaches everywhere. They're usually the last words before their coach sends them into their big game.

The Rev. Shirley Biggs of Ferriday, who was the coach's pastor at Tallulah, said an eulogy for Coach Payne at the last rites:

"I knew Coach Payne when he was developing all those championship teams at Tallulah . . . we organized a Quarterback Class in our young people's department. He was the first teacher. . . . He was a spiritual coach on Sunday, a physical coach during the week. . . . He was a law-abiding citizen . . . a clean, moral man . . . an honest person . . . a good husband and father . . . an excellent coach dedicated to his profession. He practiced the discipline he prescribed to his athletes . . . may we not be unhappy about our seeming loss knowing how happy he is with his gain."

Monroe first began to really know Devone Payne when he came here in 1942 as assistant to George Riser at Ouachita Parish High. Mack Avants had left as the Lion coach, and Riser was moved into the job. He was told to pick an assistant. "I had seen Devone handling a Winnsboro team against L.T.I. I liked the way he worked. He was my only choice," said Riser.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein, then girls coach at Ouachita and a friend of Mrs. Payne, lent her support to Riser. "I didn't know much about Devone as a coach, but I knew he was a man of fine character." So Ouachita lured him away from Winnsboro, and Monroe began to know him.

In 1944 he became coach at Neville High here but took the job at Tallulah the next year when he, like many others, felt Percy Brown, on war leave, would return to Neville. Bill Ruple, who had left as Brown's aide to develop a farm, returned as head coach in 1945. Payne and Ruple had much to do with Neville's rise as an athletic power, and Principal Paul Neal once said," If we could have kept Payne and Ruple as a coaching team we could lick anything in the state."

A memorial fund for establishment of a Little League park in memory of the doctor is in progress. Donations are being accepted in Dr. Bendel's name by "Monroe Little League, P.O. Box 1293, Monroe, La."

Coach Payne's sons have, are, and possibly will benefit by Little League.

"Okay, boys, let's go!"

Twin Cities' Stars Named All-District

By BILL MCINTYRE

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special) — Three unanimous selections, Doug Cherry of Byrd, Lannie Johnson of Ouachita of Monroe and Shelby Aulds of West Monroe, emerged as the best basketeers in district 1-AAA during the 1957-58 season, according to ballots cast last week in the sixth annual all-district basketball poll.

Cherry, Johnson, and Aulds were joined on the five-man array by Ouachita's gangling Billy Roach and Fair Park's peppery Linus Lopez. Slightly taller than last winter's all-district lineup which averaged out a mere 5-11 in height, the current club lists only one "repeater" in Cherry who became the seventh cager in the six-year history of the all-district team to make the roster twice.

Past two timers were Larry Barnes of Ouachita (1953-54), Bob Loftin of Bastrop (1954-56), Cecil Rhodes of Fair Park (1953-55,) Eddie Burt of Byrd (1955-56), Jimmy Orton of Fair Park (1956-57), and Dickie Crowe of Ouachita (1956-57)

No player has ever made the team the three years in a row.

While Cherry, Johnson and Aulds were collecting full support from the voting panel coaches Herbert Holliman of Ouachita, Scotty Robertson of Byrd, L. V. Norris of West Monroe, and Clem Henderson of Fair Park, Roach's name appeared on three first - team ballots and Lopez was tabbed on two. But they made up the difference by grabbing second team votes the rest of the way.

The second team wound up with two Byrd Jackets Rod Yeager and Billy Fitzgerald, West Monroe's Jerry Grubbs, Ouachita's Eddie McGowan and Fair Park's Gary Lauter.

Aulds was the second West Monroe Rebel ever to make the district lineup, succeeding Jeep Sanders the leading scorer on last winter's roster.

Johnson, a 6-footer, and Roach, 6-2, were major cogs in Ouachita's march to the 1-AAA championship this season. The Lions finished up with a 24-13 season record and 5-1 in the circuit while rewarding Coach Holliman with hos eighth district title in 14 seasons on the Monroe campus.

Through 37 games Johnson poured in 796 points for a glossy 21.5 average while Roach was averaging 14.3 points per night with a total of 529 tallies. Johnson's point total in all games stamped him as the district's No. 1 Pointmaker for the year.

Cherry, the only player on the 1956-57 team to escape unanimous backing, was the second high scorer in Byrd's climb to a 22-12 season and 4-2 within the ranks. A slender forward with a sensational shot from the corners and baseline Cherry peppered the nets for 439 points an average of 12.9.

Auld's the teams only player under 6-feet tall, was one of the best backcourt players in the north Louisiana, firing from outside the circle and from under the boards. Aulds scored 720 points for a 20-point average as the Confederates bounced up to 23-13 record and 3-3 in the league.

Fair Park was far from being a powerhouse during the past season, ending with a 5-23 slate and 0-6 in the loop, but Lopez, the district squad's only junior, rocketed along at a 14-8 point per game clip with 415 points.

Celtic Rally, Philadelphia Falls, 109-87

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Boston Celtics rallied in the second half to whip the Philadelphia Warriors 109-87 and gain a 2-0 edge in their National Basketball Assn. best-of-seven playoff series before 10,894 fans Saturday night at Convention Hall.

Bill Sharman's 32 points paced Boston to its triumph. The two clubs meet again Sunday afternoon in Boston.

Sharman's prolific scoring and Bill Russell's great rebounding proved the difference after the Warriors had led throughout most of the first half and midway in the third period.

Kentucky Takes 4th NCAA Title

By DON WEISS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky battled to its fourth National Collegiate championship Saturday night, coming from way back behind miracle men Vern Hatton and Johnny Cox to whip Seattle, 84-72.

A record NCAA crowd of 18,803 —99 per cent wild about Baron Adolph Rupp and his scrappy kids —roared as Hatton and Cox combined for 35 points in a brilliant second half rally that gave the Southeastern Conference champions a spectacular victory.

Hatton, whose driving layups with 12 seconds left snapped Temple's 25-game winning streak Friday night, fired in 30 points in all, 17 of them in the second half. Cox, a deadly one-hand shooter from 30 feet away, scored 18 points after the intermission and closed with 24 for the night.

The Seattle Chieftains, attempting to become the first independent team to bag the national title since 1950, got a rugged break when its All-America Elgin Baylor drew his fourth personal foul with 16½ minutes remaining.

2 Wreslers To Battle Humphrey

There'll be two husky wrestlers trying to pin ultra-heavyweight Happy Humphrey at Kallio's Arena Monday night as Louisiana heavyweight champion Bernard Hodgemyer joins Karl Karlsson against the 750 pound Georgia farm boy.

This one-against-two affair will be the second bout on a three-match card at the local arena with a tag team affair taking top billing and a 10-minute fray to open the program.

Hodgemyer will be quite a busy chap since he's scheduled to appear in all three matches. He'll oppose Bill Barney or Phil Brummett in the prelim, then battle Humphrey and finish up in the tag match. The champion will pick his own partner for the main event against Barney and Brummett.

Karlsson, a 278-pound Swede, tried Humphrey alone last week and had the misfortune to have the big lad fall on him. The Swede decided 750 pounds to 278 was no fair match and asked for a partner. He selected big Hodgemyer.

Hodgemyer and Mr. X lost to Barney and Brummett in last week's riotous main event and made known their displeasure at the decision. It's quite possible Mr. X will be back as Bad Bernard's partner Monday night. Charley Laye is also a possibility.

Promoter Gus Kallio says that, from all indications, an even larger crowd than last week's standing - room - only attendance will attend the Monday show. He urges fans to come early or order tickets in advance. The doors will open at 7 and the bouts start at 8:15.

Tomorrow night's fans will get a chance to vote for a title opponent for Hodgemyer. Kallio has prepared a ballot to be given to each ticket holder listing Bill Barney, Phil Brummett, George and Jack Curtis and Charley Laye as possible opponents for Bernard. Fans are to vote for whoever they want to face Hodgemyer for the Louisiana heavyweight wrestling crown.

Cage, Brant Winners At Track Meet

Two young Monroe athletes participated in the Tri - State Track meet at Shreveport yesterday with Joe Cage of Neville High, which does not have a team this season, winning the javelin throw and placing fifth in the discus throw.

Cage, appearing in the senior division, threw the javelin 183 feet, the discus 114.

Don Brant, an eighth grader from North Monroe Junior High, running in the junior division against ninth graders, won the 100 - yard dash (11.2), the broad jump (18'1") and placed second in the 220 run (25.9) and the pole vault. Young Brant piled up 16 points and was individual high scorer of the junior division.

Coach Van Leigh of North Monroe J. H. took the two young athletes to the meet.

Collins-Hill Team Claims Sebring Race

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Peter Collins and Phil Hill drove a bright red Italian Ferrari to a record-shattering victory Saturday night in the 12-hour Florida Grand Prix of Endurance, one of the world's toughest sports car races.

Collins, an Englishman, was at the wheel of the roaring racer when it flashed across the finish line at 10 p.m. EST, about six miles ahead of the second-place car, another Ferrari driven by Luigi Musso of Rome.

It was a thrilling win for Collins and his american co-driver, Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif. Alternating at the wheel, they wrote a new set of speed records for the 8-year-old Sebring race.

Manassas First In Record Dash

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Manassas clipped a full second off a track record in capturing the $5,000 Oaklawn Handicap before 16,090 fans at Oaklawn Park Saturday.

The 5-year-old winner, owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Zitnik of Cripple Creek, Colo., covered the mile and a sixteenth distance in 1:41 3-5. The old record of 1:42 3-5 was set by Challenge Me, 1944 Arkansas Derby winner, in taking the Oaklawn Handicap on March 25 of that year.

It was Manassas' second Oaklawn record. He set a new 6-furlong mark of 1:09 4-5 when he won the Mountain Valley Handicap March 1.

An odds-on favorite, Manassas returned $5.80, $4.00 and $3.20. Ezgo paid $3.40 and $2.80 while Styrunner returned $3.40.

Mutuel handle was $817,068.

Gilmore Most Valuable On LaSalle Team

OLLA, La., (Special) — All athletes, girls and boys, of LaSalle High School held their annual athletic banquet, sponsored by the Quarterback Club, here Friday night with Coach Joe Aillet of Louisiana Tech as guest speaker.

Charles Gilmore was named by his teammates as "most valuable football player" last season and was presented a trophy by Coach Philip White.

Two all-state players of the 1957 team were presented awards. They were Doris Taylor, guard on the girls' team, and Everett Brooks, member of the football team. Brooks moved to Istrouma of Baton Rouge in the middle of basketball season, but returned Friday night for his recognition. Ray McCartney, president of the Quarterback Club, made the all-state presentations.

Coach Aillet, in his speech, made an excellent talk on hte requirements to make a champion — desire, effort to work, self sacrifice, intelligence.

Amateur Boxers Planning Friday Bastrop Show

Joe Knighten's boxers at Joe's Gym, West Monroe, plan a Friday invasion of Bastrop with Will Sam Shatzer, Joe's Gym, challenging for a match with heavyweight Shelby Waites of Bastrop who decisioned Travis Ward, West Monroe, last Thursday night at the Ouachita Valley Fair Grounds in West Monroe.

Knighten said the Friday card will be announced later. Also on the Thursday West Monroe card, Charlie Harris, Bastrop lightweight, scored a TKO over Jimmy Jackson, West Monroe, and Jimmu Collins, West Monroe, TKO'ed Bennie McKenzie, Bastrop.

Northeast Opens Baseball Season By Sweeping Pair

Lyle Dorsey's pinch-hit triple and Jackie Brooks' single in the bottom of the seventh gave Northeast a 12-11 triumph over Arkansas A&M in the second game and a doubleheader sweep over the Bollweevils here yesterday in the Indian baseballers' opening games of the season.

George Luffey's Redskins took an easy 11-4 victory in the first of the two seven-inning contests behind the fine pitching of James Mock and Jay Gross and then came back to take the thrilling nightcap with a three-run uprising in the last frame.

Behind, 11-9, going into the last inning of the second game, the Indians started their ralley when Mock led off with a single. Bob Groves then walked, Homer Rouse advanced the runners with a sacrifice and Mock came on a wild pitch for the first run of the frame.

After Faye Thurmon fanned for the second out, Dorsey, batting for pitcher Huey Jinks, clubbed a triple to drive in Groves with the tying run and Brooks followed with his single to score Dorsey and win the ball game.

Jinks got the win although he was wild and was touched for seven runs on an as many hits. Carroll George started for Northeast and did fairly well after a rocky first inning when the Bollweevils scored three runs. He gave way to Jinks in the fifth.

Mock started and went five innings to gain credit for the opening game victory. He allowed three runs on five hits. Lefty Gross took over in the sixth and gave up a run on one hit.

Northeast salted the first game away in a big third inning when they scored six tallies. Homer Rouse's double that drove in two and Ike McMullen's two-run single were the big blows.

Northeast had a big third inning in the second game, scoring four, two of them on Gary Huckaby's tremendous triple. Huckaby was the Tribe's heavy clubber with seven runs batted in for the two games.

Before the game, Rev. Earl Ogg, pastor of College Place Baptist Church, said a brief prayer in memory of the late Devone Payne, Northeast football coach who died Thursday. The Northeast players wore black arm bands in memory of the popular coach.

Northeast will play Centenary Monday afternoon at Shreveport.

MEETING SECOND

Round Table Takes Rich Gulfstream As Expected

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Kerr Stable's Round Table won the $110,900 Gulfstream Park Handicap as expected Saturday, running the mile and a quarter in 1:59 4-5 to equal the track record.

The biggest crowd in Gulfstream Park in two years—25,389—made Round Table the odds-on favorite at 1-5. The big bay colt showed his superiority over the small field, winning easily by four lengths. He was ridden by Willie Shoemaker.

Round Table, lugging top weight of 130 pounds, paid $2.40 and $2.10. Meeting returned $3 to place. There was no show betting.

Others behind the three leaders were C. T. Chenery's Third Brother, the D & H Stable's Pardala and Mrs. Sue Young's Juamario, the latter an Argentine bred.

Round Table earned $69,800 and boosted his lifetime winnings to $973,964. He now is just behind Nashua and Citation in earnings.

Fractional times for the mile and a quarter were :24, :47 1-5, :59, 1:11, 1:23 4-5, 1:35 2-5 and 1:47 1-5. His time of 1:59 4-5 equaled the track record set March 19, 1949 by Calumet Farms Coaltown. The world record is 1:58 1-5, held by Noor.

Meeting was first out of the gate and set the pace to the stretch turn. Oligarchy, under Sammy Boulmetis, chased the leader while Shoemaker held a tight rein on Round Table and kept him in third place for the first six furlongs.

Round Table, 4-year-old son of Princequillo out of Knight's Daughter, started moving around the far turn and soon collared Oligarchy. By the time they turned into the home stretch, Round Table was in front by half a length. He increased the margin as he sped across the finish line.

"I knew from the three-eighths pole that we had it," Shoemaker said. "This was a real thrilling experience and I have been through a lot of them previously."

Kerr on hand to accept the trophy, said he always had qualms when Round Table runs but "I had no fears from the time they neared the stretch."

ALL-OUT EFFORT — Grace may be lacking but there is plenty of determination as players of North Bergen, N.J., and St. Catherine's of Ontario, Canada, battled for the ball in a first round game of the Women's Basketball Association Tournament at Kansas City, Kan. Millie Barrata, in white jersey (left), and teammate Dee Gonzales (right) tussle with Corrine Devlin (No. 33) of Catherine's with the issue still in doubt as to possession. (AP Wirephoto)

SAGA OF UPSETS

Xavier Defeats Dayton In NIT

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Xavier's basketball "ugly ducklings" climaxed one of the most astounding upset sagas in the 21-year history of the National Invitation basketball tournament Saturday by beating frustrated Dayton, 78-74, in a thrilling overtime final.

Six points during the extra five-minute period by guard Hank Stein, voted the most valuable player in the tournament, helped bring Xavier of Ohio the championship in the first overtime final ever played in the NIT. The game was watched by a crowd of 12,020 at Madison Square Garden and a national television audience.

The setback was another in a long line of heartbreaking defeats for Coach Tom Blackburn and his Flyers. In seven Invitation tournament ventures, Dayton now has been beaten in the final five times.

Probably no team in the annals of the NIT ever came to this post-season tournament with such discouraging prospects as did Xavier this year.

In February, the Musketeers lost Corny Freeman, their leading player, because of scholastic ineligibility. Then they lost seven of their last eight regular season games to wind up with a mediocre 15-11 record.

Because of this poor showing, the Xavier players were pelted with snowballs by fellow students on their own Cincinnati campus, and genial Coach Jim McCafferty was hanged in effigy. In New York the selection of Xavier was ridiculed in the press.

The gallant Musketeers went into each of their four tournament games as underdogs. What's more, prior to the tournament final, they had lost twice to Dayton during the regular season by scores of 74-59 and 64-58. Dayton, the nation's ninth ranked team, and top-seeded in this tournament, entered the game as a six-point favorite and was followed to New York by a crowd of at least 2,500 of its rooters.

In the consolation game for third place, St. Bonaventure battled back from a 14-point first half deficit to defeat St. John's of New York, 84-69.

Tech's 23-Hit Spree Routs Ouachita, 20-3

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Louisiana Tech rushed across ten runs in the first inning and then scored ten more in various innings to defeat Ouachita College, 20 to 3, here yesterday afternoon. The non-conference contest was the first home game of the season for the Tech Bulldogs.

Displaying some heavy hitting, the Techmen banged out 23 hits including a homer and 12 doubles. Four Canine pitchers limited the visiting Ouachita nine to four hits.

The Bulldogs put the contest on ice the first inning when they put across ten runs on ten hits. Highlights of the rally included catcher Curt Allen's homer with one aboard, and doubles by center fielder Charles Garris, shortstop Glen Schuler, and second baseman Jim Orton.

Five Tech players got three hits each during the game. Schuler got three doubles, Garris and third sacker Wade Scott each rapped out two doubles and a single, while Orton and left fielder Clyde Thompson each got a double and two singles.

Tech's starting pitcher, J. W. Mercer, went the first three innings and was credited with victory. He faced ten men, struckout seven, gave up one hit. Losing hurler was Ouachita's Don Rosa who left the game in the first inning before a man was out.

The Saturday victory was the second straight for Tech this season over Ouachita. The Canines turned back the Tigers 7-0 at Arkadalphia, Ark., Wednesday.

Tech Golfers Rout Ouachita College Foes

The Techsters won three of the four individual matches, and took both team contests to turn back the visitors.

Roy Nash, Monroe sophomore and captain of the Bulldog teams, was low man of the afternoon with a 73. He was followed by Tech's Don Goodspeed with 74. Low scorer for Ouachita was Paul Hardage with 76.

Next match for Tech comes to Ruston on March 29 when the Bulldogs host McNeese State.

Summary of Tech - Ouachita contest:

Roy Nash (T) defeated Paul Hardage, 3-0.

Don Goodspeed (T) defeated Richard Wall, 3-0.

Charles Emrick (O) defeated Pat Wright, 2-1.

BASILIO FAVORED

Robinson Seeking Crown For Fourth Time Tuesday

CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson will try to reclaim the world's middleweight boxing title for the fourth time Tuesday night in an encore with champion Carmen Basilio.

Basilio never has won a fight here. Robinson won the crown, successfully defended it, and regained it twice in the Chicago Stadium.

The scheduled 15-rounder will be on theater television in 33 states, the District of Columbia and Canada. Nation-wide radio broadcast will be by CBS. Fight time is 11 p.m. EST.

As Basilio worked lightly and Robinson skipped training Saturday, the IBC reported advance ticket sale of $250,000 with lower priced tickets depleted. Some 6,575 tickets at $30 and $40 remain to be sold.

The panther-like grace of Robinson, now 37, and his chilling punches in either fist have made the Harlem dandy one of boxing's all time greats. In 149 bouts he has 140 victories, 91 of them by knockouts.

Robinson stepped from welterweight king to middleweight on Feb. 14, 1951, by stopping Jake LaMotta in the 13th round of a brutal fight in Chicago Stadium. A year later he knocked out Rocky Graziano in the third round in defense of the crown in the same ring.

In July, 1951, Robinson lost the title to Randy Turpin in London. Two months later in New York, he pounded Turpin into submission in 10 rounds to regain it.

Six months after exhausting himself trying to win the light heavyweight championship from Joe Maxim, Robinson retired in December, 1952, for a fling as a song-and-dance man.

The latest odds favor Basilio about 8-5 over Robinson.

The smallest daily double at Monmouth Park racetrack in 1957 returned $17.40. The winners were Hi-Pine and Canonize.

BRISK SALE HERE

Sponsors of closed-circuit television of the Basilio - Robinson championship fight on the special big screen into Neville High School auditorium here Tuesday night report a "brisk sale" of tickets for the local showing. Area orders are coming in from Lake Providence, Alexandria, Bastrop, Ferriday, Rayville, Delhi, Talulah, Ruston, Farmerville and other towns of the area.

Tickets are on advance sale here at Dew Music Company. If the title fight ends inside 25 minutes, a second match on the same Madison Square Garden show at New York will follow on the TV screen. Home TV will not get the fight.

AT HIGHLAND

Holt, Whitfield Take Four-Ball

Kenneth Holt and Louis Whitfield teamed to win the One-Day Four-Ball Golf Tournament at Highland Park Country Club, West Monroe, yesterday, sweeping through three rival tedms in nine-hole matches to take the championship flight's top award.

Holt and Whitfield beat Billy Cutler and Dodd in the title finals, 1 up after beating Bill Jones and Al Gallagher in a semi-final 3 and 2. They opened the meet with a 5-3 win over Ralph Norman and Guy DuPriest who came back to win the consolation. Cutler and Dodd opened with a 2 and 1 win over Clyde Nash and E. E. Lawson and topped Frank Cascio and John Lacy in the semi-finals, 1 up.

Jones and Gallagher beat Ed Watkins Jr. and Billy King Jr., 3 and 2, in a first round match, while Cascio and Lacy passed Joe Coats and Mark Whitfield, 1 up in 11 holes, in another first round.

Van Lee and Ken Roberts of Bastrop defeated Byron Grigsby and Billy King, 2 and 1, to win first place in the first flight. Consolation in the first flight went to Gene Adams and Ronnie Hearn at the expense of Guy O'Banion and Henry Mann.

Dan Nevils and Loy Heard were the second flight winners, and the combination of Hilton Heard and Dr. T. A. Brulte won the third flight. Consolation winners were Harmon Eaves and Howard Barker in the second flight, and Ralph Bird and Tommy Roberts in the third flight.

PALMER SLIPS

Finsterwald Leads St. Pete 3 Strokes

By MERCER BAILEY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Dow Finsterwald launched a birdie barrage on the back nine Saturday and charged into a three stroke lead after three rounds of the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament.

The slender Tequesta, Fla., Professional, who has been in a slight slump, fired a four-under-par 67—his best round in a month— for a 207 total heading into the payoff round.

Four birdies, three in succession, gave him a 31 on the back side after his par 36 going out.

Chunky Leo Biagetti of St. Paul, Minn., a circuit regular who usually occupies an also-ran berth, blazed into second place with a sparking 66 for a 210 total.

Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., leader at the halfway mark, scrambled to a 72 and slipped into a tie for third at 211 with red Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., who charged out of the pack with a 67.

Frank Stranahan, former amateur star from Toledo, Ohio, shot a 69 for 212. George Bayer of San Gabriel, Calif., the first round pacesetter, and Bill Casper Jr., the pre-tournament favorite from Apple Valley, Calif., were among five players bunched at 213.

Casper shot a 67. Baker a 70. The 28-year-old leader barely missed a six foot putt for a birdie on 18. Earlier he had stroked in putts of 6, 15, 12, 20 and 8 feet for birdies. His only bogey came at No. 6, where he missed the green and then failed to sink another 6-footer.

Palmer, who led Finsterwald by a stroke after two rounds, birdied five of the last six holes. But he couldn't quite offset his scrambling on earlier holes. His card showed only two pars. He had eight birdies, seven bogies and one double bogey.

Tied with Bayer and Casper for sixth place at 213 are Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., Bob Gajda of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill. Wininger and Gajda had 68s, Fairfield 69.

DEACK DUNCAN WINS

Derby Hopefuls Trail At Bowie

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Five Kentucky Derby nominees were kicked in the withers Saturday by the unheralded Deack Duncan who ran away with the $34,450 Governor's Gold Cup to the delight of the long shot bettors at Bowie.

The long price lookers in the crowd of 14,000 really had themselves a day after being sidelined by two days of snow at Bowie.

Two races earlier, a comparative handful of the plungers gleefully collected $464 for each $2 to win on a horse named Whisk Tru that was winning for the first time in 27 races.

Deack Duncan, a $6,000 claimer last year by his owner and trainer who is a Washington lumber company operator, took to the sloppy going like a duck to beat the eight other 3-year-olds.

He tore around the seven-eighths of a mile in the good time of 1:24 2-5 and finished 3½ lengths ahead of the favored Washington owned by Mill River Stable. W. H. Bishop's Pemberton was another 1½ lengths back in third.

Washington paid $3 and $2.60 while Pemberton's third - place hedgers got 3.80.

In addition to Washington and Pemberton, Kentucky Derby nominees who trailed Deack Duncan were Lord Gregor, Circle Dancer, and Michore.

Deack Duncan's first stakes victory was worth $22,092 to Kelly.

The Gold Cup winner is not named for any of the Triple Crown races for 3-year-olds. He is a son of High Bandit and Sunday love.

Washington, eligible for all three classics, had gone off the favorite on the basis of winning his last two races at Bowie.

The jackpot payoff by Whisk Tru in the fifth race beat the previous Bowie payoff by only 50 cents. The old record was $463.50 by Genie Palatine in 1953.

The lucky collectors included holders of 94 $2 tickets, 9 $5 tickets, 7 $10 tickets to win, one $15 across the board and 9 $6 across the board.

Whisk Tru, who raced 26 times last year without a victory, was making his first start of this year. He paid $120.60 for second and $72.40 for third.

Hawk's Shade Pistons, Lead Pro Playoff

DETROIT (UP)—Slater Martin, at 5-10, the smallest man in the game, calmly pumped in two baskets in the final 90 seconds to give the St. Louis Hawks a 99-96 victory and a 2-0 lead over the Detroit Pistons Saturday in the Western Division playoff of the National Basketball Association.

Detroit now goes back to St. Louis two-down in the best of seven game division playoff. Detroit repeated its performance of the first game in St. Louis when the Pistons let the Hawks rally in the fourth quarter and lost 114-111.

Cliff Hagan, former Kentucky star who scored 38 points in the first Hawk victory, led the Hawks again with 27 points. George Yardley, the all-time professional scoring leader, tallied 26 points for the Pistons.

Detroit jumped off to a seven-point lead in the first quarter before the Hawks caught up with 7:15 left in the opening stanza. The teams then battled on even terms with Martin, who scored only 14 points, hitting a field goal to give the Hawks a 29-28 first quarter lead.

The Pistons fell apart in the second quarter as Hagan and Easy Ed Macauley, who scored 12 points in this quarter, sparked a 32-point Hawk drive. The half ended with the Pistons trailing 61-50.

Pep Applies For New York State Boxing License

NEW YORK (AP)—Former featherweight champion Willie Pep, who was retired by the New York State Athletic Commission in 1954, Friday applied for a new license to box in the state.

The commission referred him to the Medical Advisory Board for examination.

Fleitz-Patty Reach Finals At Puerto Rico

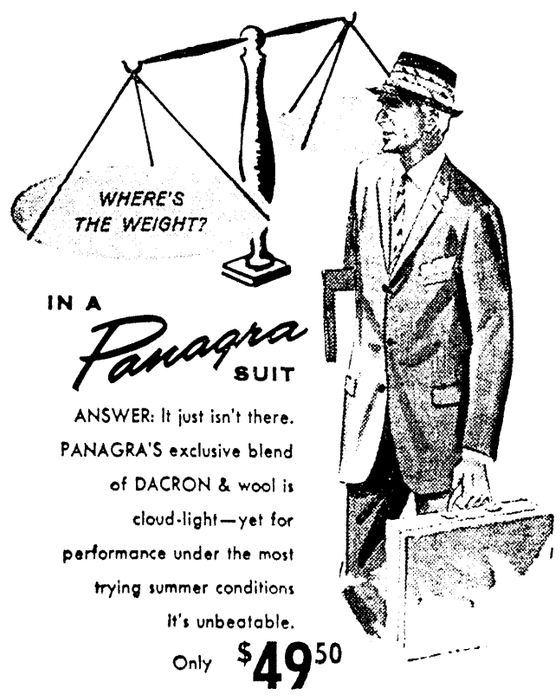

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Budge Patty and Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz moved into the finals of the Puerto Rico tennis championships Saturday. They will meet Ham Richardson and Althea Gibson, respectively, in the finals Sunday.

Patty, the veteran Californian who makes his home in Paris, defeated 17-year-old Earl Buchholz of St. Louis 6-4, 6-3, 6-0. Mrs. Fleitz, of Forest Hills, N. Y., turned back Maria Esther Bueno of Brazil 5-7, 1-2, 6-3.

Buchholz, one of the most promising U. S. junior players, led Patty 3-2 in both the first and second sets, but the 34-year-old Patty called on unorthodox shots to upset him and won easily at the end.

Mrs. Baker dropped the first set after leading at 5-3 but she had little trouble thereafter.

MEETING SECOND

Round Table Takes Rich Gulfstream As Expected

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Kerr Stable's Round Table won the $110,900 Gulfstream Park Handicap as expected Saturday, running the mile and a quarter in 1:59 4-5 to equal the track record.

The biggest crowd in Gulfstream Park in two years—25,389—made Round Table the odds-on favorite at 1-5. The big bay colt showed his superiority over the small field, winning easily by four lengths. He was ridden by Willie Shoemaker.

Round Table, lugging top weight of 130 pounds, paid $2.40 and $2.10. Meeting returned $3 to place. There was no show betting.

Others behind the three leaders were C. T. Chenery's Third Brother, the D & H Stable's Pardala and Mrs. Sue Young's Juamario, the latter an Argentine bred.

Round Table earned $69,800 and boosted his lifetime winnings to $973,964. He now is just behind Nashua and Citation in earnings.

Fractional times for the mile and a quarter were :24, :47 1-5, :59, 1:11, 1:23 4-5, 1:35 2-5 and 1:47 1-5. His time of 1:59 4-5 equaled the track record set March 19, 1949 by Calumet Farms Coaltown. The world record is 1:58 1-5, held by Noor.

Meeting was first out of the gate and set the pace to the stretch turn. Oligarchy, under Sammy Boulmetis, chased the leader while Shoemaker held a tight rein on Round Table and kept him in third place for the first six furlongs.

Round Table, 4-year-old son of Princequillo out of Knight's Daughter, started moving around the far turn and soon collared Oligarchy. By the time they turned into the home stretch, Round Table was in front by half a length. He increased the margin as he sped across the finish line.

"I knew from the three-eighths pole that we had it," Shoemaker said. "This was a real thrilling experience and I have been through a lot of them previously."

Kerr on hand to accept the trophy, said he always had qualms when Round Table runs, but "I had no fears from the time they neared the stretch."

SAGA OF UPSETS

Xavier Defeats Dayton In NIT

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (UP) — Xavier's basketball "ugly ducklings" climaxed one of the most astounding upset sagas in the 21-year history of the National Invitation basketball tournament Saturday by beating frustrated Dayton, 78-74, in a thrilling overtime final.

Six points during the extra five-minute period by guard Hank Stein, voted the most valuable player in the tournament, helped bring Xavier of Ohio the championship in the first overtime final ever played in the NIT. The game was watched by a crowd of 12,020 at Madison Square Garden and a national television audience.

The setback was another in a long line of heartbreaking defeats for Coach Tom Blackburn and his Flyers. In seven Invitation tournament ventures, Dayton now has been beaten in the final five times.

Probably no team in the annals of the NIT ever came to this post-season tournament with such discouraging prospects as did Xavier this year.

In February, the Musketeers lost Corny Freeman, their leading player, because of scholastic ineligibility. Then they lost seven of their last eight regular season games to wind up with a mediocre 15-11 record.

Because of this poor showing, the Xavier players were pelted with snowballs by fellow students on their own Cincinnati campus, and genial Coach Jim McCafferty was hanged in effigy. In New York, the selection of Xavier was ridiculed in the press.

The gallant Musketeers went into each of their four tournament games as underdogs. What's more, prior to the tournament final, they had lost twice to Dayton during the regular season by scores of 74-59 and 64-58. Dayton, the nation's ninth ranked team, and top-seeded in this tournament, entered the game as a six-point favorite and was followed to New York by a crowd of at least 2,500 of its rooters.

In the consolation game for third place, St. Bonaventure battled back from a 14-point first half deficit to defeat St. John's of New York, 84-69.

Tech's 23-Hit Spree Routs Ouachita, 20-3

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Louisiana Tech rushed across ten runs in the first inning and then scored ten more in various innings to defeat Ouachita College, 20 to 3, here yesterday afternoon. The non-conference contest was the first home game of the season for the Tech Bulldogs.

Displaying some heavy hitting, the Techmen banged out 23 hits, including a homer and 12 doubles. Four Canine pitchers limited the visiting Ouachita nine to four hits.

The Bulldogs put the contest on ice the first inning when they put across ten runs on ten hits. Highlights of the rally included catcher Curt Allen's homer with one aboard, and doubles by center fielder Charles Garris, shortston Glen Schuler, and second baseman Jim Orton.

Five Tech players got three hits each during the game. Schuler got three doubles. Garris and third sacker Wade Scott each rapped out two doubles and a single, while Orton and left fielder Clyde Thompson each got a double and two singles.

Tech's starting pitcher, J. W. Mercer, went the first three innings and was credited with victory. He faced ten men, struckout seven, gave up one hit. Losing hurler was Ouachita's Don Rosa who left the game in the first inning before a man was out.

The Saturday victory was the second straight for Tech this season over Ouachita. The Canines turned back the Tigers 7-0 at Arkadalphia, Ark., Wednesday.

Tech Golfers Rout Ouachita College Foes

The Techsters won three of the four individual matches, and took both team contests to turn back the visitors.

Roy Nash, Monroe sophomore and captain of the Bulldog teams, was low man of the afternoon with a 73. He was followed by Tech's Don Goodspeed with 74. Low scorer for Ouachita was Paul Hardage with 76.

Next match for Tech comes to Ruston on March 29 when the Bulldogs host McNeese State.

Summary of Tech - Ouachita contest:

Roy Nash (T) defeated Paul Hardage, 3-0.

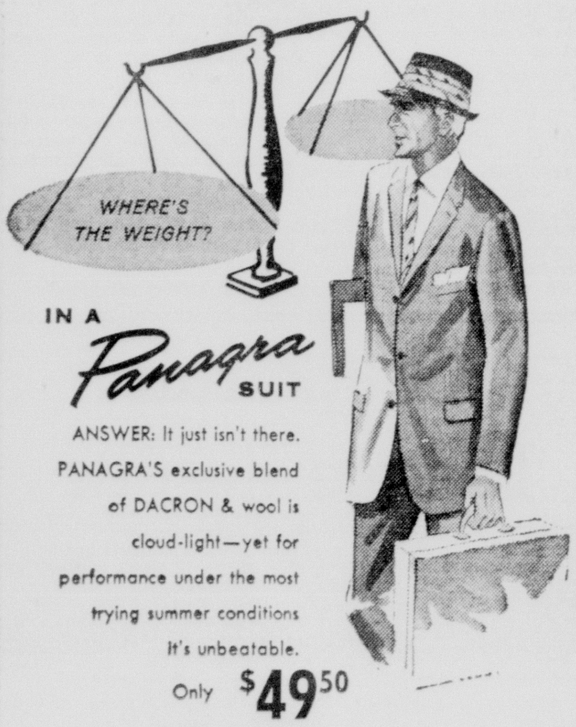

Don Goodspeed (T) defeated Richard Wall, 3-0.

Charles Emrick (O) defeated Pat Wright, 2-1.

Jimmy Head (T) defeated Billy Emrick, 3-0.

Wright and Head beat C. Emrich and B. Emrick, 2½-½.

BASILIO FAVORED

Robinson Seeking Crown For Fourth Time Tuesday

CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson will try to reclaim the world's middleweight boxing title for the fourth time Tuesday night in an encore with champion Carmen Basilio.

Basilio never has won a fight here. Robinson won the crown, successfully defended it, and regained it twice in the Chicago Stadium.

The scheduled 15-rounder will be on theater television in 38 states, the District of Columbia and Canada. Nation-wide radio broadcast will be by CBS. Fight time is 11 p.m. EST.

As Basilio worked lightly and Robinson skipped training Saturday, the IBC reported advance ticket sale of $250,000 with lower priced tickets depleted. Some 6,575 tickets at $30 and $40 remain to be sold.

The panther-like grace of Robinson, now 37, and his chilling punches in either fist have made the Harlem dandy one of boxing's all time greats. In 149 bouts he has 140 victories, 91 of them by knockouts.

Robinson stepped from welterweight king to middleweight on Feb. 14, 1951, by stopping Jake LaMotta in the 13th round of a brutal fight in Chicago Stadium. A year later he knocked out Rocky Graziano in the third round in defense of the crown in the same ring.

In July, 1951, Robinson lost the title to Randy Turpin in London. Two months later in New York, he pounded Turpin into submission in 10 rounds to regain it.

Six months after exhausting himself trying to win the light heavyweight championship from Joe Maxim, Robinson retired in December, 1952, for a fling as a song-and-dance man.

The latest odds favor Basilio about 8-5 over Robinson.

BRISK SALE HERE

Sponsors of closed-circuit television of the Basilio - Robinson championship fight on the special big screen into Neville High School auditorium here Tuesday night report a "brisk sale" of tickets for the local showing. Area orders are coming in from Lake Providence, Alexandria, Bastrop, Ferriday, Rayville, Delhi, Talulah, Ruston, Farmerville and other towns of the area.

Tickets are on advance sale here at Dew Music Company If the title fight ends inside 25 minutes, a second match on the same Madison Square Garden show at New York will follow on the TV screen. Home TV will not get the fight.

The smallest daily double at Monmouth Park racetrack in 1957 returned $17.40. The winners were Hi-Pine and Canonize.

AT HIGHLAND

Holt, Whitfield Take Four-Ball

Kenneth Holt and Louis Whitfield teamed to win the One-Day Four-Ball Golf Tournament at Highland Park Country Club, West Monroe, yesterday, sweeping through three rival teams in nine-hole matches to take the championship flight's top award.

Holt and Whitfield beat Billy Cutler and Dodd in the title finals, 1 up after beating Bill Jones and Al Gallagher in a semi-final 3 and 2. They opened the meet with a 5-3 win over Ralph Norman and Guy DuPriest who came back to win the consolation. Cutler and Dodd opened with a 2 and 1 win over Clyde Nash and E. E. Lawson and topped Frank Cascio and John Lacy in the semi-finals, 1 up.

Jones and Gallagher beat Ed Watkins Jr. and Billy King Jr., 3 and 2, in a first round match, while Cascio and Lacy passed Joe Coats and Mark Whitfield, 1 up in 11 holes, in another first rounder.

Van Lee and Ken Roberts of Bastrop defeated Byron Grigsby and Billy King, 2 and 1, to win first place in the first flight. Consolation in the first flight went to Gene Adams and Ronnie Hearn at the expense of Guy O'Banion and Henry Mann.

Dan Nevils and Loy Heard were the second flight winners, and the combination of Hilton Heard and Dr. T. A. Brulte won the third flight. Consolation winners were Harmon Eaves and Howard Barker in the second flight, and Ralph Bird and Tommy Roberts in the third flight.

Finsterwald Leads St. Pete 3 Strokes

By MERCER BAILEY

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)-Dow Finsterwald launched a birdie barrage on the back nine Saturday and charged into a three stroke lead after three rounds of the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament.

The slender Tequesta, Fla., Professional, who has been in a slight slump, fired a four-under-par 67—his best round in a month— for a 207 total heading into the payoff round.

Four birdies, three in succession, gave him a 31 on the back side after his par 36 going out.

Chunky Leo Biagetti of St. Paul, Minn., a circuit regular who usually occupies an also-ran berth, blazed into second place with a sparking 66 for a 210 total.

Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., leader at the halfway mark, scrambled to a 72 and slipped into a tie for third at 211 with red Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., who charged out of the pack with a 67.

Frank Strananhan, former amateur star from Toledo, Ohio, shot a 69 for 212. George Bayer of San Gabriel, Calif., the first round pacesetter, and Bill Casper Jr., the pre-tournament favorite from Apple Valley, Calif., were among five players bunched at 213.

Casper shot a 67. Baker a 70. The 28-year-old leader barely missed a six foot putt for a birdie on 18. Earlier he had stroked in putts of 6, 15, 12, 20 and 8 feet for birdies. His only bogey came at No. 6, where he missed the green and then failed to sink another 6-footer.

Palmer, who led Finsterwald by a stroke after two rounds, birdied five of the last six holes. But he couldn't quite offset his scrambling on earlier holes. His card showed only two pars. He had eight birdies, seven bogies and one double bogey.

Tied with Bayer and Casper for sixth place at 213 are Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., Bob Gajda of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill. Wininger and Gajda had 68s, Fairfield 69.

The low scorers:

Washington, eligible for all three classics, had gone off the favorite on the basis of winning his last two races at Bowie.

The jackpot payoff by Whisk Tru in the fifth race beat the previous Bowie payoff by only 50 cents. The old record was $463.50 by Genie Palatine in 1953.

The lucky collectors included holders of 94 $2 tickets, 9 $5 tickets, 7 $10 tickets to win, one $15 across the board and 9 $6 across the board.

Whisk Tru, who raced 26 times last year without a victory, was making his first start of this year. He paid $120.60 for second and $72.40 for third.

Hawk's Shade Pistons, Lead Pro Playoff

DETROIT (UP)—Slater Martin, at 5-10, the smallest man in the game, calmly pumped in two baskets in the final 90 seconds to give the St. Louis Hawks a 99-96 victory and a 2-0 lead over the Detroit Pistons Saturday in the Western Division playoff of the National Basketball Association.

Detroit now goes back to St. Louis two-down in the best of seven game division playoff. Detroit repeated its performance of the first game in St. Louis when the Pistons let the Hawks rally in the fourth quarter and lost 114-111.

Cliff Hagan, former Kentucky star who scored 38 points in the first Hawk victory, led the Hawks again with 27 points. George Yardley, the all-time professional scoring leader, tallied 26 points for the Pistons.

Detroit jumped off to a seven-point lead in the first quarter before the Hawks caught up with 7:15 left in the opening stanza. The teams then battled on even terms with Martin, who scored only 14 points, hitting a field goal to give the Hawks a 29-28 first quarter lead.

The Pistons fell apart in the second quarter as Hagan and Easy Ed Macauley, who scored 12 points in this quarter, sparked a 32-point Hawk drive. The half ended with the Pistons trailing 61-50.

Fleitz-Patty Reach Finals At Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Budge Patty and Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz moved into the finals of the Puerto Rico tennis championships Saturday. They will meet Ham Richardson and Althea Gibson, respectively, in the finals Sunday.

Patty, the veteran Californian who makes his home in Paris, defeated 17-year-old Earl Buchholz of St. Louis 6-4, 6-3, 6-0. Mrs. Fleitz, of Forest Hills, N. Y., turned back Maria Esther Bueno of Brazil 5-7, 1-2, 6-3.

Buchholz, one of the most promising U. S. junior players, led Patty 3-2 in both the first and second sets, but the 34-year-old Patty called on unorthodox shots to upset him and won easily at the end.

Mrs. Baker dropped the first set after leading at 5-3 but she had little trouble thereafter.

West Monroe Gives Letters To Six Cagers

Six West Monroe High cagers were awarded letters for their work in the 1957-58 basketball season, according to Coach L. V. Norris upon the completion of the Rebel's best season in their five-year history.

Shelby Aulds, guard, who netted over 700 points during the season received his second letter before shelving his uniform. Jerry Grubbs, guard, also earned his second letter. First year lettermen were Perry Grubbs, guard, Kelton Bacon, forward; Larry Lewis, center; and Don Tatum, forward.

The Rebels finished in third place in the north Louisiana district 1-AAA, with 23 wins and 13 losses for the season. They brought home the trophy from the Ouachita Tournament, and retained their own West Monroe Tournament award.

Aulds was designated most valuable player in the Bastrop Tournament for his excellent offensive playing by averaging 27 points per game in the four games played.

Four cagers will return next year, bringing with them much experience, and Norris looks forward to an even better season.

Shreveport Race Draws Kansas Ace

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special)—In the churning pack of new model cars participating in the Pelican 300 new car race at Shreveport next Sunday, the Kansas State late model stock car champion will be in the thick of the melee, trying for a lion's share of the $4,200 purse.

Leonard Funk, Otis, Kan., has entered the 300-lap speed and endurance test and will drive a Chevrolet in his bid for the money. The stock speedster from Kansas is the owner and operator of a large wheat farm in his home state and takes time off to go race driving each year. In competition last year, ranging from North Dakota to Louisiana, Funk's efforts were good for fourth place in national point standings.

Early entries for the "300" indicate the largest field ever for a late model stock car race in this area. Time trials will precede the 2 p.m. start of the big race on Shreveport's famed State Fair speedway.

THE WINNER

PORTALES, N. M. (AP) — Leo Harrison shot at a quail but only stunned it. He "streched its neck" to finish it off, then tossed it in the trunk of his car. Later he couldn't find it. He heard a rustle under the dashboard a few days later. There was the quail, pearched on the radio and apparently none the worse for no foor or water. He turned it loose.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

Longview Equipment Company, league champions last year, dominated the all-star team picked for the Major League. Longview placed five men on the squad. The other places were ably filled by Royal Feed & Seed and the Forge.

Royal Feed's Sonny Durham, currently leading all three leagues in which he bowls in average, was the top individual vote getter. Sonny nabbed 32 first team votes.

Also making the first team was Theo Finkbeiner (Longview). "T" after a bad start has been coming along at a steady clip the past few months. "T" is a real competitor and throws from the corner.

Big Robert Creighton (Longview) who tosses a fingertip ball that really digs into the pins was the next choice. Bob has been one of Monroe's top bowlers for years.

E. B. Peddy (Royal Feed and Seed), twice city match champion also made the first squad. E. B. relies on a big bender that works good on the pin deck.

The Forge's "Red" Holley rounded out the first team. "Red," a real clutch bowler, earned his place on the team having one of his best years.

Luke Coonrod (Royal Feed) headed the second team polling 16 votes. Others making the squad were Cecil Moore, Russell Bates, and Tommy Higgins all of Longview Equipment. The other place was taken by Jerry Higgins who does his bowling for the Forge.

Honorable mention went to the following: Ernest Carter, J. R. Hood, Al Knipping, Bob Pace, Bud Lyons, Walter Cash, Ed Villa, Art Smith, J. C. Holloway, Charlie Walker, Mutt Carroll, John Lacy, Bill Dyer, Bill Rambin, Larry Dage, Son Wood and Archie Parker.

Hardluck vote getter was Ernest Carter who was shy one vote to make the first team and didn't have enough votes to make the second team.

Topflight bowler Norma Brown was top choice on the list of voters in the Ladies League. Norma racked up 30 first place votes to edge out Ethel Lancaster who copped 26 votes.

The voting was heavy as 37 keglers drew votes for the Ladies League All-Star team. Myrtle Draughn, Ella Cash and Daisy Creighton rounded out the first place team.

The second team was headed by Elaine Garland who polled 22 votes. June Baker was second choice and Peggy Grigsby, Ora Lee Johnston, Rosie Joiner and Lois Waldron made up the rest of the squad. Peggy, Ora Lee, Rosie and Lois all ended in a tie.

Honorable mention went to the following list of Ladies League bowlers: Bennie Mallery, Pearl Loftin, Vera Painich, B. B. Six days after one of their alltime league records had fallen, the St. Louis Budweisers put a new one in the book—a 3858 series.

On March 6, Wisconsin Ice & Coal of Milwaukee had rolled a 3 man team game of 803, to top a Budweiser 800 rolled last season. Then, on March 12, the Buds surpassed a 21 year old 5 man team mark, the 3797 rolled on Jan. 27, 1937 by the Hermann Undertakers, also of St. Louis.

The 3858 came on the Buds' pet lanes, No. 7 & 8, in the Masters league at Floriss lanes. Ray Bluth was the pacesetter with an 834, high for the nation this season, and the fifth 300 of his career. Tom Hennessey also shot a 300, his third this season and sixth of all time.

The Buds got strong opposition from Pulaski Savings' 3494 series as Chuck O'Donnell rolled 761. The combined 7352 pins beat by 98 pins the record set when the Harmanns rolled their 3797 against another-era Budweiser team's 3457.

Pat Patterson's 736 is a new "dog" series, surpassing Buzz Wilson's 709 in the Hermann's series. Other records included 24 consecutive team strikes, Pulaski's losing team game score of 1259 and series of 3494; tied were 138 team strikes in a series, 50 strikes in the 1300 middle game, Bluth's 33 of 36 possible strikes, three 1200,s in series and five 700,s in series.

J-H Trackmen Getting Ready For Full Slate

JONESBORO, La. (Special) — Coach Jimmy Gilbert and Joe Murry have started the 1958 Jonesboro - Hodge trackmen on the way to prepare for a full schedule this season. The local school has been a great institution for track and field in the last five years when it won two state championships in a row.

Back this year will be state high jumping champ, Wayne Melton, who was the top AA jumper at the state meet last season. George Abbott, the "pee wee" miler sensation, will be trying to break all his previous records. He is a junior and has been running the mile since he was a freshman.

One of the most versatile Tigers is John Bailey who is said to be one of the finest pole vaulters and great heights are the pointers he will be working toward this season. Bailey has been pole vaulting since he was a sub-freshman and also assists in the sprints and field events.

Of the meets lined up for thin year's card, the Southwestern Relays, the Northwestern Relays, the District 2-AA meet and the state meet are first in line. Other meets include three meets with Ruston and Bastrop and the Tri-State meet in Shreveport.

Friendship Cage Tourney Slated For Winnsboro

WINNSBORO, La. (Special) — The Franklin Friendship Tournament, a basketball event sponsored by the Franklin Parish Training School, will be presented next Friday and Saturday at the F.P.T.S. gymnasium.

Schools invited are Jonesboro, Grambling, Jonesville, Chatham, Vidalia, Goodpine, Webster, Terzia of Monroe, Wisner, Gilbert, Peabody, Lincoln, Alto, Carroll of Monroe, Rhymes, Sevier, Sicily Island, O.L.H.C., Union Central, Myles, and Tensas.

Jonesboro's Baseball Team Working Out

JONESBORO, La. (Special) — Jonesboro's baseballers have taken to the diamond and Coach Clyde Berry announced this week that he has "high expectations" for this season's diamond crew.

Last year, the Tigers came close to the district 2-AA crown but fell short to Neville of Monroe in the finals.

Berry, who has been at the realm of the Tiger basemen for three years, said that he thought the team would have a great deal more hitting power and reserve power to supplement the regular players this year.

American Legion star John Bailey will probably be one of the finest hurlers, outfielders and hitters. His batting average was high last season. Danny Hagler, Ronnie Marrus, Ronnie Carson, and Roy Young should all find ample time to assist Bailey in demolishing the enemy as they all headed the list of fired up Tigers last year.

Baseball is a small scale sport at the Jonesboro school but nevertheless produces some exciting events for both fans and athletes.

Wants Special Club Tie For Yank Oarsmen

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—Big Jim Meadows wants a special club tie made for any American who ever dipped an oar or coxed a crew in the Oxford-Cambridge boat race.

"I'm working on the idea," says the Yank at Cambridge, who rowed No. 5 in the winning Cambridge boat last year. "The tie would have a dark blue background (for Oxford), light blue stripes (for Cambridge) and a bit of Red, White and Blue (for the United States).

"Of course, I'll write around first to see if the others are willing to put out money."

Twenty Americans, including Meadows, have participated in the annual university boat race since 1873. New Yorker Reed Rubin will make the 21st this year, rowing in the Oxford boat.

Meadows, 23, from Nashville, Tenn., has been dropped from the Easter Sunday race. "I'd rather not comment about it except to say I hope Cambridge wins by 20 lengths," he said.

Oxford — 1902-03, D. Milburn (Hill School, Pa.) No. 2; 1902, J. G. Milburn (Hill School, Pa.) No. 5; 1921, F. B. Lothrop (Croton, Harvard) No. 4; 1923, R. K. Kane (Harvard) No. 4; 1923, W. P. Mellen (Middlesex Concord) stroke; 1927, H. T. Kingsburgy (Yale) No. 6; 1951, G. Carver (Yale) Cox; 1952, K. Keniston (Harvard) No. 6.

BANK DIRECTOR

Glib Casey Stengel Talks Money--Or Is It Baseball?

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Basehits or banknotes, sacrifices or securities, moundsmen or mortgages — glib Casey Stengel can discuss them with equal ease.

The crusty diamond wizard is not just manager of the New York Yankees, winner of six world championships and eight American League pennants in nine years. He also is director of the Glendale National Bank in Glendale, Calif.

So John Drebinger, baseball writer of the New York Times, decided to interview the skipper on a new tack — finances instead of fielding averages. This is the result:

Q. What do you think of the Federal Reserve's retreat on its discount policy?

A. Well, you can only retreat so far. Then the next thing you know you're in last place which is the last place you want to find yourself in, especially if you're working for George Weiss (general Manager of the Yankees), because you are now going to be out of a job, which goes if you are managing a bank, a butcher shop or a ball club.

Q. Do you think the tight money market is a thing of the past or will it return?

A. Well, now that's a tough one for me to answer. You see, I'm only a director of our bank. We have a president and nine directors. Our chairman, John M. Lawson, is my wife's brother, so any time I have any bright ideas he knows about them before I get a chance to open my mouth. . . . Among our stockholders are four old ball players. One of them is Babe Herman. Now there is a sharp business man. Twenty-five years ago he opened a turkey ranch out in Glendale, Calif.

That was the year President Roosevelt called a special Thanksgiving Day. So California, being Republican, ran two and Herman sold twice as many turkeys. Our bank makes you feel at home. You don't stand in line to make a deposit. We provide you with nice comfortable chairs. And if you want to make a loan you go into a sound-proof room where nobody can hear a word you're saying.

Q. Under the present limitation of mortgage discounts for Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration loans, do you think the small bank can compete with the larger Eastern Institutions?

A. An interesting question. Now take our bank. It may be small but it'll get bigger. But big or small it's always going to be controlled by local ownership. About 73 per cent of our stockholders live right in Glendale or at least in Los Angeles. Nobody owns more than 5 per cent. That's local ownership and maybe minor league baseball would be better off with more of that and less of the farm systems run by the major league clubs. John McGraw, one of the greatest brains we ever had in baseball, warned us thirty years ago when Branch Rickey introduced the farm system in St. Louis. Said McGraw 'Sure, the farm system will help the poorer clubs, like the Cardinals, but what's gonna happen when the rich clubs, like the Yankees, take it up?'

Q. What about the present recession, depression or whatever you choose to call it? Do you think we ever will have another financial collapse in the country such as we had in 1929?

A. No. I don't. Why? Because there's too much money saved up, which we didn't have in '29. It was all on paper. Now a lot of it is in savings banks. Trouble is people are too cautious to keep it where it don't pay them enough interest. Maybe the government can find a way of prying that money loose and getting the people to invest it in more profitable business.

Q. What would you recommend as a sound investment?

A. There you gotta be careful like. I once invested about twenty grand in a factory up in Connecticut making shades, you know, the kind you pull up and down. Looked great. Every house with windows has shades. But then some smart aleck came along and boomed Venetian blinds. Don't know whether they ever had anything like that in Venice. But they sure put a hole in my investment.

Q. Well, I still don't know whether I'm gonna play Gil McDougald at short and Tony Kubek at second. Or McDougald on second and Kubek at short. And if they wind up on third, what do I do with Lumpe and Carey?

Berry, who has been at the realm of the Tiger basemen for three years, said that he thought the team would have a great deal more hitting power and reserve power to supplement the regular players this year.

American Legion star John Bailey will probably be one of the finest hurlers, outfielders and hitters. His batting average was high last season. Danny Hagler, Ronnie Marrus, Ronnie Carson, and Roy Young should all find ample time to assist Bailey in demolishing the enemy as they all headed the list of fired up Tigers last year.

Baseball is a small scale sport at the Jonesboro school but nevertheless produces some exciting events for both fans and athletes.

Wants Special Club Tie For Yank Oarsmen

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—Big Jim Meadows wants a special club tie made for any American who ever dipped an oar or coxed a crew in the Oxford-Cambridge boat race.

"I'm working on the idea," says the Yank at Cambridge, who rowed No. 5 in the winning Cambridge boat last year. "The tie would have a dark blue background (for Oxford), light blue stripes (for Cambridge) and a bit of Red, White and Blue (for the United States).

"Of course, I'll write around first to see if the others are willing to put out money."

Twenty Americans, including Meadows, have participated in the annual university boat race since 1873. New Yorker Reed Rubin will make the 21st this year, rowing in the Oxford boat.

Meadows, 23, from Nashville, Tenn., has been dropped from the Easter Sunday race. "I'd rather not comment about it except to say I hope Cambridge wins by 20 lengths," he said.

Oxford — 1902-03, D. Milburn (Hill School, Pa.) No. 2; 1902, J. G. Milburn (Hill School, Pa.) No. 5; 1921, F. B. Lothrop (Croton, Harvard) No. 4; 1923, R. K. Kane (Harvard) No. 4; 1923, W. P. Mellen (Middlesex Concord) stroke; 1927, H. T. Kingsburgy (Yale) No. 6; 1951, G. Carver (Yale) Cox; 1952, K. Keniston (Harvard) No. 6.

BANK DIRECTOR

Glib Casey Stengel Talks Money--Or Is It Baseball?

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Basehits or banknotes, sacrifices or securities, moundsmen or mortgages — glib Casey Stengel can discuss them with equal ease.

The crusty diamond wizard is not just manager of the New York Yankees, winner of six world championships and eight American League pennants in nine years. He also is director of the Glendale National Bank in Glendale, Calif.

So John Drebinger, baseball writer of the New York Times, decided to interview the skipper on a new tack — finances instead of fielding averages. This is the result:

Q. What do you think of the Federal Reserve's retreat on its discount policy?

A. Well, you can only retreat so far. Then the next thing you know you're in last place which is the last place you want to find yourself in, especially if you're working for George Weiss (general Manager of the Yankees), because you are now going to be out of a job, which goes if you are managing a bank, a butcher shop or a ball club.

Q. Do you think the tight money market is a thing of the past or will it return?

A. Well, now that's a tough one for me to answer. You see, I'm only a director of our bank. We have a president and nine directors. Our chairman, John M. Lawson, is my wife's brother, so any time I have any bright ideas he knows about them before I get a chance to open my mouth. . . . Among our stockholders are four old ball players. One of them is Babe Herman. Now there is a sharp business man. Twenty-five years ago he opened a turkey ranch out in Glendale, Calif.

That was the year President Roosevelt called a special Thanksgiving Day. So California, being Republican, ran two and Herman sold twice as many turkeys. Our bank makes you feel at home. You don't stand in line to make a deposit. We provide you with nice comfortable chairs. And if you want to make a loan you go into a sound-proof room where nobody can hear a word you're saying.

Q. Under the present limitation of mortgage discounts for Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration loans, do you think the small bank can compete with the larger Eastern Institutions?

A. An interesting question. Now take our bank. It may be small but it'll get bigger. But big or small it's always going to be controlled by local ownership. About 73 per cent of our stockholders live right in Glendale or at least in Los Angeles. Nobody owns more than 5 per cent. That's local ownership and maybe minor league baseball would be better off with more of that and less of the farm systems run by the major league clubs. John McGraw, one of the greatest brains we ever had in baseball, warned us thirty years ago when Branch Rickey introduced the farm system in St. Louis. Said McGraw 'Sure, the farm system will help the poorer clubs, like the Cardinals, but what's gonna happen when the rich clubs, like the Yankees, take it up?'

Q. What about the present recession, depression or whatever you choose to call it? Do you think we ever will have another financial collapse in the country such as we had in 1929?

A. No. I don't. Why? Because there's too much money saved up, which we didn't have in'29. It was all on paper. Now a lot of it is in savings banks. Trouble is people are too cautious to keep it where it don't pay them enough interest. Maybe the government can find a way of prying that money loose and getting the people to invest it in more profitable business.

Q. What would you recommend as a sound investment?

A. There you gotta be careful like. I once invested about twenty grand in a factory up in Connecticut making shades, you know, the kind you pull up and down. Looked great. Every house with windows has shades. But then some smart aleck came along and boomed Venetian blinds. Don't know whether they ever had anything like that in Venice. But they sure put a hole in my investment.

Q. Well, I still don't know whether I'm gonna play Gil McDougald at short and Tony Kubek at second. Or McDougald on second and Kubek at short. And if they wind up on third, what do I do with Lumpe and Carey?

TAYLOR WINS AT GULFPORT

Joe Taylor of South Charleston, West Virginia, came from behind to win the twelfth annual $5,000 Gulf Coast Invitational Tournament at the Great Southern Country Club last Sunday with a 2-under-par 69 final round for a 279 total for the 72 holes and a two stroke victory over Buster Cupit of Fort Smith, Arkansas.

Cupit, formerly pro of the McGuire Park Club in West Monroe, fired a fine 66 to lead the tournament by two shots at the end of the first round and then slipped to a 1-over-par 72 the next day to tie for the lead with Dick Cline of Lanett, Ala., at the halfway mark.

Cline turned on the steam and fired his third straight 69 in the third round to take a three stroke lead at the end of 54 holes with a 207 total. Cupit, playing in the same threesome with Cline, faltered badly with four three-putt greens and fell six strokes behind Cline with a 75 for a 213 total. Joe Taylor, the eventual winner, was now tied for second with Jim Barfield of Grand Rapids, Mich., at 210. Leonard Warren of Bastrop got into the thick of the battle by moving into a tie with Pat Abbott of Memphis with a 211 total. Leonard had now had rounds of 69-71-71 equal 211. Thus, the stage was set for a thrilling final round.

After two bad rounds, Cupit came within a hair of making up for it and pulling a victory out of the fire. He parred the first eight holes and then birdied the par-4 ninth. He slipped by three putting from forty feet on the eleventh for a bogie 5. He then birdied the par-5 twelfth and the long par-4 thirteenth. He lipped the cup for a birdie on the 435-yard par-4 fourteenth. He then dropped another birdie putt on the long par-5 fifteenth. He just barely missed another birdie on the short par-3 sixteenth and then the seventeenth and the hole that could have well cost Buster a victory. The seventeenth is a short, tight par-4 hole with traps on the right and left to catch a tee shot that isn't well placed.

Buster hit his drive just about perfect and left it only about thirty yards short of the green. He pitched up to within 18 inches of the cup and missed the putt that would have put him four-under-par. Taylor was playing behind Cupit and this would have given Buster a definite advantage by putting all the pressure on Taylor as Cline was already reportedly playing badly.

Buster shot a fine three-under-par 68 but it wasn't quite enough as Taylor played superbly to fire a two-under-par 69 for a 279 total and a two shot victory.

LADIES GOLF ASSOCIATION

The Bayou DeSiard Country Club's Ladies Golf Association recently elected its 1958 officers for their weekly Wednesday Ladies Day Tournaments and other tournaments to be held at the Club during the year.

The newly elected members are: Mrs. Frank Davis, President; Mrs. Harold Woods, Sr., Vice-President; Mrs. Clarence Barton, Secretary; Mrs. Charles Garrettson, Treasurer; Mrs. Clyde Nash, Special Events Chairman; and Mrs. James C. Ussery, Publicity. Mrs. John Kelso, Sr. and Mrs. Carroll Summer were elected to the Handicap Committee, and the Luncheon Committee officers are Mrs. Curtiss Cook and Mrs. J. E. Wheeler.

MASTERS TOURNAMENT SOON

The Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga., is nearly ready to usher in this fine Spring with the finest players in the world scheduled to tee off on April 3-6.

Ken Venturi, hottest pro on the 1958 winter circuit, has left the tour for Augusta to prepare for the tournament. Young Ken is the leading money winner and has already won the Thunderbird, Phoenix, and Baton Rouge Opens while finishing second at New Orleans and Pensacola. This record and his previous play in the Masters has established Ken as the favorite along with the ever deadly and greatest player of them all . . . Ben Hogan. And you can bet your last golf ball that he will not only be there with bells on but he will be there to win.

NOT DEAD, HOWEVER

Los Angeles Fans In For Shock, Dodgers Not Great

By JOE REICHLER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger fans may be in for a shock. Their transplanted heroes do not look like a winning club. There is little resemblance between this assortment of faded veterans and inexperienced youngsters to the proud wrecking crews that dominated the National League four of the last six years.

The Dodgers aren't dead by any means, but they're not full of life either. They still have several top drawer stars such as Gil Hodges, Carl Furillo and Duke Snider. But the Duke may be hobbled by a knee that underwent surgery last December. Junior Gilliam has no idea where he'll play. And Pee Wee Reese, the old reliable, is expected to see little action. Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella, once called the backbone of the club, are now only memories.

The club has good pitching, but it won't hit. Manager Walter Alston, a realist, knows it. He cites the figures which show how the home run production dropped from 201 in 1955 to 179 in 1956 to 147 in '57 and the team batting average which dipped from .268 to .258 to .253.

"I realize we've got to change our style of attack this year," Alston said. "We can't rely on the home run any more. We just don't have the power we once had. We've got to rely more on speed, pitching and defense. We've got to play for one run; we've got to squeeze, hit and run, steal and things like that. If the pitching is as good as we think it is, we may not have to get many runs."

The Dodgers finished first in 1956, third in 1957 and may drop to fourth or fifth this year. The only thing that can save them is their pitching. But even there they have some "ifs." If Don Newcombe's arm is all right again, if Johnny Podres' back is sound again, if Clem Labine's elbow is healed, if Carl Erskine's shoulder miseries have disappeared.

"There's no doubt in my mind that the club's hitting has fallen off, both in power and average," Alston conceded. "On the other hand, the pitching should be improved. Big Newk should be better. Labine was useless the second half of the season, Erskine was of no value to us until his last three starts, Don Bessent had an off year, so did Roger Craig."

Alston listed seven starters. The big four are Don Drysdale (17-9), Danny McDevitt (7-4), Newcombe (11-12) and Podres (12-9). Then comes Sandy Koufax (5-4), Craig (6-9), and Erskine (5-3). Labine (5-7), Ed Roebuck (8-2), and Bessent (1-3) form a stout bullpen. Alston also likes Fred Kipp and Jackie Collum, a couple of lefthanders, among his newcomers.

"I don't care how pessimistic everybody is," said Alston. "I'm not going to concede the flag to anybody. I think we've got a chance to be better than last year but I admit there are a lot of ifs. I'll be frank. I don't see where any more power is coming from unless it comes from Dick Gray, who has looked good at third base.

"Hodges should hit as well as ever. I have to assume Furillo is all right. I'm worried about Snider's knee. If he can't make it in time, Gino Cimoli will be in center."

The infield situation, except for Hodges at first base, is unsettled. Alston would like Neal to switch from short to second but that depends on whether Don Zimmer or Bob Lillis, a good-field no-hit newcomer can fill the bill at short. If neither can do the job, Neal will stay at short and Gilliam at second. Gray appears to have the inside track over holdover Randy Jackson at third. Reese will become a handyman this year, filling in at second, third and short.

Alston's biggest headache is behind the plate. He has four catchers but all four don't make for half a Campanella. Rube Walker, the No. 1 man, is a good receiver but can't hit or run. John Roseboro can hit and run but he is a poor receiver.

EQUESTRIAN TEAM

US Horsemen Eye 1960 Olympic Title

By JACK LEFLER

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—With sights set on the 1960 Olympics, riders and horses are going through a grueling training grind near here for one of the toughest of all sports events.

In Southern California's lush Santa Ynez Valley, these young horsemen are taking a long head-start in an effort to restore the United States to its pre-World War II eminence in Olympic equestrian competition.

They are candidates for the U. S. equestrian squad, which will compete in the "three-day event," an exhaustive test for riders and mounts.

The three riders on hand and the others who will come later are gleaned from the top ranks of American equestrians who have proved themselves in competition.

The long and expensive training program is being underwritten by the U. S. Equestrian Team, Inc., a private organization devoted to developing a topnotch American team for the 1960 games in Rome. President is wealthy Whitney Stone of New York City.

Training center for the three-day event is the luxurious Rancho San Fernando Rey, 20 miles northeast of Santa Barbara. Candidates for the jumping squad are training at Tryon, N. C.

Running the show at Rancho San Fernando Rey is peppery Col. Milo Matteson, retired cavalry officer who was a member of the 1936 U. S. Olympic team. In those days, the U. S. equestrian team was made up of military personnel. Coach is Hans Moeller, former lieutenant colonel in the Austrian cavalry.

Col. Matteson explains the program:

"The U. S. E. T., Inc., invited a number of riders to come here to train from February to August for the tryouts for the Pan-American Games which will be held in Chicago in 1959.

"As a result of these tryouts, the U.S. Equestrian committee will choose six riders for further training here. These six will get another year of training and three or four will be chosen for the Pan-American competition.

"The Pan-American competition will determine the team to train for another year for the 1960 Olympics."

Training here now are Wilson Dennehy, 20, Lake Forest, Ill.; David Lurie, 18, St. Louis, Mo., and Tom Bunn, Jr., 20, Pebble Beach, Calif. Joining them as soon as school is over this spring will be Miss Patricia Galvin, Woodside, Calif.

Each of the young men discarded his original plans for college to come to Rancho San Fernando Rey.

Every afternoon is devoted to training. Each session begins with the "longe" in which Coach Moeller stands in the center of the riding ring holding a long line attached to the horse's bridle. The rider is without stirrups and his hands are free of the reins as the horse first walks, then trots and finally gallops around the ring. This exercise goes on for 30 minutes.

Then there is a session over the jumps, then cross-country riding across rolling green hills and through deep valleys.

It's long, hard work but the young riders, with two more years of it ahead if they survive the weeding-out competitions, say there is nothing they would rather be doing.

Seven Games In Eight Days Face Demons

NATCHITOCHES, La. (Special) — Northwestern State College's baseball Demons will open their 1958 home season here Monday when they play the Southern Illinois. Seven games in eight days face the Demons.

Tuesday and Wednesday tilts with the Illinois visitors are also scheduled, and N.S.C. will tangle with Southeastern Oklahoma in a three-game series beginning on Thursday.

Two weeks behind in their pre-season practices, the Demons will have to "play their way into shape," according to Coach Alvin (Cracker) Brown. Heavy rains have forced cancellation of most outside drills.

These six consecutive games against out-of-state foes will begin a 10-game home stand for the Demons. N.S.C. opens conference play on March 31 with a host game against Northeast State College and meets Louisiana Tech in a double header here on April 2.

Southern Illinois, strengthened by eleven returning lettermen, already have three regular season games under their belt while the Demons have played in but one. Last year Northwestern won two of three games from the Salukis, defeating them 1-0 and 7-4 and losing 3-1.

Stroud Field, the Demon's home diamond, features a "new look" this year. Wooden dugouts have been constructed and batting racks provided. Bleachers for fans have also been erected to supplement the concrete seating already available.

Lincoln Downs Racing Ruined By Heavy Snow

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP) — The nine race program at Lincoln Downs was canceled Saturday because of conditions of the track which picked up nearly 10 inches of snow Friday.

It was the second consecutive day the plant was blacked out and the fourth in the current meeting.

Although roads and parking areas were in good shape, horsemen refused to bring their thoroughbreds on the track. Harrows which were in operation all night left deep ruts.

Max White, New England president of the Horse Breeders Protective Assn., conferred with the stewards and track superintendent and then telephoned Managing Director B. A. Dario. The decision was then made to call off the program.

Adverse weather also forced the cancellation of Friday and Saturday cards last week end.

The track announced that Friday's card will be raced on Monday.

ON WATER POLLUTION

Biglane To Address Wildlife Unit Here

The Ouachita Wildlife Unit, which for the past several days has had its representatives on the road organizing other clubs, will conduct its own meeting here Tuesday night.

Kenneth E. Biglane, chief of water pollution control of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, is scheduled to be the principal speaker.

A major item on the program will be a discussion of a recent poll taken to determine whether regulations should be installed on Black Bayou.

The regulations would not permit fishing on the bayou before 1 p.m. during the duck season and would make duck hunting after 1 p.m. illegal.

Reports of the unit's recent efforts to organize additional clubs will be made. The Ouachita unit reactiviated the Caldwell Wildlife Unit, organized the West Carroll Sportsman's Club and launched a membership drive at Rayville.

The local unit will move into Bastrop Thursday night to organize a Morehouse parish club. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Morehouse courthouse.

According to unit president Bob Downing, Biglane will speak here Tuesday night on pollution. He urged all persons interested in the pollution problem of the Ouachita River to attend.

Highlighting the meeting, which will start at 7:30 p.m. in the ball room of the Virginia Hotel, will be the showing of a new film — "Wildlife in Review."

The film was made in Louisiana and depicts all phases of game and fish in the state. It took two years to produce it.

In addition, a report on the recent federation convention at Shreveport will be given.

College Aces Play Shrine Game Today

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP) — Two of the nation's top basketball coaches will try to pick up the pieces of shattered dreams here Sunday afternoon when the East All-Stars of Temple's Harry Litwack and the West All-Stars of Kansas State's Tex Winter meet in the 7th Annual Shrine game.

The charges of both Litwack and Winter fell by the wayside Friday night in first round play in the NCAA championship basketball tournament at Louisville, Ky.

But each will have a fresh chance Sunday with the top seniors on both sides of the Mississippi River gathered for the charity event which has found the West winning all but one of six previous games.

The East, with the game's only All-American in Guy Rodgers of Temple, will be a slight favorite to reverse this trend. Litwack probably will call upon Jay Norman, also of Temple; 6-10 Lloyd Sharrar, West Virginia; Archie Dees, the Big 10 scoring champion from Indiana, and Pete Brennan, North Carolina, to join Rodgers in the starting lineup.

Winter may lead with a pair of one-two punches in his own Jack Parr and Roy Dewitz and San Francisco's Mike Farmer and Gene Brown. Hub Reed, the 6-10 Oklahoma City ace, could be the fifth man.

Winter also can call on Fred Grim of Arkansas, Lyle Frahm of Iowa State, Stan Albert of Colorado State, Jack Mimlitz of St. Louis and Jerry Hales of Oklahoma State.

On the East bench is Connie Dierkins of Cincinnati, Don Ohl of Illinois, George Kline of Minnesota, Tommy Kearns of North Carolina and Vernon Hatton of Kentucky.

Hyaden Abbott of Kansas State has been picked as an alternate should one of the All - Stars be unable to play.

The game will be one of giants as the East boasts Sharrar at 6-10, Dierking at 6-9½, Dees at 6-8 and Brennan at 6-6. The West can counter with Reed at 6-10, Parr at 6-9 and Farmer at 6-7.

Giants Sell Don Mueller To Pale Sox

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The San Francisco Giants Saturday sold veteran lefthanded hitting outfielder Don Mueller to the Chicago White Sox in a cash deal.

Terms were not disclosed, but the Giants said the Chicago American League team paid more than the waiver price of $20,000. The sale price was believed to be $25,000.

Mueller, 30, has been a regular outfielder since 1950. He was first signed into the Giants' organization with a Jersey City contract in 1944. The Giants called him up in 1948.

Until two years ago, Mueller was one of the National League's leading hitters. He batted .333 in 1953 and the next year, when the Giants won the world championship, he hit .342—second only to teammate Willey Mays in the National League.

His lifetime major league average is .297.

Right handed pull hitters will love the Coliseum, new home of the Los Angeles Dodgers. The stands are only 250 feet away down the left field foul line.

Devlin Defeats Varner, Retains World's Crown

LONDON (AP)—Judy Devlin of Baltimore, Md., retained her position as the world's best woman badminton player Saturday with a straight-set victory over an old rival, Margaret Varner of El Paso, Tex., in the All-England finals. The score was 11-7, 12-10.

It was Miss Devlin's third triumph in the tournament which is regarded as the world's championship. It was her fourth meeting in the last round with Miss Verner, a physical education instructor.

Miss Devlin, a bouncy redhead of 22 whose father once was the world men's champion, won her first All - England title in 1954, beating England's Iris Cooley. She lost to Miss Varner in 1955 and 1956 but recaptured the crown last year.

GSC BASKETBALL

Cranford Voted 'Coach Of Year'

By TRUMAN STACEY
Lake Charles American Press
(Written for the Louisiana Sports Writers Association)

LAKE CHARLES, La. —Huey Cranford, youthful basketball coach at Northwestern State College, climaxed a real-life "rags-to-riches" story by being voted the Outstanding Coach of the 1957-58 cage season in the Gulf States conference.

Cranford was the choice of 10 of the balloters for the Outstanding Coaching Job. Ward had seven votes and Beryl Shipley, of SLI, wound up with three. Ward was the winner of the award last year.

Cranford put in five years of high school coaching prior to 1956. That year, he joined the Northwestern State staff as assistant coach, while studying for a master degree.

Then, when C. F. (Red) Thomas, head cage coach at Northwestern, took a sabbatical leave, Cranford was appointed interim coach for the 1957-58 season.

All he did was take the remnants of a team that had finished in a three-way tie for third place, and wind up in a tie for the 1957-58 championship with McNeese's Cowboys.

Northwestern lost only one GSC encounter during the season to those same Cowboys. Conversely, Northwestern was the only team in the GSC to trim the Cowboys.

Cranford's reign as a college coach may be a short one, despite his fine record, since Thomas is slated to return from his sabbatical leave next winter, and take over the reins at Northwestern once more.

Meanwhile, Cranford has been mentioned as a possible choice for head coach at both Centenary College and Loyola University, both of whom are minus coaches at the present time.

Cranford is a native of Converse, where he attended high school, participating in basketball, baseball and track.

He played his college basketball at Louisiana Tech, a fact that old-time Northwestern fans try to forget during their glee at the 1957-58 championship season.

Cranford saw two years of service in World War II, before he began his coaching career. His first coaching spot was Oak Grove in Sabine parish.

TAYLOR WINS AT GULFPORT

Joe Taylor of South Charleston, West Virginia, came from behind to win the twelfth annual $5,000 Gulf Coast Invitational Tournament at the Great Southern Country Club last Sunday with a 2-under-par 69 final round for a 279 total for the 72 holes and a two stroke victory over Buster Cupit of Fort Smith, Arkansas.

Cupit, formerly pro of the McGuire Park Club in West Monroe, fired a fine 66 to lead the tournament by two shots at the end of the first round and then slipped to a 1-over-par 72 the next day to tie for the lead with Dick Cline of Lanett, Ala., at the halfway mark.

Cline turned on the steam and fired his third straight 69 in the third round to take a three stroke lead at the end of 54 holes with a 207 total. Cupit, playing in the same threesome with Cline, faltered badly with four three-putt greens and fell six strokes behind Cline with a 75 for a 213 total. Joe Taylor, the eventual winner, was now tied for second with Jim Barfield of Grand Rapids, Mich., at 210. Leonard Warren of Bastrop got into the thick of the battle by moving into a tie with Pat Abbott of Memphis with a 211 total. Leonard had now had rounds of 69-71-71 equal 211. Thus, the stage was set for a thrilling final round.

After two bad rounds, Cupit came within a hair of making up for it and pulling a victory out of the fire. He parred the first eight holes and then birdied the par-4 ninth. He slipped by three putting from forty feet on the eleventh for a bogie 5. He then birdied the par-5 twelfth and the long par-4 thirteenth. He lipped the cup for a birdie on the 435-yard par-4 fourteenth. He then dropped another birdie putt on the long par-5 fifteenth. He just barely missed another birdie on the short par-3 sixteenth and then the seventeenth and the hole that could have well cost Buster a victory. The seventeenth is a short, tight par-4 hole with traps on the right and left to catch a tee shot that isn't well placed.

Buster hit his drive just about perfect and left it only about thirty yards short of the green. He pitched up to within 18 inches of the cup and missed the putt that would have put him four-under-par. Taylor was playing behind Cupit and this would have given Buster a definite advantage by putting all the pressure on Taylor as Cline was already reportedly playing badly.

Buster shot a fine three-under-par 68 but it wasn't quite enough as Taylor played superbly to fire a two-under-par 69 for a 279 total and a two shot victory.

LADIES GOLF ASSOCIATION

The Bayou DeSiard Country Club's Ladies Golf Association recently elected its 1958 officers for their weekly Wednesday Ladies Day Tournaments and other tournaments to be held at the Club during the year.

The newly elected members are: Mrs. Frank Davis, President; Mrs. Harold Woods, Sr., Vice-President; Mrs. Clarence Barton, Secretary; Mrs. Charles Garrettson, Treasurer; Mrs. Clyde Nash, Special Events Chairman; and Mrs. James C. Ussery, Publicity. Mrs. John Kelso, Sr. and Mrs. Carroll Summer were elected to the Handicap Committee, and the Luncheon Committee officers are Mrs. Curtiss Cook and Mrs. J. E. Wheeler.

MASTERS TOURNAMENT SOON

The Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga., is nearly ready to usher in this fine Spring with the finest players in the world scheduled to tee off on April 3-6.

Ken Venturi, hottest pro on the 1958 winter circuit, has left the tour for Augusta to prepare for the tournament. Young Ken is the leading money winner and has already won the Thunderbird, Phoenix, and Baton Rouge Opens while finishing second at New Orleans and Pensacola. This record and his previous play in the Masters has established Ken as the favorite along with the ever deadly and greatest player of them all . . . Ben Hogan. And you can bet your last golf ball that he will not only be there with bells on but he will be there to win.

NOT DEAD, HOWEVER

Los Angeles Fans In For Shock, Dodgers Not Great

By JOE REICHLER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger fans may be in for a shock. Their transplanted heroes do not look like a winning club. There is little resemblance between this assortment of faded veterans and inexperienced youngsters to the proud wrecking crews that dominated the National League four of the last six years.

The Dodgers aren't dead by any means, but they're not full of life either. They still have several top drawer stars such as Gil Hodges, Carl Furillo and Duke Snider. But the Duke may be hobbled by a knee that underwent surgery last December. Junior Gilliam has no idea where he'll play. And Pee Wee Reese, the old reliable, is expected to see little action. Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella, once called the backbone of the club, are now only memories.

The club has good pitching, but it won't hit. Manager Walter Alston, a realist, knows it. He cites the figures which show how the home run production dropped from 201 in 1955 to 179 in 1956 to 147 in '57 and the team batting average which dipped from .268 to .258 to .253.

"I realize we've got to change our style of attack this year," Alston said. "We can't rely on the home run any more. We just don't have the power we once had. We've got to rely more on speed, pitching and defense. We've got to play for one run; we've got to squeeze, hit and run, steal and things like that. If the pitching is as good as we think it is, we may not have to get many runs."

The Dodgers finished first in 1956, third in 1957 and may drop to fourth or fifth this year. The only thing that can save them is their pitching. But even there they have some "ifs." If Don Newcombe's arm is all right again, if Johnny Podres' back is sound again, if Clem Labine's elbow is healed, if Carl Erskine's shoulder miseries have disappeared.

"There's no doubt in my mind that the club's hitting has fallen off, both in power and average," Alston conceded. "On the other hand, the pitching should be improved. Big Newk should be better. Labine was useless the second half of the season, Erskine was of no value to us until his last three starts, Don Bessent had an off year, so did Roger Craig."

Alston listed seven starters. The big four are Don Drysdale (17-9), Danny McDevitt (7-4), Newcombe (11-12) and Podres (12-9). Then comes Sandy Koufax (5-4), Craig (6-9), and Erskine (5-3). Labine (5-7), Ed Roebuck (8-2), and Bessent (1-3) form a stout bullpen. Alston also likes Fred Kipp and Jackie Collum, a couple of lefthanders, among his newcomers.

"I don't care how pessimistic everybody is," said Alston. "I'm not going to concede the flag to anybody. I think we've got a chance to be better than last year but I admit there are a lot of ifs. I'll be frank. I don't see where any more power is coming from unless it comes from Dick Gray, who has looked good at third base.

"Hodges should hit as well as ever. I have to assume Furillo is all right. I'm worried about Snider's knee. If he can't make it in time, Gino Cimoli will be in center."

The infield situation, except for Hodges at first base, is unsettled. Alston would like Neal to switch from short to second but that depends on whether Don Zimmer or Bob Lillis, a good-field no-hit newcomer can fill the bill at short. If neither can do the job, Neal will stay at short and Gilliam at second. Gray appears to have the inside track over holdover Randy Jackson at third. Reese will become a handyman this year, filling in at second, third and short.

Alston's biggest headache is behind the plate. He has four catchers but all four don't make for half a Campanella. Rube Walker, the No. 1 man, is a good receiver but can't hit or run. John Roseboro can hit and run but he is a poor receiver.

EQUESTRIAN TEAM

US Horsemen Eye 1960 Olympic Title

By JACK LEFLER

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—With sights set on the 1960 Olympics, riders and horses are going through a grueling training grind near here for one of the toughest of all sports events.

In Southern California's lush Santa Ynez Valley, these young horsemen are taking a long headstart in an effort to restore the United States to its pre-World War II eminence in Olympic equestrian competition.

They are candidates for the U. S. equestrian squad, which will compete in the "three-day event," an exhaustive test for riders and mounts.

The three riders on hand and the others who will come later are gleaned from the top ranks of American equestrians who have proved themselves in competition.

The long and expensive training program is being underwritten by the U. S. Equestrian Team, Inc., a private organization devoted to developing a topnotch American team for the 1960 games in Rome. President is wealthy Whitney Stone of New York City.

Training center for the three-day event is the luxurious Rancho San Fernando Rey, 20 miles northeast of Santa Barbara. Candidates for the jumping squad are training at Tryon, N. C.

Running the show at Rancho San Fernando Rey is peppery Col. Milo Matteson, retired cavalry officer who was a member of the 1936 U. S. Olympic team. In those days, the U. S. equestrian team was made up of military personnel. Coach is Hans Moeller, former lieutenant colonel in the Austrian cavalry.

Col. Matteson explains the program:

"The U. S. E. T., Inc., invited a number of riders to come here to train from February to August for the tryouts for the Pan-American Games which will be held in Chicago in 1959.

"As a result of these tryouts, the U.S. Equestrian committee will choose six riders for further training here. These six will get another year of training and three or four will be chosen for the Pan-American competition.

"The Pan-American competition will determine the team to train for another year for the 1960 Olympics."

Training here now are Wilson Dennehy, 20, Lake Forest, Ill.; David Lurie, 18, St. Louis, Mo., and Tom Bunn, Jr., 20, Pebble Beach, Calif. Joining them as soon as school is over this spring will be Miss Patricia Galvin, Woodside, Calif.

Each of the young men discarded his original plans for college to come to Rancho San Fernando Rey.

Every afternoon is devoted to training. Each session begins with the "longe" in which Coach Moeller stands in the center of the riding ring holding a long line attached to the horse's bridle. The rider is without stirrups and his hands are free of the reins as the horse first walks, then trots and finally gallops around the ring. This exercise goes on for 30 minutes.

Then there is a session over the jumps, then cross-country riding across rolling green hills and through deep valleys.

It's long, hard work but the young riders, with two more years of it ahead if they survive the weeding-out competitions, say there is nothing they would rather be doing.

Seven Games In Eight Days Face Demons

NATCHITOCHES, La. (Special) — Northwestern State College's baseball Demons will open their 1958 home season here Monday when they play the Southern Illinois. Seven games in eight days face the Demons.

Tuesday and Wednesday tilts with the Illinois visitors are also scheduled, and N.S.C. will tangle with Southeastern Oklahoma in a three-game series beginning on Thursday.

Two weeks behind in their preseason practices, the Demons will have to "play their way into shape," according to Coach Alvin (Cracker) Brown. Heavy rains have forced cancellation of most outside drills.

These six consecutive games against out-of-state foes will begin a 10-game home stand for the Demons. N.S.C. opens conference play on March 31 with a host game against Northeast State College and meets Louisiana Tech in a double header here on April 2.

Southern Illinois, strengthened by eleven returning lettermen, already have three regular season games under their belt while the Demons have played in but one. Last year Northwestern won two of three games from the Salukis, defeating them 1-0 and 7-4 and losing 3-1.

Stroud Field, the Demon's home diamond, features a "new look" this year. Wooden dugouts have been constructed and batting racks provided. Bleachers for fans have also been erected to supplement the concrete seating already available.

Lincoln Downs Racing Ruined By Heavy Snow

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP) — The nine race program at Lincoln Downs was canceled Saturday because of conditions of the track which picked up nearly 10 inches of snow Friday.

It was the second consecutive day the plant was blacked out and the fourth in the current meeting.

Although roads and parking areas were in good shape, horsemen refused to bring their thoroughbreds on the track. Harrows which were in operation all night left deep ruts.

Max White, New England president of the Horse Breeders Protective Assn., conferred with the stewards and track superintendent and then telephoned Managing Director B. A. Dario. The decision was then made to call off the program.

Adverse weather also forced the cancellation of Friday and Saturday cards last week end.

The track announced that Friday's card will be raced on Monday.

ON WATER POLLUTION

Biglane To Address Wildlife Unit Here

The Quachita Wildlife Unit, which for the past several days has had its representatives on the road organizing other clubs, will conduct its own meeting here Tuesday night.

Kenneth E. Biglane, chief of water pollution control of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, is scheduled to be the principal speaker.

A major item on the program will be a discussion of a recent poll taken to determine whether regulations should be installed on Black Bayou.

The regulations would not permit fishing on the bayou before 1 p.m. during the duck season and would make duck hunting after 1 p.m. illegal.

Reports of the unit's recent efforts to organize additional clubs will be made. The Ouachita unit reactiviated the Caldwell Wildlife Unit, organized the West Carroll Sportsman's Club and launched a membership drive at Rayville.

The local unit will move into Bastrop Thursday night to organize a Morehouse parish club. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Morehouse courthouse.

According to unit president Bob Downing, Biglane will speak here Tuesday night on pollution. He urged all persons interested in the pollution problem of the Ouachita River to attend.

Highlighting the meeting, which will start at 7:30 p.m. in the ball room of the Virginia Hotel, will be the showing of a new film — "Wildlife in Review."

The film was made in Louisiana and depicts all phases of game and fish in the state. It took two years to produce it.

In addition, a report on the recent federation convention at Shreveport will be given.

Devlin Defeats Varner, Retains World's Crown

LONDON (AP)—Judy Devlin of Baltimore, Md., retained her position as the world's best woman badminton player Saturday with a straight-set victory over an old rival, Margaret Varner of El Paso, Tex., in the All-England finals. The score was 11-7, 12-10.

It was Miss Devlin's third triumph in the tournament which is regarded as the world's championship. It was her fourth meeting in the last round with Miss Verner, a physical education instructor.

Miss Devlin, a bouncy redhead of 22 whose father once was the world men's champion, won her first All - England title in 1954, beating England's Iris Cooley. She lost to Miss Varner in 1955 and 1956 but recaptured the crown last year.

College Aces Play Shrine Game Today

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP) — Two of the nation's top basketball coaches will try to pick up the pieces of shattered dreams here Sunday afternoon when the East All-Stars of Temple's Harry Litwack and the West All-Stars of Kansas State's Tex Winter meet in the 7th Annual Shrine game.

The charges of both Litwack and Winter fell by the wayside Friday night in first round play in the NCAA championship basketball tournament at Louisville, Ky.

But each will have a fresh chance Sunday with the top seniors on both sides of the Mississippi River gathered for the charity event which has found the West winning all but one of six previous games.

The East, with the game's only All-American in Guy Rodgers of Temple, will be a slight favorite to reverse this trend. Litwack probably will call upon Jay Norman, also of Temple; 6-10 Lloyd Sharrar, West Virginia; Archie Dees, the Big 10 scoring champion from Indiana, and Pete Brennan, North Carolina, to join Rodgers in the starting lineup.

Winter may lead with a pair of one-two punches in his own Jack Parr and Roy Dewitz and San Francisco's Mike Farmer and Gene Brown. Hub Reed, the 6-10 Oklahoma City ace, could be the fifth man.

Winter also can call on Fred Grim of Arkansas, Lyle Frahm of Iowa State, Stan Albert of Colorado State, Jack Mimlitz of St. Louis and Jerry Hales of Oklahoma State.

On the East bench is Connie Dierkins of Cincinnati, Don Ohl of Illinois, George Kline of Minnesota, Tommy Kearns of North Carolina and Vernon Hatton of Kentucky.

Hyaden Abbott of Kansas State has been picked as an alternate should one of the All - Stars be unable to play.

The game will be one of giants as the East boasts Sharrar at 6-10, Dierking at 6-9½, Dees at 6-8 and Brennan at 6-6. The West can counter with Reed at 6-10, Parr at 6-9 and Farmer at 6-7.

Giants Sell Don Mueller To Pale Sox

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The San Francisco Giants Saturday sold veteran lefthanded hitting outfielder Don Mueller to the Chicago White Sox in a cash deal.

Terms were not disclosed, but the Giants said the Chicago American League team paid more than the waiver price of $20,000. The sale price was believed to be $25,000.

Mueller, 30, has been a regular outfielder since 1950. He was first signed into the Giants' organization with a Jersey City contract in 1944. The Giants called him up in 1948.

Until two years ago, Mueller was one of the National League's leading hitters. He batted .333 in 1953 and the next year, when the Giants won the world championship, he hit .342—second only to teammate Willey Mays in the National League.

His lifetime major league average is .297.

Right handed pull hitters will love the Coliseum, new home of the Los Angeles Dodgers. The stands are only 250 feet away down the left field foul line.

GSC BASKETBALL

Cranford Voted 'Coach Of Year'

By TRUMAN STACEY
Lake Charles American Press
(Written for the Louisiana Sports Writers Association)

LAKE CHARLES, La. —Huey Cranford, youthful basketball coach at Northwestern State College, climaxed a real-life "rags-to-riches" story by being voted the Outstanding Coach of the 1957-58 cage season in the Gulf States conference.

Cranford was the choice of 10 of the balloters for the Outstanding Coaching Job. Ward had seven votes and Beryl Shipley, of SLI, wound up with three. Ward was the winner of the award last year.

Cranford put in five years of high school coaching prior to 1956. That year, he joined the Northwestern State staff as assistant coach, while studying for a master degree.

Then, when C. F. (Red) Thomas, head cage coach at Northwestern, took a sabbatical leave, Cranford was appointed interim coach for the 1957-58 season.

All he did was take the remnants of a team that had finished in a three-way tie for third place, and wind up in a tie for the 1957-58 championship with McNeese's Cowboys.

Northwestern lost only one GSC encounter during the season to those same Cowboys. Conversely, Northwestern was the only team in the GSC to trim the Cowboys.

Cranford's reign as a college coach may be a short one, despite his fine record, since Thomas is slated to return from his sabbatical leave next winter, and take over the reins at Northwestern once more.

Meanwhile, Cranford has been mentioned as a possible choice for head coach at both Centenary College and Loyola University, both of whom are minus coaches at the present time.

Cranford is a native of Converse, where he attended high school, participating in basketball, baseball and track.

He played his college basketball at Louisiana Tech, a fact that oldtime Northwestern fans try to forget during their glee at the 1957-58 championship season.

Cranford saw two years of service in World War II, before he began his coaching career. His first coaching spot was Oak Grove in Sabine parish.

After three years at Oak Grove, he stepped up to Florien, where his two teams won 112 games and lost only 17. One of his Florien products was guard Jim Leach, whom he brought to Northwestern when he joined the Demon coaching staff.

Cranford also doubles as Northwestern's tennis coach, and he coached baseball in high school.

Here is Cranford's complete record as a head basketball coach:

Butler To Talk At Demo Meeting In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will be the featured speaker March 30 at the organizational meeting here of the United Democrats of Louisiana.

Paul Tate of Mamou, temporary chairman of the group, said Saturday Butler will be introduced by Camille Gravel, Democratic National committeeman for Louisiana.

The meeting is slated for 3 p.m. in the Roosevelt Hotel. Butler is scheduled to speak at 3:30 p.m. All registered Democrats were invited to attend.

Tate said the United Democrats of Louisiana will be a non-factional organization.

"Its purpose is to provide a focal point of statewide organization for the national presidential campaigns and for congressional campaigns in which there is Republican opposition" he said.

The committee has adopted "United for Victory in '60" as a sloagn for the meeting.

Tate said he will present a report on plans of organization to the conference. Officers will be elected.

Rev. McGinn, 80 Plans Big Safari

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Rev. Oswald T. McGinn plans a long hunting safari in Africa next year. He'll be 80 at the time.

Father McGinn is retired pastor of Holy Name Roman Catholic Church in Saginaw, Mich. He celebrated the golden jubilee anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood two years ago.

During those 50 years, he also distinguished himself as an explorer of the arctic, a lecturer, debater, scholar and a marksman of such prowess that he has been called "the world's greatest gunman and big game hunter."

Father McGinn began wintering in San Antonio three years ago. His room here indicates his personality. It contains holy pictures and holy water, seven boxes of cigars and a painting of a big bull moose.

At 79, father McGinn can flip a gun upside down or fire between his legs and hit a tiny target 50 yards away. He can place three bullets in a half-inch target at 100 yards with all shots piercing the same hole.

He has been known to split a bullet on a razor blade, causing the split pieces to hit small targets on either side of the blade.

All this without changing the position of his ever-present cigar.

"Better to smoke here than in the hereafter," he chuckles through a cloud of smoke.

Robert F. Inger, a man who knows snakes, says they were never driven out of Ireland by St. Patrick or anyone else.

Inger, curator of amphibians and reptiles at the Chicago Natural History Museum, says it was probably the last ice age—some 60,000 ago —that drove the snakes from the Emerald Isle.

"Snakes don't like the cold," he explains.

While it was still so chilly that no snake would even consider Ireland as a home, the ocean rose and separated the island. That was about 5,000 years ago.

NOTICE

Starting next Sunday on the church page, we will carry the regular weekly programs of all churches in the Twin-Cities. We had hoped to start the new system today, but we did not receive all the programs in time.

Fifteen Churches Schedule Revivals

Fifteen Baptist Churches in Trenton Association will begin revivals today to initiate eight days of simultaneous revival effort.

Pastors, evangelists, music directors, musicians and members of the local churches who will be visiting and doing special jobs to promote the revivals will be engaged in the campaign according to Rev. E. E. Taylor, director. A breakfast meeting for the campaign personnel from the various churches will be held daily at 8:00 a. m. Tuesday through Saturday of this week in Walt's Restaurant to hear reports of the campaign progress and to hear leaders in the field of evangelism.

Most of the churches have set attendance goals for the final Sunday of the revival, March 30th. Evening services in all the churches will begin at 7:30 p. m. Some of the churches plan morning services at various times. Rev. O. P. Bazer publicity director, stated that the general public would be welcome to attend the services of any church.

Ellender Lauds Siberian People

LEXINGTON, Va. March 22—(UP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) says that the "people now developing Siberia are the same type as the people who pioneered America and made it great."

Ellender, who made trips to Russia and Siberia in 1955, 1956 and 1957, said Siberian "pioneers" are building power plants and facilities much larger than any in the United States.

JACK WHITE

White To Take Post As Leader Of Music Here

Jack White of Hope, Arkansas has been called as the new music director of the Edgewood Baptist Church according to an announcement by the pastor, Rev. O. P. Bazer.

White is an honor graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College with a degree in music. He has recently completed six months of duty with the air force where he was commissioned a lieutenant in the air force reserve. His wife has served as musician of the Edgewood Church for several years. She is the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Jesse Heard, West Monroe. It was stated that a fully graded choir program would be initiated in the church.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Why don't you give more talks on sex education? The growing problem of our nation needs light and information, and you would be in a position to give some informative messages on the subject. E. T. T.

ANSWER: Sexual irregularities are all basically moral problems. God ordained marriage from the beginning and sanctified it for its intended purpose, but He never approved the prostitution of such a sacred matter. Education has evidently failed to curb the passions of men, for the problem is basically a spiritual one and calls for the regeneration of the whole man. Men know all the evils of indulgence and yet they will indulge. Only when the law of a holy God is upheld and their conscience is awakened will they discover the answer. My responsibility is to present a message that is for the changing of men's lives. This alone will solve the problem concerning which you speak and which we all recognize.

There is nothing wrong with sex — it is God ordained. It is the wrong use of sex that is sin. I am convinced that a person who wins the sex battle has won one of the greatest battles of life. Only Christ can give this victory. He can control this God - given instinct — then sex becomes a servant instead of a master!

Allen To Head Ministers Group At Sterlington

Rev. W. M. Allen, minister of the Sterlington Methodist Church, was recently elected president of the newly organized Sterlington Ministerial Alliance. This group, made up of ministers of all churches of the Sterlington area, met for the first time in an organizational meeting March 3.

Rev. Arthur Nelson, minister of the First Baptist Church of Sterlington, was elected vice president, and Rev. Robert Shepperson, minister of the Fairbanks Presbyterian Church, was named secretary-treasurer.

The Alliance, which meets monthly, will formulate plans for co-operative projects in which the churches will work together. Plans are now being made for a union Easter Sunrise service for the members of all churches of the Sterlington area. The service will be held at 6:30 Easter Sunday morning.

Monroe To Host Noted Expert On Timber Taxation

One of the nation's foremost timber tax experts will be a featured speaker at the Southern Forestry conference of the Forest Farmers Association which opens here Thursday.

Charles W. Briggs of St. Paul, Minn., chairman of the Forest Industries committee on timber valuation and taxation, will speak on taxation and the timber owner. Briggs is also a member of the American Bar Association tax committee.

Lloyd E. Partain, manager of trade and industrial relations for Curtis Publishing Company, will talk on forest farming and the nation's business.

During the two day meeting, guests will have an option of touring the timber industry at Crossett, Ark., or Tallulah, La.

Churches Step Up Clothing Relief

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — With clothing needs of millions of distressed persons abroad — refugees, victims of disaster and chronic poverty — at "a level of urgency unprecedented in the last decade," major Protestant denominations are appealing to the people of their churches for vastly stepped-up contributions of good, used and new garments, blankets, shoes, bedding, etc.

Overall goal of the appeal is 50,000,000 lbs. during the next four years, with an immediate objective of 10,000,000 lbs. before the close of 1958.

To implement the appeal, a "crash" campaign to be carried on through every available organization of American Protestantism will be launched immediately.

The appeal, instituted in a "Call to the Churches" made at the request of national overseas relief leaders by the Board of Managers of Church World Service, in annual meeting at Atlantic City, followed emergency clothing requests from overseas distress areas.

In making the "Call to the Churches," Harper Sibley, CWS chairman, declared:

"The clothing needs among overseas destitute and under-privileged is at a level of urgency unprecedented in the last decade. It is hard to realize this in prosperous America, but it is true.

"Of 30,000,000 known refugees, disaster victims and the chronically poverty-stricken in areas where sub-marginal economic conditions prevail, few have clothing anywhere near as adequate as the poorest of our people.

"These conditions among persons who are our brothers under God constitute a peremptory responsibility to the Christian conscience.

"Our clothing gifts to them not only mean physical warmth and protection from the elements. They also contribute the self-respect and dignity vital in achieving a better life and in building a better world."

The new drive for clothing contributions will increase Church World Service clothing shipments threefold. Last year the agency—a department of the National Council of Churches — shipped 4,250,000 pounds.

Spelling out critical global needs, an annual report before the CWS Board of Managers cited Hong Kong with more than 1,000,000 penniless escapees from Chinese communism, nearly 1,000,000 Arab refugees in Middle East camps, and an annual flow of 264,000 European escapees from communism into West Germany. The Algerian war has created a new refugee group estimated at more than 100,000, and Austria is still burdened with a heavy refugee load, as is Korea, said the report.

Based on past averages, the report also anticipated at least a score of major emergencies in the current year, including disastrous floods, flash fires in crowded refugee centers, earthquakes, tidal waves and the like — all taking their toll in lives and property and leaving millions with little source of aid except that from the American churches.

TAKING SHAPE—The Atomium (left background), a reproduction of a steel atom magnified 150 billion times, sets the keynote for the architectural fantasies which dot the Brussels fairgrounds. In the foreground is an arm of the Belgium civil engineering pavilion. The arm will support a platform from which visitors will view a map of Belgium's engineering achievements.

IN BRUSSELS

35 Million Visitors Are Expeced For Fair April 17

By EDDY GILMORE

BRUSSELS (AP) — From a sea of mud here an exciting dream of the future and a stirring record of the past is steadily taking shape as the World Fair of 1958.

Despite rains, cold and snow, the Belgian backers of this extravaganza of the atomic age say its going to be opened as advertised on April 17 by King Baudouin.

It will continue until Oct. 19 and is expected to attract an estimated 35 million visitors.

Fifty countries, eight inter-national organizations and various institutions of the five continents have united to exhibit the material and cultural accomplishments of 2,000 years of civilization.

But, dwarfing all else for Americans is a side show — major bids by the United States and Communist Russia to dramatically display to the world the fruits of their conflicting ways of life.

While the giants of East and West gird for this competition, the battle by all nations taking part in this first world fair since the great exhibition in New York in 1939 is against the twin enemies of time and mud.

Mud is everywhere, but it will soon be displaced by winding concrete roads lined by emerald colored grass, flowers, shrubs and a network of leafy lanes.

"If you tried to see this entire fair by foot — I mean thoroughly," said pretty Belgian hostess Ruth Gruft, "you'd spend a week at it."

By night the Atomium appears to spin, a startling illusion brought about by a tricky installation of millions of winking lights.

In the lofty top ball, 334 feet above the ground, there is an air conditioned restaurant with a wonderful view of the Belgian capital and the entire exhibition.

Bisecting the foreign section, high above the ground, is an aerial bridge smack out of fairyland, adorned by a quarter mile of futuristic stars, banks of flowers and wide walks.

From it the foreign pavilions make a display as colorful as an explosion in a paint factory.

But, the Brussels World Fair is far more than beautiful buildings and challenging architectural idea It is:

More than 250 acres of flowers . . . 2,000 plants from all over the world . . . a prediction of the sort of places we'll live in 20 years from today . . . a great collection of painting, sculpture and native art from the ends of the world . . . a presentation of theater and cinema art . . . some of the greatest names and ideas in world - wide entertainment . . . stimulating ideas in graceful living . . . an emphasis on the human factor in universal progress . . .

Russia will show priceless paintings from the Hermitage Museums never before brought into the Western World and stage the classics of Chekhov and Tolstoy by the Moscow Art Theatre.

The United States will present the Philadelphia Orchestra with Eugene Ormandy and Isaac Stern as soloist and show "The Glass Menagerie," "Our Town," and "Carousel."

The intriguing Kabuki Theater and its dancers are coming from Japan and the Comedie Francaise from Paris.

There'll be a World Film Festival, youth orchestras from many lands and an American jazzman named Benny Goodman whose hot clarinet and fluid tone soars through all language barriers.

All this and hundreds of other features will make up the Brussels World Fair of 1958, which could easily become one of the greatest cultural events of the early Atomic Age.

Hoyt D. Greer New Pastor At Fair Park Church

Coming to serve as pastor of Fair Park Baptist Church on White's Ferry Road in West Monroe is the Rev. Hoyt D. Greer, formerly of Denver.

His first Sunday in the pulpit will mark the 10th anniversary of Fair Park Church, it was announced.

Before his service with the Colorado church, Rev. Greer was pastor of Cook Baptist Church in Ruston.

He is married to the former Norma Etheredge of Pleasant Hill, La., and they have three children.

Churches Ask Honesty On Tax Returns

By TOM HENSHAW

NEW YORK (AP)—The best advice anyone can give about filing an income tax return is: declare all your income, take all your deductions—and don't cheat on either.

With the deadline for filing less than a month away, the religious periodicals have spent considerable time lately stressing that very point among both the clergy and laity.

Perhaps it's hard to think of your minister wrestling with his conscience over anything so mundane as an income tax form. Yet he certainly does, even as you and I.

One of Alter's chief concerns is that the ministerial taxpayer won't view the deduction column on the form with the critical attention that is its due.

The taxpayer, he reminds, "is not bound to choose that pattern which will produce the maximum revenue for the Treasury; there is not even a patriotic duty to increase one's taxes."

Kenneth F. Cook, writing in a National Council of Churches publication says: "The federal tax law provides numerous ways in which a minister can hold his income tax down, yet there are those men who vaguely feel there is something wrong in doing so.

"This makes as much sense as refusing change in a department store for fear someone will think you are stealing a pair of trousers."

The Roman Catholic national weekly newspaper Our Sunday Visitor takes up the question: Is it a sin to cheat on your income tax?

The answer, set forth by a columnist, Msgr. J. D. Conway: yes.

"You commit a sin by making a false return," says Msgr. Conway. "A serious sin if the falsity is really large. But you are not bound to restitution later, when you repent.

"The matter is closed unless there is still opportunity under the law for routine amendment of declaration, or until the collector of internal revenue catches up with you."

Butler To Talk At Demo Meeting In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will be the featured speaker March 30 at the organizational meeting here of the United Democrats of Louisiana.

Paul Tate of Mamou, temporary chairman of the group, said Saturday Butler will be introduced by Camille Gravel, Democratic National committeeman for Louisiana.

The meeting is slated for 3 p.m. in the Roosevelt Hotel. Butler is scheduled to speak at 3:30 p.m. All registered Democrats were invited to attend.

Tate said the United Democrats of Louisiana will be a non-factional organization.

"Its purpose is to provide a focal point of statewide organization for the national presidential campaigns and for congressional campaigns in which there is Republican opposition" he said.

The committee has adopted "United for Victory in '60" as a sloagn for the meeting.

Tate said he will present a report on plans of organization to the conference. Officers will be elected.

Rev. McGinn, 80 Plans Big Safari

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The Rev. Oswald T. McGinn plans a long hunting safari in Africa next year. He'll be 80 at the time.

Father McGinn is retired pastor of Holy Name Roman Catholic Church in Saginaw, Mich. He celebrated the golden jubilee anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood two years ago.

During those 50 years, he also distinguished himself as an explorer of the arctic, a lecturer, debater, scholar and a marksman of such prowess that he has been called "the world's greatest gunman and big game hunter."

Father McGinn began wintering in San Antonio three years ago. His room here indicates his personality. It contains holy pictures and holy water, seven boxes of cigars and a painting of a big bull moose.

At 79, father McGinn can flip a gun upside down or fire between his legs and hit a tiny target 50 yards away. He can place three bullets in a half-inch target at 100 yards with all shots piercing the same hole.

He has been known to split a bullet on a razor blade, causing the split pieces to hit small targets on either side of the blade.

All this without changing the position of his ever-present cigar.

"Better to smoke here than in the hereafter," he chuckes through a cloud of smoke.

Robert F. Inger, a man who knows snakes, says they were never driven out of Ireland by St. Patrick or anyone else.

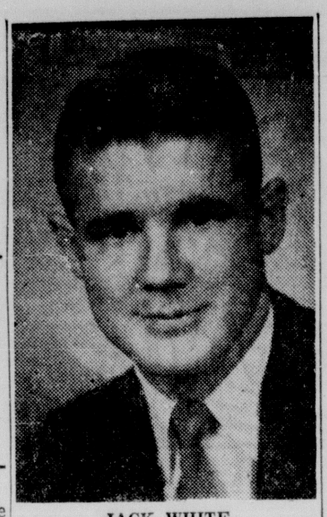

Inger, curator of amphibians and reptiles at the Chicago Natural History Museum, says it was probably the last ice age—some 60,000 ago —that drove the snakes from the Emerald Isle.

"Snakes don't like the cold," he explains.

While it was still so chilly that no snake would even consider Ireland as a home, the ocean rose and separated the island. That was about 5,000 years ago.

NOTICE

Starting next Sunday on the church page, we will carry the regular weekly programs of all churches in the Twin-Cities. We had hoped to start the new system today, but we did not receive all the programs in time.

Ellender Lauds Siberian People

LEXINGTON, Va. March 22—(UP) — Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) says that the "people now developing Siberia are the same type as the people who pioneered America and made it great."

Ellender, who made trips to Russia and Siberia in 1955, 1956 and 1957, said Siberian "pioneers" are building power plants and facilities much larger than any in the United States.

Churches Step Up Clothing Relief

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — With clothing needs of millions of distressed persons abroad — refugees, victims of disaster and chronic poverty — at "a level of urgency unprecedented in the last decade," major Protestant denominations are appealing to the people of their churches for vastly stepped-up contributions of good, used and new garments, blankets, shoes, bedding, etc.

Overall goal of the appeal is 50,000,000 lbs. during the next four years, with an immediate objective of 10,000,000 lbs. before the close of 1958.

To implement the appeal, a "crash" campaign to be carried on through every available organization of American Protestantism will be launched immediately.

The appeal, instituted in a "Call to the Churches" made at the request of national overseas relief leaders by the Board of Managers of Church World Service, in annual meeting at Atlantic City, followed emergency clothing requests from overseas distress areas.

In making the "Call to the Churches," Harper Sibley, CWS chairman, declared:

"The clothing needs among overseas destitute and under-privileged is at a level of urgency unprecedented in the last decade. It is hard to realize this in prosperous America, but it is true.

"Of 30,000,000 known refugees, disaster victims and the chronically poverty-stricken in areas where sub-marginal economic conditions prevail, few have clothing anywhere near as adequate as the poorest of our people.

"These conditions among persons who are our brothers under God constitute a peremptory responsibility to the Christian conscience.

"Our clothing gifts to them not only mean physical warmth and protection from the elements. They also contribute the self-respect and dignity vital in achieving a better life and in building a better world."

The new drive for clothing contributions will increase Church World Service clothing shipments threefold. Last year the agency—a department of the National Council of Churches — shipped 4,250,000 pounds.

Spelling out critical global needs, an annual report before the CWS Board of Managers cited Hong Kong with more than 1,000,000 penniless escapees from Chinese communism, nearly 1,000,000 Arab refugees in Middle East camps, and an annual flow of 264,000 European escapees from communism into West Germany. The Algerian war has created a new refugee group estimated at more than 100,000, and Austria is still burdened with a heavy refugee load, as is Korea, said the report.

Based on past averages, the report also anticipated at least a score of major emergencies in the current year, including disastrous floods, flash fires in crowded refugee centers, earthquakes, tidal waves and the like — all taking their toll in lives and property and leaving millions with little source of aid except that from the American churches.

News Reporter Dies Following Brain Surgery

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harrison P. Hagemeyer Jr., 32, general assignment reporter for the Washington Post and Times Herald, died Saturday following brain surgery.

For several years, Hagermeyer covered suburban Maryland News, concentrating on Prince George County. His last assignment was the closing days of the Maryland Legislature.

He was a native of Meridian, Miss.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Patience Hagemeyer; a son, Richard and a daughter, Susan; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison P. Hagemeyer Sr. of Silver Hill, Md.; a brother, James, and a sister, Miss Margery Hagemeyer, of Southlawn, Md.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Why don't you give more talks on sex education? The growing problem of our nation needs light and information, and you would be in a position to give some informative messages on the subject. E. T. T.

ANSWER: Sexual irregularities are all basically moral problems. God ordained marriage from the beginning and sanctified it for its intended purpose, but He never approved the prostitution of such a sacred matter. Education has evidently failed to curb the passions of men, for the problem is basically a spiritual one and calls for the regeneration of the whole man. Men know all the evils of indulgence and yet they will indulge. Only when the law of a holy God is upheld and their conscience is awakened will they discover the answer. My responsibility is to present a message that is for the changing of men's lives. This alone will solve the problem concerning which you speak and which we all recognize.

There is nothing wrong with sex — it is God ordained. It is the wrong use of sex that is sin. I am convinced that a person who wins the sex battle has won one of the greatest battles of life. Only Christ can give this victory. He can control this God - given instinct — then sex becomes a servant instead of a master!

Allen To Head Ministers Group At Sterlington

Rev. W. M. Allen, minister of the Sterlington Methodist Church, was recently elected president of the newly organized Sterlington Ministerial Alliance. This group, made up of ministers of all churches of the Sterlington area, met for the first time in an organizational meeting March 3.

Rev. Arthur Nelson, minister of the First Baptist Church of Sterlington, was elected vice president, and Rev. Robert Shepperson, minister of the Fairbanks Presbyterian Church, was named secretary-treasurer.

The Alliance, which meets monthly, will formulate plans for co-operative projects in which the churches will work together. Plans are now being made for a union Easter Sunrise service for the members of all churches of the Sterlington area. The service will be held at 6:30 Easter Sunday morning.

Monroe To Host Noted Expert On Timber Taxation

One of the nation's foremost timber tax experts will be a featured speaker at the Southern Forestry conference of the Forest Farmers Association which opens here Thursday.

Charles W. Briggs of St. Paul, Minn., chairman of the Forest Industries committee on timber valuation and taxation, will speak on taxation and the timber owner. Briggs is also a member of the American Bar Association tax committee.

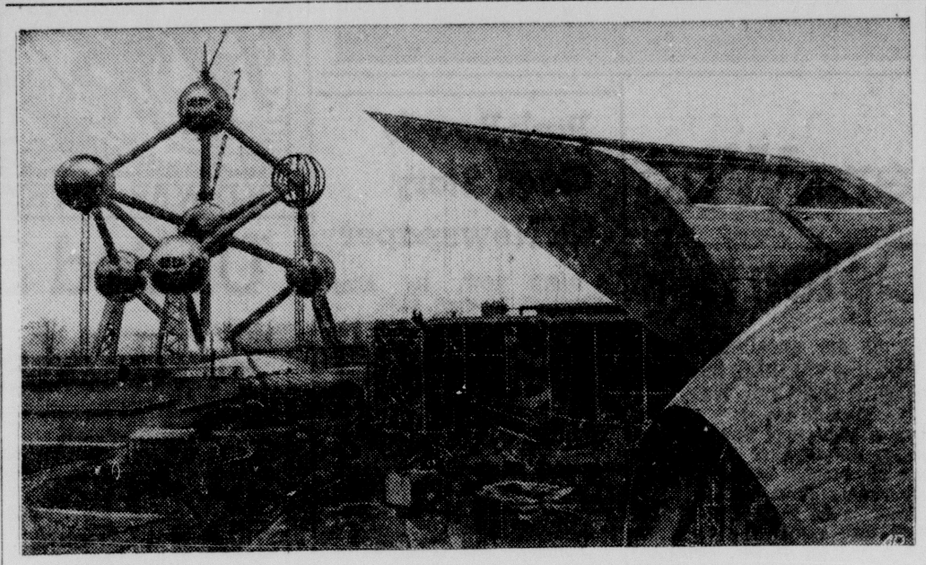

Lloyd E. Partain, manager of trade and industrial relations for Curtis Publishing Company, will talk on forest farming and the nation's business.

During the two day meeting, guests will have an option of touring the timber industry at Crossett, Ark., or Tallulah, La.

LEXINGTON, Mass. — (UP) — There'll be a triple birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McElman next Feb. 7. Stephan will observe his 12th, Donald Jr. his 10th, and Nancy her 1st. Before that, on April 10, Mr. and Mrs. McElman will celebrate their birthdays together.

TAKING SHAPE—The Atomium (left background), a reproduction of a steel atom magnified 150 billion times, sets the keynote for the architectural fantasies which dot the Brussels fairgrounds. In the foreground is an arm of the Belgium civil engineering pavilion. The arm will support a platform from which visitors will view a map of Belgium's engineering achievements.

IN BRUSSELS

35 Million Visitors Are Expeced For Fair April 17

By EDDY GILMORE

BRUSSELS (AP) — From a sea of mud here an exciting dream of the future and a stirring record of the past is steadily taking shape as the World Fair of 1958.

Despite rains, cold and snow, the Belgian backers of this extravaganza of the atomic age say its going to be opened as advertised on April 17 by King Baudouin.

It will continue until Oct. 19 and is expected to attract an estimated 35 million visitors.

Fifty countries, eight inter-national organizations and various institutions of the five continents have united to exhibit the material and cultural accomplishments of 2,000 years of civilization.

But, dwarfing all else for Americans is a side show — major bids by the United States and Communist Russia to dramatically display to the world the fruits of their conflicting ways of life.

While the giants of East and West gird for this competition, the battle by all nations taking part in this first world fair since the great exhibition in New York in 1939 is against the twin enemies of time and mud.

Mud is everywhere, but it will soon be displaced by winding concrete roads lined by emerald colored grass, flowers, shrubs and a network of leafy lanes.

"If you tried to see this entire fair by foot — I mean thoroughly," said pretty Belgian hostess Ruth Gruft, "you'd spend a week at it."

By night the Atomium appears to spin, a startling illusion brought about by a tricky installation of millions of winking lights.

In the lofty top ball, 334 feet above the ground, there is an air conditioned restaurant with a wonderful view of the Belgian capital and the entire exhibition.

Bisecting the foreign section, high above the ground, is an aerial bridge smack out of fairyland, adorned by a quarter mile of futuristic stars, banks of flowers and wide walks.

From it the foreign pavilions make a display as colorful as an explosion in a paint factory.

But, the Brussels World Fair is far more than beautiful buildings and challenging architectural idea It is:

More than 250 acres of flowers . . . 2,000 plants from all over the world . . . a prediction of the sort of places we'll live in 20 years from today . . . a great collection of painting, sculpture and native art from the ends of the world . . . a presentation of theater and cinema art . . . some of the greatest names and ideas in world - wide entertainment . . . stimulating ideas in graceful living . . . an emphasis on the human factor in universal progress . . .

Russia will show priceless paintings from the Hermitage Museums never before brought into the Western World and stage the classics of Chekhov and Tolstoy by the Moscow Art Theatre.

The United States will present the Philadelphia Orchestra with Eugene Ormandy and Isaac Stern as soloist and show "The Glass Menagerie," "Our Town," and "Carousel."

The intriguing Kabuki Theater and its dancers are coming from Japan and the Comedie Francaise from Paris.

There'll be a World Film Festival, youth orchestras from many lands and an American jazzman named Benny Goodman whose hot clarinet and fluid tone sears through all language barriers.

All this and hundreds of other features will make up the Brussels World Fair of 1958, which could easily become one of the greatest cultural events of the early Atomic Age.

Hoyt D. Greer New Pastor At Fair Park Church

Coming to serve as pastor of Fair Park Baptist Church on White's Ferry Road in West Monroe is the Rev. Hoyt D. Greer, formerly of Denver.

His first Sunday in the pulpit will mark the 10th anniversary of Fair Park Church, it was announced.

Before his service with the Colorado church, Rev. Greer was pastor of Cook Baptist Church in Ruston.

He is married to the former Norma Etheredge of Pleasant Hill, La., and they have three children.

Churches Ask Honesty On Tax Returns

By TOM HENSHAW

NEW YORK (AP)—The best advice anyone can give about filing an income tax return is: declare all your income, take all your deductions—and don't cheat on either.

With the deadline for filing less than a month away, the religious periodicals have spent considerable time lately stressing that very point among both the clergy and laity.

Perhaps it's hard to think of your minister wrestling with his conscience over anything so mundane as an income tax form. Yet he certainly does, even as you and I.

One of Alter's chief concerns is that the ministerial taxpayer won't view the deduction column on the form with the critical attention that is its due.

The taxpayer, he reminds, "is not bound to choose that pattern which will produce the maximum revenue for the Treasury; there is not even a patriotic duty to increase one's taxes."

Kenneth F. Cook, writing in a National Council of Churches publication says: "The federal tax law provides numerous ways in which a minister can hold his income tax down, yet there are those men who vaguely feel there is something wrong in doing so.

"This makes as much sense as refusing change in a department store for fear someone will think you are stealing a pair of trousers."

The Roman Catholic national weekly newspaper Our Sunday Visitor takes up the question: Is it a sin to cheat on your income tax?

The answer, set forth by a columnist, Msgr. J. D. Conway: yes.

"You commit a sin by making a false return," says Msgr. Conway. "A serious sin if the falsity is really large. But you are not bound to restitution later, when you repent.

"The matter is closed unless there is still opportunity under the law for routine amendment of declaration, or until the collector of internal revenue catches up with you."

HOUSE IN RUINS

Southerners Who Ignored Defeat

(Random House, $3.50). This is an excellent story, particularly for those readers who like anything associated with the Civil War.

This book is the story of some men of Mississippi who could not accept defeat after Appomattox and thus brought tragedy upon all but one of their band.

Back to the little town of Cold Fork they came: Crawford, the eldest and the leader, consumed with a desire for revenge; Lyle, Crawford's nephew, unsure of the rightness of his uncle's plan but unable to go against him; and Howie, a neighbor boy, who went along as unthinkingly and as quickly as he acted when he drew the fastest gun in the area. Waiting for them was Crawford's wife Leah, with Abner, the little Negro boy who had escaped from the big house nearby. Alone in the mansion was Mrs. Tinley, who had lost more than her worldly possessions when her home was sacked.

In Cold Fork, Crawford made allies of several of the townspeople. And together with Lyle and Howie, he began his campaign of theft and sabotage to harass the Union troops in the area.

Dramatic in the natural suspense of its narrative, The House in Ruins is far more than an adventure story. Told with an inordinate attention to style and with an authority which could come only from a writer whose background is rooted in the scene of the story, this novel has distinction in a literary sense, and in its provocative picture of men in crisis.

Rivers, Man And Myths Is Excellent

RIVERS, MAN and MYTHS By Robert Brittain (Doubleday, $4.50). From Fish Spears to Water Mills.

Destroying continents, creating new ones, leaving in their paths lands of marvelous fertility of frightening desolation, rivers have always been, of all natural forces, the one most intimately connected with man and his development. Rivers guided explorers and traders into unknown lands, created the boundaries of ancient realms and modern nations.

The story of rivers is the story of the men who forged vast empires from wastelands, drained the marshy banks of the Nile, used the waters of the Indus, the Tigris, the Euphrates to irrigate deserts and build their cities — Memphis, Babylon, Nineveh.

This wonderfully readable book tells of Xerxes, the Persian conqueror, "lashing" the Hellespont; Darius dreaming of a canal linking the Mediterranean with the Red Sea; Indian pilgrims sacrificing themselves to the holy Ganges; Augustus and Hadrian building the great aqueducts of the Rhone and Tiber.

RIVERS, MAN and MYTHS is a fascinating human story—a story of individuals in their infinite variety coming again and again to the rivers of the earth to live, to work, to fight, and to worship. Tracing the relationships between man and rivers from prehistoric times to the Middle Ages, this book produces some surprising new evaluations of man and his endeavors.

Park Row Is Good Story Of Newspaper

PARK ROW. By Allen Churchill. Rinehart. $3.95.

From 1833, when Joseph Pulitzer entered Park Row and the New York newspaper world — indeed the world itself — on through the first decades of this century, and the "end of the World," according to a chapter head, this tells stories of some spectacular figures in and around newspaper offices.

Pulitzer hypersensitive to noise and going blind, Hearst turning pages with the flip of his foot, Bennett drinking himself into a fury — these men certainly assisted in founding the modern press, and with the help of name writers like Richard Harding Davis, Irvin Cobb and Stephan Crane, among others, made their lurid most of the Slocum disaster, the shooting of Stanford White, the murder of a couple of their own colleagues, such as David Graham Phillips.

This is no history of the press, however, or of yellow journalism, but rather of a few yellow - journalists; and the open - sesame to these pages was not necessarily to own or run a paper but to shoot your wife, whip up a war, live on a palatial yacht, or act like an idiot — not, you understand, that that doesn't make very spicy reading.

Come Dance With Me Book On Ballet

COME DANCE WITH ME. By Ninette de Valois. World. $6.

Occasionally there comes a book which it seems presumptuous to review. The reason is that it contains such a rich suffusion of the author's own person. It summons us consequently not to pass judgment on a 250-page autobiographical stint — the like of which we reviewers cockily tackle every morning and think nothing of it — but on a talented and endowed being, on a flesh and blood being, a voice and a presence above the literary lists.

So does Dame Ninette, director of Sadler's Wells Ballet for all its quarter century, founder of Sadler's Wells School of Ballet — now both dubbed "royal" — and more responsible than anybody for England's own native supreme dance art today.

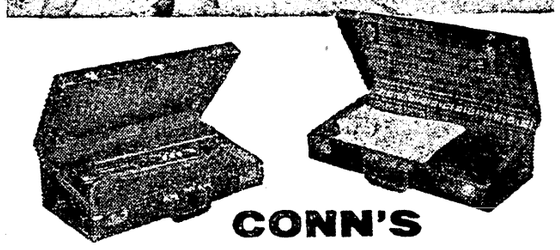

Her career began with an Irish jig taught a mere child by the herdsman's wife — the family originally was wealthy, in Baltiboys, County Wickshire, with only one bathroom for the entire estate, to be sure, but an army of footmen, governesses, gardeners, nurses, cooks. It continued in London in a dated Victorian setting where for the final tableau the dancer posed in a golden chariot or stretched out on a cloud or seashell. It became professional; she toured at 14; was premiere danseuse of the Royal Opera House at 21; soon danced with Diaghilev in Paris; and she notes in the final reckoning the tremendous significance of the continuing dance exchange with Russia and Russians.

There are entertaining stories of Lilian Baylis of the Old Vic and her dogs, and of little Alexandra, a pupil of who Dame Ninette demanded snippily, "Alexandra what?" and was told in a frightened voice, "Alexandra of Greece;" there is the drama of being caught in Holland when Germany invaded; there is the touching warmth of the dance community in beleaguered Islington. But this rises above anecdote, and even ballet. While it is an essential record of a 20th-Century cultural triumph, it also tells glowingly of the creative career in general, and of the creator.

COLD WAR AT THE FAIR

United States And Russia Will Match Their Cultures

By EDDY GILMORE

BRUSSELS (AP) — A close-range, cultural cold war between the United States and Russia will begin April 17. And the United States is in danger of losing.

The defeat — if it occurs — will be at the Brussels World's Fair before 35 million people who are expected to throng the exhibition before it closes Oct. 19.

The United States has plenty of cultural evidence to exhibit and knows how to show it. But the trouble is money — money to mount the American effort and keep it going in style.

The United States has a cramped budget for the fair. The Russians are spending lavishly. They also enjoy another advantage.

The U. S. S. R. has only to order its state-paid artists to perform at Brussels and they perform. No questions asked and no union troubles.

Russians Quiet

The Russians are keeping their program plans quiet. Requests for details have been met with, "Call again, we don't know yet."

It is known they plan to present performances by the famous Bolet, the national Folk Dance Ensembles, the Ukrainian National Choir, the Academic Russian Choir, the Moscow Circus and the Moscow and Leningrad philharmonic orchestras.

The Russian theatrical offering will be so titanic it will spill over into a half-dozen Brussels theaters.

"We plan to swamp the city with our artists," said one Soviet spokesman.

Dollar-shy American officials are asking the country's top singers, musicians, and other performers to give their services free. They've turned to the movie industry and show business for other help.

There has been a cheering response.

Opera Premiere

The United States cultural program will include two art shows, movies, opera, theater, ballet, and performances by individual artists and orchestral groups.

High on the list of American contributions to the fair will be the world premiere of Gian Carlo Menotti's opera "Maria Golovin." Opening date for this work commissioned by the National Broadcasting Company for the NBC Opera Company will be Aug. 20.

Menotti will stage the work. Peter Herman Adler will conduct and Samuel Chotzinoff will be producer.

In the motion picture division, the United States will offer the European premiere of "South Pacific." Also planned are such outstanding films of the past as "Tol'able David," "Intolerance," "Meet Me in St. Louis," "It Happened One Night," and "Horsefeathers."

On the stage will be: "Carousel," "Porgy and Bess," "The Glass Menagerie," "Our Town," the American Ballet Theater, and the Agnes de Mille Ballet.

Cheering Response

"We made a great effort and when the situation became publicly apparent, many people rallied to our support," said Mrs. Katherine G. Howard, a fair official. "Thanks to the private help we have a program we can now be proud of.

"American industry and private sources are being magnificent."

Benny Goodman will open May 25 for a week of concerts. Violinist Yehudi Menuhin is scheduled June 1. Violinist Isaac Stern will play with the Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting, July 2-4.

Other artists will include: George London of the Metropolitan Opera; clavicordist Ralph Kirkpatrick; soprano Eleanor Steber; baritone Robert McFerrin; baritone William Wakefield; pianist Rosalind Turek; soprano Blanche Thebom; pianist Leon Fleisher; violinist Berl Senesfky; and pianist John Browning.

The list of contributors to the American Folk Art section is massive. Paintings will include such pictures as: De Kooning's "Gotham News" (valued at $5,000), Marin's "The Old Salt" ($2,750), Hopper's "New York Movie" ($8,000), Shahn's "Avenue" ($10,000), Tobey's "Voyage en Blanc" ($6,000) and Roszak's "Firebird" ($25,000).

Mondrian's "Victory Boogie-Woogie" ($100,000), Picasso's "La Peche a Antibes" ($150,000), Cezanne's "La Montagne Sainte Victoire" ($100,000) and many more.

The Martha Baird Rockefeller Fund has contributed $60,000 towards transporting the Juilliard Orchestra to Brussels.

The Ford Motor Co. has given $200,000 towards the super modern movie theater that will show spectacular scenes of the United States.

The Radio Corp. of America has handed over more than $51,000 in television equipment for a live closed - circuit color television show.

But the Russians have countered by offering free TV rights for relaying all the performances of their artists over Europe's huge television network.

Good Buys For Hi-Fi Artists

By L. J. Kramp

A new set of Beethoven symphonies and good buys in single records, coupling the most popular Haydn symphonies and Stravinsky ballets, are the latest temptations for hi-fi sound fanciers.

The Beethoven issues are four by Sir Adrian Boult and the London Philharmonic Promenade Orchestra (Vanguard) in handsomely packaged and annotated sets. Both sound and performance are excellent. The symphonies are the Third, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh, each with a Beethoven overture on the reverse side.

Haydn's popular "Military" and "Clock" symphonies are back-to-back on a new release by the London Symphony Orchestra, under Antal Dorati (Mercury.) The "Military" is an outstanding rendition, with sound contrasts making it a rival of the Scherchen (Westminster) disc which continues a best seller.

The famous "Petrouchka" and "Firebird" ballet suites by Stravinsky are available in a new boxed disc by Leopold Stokowski and the Berlin Philharmonic (Capitol). Stokowski's interpretation is tasteful and the technical quality is first rate.

Although these are standard selections found in most classical record collections, however small, the sound transcription improvements in these new issues, compared with some of the early LP's of recent years, make them particularly desirable. One reason, of course, is that the old disc may be worn or dirty. Another is that a new interpretation usually is more entertaining.

Followers of Arturo Toscanini have a new release of a 1948 performance by his NBC Symphony of Brahms' Concerto in A Minor for Violin and Cello (RCA Victor). Here the solo performances are powerful but the orchestra reproduction is only fair, although much better than the original disc. More of these re - issues of original Toscanini best - sellers are expected.

Cellist Gregor Piatigorsky performs a premiere record of Walton's Cello Concerto, with the Boston Symphony (RCA Victor.) Ernest Bloch's Schelomo Rhapsody is on the other side. Like organ records, the instrument involved is the chief attraction to the hi-fi fan.

A topflight organ record for big or small amplified exercising is a new one by Marcel Dupre, in St. Thomas Church, New York, featuring three Franck Chorales (Mercury.) Dupre is a famous French organist.

The more popular "Hall of the Mountain King" and other selections from Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite" are offered in a well - contrasted new edition by Sir John Barbirolli and the Halle Orchestra (Mercury). The record's dynamic range and the plush scoring of strings make this one especially attractive from a sound standpoint.

Low cost re - issues of unavailable 78 rpm versions continue coming from the vaults of two or three major companies. Among new ones well worth the cost, usually half the regular price, are Debussy's "La Mer" and Ravel's "Rhapsodie Espagnole," by Koussevitzy and the Boston Symphony; and two operatic collections (Camden.)

One is Alexander Kipnis, basso, in Russian operatia arias. Another is a collection of 1917-1921 recordings by Amelita Galli-Curci, soprano.

TV notes

The April 2 play on "Kraft Television Theater" will be "The Man in Authority," adapted by Marc Brandel from an original story by Kieran Tunney and Simon Wardell. It is a suspense piece set in Scotland Yard.

When "The Big Record" is cut from an hour to 30 minutes by CBS March 26, the vacated half-hour will be filled by transferring the "Leave It To Beaver" series into the 7 to 7:30 p.m. slot. "Beaver" has been on Fridays all season. The Friday spot will be filled by moving in "Dick and the Duchess" from its Saturday night time.

Phil Silvers' CBS program April 11 will have Gretchen Wyler, Broadway musical comedy star, in the cast. She will play a barmaid hired by Sergeant Bilko to pose as his girl friend.

Jack Benny's March 23 show will give viewers their first look at the railroad station bit that was a favorite of his radio fans for years. It involves the comedian and a number of characters as he is trying to depart on a trip.

Ethel Merman, will headline "The Chevy Show" March 30 while Dinah Shore takes off for a week. Jack Paar will be a guest star.

Robert Wright, prominent singer on the stage and in television, will be making his TV dramatic debut March 26 as leading man of "Top Secret Mission" on the CBS "Steel Hour." Beatrice Straight is the leading lady.

Robert Wright, prominent singer on the stage and in television, will be making his TV dramatic debut March 26 as leading man of "Top Secret Mission" on the CBS "Steel Hour." Beatrice Straight is the leading lay.

A prominent British actor of the romantic leading man type will make his American debut in "A Tale of Two Cities" on CBS March 27. He is James Donald, who will play Sydney Carton. Americans have seen him in such recent movies as "Lust for Life" and "The Bridge of the River Kwai."

Guest star on "Voice of Firestone" March 24 will be Mildred Miller, mezzo - soprano of the Metropolitan Opera. Roberta Peters originally was announced, but her appearance has been rescheduled for April 14.

"Saturday Baseball Game of the Week" bows on the CBS network April 5. Each major league team will appear at least once during the season. The April 5 telecast will be that of a pre - season game between the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Phillies, coming from Jacksonville, Fla.

"NBC Matinee Theater" will mark the 600th telecast of this Monday - through - Friday one-hour dramatic series on March 27 when "The Vagabond" by Colette will be presented.

HOUSE IN RUINS

Southerners Who Ignored Defeat

(Random House, $3.50). This is an excellent story, particularly for those readers who like anything associated with the Civil War.

This book is the story of some men of Mississippi who could not accept defeat after Appomattox and thus brought tragedy upon all but one of their band.

Back to the little town of Cold Fork they came: Crawford, the eldest and the leader, consumed with a desire for revenge; Lyle, Crawford's nephew, unsure of the rightness of his uncle's plan but unable to go against him; and Howie, a neighbor boy, who went along as unthinkingly and as quickly as he acted when he drew the fastest gun in the area. Waiting for them was Crawford's wife Leah, with Abner, the little Negro boy who had escaped from the big house nearby. Alone in the mansion was Mrs. Tinley, who had lost more than her worldly possessions when her home was sacked.

In Cold Fork, Crawford made allies of several of the townspeople. And together with Lyle and Howie, he began his campaign of theft and sabotage to harass the Union troops in the area.

Dramatic in the natural suspense of its narrative, The House in Ruins is far more than an adventure story. Told with an inordinate attention to style and with an authority which could come only from a writer whose background is rooted in the scene of the story, this novel has distinction in a literary sense, and in its provocative picture of men in crisis.

Rivers, Man And Myths Is Excellent

RIVERS, MAN and MYTHS By Robert Brittain (Doubleday, $4.50). From Fish Spears to Water Mills.

Destroying continents, creating new ones, leaving in their paths lands of marvelous fertility of frightening desolation, rivers have always been, of all natural forces, the one most intimately connected with man and his development. Rivers guided explorers and traders into unknown lands, created the boundaries of ancient realms and modern nations.

The story of rivers is the story of the men who forged vast empires from wastelands, drained the marshy banks of the Nile, used the waters of the Indus, the Tigris, the Euphrates to irrigate deserts and build their cities — Memphis, Babylon, Nineveh.

This wonderfully readable book tells of Xerxes, the Persian conqueror, "lashing" the Hellespont; Darius dreaming of a canal linking the Mediterranean with the Red Sea; Indian pilgrims sacrificing themselves to the holy Ganges; Augustus and Hadrian building the great aqueducts of the Rhone and Tiber.

RIVERS, MAN and MYTHS is a fascinating human story—a story of individuals in their infinite variety coming again and again to the rivers of the earth to live, to work, to fight, and to worship. Tracing the relationships between man and rivers from prehistoric times to the Middle Ages, this book produces some surprising new evaluations of man and his endeavors.

Park Row Is Good Story Of Newspaper

PARK ROW. By Allen Churchill. Rinehart. $3.95.

From 1883, when Joseph Pulitzer entered Park Row and the New York newspaper world — indeed the world itself — on through the first decades of this century and the "end of the World," according to a chapter head, this tells stories of some spectacular figures in and around newspaper offices.

Pulitzer hypersensitive to noise and going blind, Hearst turning pages with the flip of his foot, Bennett drinking himself into a fury — these men certainly assisted in founding the modern press, and with the help of name writers like Richard Harding Davis, Irvin Cobb and Stephan Crane, among others, made their lurid most of the Slocum disaster, the shooting of Stanford White, the murder of a couple of their own colleagues, such as David Graham Phillips.

This is no history of the press, however, or of yellow journalism, but rather of a few yellow - journalists; and the open - sesame to these pages was not necessarily to own or run a paper but to shoot your wife, whip up a war, live on a palatial yacht, or act like an idiot — not, you understand, that that doesn't make very spicy reading.

Come Dance With Me Book On Ballet

COME DANCE WITH ME. By Ninette de Valois. World. $6.

Occasionally there comes a book which it seems presumptuous to review. The reason is that it contains such a rich suffusion of the author's own person. It summons us consequently not to pass judgment on a 250-page autobiographical stint — the like of which we reviewers cockily tackle every morning and think nothing of it — but on a talented and endowed being, on a flesh and blood being, a voice and a presence above the literary lists.

So does Dame Ninette, director of Sadler's Wells Ballet for all its quarter century, founder of Sadler's Wells School of Ballet — now both dubbed "royal" — and more responsible than anybody for England's own native supreme dance art today.

Her career began with an Irish jig taught a mere child by the herdsman's wife — the family originally was wealthy, in Baltiboys, County Wickshire, with only one bathroom for the entire estate, to be sure, but an army of footmen, governesses, gardeners, nurses, cooks. It continued in London in a dated Victorian setting where for the final tableau the dancer posed in a golden chariot or stretched out on a cloud or seashell. It became professional; she toured at 14; was premiere danseuse of the Royal Opera House at 21; soon danced with Diaghilev in Paris; and she notes in the final reckoning the tremendous significance of the continuing dance exchange with Russia and Russians.

There are entertaining stories of Lilian Baylis of the Old Vic and her dogs, and of little Alexandra, a pupil of who Dame Ninette demanded snippily, "Alexandra what?" and was told in a frightened voice, "Alexandra of Greece;" there is the drama of being caught in Holland when Germany invaded; there is the touching warmth of the dance community in beleaguered Islington. But this rises above anecdote, and even ballet. While it is an essential record of a 20th-Century cultural triumph, it also tells glowingly of the creative career in general, and of the creator.

COLD WAR AT THE FAIR

United States And Russia Will Match Their Cultures

By EDDY GILMORE

BRUSSELS (AP) — A close-range, cultural cold war between the United States and Russia will begin April 17. And the United States is in danger of losing.

The defeat — if it occurs — will be at the Brussels World's Fair before 35 million people who are expected to throng the exhibition before it closes Oct. 19.

The United States has plenty of cultural evidence to exhibit and knows how to show it. But the trouble is money — money to mount the American effort and keep it going in style.

The United States has a cramped budget for the fair. The Russians are spending lavishly. They also enjoy another advantage.

The U. S. S. R. has only to order its state-paid artists to perform at Brussels and they perform. No questions asked and no union troubles.

Russians Quiet

The Russians are keeping their program plans quiet. Requests for details have been met with, "Call again, we don't know yet."

It is known they plan to present performances by the famous Bolet, the national Folk Dance Ensembles, the Ukrainian National Choir, the Academic Russian Choir, the Moscow Circus and the Moscow and Leningrad philharmonic orchestras.

The Russian theatrical offering will be so titanic it will spill over into a half-dozen Brussels theaters.

"We plan to swamp the city with our artists," said one Soviet spokesman.

Dollar-shy American officials are asking the country's top singers, musicians, and other performers to give their services free. They've turned to the movie industry and show business for other help.

There has been a cheering response.

Opera Premiere

The United States cultural program will include two art shows, movies, opera, theater, ballet, and performances by individual artists and orchestral groups.

High on the list of American contributions to the fair will be the world premiere of Gian Carlo Menotti's opera "Maria Golovin." Opening date for this work commissioned by the National Broadcasting Company for the NBC Opera Company will be Aug. 20.

Menotti will stage the work. Peter Herman Adler will conduct and Samuel Chotzinoff will be producer.

In the motion picture division, the United States will offer the European premiere of "South Pacific." Also planned are such outstanding films of the past as "Tol'able David," "Intolerance," "Meet Me in St. Louis," "It Happened One Night," and "Horsefeathers."

On the stage will be: "Carousel," "Porgy and Bess," "The Glass Menagerie," "Our Town," the American Ballet Theater, and the Agnes de Mille Ballet.

Cheering Response

"We made a great effort and when the situation became publicly apparent, many people rallied to our support," said Mrs. Katherine G. Howard, a fair official. "Thanks to the private help we have a program we can now be proud of.

"American industry and private sources are being magnificent."

Benny Goodman will open May 25 for a week of concerts. Violinist Yehudi Menuhin is scheduled June 1. Violinist Isaac Stern will play with the Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting, July 2-4.

Other artists will include: George London of the Metropolitan Opera; clavicordist Ralph Kirkpatrick; soprano Eleanor Steber; baritone Robert McFerrin; baritone William Wakefield; pianist Rosalind Turek; soprano Blanche Thebom; pianist Leon Fleisher; violinist Berl Senesfky; and pianist John Browning.

The list of contributors to the American Folk Art section is massive. Paintings will include such pictures as: De Kooning's "Gotham News" (valued at $5,000), Marin's "The Old Salt" ($2,750), Hopper's "New York Movie" ($8,000), Shahn's "Avenue" ($10,000), Tobey's "Voyage en Blanc" ($6,000) and Roszak's "Firebird" ($25,000).

Mondrian's "Victory Boogie-Woogie" ($100,000), Picasso's "La Peche a Antibes" ($150,000), Cezanne's "La Montagne Sainte Victoire" ($100,000) and many more.

The Martha Baird Rockefeller Fund has contributed $60,000 towards transporting the Juilliard Orchestra to Brussels.

The Ford Motor Co. has given $200,000 towards the super modern movie theater that will show spectacular scenes of the United States.

The Radio Corp. of America has handed over more than $51,000 in television equipment for a live closed - circuit color television show.

But the Russians have countered by offering free TV rights for relaying all the performances of their artists over Europe's huge television network.

Good Buys For Hi-Fi Artists

By L. J. Kramp

A new set of Beethoven symphonies and good buys in single records, coupling the most popular Haydn symphonies and Stravinsky ballets, are the latest temptations for hi-fi sound fanciers.

The Beethoven issues are four by Sir Adrian Boult and the London Philharmonic Promenade Orchestra (Vanguard) in handsomely packaged and annotated sets. Both sound and performance are excellent. The symphonies are the Third, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh, each with a Beethoven overture on the reverse side.

Haydn's popular "Military" and "Clock" symphonies are back-to-back on a new release by the London Symphony Orchestra, under Antal Dorati (Mercury.) The "Military" is an outstanding rendition, with sound contrasts making it a rival of the Scherchen (Westminster) disc which continues a best seller.

The famous "Petrouchka" and "Firebird" ballet suites by Stravinsky are availale in a new boxed disc by Leopold Stokowski and the Berlin Philharmonic (Capitol). Stokowski's interpretation is tasteful and the technical quality is first rate.

Although these are standard selections found in most classical record collections, however small, the sound transcription improvements in these new issues, compared with some of the early LP's of recent years, make them particularly desirable. One reason, of course, is that the old disc may be worn or dirty. Another is that a new interpretation usually is more entertaining.

Followers of Arturo Toscanini have a new release of a 1948 performance by his NBC Symphony of Brahms' Concerto in A Minor for Violin and Cello (RCA Victor). Here the solo performances are powerful but the orchestra reproduction is only fair, although much better than the original disc. More of these re - issues of original Toscanini best - sellers are expected.

Cellist Gregor Piatigorsky performs a premiere record of Walton's Cello Concerto, with the Boston Symphony (RCA Victor.) Ernest Bloch's Schelomo Rhapsody is on the other side. Like organ records, the instrument involved is the chief attraction to the hi-fi fan.

A topflight organ record for big or small amplified exercising is a new one by Marcel Dupre, in St. Thomas Church, New York, featuring three Franck Chorales (Mercury.) Dupre is a famous French organist.

The more popular "Hall of the Mountain King" and other selections from Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite" are offered in a well - contrasted new edition by Sir John Barbirolli and the Halle Orchestra (Mercury). The record's dynamic range and the plush scoring of strings make this one especially attractive from a sound standpoint.

Low cost re - issues of unavailable 78 rpm versions continue coming from the vaults of two or three major companies. Among new ones well worth the cost, usually half the regular price, are Debussy's "La Mer" and Ravel's "Rhapsodie Espagnole," by Koussevitzy and the Boston Symphony; and two operatic collections (Camden.)

One is Alexander Kipnis, basso, in Russian operatia arias. Another is a collection of 1917-1921 recordings by Amelita Galli-Curci, soprano.

TV notes

The April 2 play on "Kraft Television Theater" will be "The Man in Authority," adapted by Marc Brandel from an original story by Kieran Tunney and Simon Wardell. It is a suspense piece set in Scotland Yard.

When "The Big Record" is cut from an hour to 30 minutes by CBS March 26, the vacated half-hour will be filled by transferring the "Leave It To Beaver" series into the 7 to 7:30 p.m. slot. "Beaver" has been on Fridays all season. The Friday spot will be filled by moving in "Dick and the Duchess" from its Saturday night time.

Phil Silvers' CBS program April 11 will have Gretchen Wyler, Broadway musical comedy star, in the cast. She will play a barmaid hired by Sergeant Bilko to pose as his girl friend.

Jack Benny's March 23 show will give viewers their first look at the railroad station bit that was a favorite of his radio fans for years. It involves the comedian and a number of characters as he is trying to depart on a trip.

Ethel Merman, will headline "The Chevy Show" March 30 while Dinah Shore takes off for a week. Jack Paar will be a guest star.

Robert Wright, prominent singer on the stage and in television, will be making his TV dramatic debut March 26 as leading man of "Top Secret Mission" on the CBS "Steel Hour." Beatrice Straight is the leading lady.

Robert Wright, prominent singer on the stage and in television, will be making his TV dramatic debut March 26 as leading man of "Top Secret Mission" on the CBS "Steel Hour." Beatrice Straight is the leading lay.

A prominent British actor of the romantic leading man type will make his American debut in "A Tale of Two Cities" on CBS March 27. He is James Donald, who will play Sydney Carton. Americans have seen him in such recent movies as "Lust for Life" and "The Bridge of the River Kwai."

Guest star on "Voice of Firestone" March 24 will be Mildred Miller, mezzo - soprano of the Metropolitan Opera. Roberta Peters originally was announced, but her appearance has been rescheduled for April 14.

"Saturday Baseball Game of the Week" bows on the CBS network April 5. Each major league team will appear at least once during the season. The April 5 telecast will be that of a pre - season game between the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Phillies, coming from Jacksonville, Fla.

"NBC Matinee Theater" will mark the 600th telecast of this Monday - through - Friday one-hour dramatic series on March 27 when "The Vagabond" by Colette will be presented.

'Wild Is Wind' Is Showing At Jim

All the elements that made "The Rose Tattoo" one of the most memorable film dramas of all time are unmistakably present again in the Hal Wallis' Vista-Vision production of "Wild Is the Wind," opening today at the Jim Theatre.

Cast, story, producer, director add up to an overflowing of superb talent that from the outset made it unlikely that anything but a new dramatic thunderbolt would be created.

The second American film for Academy Award winner Anna Magnani, this unusual story of love, hate and violence in the Nevada sheep country stars the world's first lady of emotions opposite two of the screen's most virile actors: two - time Oscar winner Anthony Quinn and the dynamic star of "Hatful of Rain," Anthony Franciosa. Co - stars are lovely newcomer Dolores Hart and distinguished veteran Joseph Calleia. Lili Valenty is featured.

Producer is the same Hal Wallis who showed his wizardry in "The Rose Tattoo," and whose films have won thirty - two Oscars. Director is George Cukor, renowned as the foremost director of women stars and of James Stewart and Ronald Colman in their Oscar - winning performances.

Primitive, lusty, love - compelled, treating its earthy subject with unashamed frankness, the plot of "Wild Is The Wind" promises to be a match for the brilliance of its performers. Briefly, it is the story of a fiery woman who marries her deceased sister's husband, only to find that the shadow of the departed lies between them in the guilt - ridden conscience of her new mate. In desperation she turns to the young man her husband looks upon as a son, bringing violence and terror into their lives.

The screenplay, written with the tempestuous talents of Miss Magnani in mind, is by Broadway hit playwright Arnold Schulman, based upon the bold story by Vittorio Nino Novarese. Music is by Dimitri Tiomkin, of "High Noon" fame, with phenomenal Johnny Mathis singing the film's theme. Returning to the talent that launched her, Miss Magnani even sings, for the first time on screen.

All in all, it is a formidable line-up, making it clear why the avalanche of raves has already begun and the film and its performances are already being mentioned in the same breath with "awards" and "highest honors."

TOP STARS — Anna Magnani and Anthony Quinn, both Academy Award winners, are the top stars in the production of "Wild Is The Wind" opening today at the Jim Theatre for a four-day engagement.

LITTLE THEATRE

By DELL MOORE

Ivan Uttal moderated the Theatre panel of the Tulane Conference held Sunday afternoon held in a local hotel. Play reflecting the time in U. S. modern history and musical comedy were subjects discussed. Among those seen were — Katherine and Ray Magruder, Frances and Lealis Haile, Jean and Doyle Hamilton, Joan Genung Clyde Culpepper, Henry Haas, Julius Cahn, Vera and Dick Troy, Lallage Feazel, Genevra Washburn, Mrs. Allen Sholars, Romona Cormier. Also former (and very active) members, Fran and Si Willing from Winnsboro were there.

Mrs. Carl McHenry is in New York seeing plays.

The Clark Boardmans are visiting in Florida.

Isn't it funny that regardless where you go you seem to run into someone from home. Returning from a recent business trip in New York, Mr. H. H. "Tige" Mullins and Lallage Feazel shared the same plane and discussed the latest on Broadway. Among the most popular (and hardest to obtain tickets) were "Time Remembered" (Helen Hays and Susan Strassberg) and "Music Man" (Robert Preston).

George Brian of Northeast State Speech Department is well underway with his production of "Pygmalion" and cast as the leading lady is Gerry Kenny. We wish you loads of success. (This is a hint for the theatre - goers to see this production.)

Another play underway in Monroe is O. P. H. S.'s "Where's Charley?" under the supervision and direction of Adalyn Foreman.

Carolyn Robert and Dot Jenkins are co - assistants to the director of "Witness." These girls are "Janes - on - the spot" to tell the cast their lines and moves.

We are still sending out S. O. S. signals for men to be in "Witness." "Aw, come on youse guys . . . what are ya waitin' for?" Give Ivan Uttal a buzz (FA 3-8413 or FA 3-4263).

See you Wednesday!

Maritime experts have estimated that every ship now afloat in the world could be anchored with room to spare in the 456 square miles of San Francisco Bay and its contiguous bays and straits, largest natural harbor in the world, according to the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

NAMED FOR OSCARS

Two Top Pictures Coming To Monroe

Two of the top pictures that have been nominated for this year's Academy Awards are scheduled to open in Monroe during the coming two weeks. One of the films will show at the Jim Theatre and the other at the Paramount.

"Wild the Wind" that has been nominated for three "Oscars" will open today at the Jim Theatre. The film stars Anthony Quinn, Anna Magnani and Anthony Franciosa.

"Wild Is the Wind" has been nominated as the best picture; Anna Magnani for the best actress and "Wild is the Wind" title song has been nominated for the best song of the year from a motion picture. It's lyrics are by Ned Washington and music by Dimitri Tiomkin.

At the Paramount on March 30 will be "Witness for the Prosecution" that has been nominated for six Academy Awards.

In this film Charles Laughton was nominated for the best actor of the year and his wife, Elsa Lanchester, as the best supporting actress. It has also been nominated for the best picture of the year and Billy Wilder has a chance of winning an "Oscar" as the best director. Two other awards that "Witness for the Prosecution" has been nominated for are the best film editing and the best sound recording.

The decision of these two pictures along with several others will be made on the night of Wednesday, March 26 when the Academy Awards are handed out to a TV audience of about 75,000,000 people.

'Wild Is Wind' Is Showing At Jim

All the elements that made "The Rose Tattoo" one of the most memorable film - dramas of all time are unmistakably present again in the Hal Wallis' Vista-Vision production of "Wild Is the Wind," opening today at the Jim Theatre.

Cast, story, producer, director add up to an overflowing of superb talent that from the outset made it unlikely that anything but a new dramatic thunderbolt would be created.

The second American film for Academy Award winner Anna Magnani, this unusual story of love, hate and violence in the Nevada sheep country stars the world's first lady of emotions opposite two of the screen's most virile actors: two - time Oscar winner Anthony Quinn and the dynamic star of "Hatful of Rain," Anthony Franciosa. Co - stars are lovely newcomer Dolores Hart and distinguished veteran Joseph Calleia. Lili Valenty is featured.

Producer is the same Hal Wallis who showed his wizardry in "The Rose Tattoo," and whose films have won thirty - two Oscars. Director is George Cukor, renowned as the foremost director of women stars and of James Stewart and Ronald Colman in their Oscar - winning performances.

Primitive, lusty, love - compelled, treating its earthy subject with unashamed frankness, the plot of "Wild Is The Wind" promises to be a match for the brilliance of its performers. Briefly, it is the story of a fiery woman who marries her deceased sister's husband, only to find that the shadow of the departed lies between them in the guilt - ridden concience of her new mate. In desperation she turns to the young man her husband looks upon as a son, bringing violence and terror into their lives.

The screenplay, written with the tempestuous talents of Miss Magnani in mind, is by Broadway hit playwright Arnold Schulman, based upon the bold story by Vittorio Nino Novarese. Music is by Dimitri Tiomkin, of "High Noon" fame, with phenomenal Johnny Mathis singing the film's theme. Returning to the talent that launched her, Miss Magnani even sings, for the first time on screen.

All in all, it is a formidable line-up, making it clear why the avalanche of raves has already begun and the film and its performances are already being mentioned in the same breath with "awards" and "highest honors."

TOP STARS — Anna Magnani and Anthony Quinn, both Academy Award winners, are the top stars in the production of "Wild Is The Wind" opening today at the Jim Theatre for a four-day engagement.

LITTLE THEATRE

By DELL MOORE

Ivan Uttal moderated the Theatre panel of the Tulane Conference held Sunday afternoon held in a local hotel. Play reflecting the time in U. S. modern history and musical comedy were subjects discussed. Among those seen were — Katherine and Ray Magruder, Frances and Lealis Haile, Jean and Doyle Hamilton, Joan Genung Clyde Culpepper, Henry Haas, Julius Cahn, Vera and Dick Troy, Lallage Feazel, Genevra Washburn, Mrs. Allen Sholars, Romona Cormier. Also former (and very active) members, Fran and Si Willing from Winnsboro were there.

Mrs. Carl McHenry is in New York seeing plays.

The Clark Boardmans are visiting in Florida.

Isn't it funny that regardless where you go you seem to run into someone from home. Returning from a recent business trip in New York, Mr. H. H. "Tige" Mullins and Lallage Feazel shared the same plane and discussed the latest on Broadway. Among the most popular (and hardest to obtain tickets) were "Time Remembered" (Helen Hays and Susan Strassberg) and "Music Man" (Robert Preston).

George Brian of Northeast State Speech Department is well underway with his production of "Pygmalion" and cast as the leading lady is Gerry Kenny. We wish you loads of success. (This is a hint for the theatre - goers to see this production.)

Another play underway in Monroe is O. P. H. S.'s "Where's Charley?" under the supervision and direction of Adalyn Foreman.

Carolyn Robert and Dot Jenkins are co - assistants to the director of "Witness." These girls are "Janes - on - the spot" to tell the cast their lines and moves.

We are still sending out S. O. S. signals for men to be in "Witness." "Aw, come on youse guys . . . what are ya waitin' for?" Give Ivan Uttal a buzz (FA 3-8413 or FA 3-4263).

See you Wednesday!

Garden And Home Page

THE HOME SHIFT

'Scrub' House For New Look

By MILDRED SWIFT

There's one thing and for sure, you can find your way around Monroe with the new street markers. Not only are they a wonderful convenience but are neat and attractive.

In case you failed to see the invitation to tour Twin City Gardens, here is a repeat: Groups who want to tour our gardens and other places of interest, are asked to write the Chamber of Commerce, Monroe, Louisiana, giving the date you'll be here, the time of arrival and the number in your party. The Chamber will arrange for two hostesses to guide you on the tour.

Garden Work

First finish all February jobs you just didn't get around to, such as pruning evergreens and summer blooming shrubs, spraying with malathion for scale, thrips, red spider and white fly.

Hydrangeas should always be planted in at least semi-shade. They do well on the north side of the house. Don't overlook these when fertilizing. If you want blue flowers, work sulphur into the soil. Lime will keep them pink. This changing of color will take two years. Lime and sulphur will not take the place of fertilizing.

Prune spring flowering shrubs such as spirea, bridal wreath, flowering quince, weigela, forsythia, just as they have finished blooming.

There are two plants that definitely like an alkaline soil. These are clematis and lilac. Work lime in the soil to make these plants happy.

If there's anybody around the house with enough muscle to turn the compost pile, this will help the material to decay faster. If we have a dry spell, which sounds fantastic at the presen. time, keep the compost wet.

More Garden Jobs

Fertilize sweet peas with a side sprinkling of nitrate of soda. Divide and reset cannas now. Thin these out if you want quality bloom. Keep a can of 5 per cent DDT dust ready for the leafroller, as soon as it appears. That sounds as though I'm a pessimist, doesn't it? But this old roller is so prevalent. When and if he does appear, loosen the tied leaves of the infested plant and get the DDT well down in the roll. There are so many improved varieties of the old fashioned canna. Flower arrangers appreciate the lovely blooms and the foliage.

Some seed to plant in March are: Sweet Alyssum, Chinese forget-me-not, African golden daisy, arctotis, candytuft, gaillardia, petunia, zinnia, portilaca, amaranth, phlox (Drummond), salvia (blue and red), scabiosa, verbena, early cosmos, sunflower, forget-me-not, four o'clock, gayfeather, nasturtium, ageratum, balsam, marigold, moonflower, calliopsis, feverfew, periwinkle, rosemallow, torenia.

You can fertilize native iris with any complete plant food such as 8-8-8. This could have been done in January or February but I forgot to remind you. We have a bulletin, "Louisiana Native Iris," that is yours for the asking.

If you have large camellia plants, they may need a slight pruning. Often these are short branches that put out from the main trunk. These never bloom and just use nourishment. Clip those. The old Opelousas Pink could stand a cutting back every year. Pruning will make it grow more compact and the blossoms fill out better.

Pink Perfection just naturally is a "straggly" looking plant. However, we care not how the plant looks, the blossoms are so gorgeous. Often this plant will put up a long branch with just two leaves at the end. This could be pruned back to its point of growth.

When your Japanese iris begin to sprout, dig, separate and replant in soil enriched with lots of humus. This is a moisture loving plant, especially when the buds are being formed. They are late bloomers.

If you want to propagate azaleas, select a branch from one of your established plants. Select the branch closest to the ground and scrape through the bark on the under side. Bend the branch down and bury the scratched portion. Then anchor it down firmly with a brick. You don't cut the limb from the large plant, just bend it over. Next spring you can sever this and you have a new azalea plant with little trouble.

Around the Home

Quite often a house that appears to need painting actually needs nothing more than a cleaning. In this area there are stubborn stains that just won't come off with washing with the hose. It is necessary to wash with a rag and suds. In the paint stores there are special soaps for washing outside woods and sidings. Follow instructions. It's a mammoth undertaking, but your house will look like new. If there are special stains, like mildew, use a brush and add some borax, a cup to a gallon of suds.

A carpet has been developed that can take the place of central heating. It will probably be many years before this is on the market, but it sounds good. It is actually an electrically heated underlay from which a connection can be plugged into the wall like an electric blanket. It gives the floor a temperature of from 70-75 degrees and is said to heat the air in the room, evenly.

Men's hat, as well as those designed for women, are currently in the news, but for a different reason. The spotlight, as usual, is on feminine headgear because of the new fashions. The sudden big interest in men's hats has to do with the fact that men's heads are getting bigger all the time!

The trend this spring is to more and heavier jewelry since the casual lines of the chemise silhouette demand it. Heavy chokers or many long strings of beads and chains seem to be the latest.

Announcements

Your Open House Programs for next week are: Monday, Miss Ruth Gulley will show you flooring materials; Tuesday, Mrs. Lillie Yates will give you useful household hints; Wednesday, flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday and Friday, Marketing and Food preparation with Mildred and Mammy.

Here is something to think about: If you get something for nothing, someone else gets nothing for something. When you buy something for a song, the accompaniment may not be so cheap. Is it a bargain?

See you next Sunday.

EXTENSION NEWS AND VIEWS

Divide, Reset Violets Now

By AUDREY DAWSON

It is time to divide and reset your violets. If you need a good ground cover in areas that are too small to mow or if you need something to give change in texture or ground pattern, violets are the answer to your problem.

Iris

Select your favorite varieties of iris while they are in bloom. Our "Louisiana Native Iris" bulletin shows how to transplant and hybridize. You may get a copy by calling FA 3-2251.

Dahlias

Plant now if you want early blooms. Plant on a hill or mound for good drainage and stake at time of planting.

Here are some flower seed which may be sown this month and are popular in many of our gardens: Forget - me - not, sweet alyssum, moonflower, nasturtium, periwinkle, zinnia, blue salvia, four o'clock, phlox, and marigolds.

St. Augustine Grass

Brown patch is a fungus disease that has caused a great deal of concern to many of us here in the Twin Cities who have a St. Augustine lawn. The latest information we have from the U. S. department of agriculture is that the disease appears rapidly during periods of high humidity when daytime temperatures drop from 80 degrees-95 degrees F to 60 degrees-70 degrees F. at night, and dew or fog develops. Excessive nitrogen fertilization increases the extent of this disease.

We have recommended you use the latest insecticide, "Terrachlor" for this and in checking, we have found that it is not available here at present, but will be on the market in your feed and seed stores the last of the week. The other insecticides recommended by our U. S. department of agriculture, "Tersan, Calochlor, or Special Semesan."

Council Meeting

The Home Demonstration Council will meet March 28 at the agriculture building. Mr. J. B. (Red) Swanson, from Southside High School, will talk to the group. You will surely want to hear him.

I have always been proud to say that I lived in Monroe but this past week I was "doubly proud." We had home economists from all over the state in our city and I heard so many, many complimentary remarks—the appearance of the city, the friendliness of the city, the splendid cooperation of all the folks in helping us make the two conventions a success. There were ever so many who helped — orchids are in order to all of you.

Hints to Homemakers

Grease spots may be absorbed on wall paper by rubbing a lump of starch over the spot.

To restore the color to ivory handle knives after they have become yellow, rub them with fine emery or sandpaper. This will restore their whiteness.

When your dishes show brown stains, especially coffee cups, that can't wash off in the dish pan, soak them for a few hours in borax water.

To prevent cheese from getting moldy, wrap in a piece of cheese cloth dampened with vinegar. Place in a covered container occasionally moisten the cloth with vinegar to assure fresh cheese.

It takes 30 per cent more energy to perform household tasks if working height is too low and it takes 16 per cent if working space is too high.

Economy in Ironing

It takes about two minutes for an electric iron to heat. In using your iron if you are stopped by telephone call or doorbell and will use it again within fifteen minutes, leave it on but if longer than twenty minutes it would be more economical to turn it off, so says our Assistant Extension Engineer, Mr. Kenneth A. Koch.

A Thought

It isn't worthwhile to quarrel, dear, no matter how sharp the sting.

Gardeners Can Prepare Soil For Plants

While the season is busily converting from lion to lamb, gardeners should be stirring themselves, too, in preparation for one of the busiest periods of the year.

For many of us it doesn't seem to be really garden-time until we have a spading fork in hand, and it is hard to be patient. However, much more harm than good is done by working in too wet soil, and the real test is to scoop up a handful and squeeze it. If the experience results in a mudpie, drop the soil and put that spade away. If, however, the soil is moist and crumbles in the hand, the time has come to start digging again.

The workable condition of the soil also indicates when it is time to start renovating the established lawn. Spring, as well as fall, is grass-feeding time, and most of us use one of a number of balanced chemical foods specifically formulated for grasses and containing both quick-acting and slow-acting food to be released to the plants over a long growing season. Most of us require a plant food which is high in nitrogen, the element so important in leaf and stem growth.

In buying fertilizer, always look at the three-figure formula—as 5-19-5, 4-12-4 and such — because they show the amount of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash per hundred pounds of food. The first number indicates the nitrogen content, thus a formula of 8-6-4 would contain eight pounds of nitrogen-making material compared with four pounds in a 4-12-4 formulation. I like a 10-6-4 formula for grass.

Fertilizer, in established lawns, is applied generally at a rate of about 20 pounds per thousand square feet. It is best applied evenly with the aid of a mechanical spreader and a wise gardener marks off one area at a time—about 31 feet by 31 feet — for treatment. A good time for feeding is before a rain.

Lime is another material which many gardeners are fond of using.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Gives Tips On Care Of Shrubs

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The column continues to get inquiries about cutting back damaged shrubs. In most of these requests for information, gardeners wish to know either 1. ". . . if it will hurt my bushes if I cut them to the ground;" or 2. ". . . if it will ruin my bushes if I leave the brown leaves on them."

It will definitely not harm your shrubs to leave them entirely alone until you can see just where they will come out. Sometimes shrubs may lose one or several whole branches. In this case, it is usually better to prune these dead things out and keep shaping a bush until the openings have been closed up by new growth. If a bush is hopeless looking, it still may be necessary to leave the live parts so they may help to nurse back the whole shrub faster. Of course, plants like butterfly bushes and hydrangeas that come back quickly from the roots may just as well be cut to the ground. To do this to a camellia would be foolish. It probably is a grafted camellia, and you may get nothing but the common stock on which your fine variety was budded or grafted.

Evergreens Molt

All broadleaf evergreens will shed some leaves as the new ones come out. This new foliage will help to hide the burned leaves. When fall comes around again, your evergreens will again drop some of the old foliage. This second molting should eliminate all of the damaged leaves from the past winter. Requests are coming to the column about whether to "pick off the dead leaves" or not. If you cannot bear to look at the browned foliage of your favorite gardenia or cape jessamine or some other favorite that is located where you must look at it, then take some scissors or good sharp pruning shears and clip off the bad foliage right where the leaf actually joins its little leaf stem. Do not pull off the leaves, and do not cut or prune off the little leaf stems. These litle stems protect the buds.

Damaged Shrubs

Damaged shrubs will have to be nursed back to normal. Be sure that they are getting a normal amount of feeding. If you overfeed them in an attempt to hasten their growth, you may make them sick. If they are underfed, however, they just cannot be expected to make a normal recovery. Shrubs that are too far gone to recover right away can be shifted to the garden to recuperate, and a new shrub from a nursery will have to be substituted.

Large perennials like daylilies, hollyhocks, sea lavender and many others which do not mind being moved about can be planted in the spot where a damaged shrub has been taken out for recovery. The color from these flowers is cheerful and will conceal the gap for a time.

Turn Useless Walls Into Live Storage Space In Any Home

Most homes have one or more walls that are so located they seem utterly useless. Walls beside doors in heavily traveled areas, such as between kitchen and dining areas, are exceptionally difficult to utilize.

Some designers and architects have found the ideal solution for the useless wall. They design tall, wall - hugging cabinets for glassware and dishes to fit the space.

The key to such an installation is to make it look as nearly a part of the wall as possible. Tall sliding doors, when closed, blend right into the walls. This is particularly true if you use the same wood for the wall cabinets that is used in the rest of the room, whether it is west coast hemlock or Douglas fir. Both serve well for wall paneling and for cabinets because they are so easy to work and can be fitted into any shape and style.

Dozen Shelves

One installation recently designed by a leading western architect contains an even dozen shelves spaced closely together, the cabinet reaching from the floor to ceiling. However, the housewife gets a break in this unit because drawers for linen storage, protruding about six inches beyond the front of the narrow glass cupboard and flush against the floor provide a step so the housewife can reach the top shelf with ease.

Wall units for china and glassware can save many a step if they are located between kitchen and dining room.

The wall cabinet will tie in perfectly with the rest of the kitchen when the same wood is used in the kitchen built-ins and cabinets. In some open area homes, where the kitchen and dining areas are almost one and separated only by a divider counter, architects have used an interesting device for creating unity in design.

Use Hemlock

They have specified flat grain west coast hemlock lumber for all cabinets and wall panel boards. The reason they used this more heavily grained wood was to magnify the similarity of materials in each space, thus using the easily recognized wood as a symbol of unity.

Most architects, when they specify flat - grained hemlock or Douglas fir, like to finish the wood with a clear varnish or lacquer so that all the beauty and texture of the wood can be used as a decorative device.

Either hemlock or fir is easy to finish. Generally, good cabinetmakers will sand and rub down the wood before it is put in place. Then they like to apply a sealer coat which in turn is rubbed down smooth after it has been allowed to dry. Now the wood is in ideal condition for final finishing. Lacquer or varnish or one of the new plastics can be applied several coats deep, always being sure to rub down each coat after it is dry. The more coats you apply, the more beautiful the grain and texture of the wood becomes.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Many Garden Events Coming

By MARY M. JARDINE

As the season progresses many important garden events begin to crowd the calendar. This coming week all gardeners in this area and all over the state are looking forward to the State Flower Show and annual convention of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation in Baton Rouge, LSU Campus on March 29 and 30. Be sure to look over the flowers in your garden and make horticulture entries in this show. We hope the Fifth District will come home with many blue ribbons. In the design division there will be one arrangement from each club. The theme this year is most interesting, "Think on These Things," from Philippians 4:8. Read over this chapter in your Bible and see what a wonderful challenge has been given to the flower designer. By all means plan to drive down and see the show which is open to the public without charge. Show opens Saturday at 4 p.m. and Sunday, March 30 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Spring Show

A beautiful spring flower show was presented by John A. Wright on television this week with the arrangements on display at the Center Wednesday through Saturday. Mr. Wright had as his guest, Joe Ross, a student at Louisiana Tech, who designed a delightful triangular line-mass arrangement. Mr. Ross used a square bowl of modern design in soft gray. The line materials, flowering branches of sassafras were placed in the bowl with one corner facing the viewer, which gave the design a most interesting effect. The triangular pattern was enhanced with placements of Carbineer daffodils. The bronzy - red new growth of photinia branches was placed low in the design for contrast and depth and, incidentally, concealed the needle point holder.

Mr. Wright's first arrangement was whimsical in character and employed a most unusual container. A small railroad lantern painted soft gray held the vertical design. A pear branch, whose leaves are the tender chartreuse green at this time of year, provided the primary placement. Rose pink camellias in bud and bloom with self-foliage emphasized the line. Photinia foliage, taking on a rosy cast from the camellias, was placed at the lip of the container. This unusual design was quite a conversation piece.

Daffodils

A round yellow bowl was selected for the next design. Branches of hydrangea with tender budding leaves were placed in an asymetrical fashion. The linear pattern was glorified with skillful placements of St. Edwin daffodils, with a mass grouping low in the bowl and several over the rim of the container. Delightful to behold.

The large black urn selected for the next design seemed to demand a bold, dramatic mass arrangement because of its size and visual weight. Mr. Wright selected pear branches in full bloom for the large background placements. Large white camellias were placed in a diagonal line within the pattern. White daffodils with pale yellow cups accented the line within the line. Again photinia foliage was used low as a unifying element. Most beautiful staged against a pale green background.

Golden forsythia with graceful, natural curves highlighted the next arrangement. A light beige chalice type container held the sweeping, rhythmic branches of forsythia. The design was accented with pale yellow daffodils. Pear foliage, tucked behind the blossoms provided transition and depth.

As long as the daffodil season lasts we will have many varieties on display at the Garden Center. We invite you to come by and see them. One variety that does well in this area is Carbineer, having a broad flat golden - yellow perianth standing at right angles to the large bright orange - red cup. Excellent in flower arranging.

St. Egwin is the daffodil that has captured my heart this year. The perianth segments are broad and overlapping, slightly spoon-shaped, perfect smooth texture and wonderful substance. The cup is short and beautifully porportioned. The whole flower is uniform clear soft yellow. Very strong grower on very tall stems. Very graceful for arranging and lasts well.

Test Plot

Mr. Wright reports that the following varieties planted in 1954 on the test plot, Tech Campus are Beersheba, Dick Wellband, Fortune, Francisca Drake, Golden Perfection, Carbineer, St. Edgwin, Lovenest, Damson, Nettie O'Melveny, Shot Silk and Twink. In the white varieties, Silver Star, Large cup and the lovely triandus hybrids Thalia and Silver Chimes, a late variety have done well for me.

Mrs. Claude Pumilia, state chairman of the Louisiana Council of Nationally Accredited Flower Show Judges wishes to remind all accredited judges of the annual breakfast, March 30 at 8 a.m., Bellemont Motor Hotel, Baton Rouge. Our speaker is the nationally known Mrs. Robert Kearfortt of New York who will give a lecture demonstration, "Flowers in Glass." The lecture will precede the business meeting. Lawn Will Need Reconditioning As Spring Nears

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The snowdrops have passed their prime, the crocuses are upon us and my 1957 diary says that the first daffodils should be showing their yellow loom against the west rock wall in just about two weeks.

That means it is later in the spring than, perhaps, the chilly weather indicates. At any moment now the soil will be in workable condition and it will be time to get out with rake, foller, and fertilizer to give the lawn its annual reconditioning.

Meanwhile, in case sowing seed flats and watering seedlings are not enough to satisfy a hunger to get gardening again, there are several chores which may be done in the cellar or workshop.

Item one, of course, is to start putting the garden tools into good working condition: sharpening the cutting edges, smoothing down rough spots on wooden grips, taking off rustspots, touching up chipped painted surfaces (or repainting entirely, preferably in bright colors which can easily be spotted against grass or soil).

The home handyman, of course, can tune up the power mower, taking apart and cleaning the motor, sharpening the blades and making everything ready for the first, important grass cutting of the year. But in homes where the man isn't a professional mechanic, it is better to send the machine to an expert for sharpening and a tuneup. A good mowing instrument is very important in lawn care.

If there is time left over, that handyman could wile away the final winter week ends constructing a cold frame or a hot bed.

If you have an old storm window or two, it is not difficult to build a frame to fit under it or them. The wood for the frame should be painted or treated to resist rot and wind-tight to prevent drafts. The side toward the sun should be 10 inches high, and the rear should be 15 inches high. The glass sashes should be hinged to the high side, to make opening the frames more effective and easier.

All the construction work can be done indoors. When the soil becomes warm and dry enough to work, dig a hole about a foot deep and slightly larger than the frame.

Set in the frame so that it is four inches high above ground in the front (and nine in the rear). An ideal situation for the frame is facing south and with some protection, like a wall, in back of it. At the bottom of the hole provide for good drainage with a layer of gravel, coal cinders or pebbles, an then fill the frame to ground level with rich, sifted garden soil as fine as a potting soil mixture.

In this frame can go hardier annuals, as well as seed flats started indoors but which must be hardened a bit before being transplated into the garden beds

THE HOME SHIFT

'Scrub' House For New Look

By MILDRED SWIFT

There's one thing and for sure, you can find your way around Monroe with the new street markers. Not only are they a wonderful convenience but are neat and attractive.

In case you failed to see the invitation to tour Twin City Gardens, here is a repeat: Groups who want to tour our gardens and other places of interest, are asked to write the Chamber of Commerce, Monroe, Louisiana, giving the date you'll be here, the time of arrival and the number in your party. The Chamber will arrange for two hostesses to guide you on the tour.

Garden Work

First finish all February jobs you just didn't get around to, such as pruning evergreens and summer blooming shrubs, spraying with malathion for scale, thrips, red spider and white fly.

Hydrangeas should always be planted in at least semi-shade. They do well on the north side of the house. Don't overlook these when fertilizing. If you want blue flowers, work sulphur into the soil. Lime will keep them pink. This changing of color will take two years. Lime and sulphur will not take the place of fertilizing.

Prune spring flowering shrubs such as spirea, bridal wreath, flowering quince, weigela, forsythia, just as they have finished blooming.

There are two plants that definitely like an alkaline soil. These are clematis and lilac. Work lime in the soil to make these plants happy.

If there's anybody around the house with enough muscle to turn the compost pile, this will help the material to decay faster. If we have a dry spell, which sounds fantastic at the present time, keep the compost wet.

More Garden Jobs

Fertilize sweet peas with a side sprinkling of nitrate of soda. Divide and reset cannas now. Thin these out if you want quality bloom. Keep a can of 5 per cent DDT dust ready for the leafroller, as soon as it appears. That sounds as though I'm a pessimist, doesn't it? But this old roller is so prevalent. When and if he does appear, loosen the tied leaves of the infested plant and get the DDT well down in the roll. There are so many improved varieties of the old fashioned canna. Flower arrangers appreciate the lovely blooms and the foliage.

Some seed to plant in March are: Sweet Alyssum, Chinese forget-me-not, African golden daisy, arctotis, candytuft, gaillardia, petunia, zinnia, portilaca, amaranth, phlox (Drummond), salvia (blue and red), scabiosa, verbena, early cosmos, sunflower, forget-me-not, four o'clock, gayfeather, nasturtium, ageratum, balsam, marigold, moonflower, calliopsis, feverfew, periwinkle, rosemallow, torenia.

You can fertilize native iris with any complete plant food such as 8-8-8. This could have been done in January or February but I forgot to remind you. We have a bulletin, "Louisiana Native Iris," that is yours for the asking.

If you have large camellia plants, they may need a slight pruning. Often these are short branches that put out from the main trunk. These never bloom and just use nourishment. Clip those. The old Opelousas Pink could stand a cutting back every year. Pruning will make it grow more compact and the blossoms fill out better.

Pink Perfection just naturally is a "straggly" looking plant. However, we care not how the plant looks, the blossoms are so gorgeous. Often this plant will put up a long branch with just two leaves at the end. This could be pruned back to its point of growth.

When your Japanese iris begin to sprout, dig, separate and replant in soil enriched with lots of humus. This is a moisture loving plant, especially when the buds are being formed. They are late bloomers.

If you want to propagate azaleas, select a branch from one of your established plants. Select the branch closest to the ground and scrape through the bark on the under side. Bend the branch down and bury the scratched portion. Then anchor it down firmly with a brick. You don't cut the limb from the large plant, just bend it over. Next spring you can sever this and you have a new azalea plant with little trouble.

Around the Home

Quite often a house that appears to need painting actually needs nothing more than a cleaning. In this area there are stubborn stains that just won't come off with washing with the hose. It is necessary to wash with a rag and suds. In the paint stores there are special soaps for washing outside woods and sidings. Follow instructions. It's a mammoth undertaking, but your house will look like new. If there are special stains, like mildew, use a brush and add some borax, a cup to a gallon of suds.

A carpet has been developed that can take the place of central heating. It will probably be many years before this is on the market, but it sounds good. It is actually an electrically heated underlay from which a connection can be plugged into the wall like an electric blanket. It gives the floor a temperature of from 70-75 degrees and is said to heat the air in the room, evenly.

Men's hat, as well as those designed for women, are currently in the news, but for a different reason. The spotlight, as usual, is on feminine headgear because of the new fashions. The sudden big interest in men's hats has to do with the fact that men's heads are getting bigger all the time!

The trend this spring is to more and heavier jewelry since the casual lines of the chemise silhouette demand it. Heavy chokers or many long strings of beads and chains seem to be the latest.

Gardeners Can Prepare Soil For Plants

While the season is busily converting from lion to lamb, gardeners should be stirring themselves, too, in preparation for one of the busiest periods of the year.

For many of us it doesn't seem to be really garden-time until we have a spading fork in hand, and it is hard to be patient. However, much more harm than good is done by working in too wet soil, and the real test is to scoop up a handful and squeeze it. If the experience results in a mud-pie, drop the soil and put that spade away. If, however, the soil is moist and crumbles in the hand, the time has come to start digging again.

The workable condition of the soil also indicates when it is time to start renovating the established lawn. Spring, as well as fall, is grass-feeding time, and most of us use one of a number of balanced chemical foods specifically formulated for grasses and containing both quick-acting and slow-acting food to be released to the plants over a long growing season. Most of us require a plant food which is high in nitrogen, the element so important in leaf and stem growth.

In buying fertilizer, always look at the three-figure formula—as 5-19-5, 4-12-4 and such — because they show the amount of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash per hundred pounds of food. The first number indicates the nitrogen content, thus a formula of 8-6-4 would contain eight pounds of nitrogen-making material compared with four pounds in a 4-12-4 formulation. I like a 10-6-4 formula for grass.

Fertilizer, in established lawns, is applied generally at a rate of about 20 pounds per thousand square feet. It is best applied evenly with the aid of a mechanical spreader and a wise gardener marks off one area at a time—about 31 feet by 31 feet — for treatment. A good time for feeding is before a rain.

Lime is another material which many gardeners are fond of using.

Turn Useless Walls Into Live Storage Space In Any Home

Most homes have one or more walls that are so located they seem utterly useless. Walls beside doors in heavily traveled areas, such as between kitchen and dining areas, are exceptionally difficult to utilize.

Some designers and architects have found the ideal solution for the useless wall. They design tall, wall - hugging cabinets for glassware and dishes to fit the space.

The key to such an installation is to make it look as nearly a part of the wall as possible. Tall sliding doors, when closed, blend right into the walls. This is particularly true if you use the same wood for the wall cabinets that is used in the rest of the room, whether it is west coast hemlock or Douglas fir. Both serve well for wall paneling and for cabinets because they are so easy to work and can be fitted into any shape and style.

Dozen Shelves

One installation recently designed by a leading western architect contains an even dozen shelves spaced closely together, the cabinet reaching from the floor to ceiling. However, the housewife gets a break in this unit because drawers for linen storage, protruding about six inches beyond the front of the narrow glass cupboard and flush against the floor provide a step so the housewife can reach the top shelf with ease.

Wall units for china and glassware can save many a step if they are located between kitchen and dining room.

The wall cabinet will tie in perfectly with the rest of the kitchen when the same wood is used in the kitchen built-ins and cabinets. In some open area homes, where the kitchen and dining areas are almost one and separated only by a divider counter, architects have used an interesting device for creating unity in design.

Use Hemlock

They have specified flat grain west coast hemlock lumber for all cabinets and wall panel boards. The reason they used this more heavily grained wood was to magnify the similarity of materials in each space, thus using the easily recognized wood as a symbol of unity.

Most architects, when they specify flat - grained hemlock or Douglas fir, like to finish the wood with a clear varnish or lacquer so that all the beauty and texture of the wood can be used as a decorative device.

Either hemlock or fir is easy to finish. Generally, good cabinetmakers will sand and rub down the wood before it is put in place. Then they like to apply a sealer coat which in turn is rubbed down smooth after it has been allowed to dry. Now the wood is in ideal condition for final finishing. Lacquer or varnish or one of the new plastics can be applied several coats deep, always being sure to rub down each coat after it is dry. The more coats you apply, the more beautiful the grain and texture of the wood becomes.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Many Garden Events Coming

By MARY M. JARDINE

As the season progresses many important garden events begin to crowd the calendar. This coming week all gardeners in this area and all over the state are looking forward to the State Flower Show and annual convention of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation in Baton Rouge, LSU Campus on March 29 and 30. Be sure to look over the flowers in your garden and make horticulture entries in this show. We hope the Fifth District will come home with many blue ribbons. In the design division there will be one arrangement from each club. The theme this year is most interesting, "Think on These Things," from Philippians 4:8. Read over this chapter in your Bible and see what a wonderful challenge has been given to the flower designer. By all means plan to drive down and see the show which is open to the public without charge. Show opens Saturday at 4 p.m. and Sunday, March 30 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Spring Show

A beautiful spring flower show was presented by John A. Wright on television this week with the arrangements on display at the Center Wednesday through Saturday. Mr. Wright had as his guest, Joe Ross, a student at Louisiana Tech, who designed a delightful triangular line-mass arrangement. Mr. Ross used a square bowl of modern design in soft gray. The line materials, flowering branches of sassafras were placed in the bowl with one corner facing the viewer, which gave the design a most interesting effect. The triangular pattern was enhanced with placements of Carbineer daffodils. The bronzy - red new growth of photinia branches was placed low in the design for contrast and depth and, incidentally, concealed the needle point holder.

Mr. Wright's first arrangement was whimsical in character and employed a most unusual container. A small railroad lantern painted soft gray held the vertical design. A pear branch, whose leaves are the tender chartreuse green at this time of year, provided the primary placement. Rose pink camellias in bud and bloom with self-foliage emphasized the line. Photinia foliage, taking on a rosy cast from the camellias, was placed at the lip of the container. This unusual design was quite a conversation piece.

Daffodils

A round yellow bowl was selected for the next design. Branches of hydrangea with tender budding leaves were placed in an asymetrical fashion. The linear pattern was glorified with skillful placements of St. Edwin daffodils, with a mass grouping low in the bowl and several over the rim of the container. Delightful to behold.

The large black urn selected for the next design seemed to demand a bold, dramatic mass arrangement because of its size and visual weight. Mr. Wright selected pear branches in full bloom for the large background placements. Large white camellias were placed in a diagonal line within the pattern. White daffodils with pale yellow cups accented the line within the line. Again photinia foliage was used low as a unifying element. Most beautiful staged against a pale green background.

Golden forsythia with graceful, natural curves highlighted the next arrangement. A light beige chalice type container held the sweeping, rhythmic branches of forsythia. The design was accented with pale yellow daffodils. Pear foliage, tucked behind the blossoms provided transition and depth.

As long as the daffodil season lasts we will have many varieties on display at the Garden Center. We invite you to come by and see them. One variety that does well in this area is Carbineer, having a broad flat golden - yellow perianth standing at right angles to the large bright orange - red cup. Excellent in flower arranging.

St. Egwin is the daffodil that has captured my heart this year. The perianth segments are broad and overlapping, slightly spoon-shaped, perfect smooth texture and wonderful substance. The cup is short and beautifully porportioned. The whole flower is uniform clear soft yellow. Very strong grower on very tall stems. Very graceful for arranging and lasts well.

Test Plot

Mr. Wright reports that the following varieties planted in 1954 on the test plot, Tech Campus are Beersheba, Dick Wellband, Fortune, Francisca Drake, Golden Perfection, Carbineer, St. Edgwin, Lovenest, Damson, Nettie O'Melveny, Shot Silk and Twink. In the white varieties, Silver Star, Large cup and the lovely triandus hybrids Thalia and Silver Chimes, a late variety have done well for me.

Mrs. Claude Pumilia, state chairman of the Louisiana Council of Nationally Accredited Flower Show Judges wishes to remind all accredited judges of the annual breakfast, March 30 at 8 a.m., Bellemont Motor Hotel, Baton Rouge. Our speaker is the nationally known Mrs. Robert Kearfortt of New York who will give a lecture demonstration, "Flowers in Glass." The lecture will precede the business meeting. Looking forward to seeing many of you at the state convention.

Divide, Reset Violets Now

By AUDREY DAWSON

It is time to divide and reset your violets. If you need a good ground cover in areas that are too small to mow or if you need something to give change in texture or ground pattern, violets are the answer to your problem.

Iris

Select your favorite varieties of iris while they are in bloom. Our "Louisiana Native Iris" bulletin shows how to transplant and hybridize. You may get a copy by calling FA 3-2251.

Dahlias

Plant now if you want early blooms. Plant on a hill or mound for good drainage and stake at time of planting.

Here are some flower seed which may be sown this month and are popular in many of our gardens: Forget - me - not, sweet alyssum, moonflower, nasturtium, periwinkle, zinnia, blue salvia, four o'clock, phlox, and marigolds.

St. Augustine Grass

Brown patch is a fungus disease that has caused a great deal of concern to many of us here in the Twin Cities who have a St. Augustine lawn. The latest information we have from the U. S. department of agriculture is that the disease appears rapidly during periods of high humidity when daytime temperatures drop from 80 degrees-95 degrees F to 60 degrees-70 degrees F. at night, and dew or fog develops. Excessive nitrogen fertilization increases the extent of this disease.

We have recommended you use the latest insecticide, "Terrachlor" for this and in checking, we have found that it is not available here at present, but will be on the market in your feed and seed stores the last of the week. The other insecticides recommended by our U. S. department of agriculture, "Tersan, Calochlor, or Special Semesan."

Council Meeting

The Home Demonstration Council will meet March 28 at the agriculture building. Mr. J. B. (Red) Swanson, from Southside High School, will talk to the group. You will surely want to hear him.

I have always been proud to say that I lived in Monroe but this past week I was "doubly proud." We had home economists from all over the state in our city and I heard so many, many complimentary remarks—the appearance of the city, the friendliness of the city, the splendid cooperation of all the folks in helping us make the two conventions a success. There were ever so many who helped — orchids are in order to all of you.

Hints to Homemakers

Grease spots may be absorbed on wall paper by rubbing a lump of starch over the spot.

To restore the color to ivory handle knives after they have become yellow, rub them with fine emery or sandpaper. This will restore their whiteness.

When your dishes show brown stains, especially coffee cups, that can't wash off in the dish pan, soak them for a few hours in borax water.

To prevent cheese from getting moldy, wrap in a piece of cheese cloth dampened with vinegar. Place in a covered container occasionally moisten the cloth with vinegar to assure fresh cheese.

It takes 30 per cent more energy to perform household tasks if working height is too low and it takes 16 per cent if working space is too high.

Economy in Ironing

It takes about two minutes for an electric iron to heat. In using your iron if you are stopped by telephone call or doorbell and will use it again within fifteen minutes, leave it on but if longer than twenty minutes it would be more economical to turn it off, so says our Assistant Extension Engineer, Mr. Kenneth A. Koch.

A Thought

It isn't worthwhile to quarrel, dear, no matter how sharp the sting.

Gives Tips On Care Of Shrubs

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The column continues to get inquiries about cutting back damaged shrubs. In most of these requests for information, gardeners wish to know either 1. ". . . if it will hurt my bushes if I cut them to the ground;" or 2. ". . . if it will ruin my bushes if I leave the brown leaves on them."

It will definitely not harm your shrubs to leave them entirely alone until you can see just where they will come out. Sometimes shrubs may lose one or several whole branches. In this case, it is usually better to prune these dead things out and keep shaping a bush until the openings have been closed up by new growth. If a bush is hopeless looking, it still may be necessary to leave the live parts so they may help to nurse back the whole shrub faster. Of course, plants like butterfly bushes and hydrangeas that come back quickly from the roots may just as well be cut to the ground. To do this to a camellia would be foolish. It probably is a grafted camellia, and you may get nothing but the common stock on which your fine variety was budded or grafted.

Evergreens Molt

All broadleaf evergreens will shed some leaves as the new ones come out. This new foliage will help to hide the burned leaves. When fall comes around again, your evergreens will again drop some of the old foliage. This second molting should eliminate all of the damaged leaves from the past winter. Requests are coming to the column about whether to "pick off the dead leaves" or not. If you cannot bear to look at the browned foliage of your favorite gardenia or cape jessamine or some other favorite that is located where you must look at it, then take some scissors or good sharp pruning shears and clip off the bad foliage right where the leaf actually joins its little leaf stem. Do not pull off the leaves, and do not cut or prune off the little leaf stems. These litle stems protect the buds.

Damaged Shrubs

Damaged shrubs will have to be nursed back to normal. Be sure that they are getting a normal amount of feeding. If you overfeed them in an attempt to hasten their growth, you may make them sick. If they are underfed, however, they just cannot be expected to make a normal recovery. Shrubs that are too far gone to recover right away can be shifted to the garden to recuperate, and a new shrub from a nursery will have to be substituted.

Large perennials like daylilies, hollyhocks, sea lavender and many others which do not mind being moved about can be planted in the spot where a damaged shrub has been taken out for recovery. The color from these flowers is cheerful and will conceal the gap for a time.

The E. N. Jackson Home Is Scene Of Afternoon Tea Honoring Mrs. Cadwallader, President W. S. C. S.

The picturesque ante-bellum home on Roselawn of Mrs. E. N. Jackson was the setting for a lovely tea given on Thursday, March 20 in honor of Mrs. Charles Cadwallader, of New Orleans, Conference President of the Women's Society of Christian Service. Other guests in attendance were Methodist Church women from over the state.

Mrs. W. B. Inabnet attired in navy blue chiffon with matching accessories and Mrs. D. C. Metcalf in black peau - de - soie received those calling during the appointed hours of 4-6 o'clock.

Enhancing the entrance hall was a massive arrangement of pink calla lilies in a Swansneck Dresden bowl placed on the marble base of a floor length gold leaf mirror.

Softly lighted tapers burned in the formal living room, the dining room, the solarium and family room, shedding a warm glow together with that of the pink and white Dresden china chandeliers from Germany, admired in the living room and the crystal imported Theresa chandeliers from Czechoslovakia overhanging the tea table in the dining room.

The rose carved marble fireplace in the living room, over which hung an oblong opague antique mirror, reflected the pink hue of the calla lilies, arranged in an Italian china bowl. Also through the mirror could be seen those forming the recieving line composed of Mrs. E. N. Jackson, the hostess, who was wearing mauve colored net with irridescents and matching stole; Mrs. Charles Cadwallader, the honoree, in a softly draped charcoal chiffon and satin over pink; Mrs. L. B. Kilpatrick in gray lace; Mrs. Clyde Stuntz, attractively dressed in a satin attire formerly worn by her in Pakistan attending funcions for royal personages; Mrs. James T. Harris in rose crepe with embroidered rhinestones; Mrs. A. J. Ensminger in cream linen and lace; Mrs. Paul Ransom in soft ivory lace.

Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. F. L. Jones and Miss Ola Mae Pennington directed the guests to the dining room.

Holding focal interest was an antique alabaster pedastal on which was an ebony compote filled wih pink lilies.

Registering guests at different hours were Mrs. E. C. Gibson and Mrs. S. M. Abel.

In the dining room serving coffee and tea from a handsome English silver service were Mrs. C. E. McKenzie in a soft black organza and Mrs. W. S. Peck, of Sicily Island, who was lovely in cream lace over taffeta; Mrs. S. E. Cathey of Bastrop daintily dressed in pastel blue and Mrs. J. E. Walsworth wearing biege chiffon.

Centering the tea table was an unusual arrangement of pink lilies in an heirloom Dresden epergne, which carried out the all pink theme.

From the handpainted punch bowl placed on a pink iron glass top table in the solarium alternately pouring were Mrs. Neal McHenry in lace chiffon and Mrs. Armand McHenry Sr. in a French crepe. Serving also from a beautiful silver punch bowl in the family room were Mrs. Corbin Turpin and Mrs. Jack T. Jackson.

Assisting in other courtesies of the afternoon were Madames Mike John Jr., Clark Ransom, Aimee Cook, Warren Breard, C. S. Stansell, Gentry Jones, Harold Woods, Jr., Fred Sartor, Benton Wakefield, Jr., Fred Huenefeld, Jr., D. V. Loflin, Bob Ellen, W. M. Inabnet, Charles Mulhearn Thad Ryan and A. B. Myatt Jr.

ASSISTING WITH house courtesies at the Methodist afternoon tea were, left to right, Mrs. W. M. Inabnet, Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr., Mrs. Neal McHenry, and Mrs. Paul Ransom.

The Music Guild's luncheon last Thursday provided a delightful beginning for the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs convention. Highlighting the occasion was the program of Louisiana music sung by the Music Guild chorus under the direction of Mrs. Wayne Medley, with Betty Pope as accompanist. After luncheon the convention opened with the entire convention body, led by Mrs. Estelle Sanders, joining in the singing of the Federation humn.

Thursday evening's concert by the Twin City Symphony brought excited praise from convention visitors for the conductor, Dr. Harry Lemert, and the guest soloist, Cecelia Pate Ward. Noted in the receiving line at the after-concert reception in the home of NLSC President and Mrs. Lewis Slater were Mr. and Mrs. Slater, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Ethridge, Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn, Mrs. Ronald A. Dougan of Beloit, Wis., Cecelia Pate Ward, Mrs. Leslie D. Fain of Alexandria, Dr. Lemert and Mrs. Lemert, Mr. Eloy Fominaya, Mrs. Frank A. Vought of Paincourtville, Mrs. Luther A. Beene of Shreveport, Mrs. Felix Willey, Mrs. W. Carruth Jones of Baton Rouge, Mrs. Malcolm Dougherty of Jackson, Mrs. Ray Magruder, Mrs. Rabun Wroten, Mrs. H. G. McDonald and Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr.

The Fine Arts club entertained at luncheon on Friday and presented the Haynesville music club chorus in a well-received program. More excellent choral singing was heard later that day as convention hosts proudly presented the Northeast Singers, the well-known NLSC choral group directed by Lee W. Fiser. Beth Brown and Carole Eady were accompanists.

Among important items of business completed during Friday's session was the re-election of Mrs. Leslie D. Fain to the presidency of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs. Serving with Mrs. Fain are Mrs. Sidney V. Vega of Donaldsonville, vice president; Mrs. Malcolm Dougherty of Jackson, parliamentarian; Mrs. H. G. McDonald of Monroe, recording secretary, Mrs. Malcolm C. Downs of Alexandria, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. H. Miller of Baton Rouge, treasurer; and Mrs. James Butler of Cheneyville, historian. The newly-elected officers were installed in an impressive ceremony conducted by Miss Emy Lou Biedenharn.

Mrs. Ronald A. Dougan, president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, was guest of honor at the Musical Coterie's dinner at Bayou DeSiard country club Friday evening, and a program of songs by Baton Rouge soprano Katherine Landry Hansen supplied a brilliant climax to convention entertainment. Mrs. Hansen, after graduating from L. S. U. where she studied with the late Pasquale Amato, has studied extensively with New York coaches and has won several Federation-sponsored competitions. Her accompanist was Mrs. W. Carruth Jones. Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., convention chairman, chose this occasion to present silver trays, gifts from their Monroe hosts, to Mrs. Dougan, Mrs. Fain and Mrs. Vought.

Among those active in convention planning were Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, who presided at Friday evening's dinner party, Mrs. R. L. Morgan, chairman of the Music Guild luncheon, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, hostess at the Fine Arts Club's luncheon, and Mrs. F. V. Allison, who handled arrangements for Saturday's junior day luncheon. Presidents of the hostess clubs are Mrs. Ray Magruder, Fine Arts Club, Mrs. Rabun Wroten, Music Guild, and Mrs. H. G. McDonald, Musical Coterie.

Newly Elected Officers Of The Louisiana FMC

Saturday's convention of the junior members of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs saw the election of Monroe's Ginger Donald as new state president, succeeding Coralie Heard White of West Monroe. Other officers elected Saturday are Gwin Sorrells of Lake Charles, vice-president, and Michele Moore of Shreveport, secretary. The new officers were installed by Mrs. Luther A. Beene, national board member from Shreveport.

Diane McGee, president of the Chansonnettes, introduced the Ouachita Parish high school boys' ensemble, who entertained the young convention visitors during the morning session. Members of the ensemble, whose director is Miss Ramona Cormier, are Jerry Thomas, Bobby Massangile, William Haley, Mickey Moody, Tommy Poulan, Robert Wilhite, John Talley and Don Mears. Their accompanist was Ashley Johnson.

Greetings to the 1958 convention body were extended by Ginger Donald, president of the A Sharp Coterie, and the Moment Musicale Coterie's president, Jan Gramling, led the group in reciting the juvenile pledge. Diane White, La Petite Musicale president, led the junior pledge.

The Moment Musicale Coterie brought further honor to Monroe as it won the award for the most attractive banner displayed at Saturday's meeting. Scrapbook, attendance and activities awards were won by Les B. B. B. de Musique, a very active Lake Charles group whose counselor is Mrs. Mamie Oliver.

Entertainment at Saturday's luncheon in the Virginia Hotel ballroom featured impressive performances by three young winners of federation competitions. They were Lynda Lee Kirkpatrick of Lafayette, winner of superior rating for junior composition; Patty Bruening of Shreveport, recipient of the Mrs. W. Carruth Jones scholarship to Transylvania music camp; and Sylvia Chambless, Shreveport, winner of the Louisiana auditions for the Edgar Stillman Kelley scholarship, a national award. Mrs. Frank A. Vought, state junior counselor, presided at the luncheon, which brought to a close the 1958 convention.

Attends Annual CAR Conference

The Louisiana State Society of the Children of the American Revolution held its annual state conference in Shreveport, March 21 and 22nd. Conference headquarters was the Captain Shreve Hotel.

Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society had a good representation with the following members attending: Jane O. Williams, state president, presided at all meetings; Peggy Pierce, state registrar and chapter president, George "Bucky" Buckner, Noel Standley, Patty Prophit, Anna Williams, "Bunny" Buckner, Dottie Amman, Minta Goyne, Kay Jones, Anna Armstrong, Tommie Sparks, Billy Works, and Henry Cole. Mrs. James D. Sparks and Mrs. Wood Thompson, along with Mrs. P. R. Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. S. W. McLean accompanied the members.

Great things were in store for those attending. A beautiful dinner dance, and stunt night was enjoyed on Friday evening. The processional assembled at 8:30 on Saturday morning and marched into the convention at 9:00. Lt. Joseph Bowmar had several members in the processional, among whom were Kay Jones and Bunny Buckner as pages. Peggy Pierce as state registrar and chapter president, and Jane O. Williams as state president.

After the convention a sumptuous luncheon was held at which time David Kemker, candidate for national president gave a talk and a response was given by Edna Ray Black of Sarasota, Florida. Edna Ray is running as a national vice president.

There was a memorial service at 2:30 on Saturday afternoon which concluded the activities.

A tour of Barksdale Field was planned for those who had time to take advantage of the interesting trip.

Colorful Helanca stretch tights now come in patterns. The one-piéce stockings and panties are shown in checks and stripes. Colors include red or black with white.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Eleanor Aldrich, daughter of Mrs. Luther W. Aldrich and the late Mr. Aldrich, to Clarance Sheppard of Philadelphia. Pa. The ceremony will be performed April 12, at two-thirty in the afternoon.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss McDuffie And Randall F. Barron

Of local interest is the marriage of Miss Shirley Estelle McDuffie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton L. McDuffie of Eudora, Arkansas, to Randall Franklin Barron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Barron of Oak Grove.

The wedding was an event of March 14, at seven-thirty in the evening at the First Baptist Church in Eudora. The Rev. Homer A. Bradley performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white gladioli, stock and fern, flanked by tall burning white tapers.

Miss Nancy Walker sang "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Benson H. Cashion at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of peau de saie, fashioned with a fitted bodice, short sleeves and sabrina neckline embroidered in sequins and seed pearls. The bouffant skirt fell into a chapel train and her finger tip veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped by a large white orchid.

Mrs. Glen Toms, matron of honor, was gowned in ice blue crystalette, ballerina length, with matching fitted bolera and a Queen Ann collar. The long sleeves ended in lily points over the wrists. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Ragna Peterson of Eudora and Miss Carolyn Wilhite of Oildale, Calif. Their gowns were identical to the matron of honor.

The candlelighters were Alice Ann Booten of Monroe, and David Barron of Oak Grove. Charles Pollard served the groom as best man. The ushers were Joe Purvis, F. H. Reagan and Leroy Hafner, all of Ruston.

A reception held in the fellowship hall of the church immediately followed the ceremony.

The couple will be at home in Ruston.

STARS LIKE SPRING HATS

Hollywood and Broadway personalities are besieging their favorite shops for new Spring hats. Among those who are the leaders are Marilyn Monroe with a particularly feminine and flattering straw trimmed with a huge rose, Roz Russell who selected a chic turban of tiger-stripe printed silk chiffon, and Julie Wilson who picked a gay yellow picture hat.

A small cork tacked low on backs of picture frames will prevent dark lines on walls.

The Music Guild's luncheon last Thursday provided a delightful beginning for the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs convention. Highlighting the occasion was the program of Louisiana music sung by the Music Guild chorus under the direction of Mrs. Wayne Medley, with Betty Pope as accompanist. After luncheon the convention opened with the entire convention body, led by Mrs. Estelle Sanders, joining in the singing of the Federation humn.

Thursday evening's concert by the Twin City Symphony brought excited praise from convention visitors for the conductor, Dr. Harry Lemert, and the guest soloist, Cecelia Pate Ward. Noted in the receiving line at the after-concert reception in the home of NLSC President and Mrs. Lewis Slater were Mr. and Mrs. Slater, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Ethridge, Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn, Mrs. Ronald A. Dougan of Beloit, Wis., Cecelia Pate Ward, Mrs. Leslie D. Fain of Alexandria, Dr. Lemert and Mrs. Lemert, Mr. Eloy Fominaya, Mrs. Frank A. Vought of Paincourtville, Mrs. Luther A. Beene of Shreveport, Mrs. Felix Willey, Mrs. W. Carruth Jones of Baton Rouge, Mrs. Malcolm Dougherty of Jackson, Mrs. Ray Magruder, Mrs. Rabun Wroten, Mrs. H. G. McDonald and Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr.

The Fine Arts club entertained at luncheon on Friday and presented the Haynesville music club chorus in a well-received program. More excellent choral singing was heard later that day as convention hosts proudly presented the Northeast Singers, the well-known NLSC choral group directed by Lee W. Fiser. Beth Brown and Carole Eady were accompanists.

Among important items of business completed during Friday's session was the re-election of Mrs. Leslie D. Fain to the presidency of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs. Serving with Mrs. Fain are Mrs. Sidney V. Vega of Donaldsonville, vice president; Mrs. Malcolm Dougherty of Jackson, parliamentarian; Mrs. H. G. McDonald of Monroe, recording secretary, Mrs. Malcolm C. Downs of Alexandria, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. H. Miller of Baton Rouge, treasurer; and Mrs. James Butler of Cheyneyville, historian. The newly-elected officers were installed in an impressive ceremony conducted by Miss Emy Lou Biedenharn.

Mrs. Ronald A. Dougan, president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, was guest of honor at the Musical Coterie's dinner at Bayou DeSiard country club Friday evening, and a program of songs by Baton Rouge soprano Katherine Landry Hansen supplied a brilliant climax to convention entertainment. Mrs. Hansen, after graduating from L. S. U. where she studied with the late Pasquale Amato, has studied extensively with New York coaches and has won several Federation-sponsored competitions. Her accompanist was Mrs. W. Carruth Jones. Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., convention chairman, chose this occasion to present silver trays, gifts from their Monroe hosts, to Mrs. Dougan, Mrs. Fain and Mrs. Vought.

Among those active in convention planning were Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, who presided at Friday evening's dinner party, Mrs. R. L. Morgan, chairman of the Music Guild luncheon, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, hostess at the Fine Arts Club's luncheon, and Mrs. F. V. Allison, who handled arrangements for Saturday's junior day luncheon. Presidents of the hostess clubs are Mrs. Ray Magruder, Fine Arts Club, Mrs. Rabun Wroten, Music Guild, and Mrs. H. G. McDonald, Musical Coterie.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Eleanor Aldrich, daughter of Mrs. Luther W. Aldrich and the late Mr. Aldrich, to Clarance Sheppard of Philadelphia. Pa. The ceremony will be performed April 12, at two-thirty in the afternoon.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss McDuffie And Randall F. Barron

Of local interest is the marriage of Miss Shirley Estelle McDuffie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton L. McDuffie of Eudora, Arkansas, to Randall Franklin Barron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Barron of Oak Grove.

The wedding was an event of March 14, at seven-thirty in the evening at the First Baptist Church in Eudora. The Rev. Homer A. Bradley performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white gladioli, stock and fern, flanked by tall burning white tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of peau de saie, fashioned with a fitted bodice, short sleeves and sabrina neckline embroidered in sequins and seed pearls. The bouffant skirt fell into a chapel train and her finger tip veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped by a large white orchid.

Mrs. Glen Toms, matron of honor, was gowned in ice blue crystalette, ballerina length, with matching fitted bolera and a Queen Ann collar. The long sleeves ended in lily points over the wrists. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Ragna Peterson of Eudora and Miss Carolyn Wilhite of Oildale, Calif. Their gowns were identical to the matron of honor.

The candlelighters were Alice Ann Booten of Monroe, and David Barron of Oak Grove. Charles Pollard served the groom as best man. The ushers were Joe Purvis, F. H. Reagan and Leroy Hafner, all of Ruston.

A reception held in the fellowship hall of the church immediately followed the ceremony.

The couple will be at home in Ruston.

STARS LIKE SPRING HATS

Hollywood and Broadway personalities are besieging their favorite shops for new Spring hats. Among those who are the leaders are Marilyn Monroe with a particularly feminine and flattering straw trimmed with a huge rose, Roz Russell who selected a chic turban of tiger-stripe printed silk chiffon, and Julie Wilson who picked a gay yellow picture hat.

A small cork tacked low on backs of picture frames will prevent dark lines on walls.

Newly Elected Officers Of The Louisiana FMC

Saturday's convention of the junior members of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs saw the election of Monroe's Ginger Donald as new state president, succeeding Coralie Heard White of West Monroe. Other officers elected Saturday are Gwin Sorrells of Lake Charles, vice-president, and Michele Moore of Shreveport, secretary. The new officers were installed by Mrs. Luther A. Beene, national board member from Shreveport.

Diane McGee, president of the Chansonnettes, introduced the Ouachita Parish high school boys' ensemble, who entertained the young convention visitors during the morning session. Members of the ensemble, whose director is Miss Ramona Cormier, are Jerry Thomas, Bobby Massangile, William Haley, Mickey Moody, Tommy Poulan, Robert Wilhite, John Talley and Don Mears. Their accompanist was Ashley Johnson.

Greetings to the 1958 convention body were extended by Ginger Donald, president of the A Sharp Coterie, and the Moment Musicale Coterie's president, Jan Gramling, led the group in reciting the juvenile pledge. Diane White, La Petite Musicale president, led the junior pledge.

The Moment Musicale Coterie brought further honor to Monroe as it won the award for the most attractive banner displayed at Saturday's meeting. Scrapbook, attendance and activities awards were won by Les B. B. B. de Musique, a very active Lake Charles group whose counselor is Mrs. Mamie Oliver.

Entertainment at Saturday's luncheon in the Virginia Hotel ballroom featured impressive performances by three young winners of federation competitions. They were Lynda Lee Kirkpatrick of Lafayette, winner of superior rating for junior composition; Patty Bruening of Shreveport, recipient of the Mrs. W. Carruth Jones scholarship to Transylvania music camp; and Sylvia Chambless, Shreveport, winner of the Louisiana auditions for the Edgar Stillman Kelley scholarship, a national award. Mrs. Frank A. Vought, state junior counselor, presided at the luncheon, which brought to a close the 1958 convention.

Attends Annual CAR Conference

The Louisiana State Society of the Children of the American Revolution held its annual state conference in Shreveport, March 21 and 22nd. Conference headquarters was the Captain Shreve Hotel.

Lt. Joseph Bowmar Society had a good representation with the following members attending: Jane O. Williams, state president, presided at all meetings; Peggy Pierce, state registrar and chapter president, George "Bucky" Buckner, Noel Standley, Patty Prophit, Anna Williams, "Bunny" Buckner, Dottie Amman, Minta Goyne, Kay Jones, Anna Armstrong, Tommie Sparks, Billy Works, and Henry Cole. Mrs. James D. Sparks and Mrs. Wood Thompson, along with Mrs. P. R. Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. S. W. McLean accompanied the members.

Great things were in store for those attending. A beautiful dinner dance, and stunt night was enjoyed on Friday evening. The processional assembled at 8:30 on Saturday morning and marched into the convention at 9:00. Lt. Joseph Bowmar had several members in the processional, among whom were Kay Jones and Bunny Buckner as pages. Peggy Pierce as state registrar and chapter president, and Jane O. Williams as state president.

After the convention a sumptuous luncheon was held at which time David Kemker, candidate for national president gave a talk and a response was given by Edna Ray Black of Sarasota, Florida. Edna Ray is running as a national vice president.

There was a memorial service at 2:30 on Saturday afternoon which concluded the activities.

A tour of Barksdale Field was planned for those who had time to take advantage of the interesting trip.

Colorful Helanca stretch tights now come in patterns. The one-piéce stockings and panties are shown in checks and stripes. Colors include red or black with white.

Famous Artist Urges More Hat Wearing

Artist Jon Whitcomb, who has been idealiziag the American woman in magazine and advertising illustrations for 20 years, says every woman "shou'd try to build a hat wardrobe."

"A woman can look prettier in a hat — if it's the right hat," he said. "A woman should select a hat for its color and it's shape in relation to her face, height, and hairstyle."

Whitcomb, who has just completed painting six of America's most celebrated women in their new spring hats declared a woman is "not well dressed without a hat on the street, at a public luncheon, or at a cocktail party."

"It's wrong to ever think one hat is enough," he said. "Different hats are needed for different costumes, and different occasions. A hat can create an effect upon its wearer — make her feel romantic or confident — and it can also have an effect upon the wearer's audience. When choosing a hat for a particular occasion, a woman should decide how she wants to feel — and the effect she wants to create."

The six women Whitcomb has painted are Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Elsa Maxwell, Marilyn Monroe, Kathryn Grant (Mrs. Bing Crosby), and Lucille Ball.

On Dit'

by Denise

Spring, as of Friday, is officially with us. Some of our flowers have not yet attained their full bloom, but the change of season has been gloriously apparent in the redbud trees, the Japanese magnolia, the flowering quince, and the bulbs that have appeared side by side with the late camellias. Narcissus, King Alfreds, pansies, violets, hyacinths, and even a few tulips have shown their heads already.

Seasonal sight of the week was beheld Sunday afternoon at the R. L. KIPER residence on Park Avenue. Cooney was in the top of his chimney, clearing out vines and looking for all the world like Santa Claus in spring training.

We have always been inordinately proud of our gardens, and now comes evidence that it's not only the home folks who consider our horticulture something special. The new project of having conducted tours of our yards got underway this week with the arrival of a busload of ladies from Dumas, Ark. These members of the Highway and Byway Garden Club debarked at the Chamber of Commerce office, where they were met by their hostesses, BETTY BIEDENHARN and JANE OLIVER of the Monroe Garden Club. The visitors enjoyed lunch and then toured the garden of MR. and MRS. ROBERT LAYTON at the Layton Castle; Bernbet Farm in West Monroe; the yards of DR. and MRS. A. G. M'HENRY and of MISS EMY LOU BIEDENHARN, both on Riverside Drive; and the lovely bayou site of DR. and MRS. R. M. SIMONTON on Deborah drive.

Another event attracting out of town visitors was the Tulane conference, an annual affair which is steadily growing in scope and attendance. Nearly 200 persons including a number of high school students who were guests of the Monroe Alumni Club, were present at the Sunday luncheon which opened the conference. DR. CLARENCE SCHEPS, vice - president and comptroller of Tulane, was speaker. Following the lunch, the group split up into panel groups for discussion of six topics ranging through foreign police, the live theatre, and nutrition and dieting. Among those present were: MR. and MRS. BILL KNOBLES of Lake Providence, CARNEAL GOLDMAN and STATHUM CROSBY of Waterproof, WALTER ENETE of St. Joseph, MR. and MRS. LEO LOWENTRITT and son HENRY, and MR. and MRS. LOUIS LOWENTRITT of Winnsboro, DR. R. L. ROPP, president of Louisiana Tech, with MRS. ROPP, and MISS ELIZABETH BETHEA of Ruston, the REV. and MRS. SIDNEY SEEGERS of Columbia, MR. and MRS. CAREY ELLIS, JR., and MRS. ENNIS GREEN of Rayville.

Surely the most feted couple of the season has been the ED SEYMOURS, JR., who continue to be honored with varied and always interesting types of parties. The St. Patrick's Day coffee hosted by JOYCE KELLOGG and MILDRED VANDERPOOL in the Kellogg home was attended by about four hundred beautifully turned - out ladies. CHRIS BARTON wore an orange cloche with her grey chemise . . . MARGE MULLENS' straw bowler featured a red polka - dotted silk band and streamers . . . DARLENE CROSSLAND chose a black straw Breton with her chemise printed in large squares of varying shades of grey . . . MABEL RATLIFF was in navy sheer crepe, her navy hat lightened with two pale blue feather wings . . . ANN VAN VECKHOVEN was in the print featured in Vogue as the hit of the season — blue roses on green silk . . . EVELYN MOORE's earrings exactly matched the straw flowers encircling her deep bowler. Her mother, MRS C. P. JARRELL of Columbia, wore a beige tweed chemise trimmed with a white linen fold down the front and big white buttons . . . EDITH GUNBY wore a black straw cloche and a magnificant Galatea camellia . . . VIVIAN FRAZIER's deep bowler hat was fashioned of silk printed all over in spring flowers . . . DOT ROREX complimented her beige outfit with an orange flower at her throat and orange chiffon bound round her hat.

Also honoring Anna Claire Seymour was the bridal luncheon given by LOUISE THEUS and SUE STUBBS in the Stubbs home on Wednesday. Hyacinths and spring bulbs were used on the dining table and, in combination with camellias, throughout the house. A delicious meal, beginning with crab meat and continuing to the hostesses' famous maple mousse and angel food cake, was served to BUNNY LINER, OLIVE SARTOR, SISTER PRIMOS, SALLIE OLIVER, FRAN GUTHRIE, DIANNA WILSON, and CISSY RYAN.

The patio party at the HAROLD WOODS camp Sunday evening featured the most unusual of decorations. Orange trees, both two and three dimensional, were used throughout the house. They were made of fresh oranges, gardenia foliage, pearlized orange blossoms, with artificial bees and butterflies hovering over all. About 150 guests were present, including MR and MRS. RUPERT CAMPBELL and DR. and MRS. RICHARD BROWN of Shreveport.

The Goose That Lays the Golden Egg was the theme of the DEWITT MILAMS' kitchen shower for the young Seymours last week. Each table was centered with a goose on a nest, with the head table having the golden goose herself. Her wings were made of rubber spatulas, and she wore a hat of kitchen sponge and sink stopper earrings. Each of her eggs bore a rhyme and stated a stunt that the bridal couple must perform before opening the next package. They ended up bedecked in aprons, garden gloves, bandanas, and lots of egg slicers and mousetraps. A chicken spaghetti supper with all the trimmings was served to the twenty - six guests.

Skating parties continue to be the thing with the primary school set. CARROLL HUSTED celebrated her ninth birthday by inviting her third grade chums to skate. Winning prizes in the musical numbers game were MARGARET ANN MILES, JESSE COLVIN, and MIKE MILES. Doughnuts and drinks were served . . . First graders were guests of BILL EDMONDSON at his seventh birthday party Wednesday. Judged the best skaters were BARBARA BLACK and RICHARD BUCKNER. Cupcakes and soft drinks comprised the refreshments served to some forty children.

The JIM ADCOCKS entertained at a small dinner party Saturday night. Daffodils and yellow jasmine were used on the serving table, where guests were tempted with ham, asparagus casserole, cheese rolls, and an extra-special tart congealed salad. Individual tables were centered with a large candle encircled with camellias. . . . Later the group adjourned to the den for French pastries and coffee. Here the table was graced with brass scales holding quince and camellias. Special guest for this affair was BENNIE HOUSE, former Monroyan now living in Houston.

Five local couples drove to Ruston Saturday night for a surprise visit to the EMMETT MITCHELLS, JR., in their new home there. The unexpected guests brought their own shrimp salad, cheese dips, and assorted sandwiches for a regular housewarming. Going over were the CAVITT COOKSTONS, A. C. WARNERS, BILLY EDMONDSONS, G. A. THARPES, and the TOM HYLANDS.

Today our poem is by John Burroughs, entitled "Waiting":

Serene, I fold my hands and wait,
Nor care for wind nor tide nor sea;
I rave no more 'gainst time or fate,
For lo! my own shall come to me.
I stay my haste, I make delays—
For what avails this eager pace?
I stand amid the eternal ways
And what is mine shall know my face.
What matter if I stand alone?
I wait with joy the coming years;
My heart shall reap where it has sown,
And garner up its fruit of tears.
The stars come nightly to the sky;
The tidal wave unto the sea;
Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
Can keep my own away from me.

Citrus Colors In Cosmetics

Fashion experts agree that hats in citrus colors will be important this Spring. In cosmetics, the citrus colored hat requires a sunny, warm - toned make-up. Orange-toned lipstick and rouge, plus golden beige powder and foundation, are the color clues to flattery when you wear the sun - kissed new hats in citrus tones.

On Dit'

by Denise

Spring, as of Friday, is officially with us. Some of our flowers have not yet attained their full bloom, but the change of season has been gloriously apparent in the redbud trees, the Japanese magnolia, the flowering quince, and the bulbs that have appeared side by side with the late camellias. Narcissus, King Alfreds, pansies, violets, hyacinths, and even a few tulips have shown their heads already.

Seasonal sight of the week was beheld Sunday afternoon at the R. L. KIPER residence on Park Avenue. Cooney was in the top of his chimney, clearing out vines and looking for all the world like Santa Claus in spring training.

We have always been inordinately proud of our gardens, and now comes evidence that it's not only the home folks who consider our horticulture something special. The new project of having conducted tours of our yards got underway this week with the arrival of a busload of ladies from Dumas, Ark. These members of the Highway and Byway Garden Club debarked at the Chamber of Commerce office, where they were met by their hostesses, BETTY BIEDENHARN and JANE OLIVER of the Monroe Garden Club. The visitors enjoyed lunch and then toured the garden of MR. and MRS. ROBERT LAYTON at the Layton Castle; Bernbet Farm in West Monroe; the yards of DR. and MRS. A. G. M'HENRY and of MISS EMY LOU BIEDENHARN, both on Riverside Drive; and the lovely bayou site of DR. and MRS. R. M. SIMONTON on Deborah drive.

Another event attracting out of town visitors was the Tulane conference, an annual affair which is steadily growing in scope and attendance. Nearly 200 persons including a number of high school students who were guests of the Monroe Alumni Club, were present at the Sunday luncheon which opened the conference. DR. CLARENCE SCHEPS, vice - president and comptroller of Tulane, was speaker. Following the lunch, the group split up into panel groups for discussion of six topics ranging through foreign police, the live theatre, and nutrition and dieting. Among those present were: MR. and MRS. BILL KNOBLES of Lake Providence, CARNEAL GOLDMAN and STATHUM CROSBY of Waterproof, WALTER ENETE of St. Joseph, MR. and MRS. LEO LOWENTRITT and son HENRY, and MR. and MRS. LOUIS LOWENTRITT of Winnsboro, DR. R. L. ROPP, president of Louisiana Tech, with MRS. ROPP, and MISS ELIZABETH BETHEA of Ruston, the REV. and MRS. SIDNEY SEEGERS of Columbia, MR. and MRS. CAREY ELLIS, JR., and MRS. ENNIS GREEN of Rayville.

Surely the most feted couple of the season has been the ED SEYMOURS, JR., who continue to be honored with varied and always interesting types of parties. The St. Patrick's Day coffee hosted by JOYCE KELLOGG and MILDRED VANDERPOOL in the Kellogg home was attended by about four hundred beautifully turned - out ladies. CHRIS BARTON wore an orange cloche with her grey chemise . . . MARGE MULLENS' straw bowler featured a red polka - dotted silk band and streamers . . . DARLENE CROSSLAND chose a black straw Breton with her chemise printed in large squares of varying shades of grey . . . MABEL RATLIFF was in navy sheer crepe, her navy hat lightened with two pale blue feather wings . . . ANN VAN VECKHOVEN was in the print featured in Vogue as the hit of the season — blue roses on green silk . . . EVELYN MOORE's earrings exactly matched the straw flowers encircling her deep bowler. Her mother, MRS C. P. JARRELL of Columbia, wore a beige tweed chemise trimmed with a white linen fold down the front and big white buttons . . . EDITH GUNBY wore a black straw cloche and a magnificant Galatea camellia . . . VIVIAN FRAZIER's deep bowler hat was fashioned of silk printed all over in spring flowers . . . DOT ROREX complimented her beige outfit with an orange flower at her throat and orange chiffon bound round her hat.

LT. AND MRS. EDWIN T. HOLLOWAY

Miss Dull, Edwin T. Holloway United In Military Ceremony

The First Methodist Church in Connellsville, Pennsylvania, was the scene of a military ceremony, which united in marriage Miss Marjorie Ann Dull and Edwin T. Holloway. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin R. Dull of Connellsville and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Holloway of this city. The Reverend Buterbaugh officiated the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with potted palms and fern. Urns filled with white gladioli and pompoms were placed on the altar flanked by four branches candelabra burning white tapers. Large satin ribbons marked the family pews.

A program of tranditional music was presented by Mrs. Dorothy Mingle, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. John Shearer. Included in the selections were "Because," "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her floor length gown of chantilly lace and nylon tulle, fashioned with a mandarin neckline encrusted with sequin and seed pearls. The long sleeves tapered into petal points over the hands. The voluminous skirt was of lace panels and applique over rows of tulle ruffles. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a lace cap and she carried a cascade of pink and white rosebuds, with streamers of ivy and tufts of white satin ribbon.

Miss Norma Jean Ulery attended the bride as maid of honor. She was attired in a waltz-length pink chiffon with a matching lace picture hat and mitts. She wore dyed - to - match satin slippers and her bouquet was of pink and white carnations with streamers of ivy and tufts of blue satin ribbon. Miss Glenda Dull attended her sister as junior maid of honor and she wore a gown identical to Miss Ulery's with a picture brim headpiece and identical flowers. Bridesmaids included Miss Janice Jo Barclay of Washington, D. C., Miss Beryl Sach of North Dakota, and Miss Louise Dappelheuer. They were dressed in blue chiffon attire, fashioned as the maid of honor's. They carried cascade bouquets of pink and white carnations. Little Miss Pamela Rose Hay, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and she wore a floor length dress of white chiffon with a picture brim headpiece trimmed with white blossoms and carried a pink and white basket filled with rose petals.

Lt. Harold P. Southerland of Panama City, Florida, served the groom as best man. Capt. Charles G. White of Waldorf, Maryland; Lt. Jerry C. Frecka of Irontown, Ohio; Lt. Charles F. Swesey of Ithica, New York; and Lt. Jack T. Munsey of Connellsville, were ushers. Larry Dull, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the social rooms of the church. The bride's table, overlaid in white linen, bore the four - tier wedding confection with matching crystal candle holders burning white tapers placed on either side. Twin silver services were placed at opposite ends of the table. Over a hundred and fifty guests attended the reception.

The bride chose for travel a pink wool jersey sheath with accents of black. She wore a corsage of pink and white roses. The newlyweds departed on their wedding trip to the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia, on Monday, March 10. They will be at home in Washington, D. C., 325 Irvington Street, upon return.

The bride is a graduate of Connellsville Joint High School and the groom is a West Pointer.

Out - of - town guests attending the event from Louisiana were Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Holloway, Mrs. L. C. Parker of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. Walter Scott of Alexandria.

Girl Scout News

Echoes of Girl Scout Week are still coming in, showing that most troops took part in the celebration in some way. Troop 11, Brownie Scouts, under the leadership of Mrs. George Porter, presented a program at Lida Benton P.-T. A. Using an acrostic, "Brownie Scout Troop," each girl told of some part of the program of the troop. Concluding the program, the girls gave the Brownie Scout Promise and sang the "Brownie Smile Song."

Tuesday, Citizenship day in Girl Scout Week, happens to be the meeting day of Troop 48. As a part of the troop's learning about their community, the girls and their leaders visited the Ft. Miro D. A. R. Chapter house on the courthouse grounds. Eight of the chapter members came down to meet the girls and show them the mementos of a by-gone age. A spoon glass and a handmade coverlet made with wool carded by hand seemed to interest the girls particularly. The girls gave the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag in an appropriate ceremony.

Troop 48 recently celebrated the troop birthday with a birthday cake sent by Linda Battistone's mother. Townley Creighton was invested at the meeting and the girls received membership cards, most of them to start their fourth year in Scouting. Two new girls Susie Wright and Pamela Pomeroy, have recently come into the troop. Other girls receiving membership cards are: Ruth Ann Armstrong, Linda Battistone, Brenda Carso, Marilyn Denoux, Mary Echols, Suzanne Fisher, Kay Joyce, Janet Kiper, Pat Pickett, Mary Elizabeth Reynolds, Catherine Stone, Linda Williams, Dianne Wormack, Mary Alice Yeldell.

Mrs. M. A. Denoux and Mrs. Floyd Stone are leaders of the troop.

Troop 73 at Shady Grove School, Mrs. Herbert Kennedy, leader, held a family night meeting during Scout Scout Week, sharing with the parents the plans they have made and the fun they have had. Organizations meetings are being held at the school to see about troops for girls of other age groups.

Troop 24, observed Health and Safety day with First Aid demonstrations, the girls especially being interested in the workings of a snake bite kit, their leader, Mrs. Edmund Middleton, states.

Troop 35, Mrs. Artis Kitchens and Mrs. Rupert Dunn, leaders, celebrated the Girl Scout birthday in traditional style with cake and candles. These girls are third graders at Plum Street School. Mrs. J. R. Goins and Mrs. J. E. Murphy, with a troop in the same school, say that their girls showed more enthusiasm for the pottery project than anything else they have done. The girls were proud as punch to carry home the little bowls they had made and decorated themselves.

Friday night at 7:30 is the camp rally at Georgia Tucker School. It's for families and everybody interested in camp. Attraction will be the showing of the slides taken at Pine Wood last summer.

Ceremony Unites Miss Faye Rogan And Gerald Lane

TALLULAH — Miss Faye Rogan and Gerald Lane, both of Baton Rouge, La., were married at the Methodist parsonage in Woodville, Miss., on March 8 with the Rev. E. E. Price officiating. Their attendants were Mrs. Mel Marcel and Caleb Mire.

Miss Rogan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Rogan of Tallulah and Mr. Lane is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Lane of Ada, Okla.

The bride was attired in a white linen sheath dress and embroidered jacket, white hat and gloves and black accessories. She wore a pearl necklace and matching earrings.

She is a graduate of Tallulah High school and attended a business school in Baton Rouge and graduated at Patricia Stevens Modeling School there.

Mr. Lane is a graduate of the Ada, Okla. high school and attended the University of Oklahoma.

The couple reside at 2646 Cedardale Ave., Baton Rouge.

Run a line of basting stitches through sweater necks and cuffs to prevent them from stretching when they are laundered.

To prevent meringue from slipping on a pie, never put it on a cold pie filling. The filling should be either warm or hot.

Women planning to visit the Brussels World's Fair should dress for cool weather, say travel consultants of Pan American World Airways. The average high temperature ranges from 57 to 67 degrees from April 17, when the fair opens, through September. Take a medium - weight suit or dress for sightseeing, walking shoes, a topcoat or stole for evenings, a simple black dress for dining out, and a dark silk suit for cocktails and dinner, the consultants advised. Include beach clothes and cottons if you visit Ostend, the coast resort on the North Sea.

Now we can step out in shoes ordered specially from Paris. I. Miller has introduced a French collection designed by Andre Perugia for Chanel, Patou and Cardin in time to wear with their Paris import copies. The shoes, which will be hand - made and delivered in three weeks, have a new shape to go with couture clothes. The toe is narrow, rounded and flattened but has a pinched in appearance similar to the neck of a spoon. It gives a longer, more delicate effect.

WARM WINTER TUB

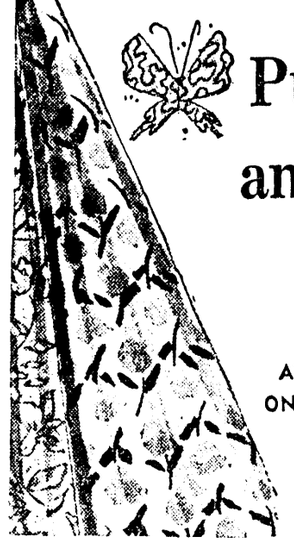

That's that old winter complaint, the cold tub. But it doesn't need to be cold. Just run the hot water first and when the tub is good and hot add cold water to suit yourself. This heats the tub surface so you can bathe in comfort.

LT. AND MRS. EDWIN T. HOLLOWAY

Miss Dull, Edwin T. Holloway United In Military Ceremony

The First Methodist Church in Connellsville, Pennsylvania, was the scene of a military ceremony, which united in marriage Miss Marjorie Ann Dull and Edwin T. Holloway. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin R. Dull of Connellsville and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Holloway of this city. The Reverend Buterbaugh officiated the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with potted palms and fern. Urns filled with white gladioli and pompoms were placed on the altar flanked by four branches candelabra burning white tapers. Large satin ribbons marked the family pews.

A program of tranditional music was presented by Mrs. Dorothy Mingle, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. John Shearer. Included in the selections were "Because," "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her floor length gown of chantilly lace and nylon tulle, fashioned with a mandarin neckline encrusted with sequin and seed pearls. The long sleeves tapered into petal points over the hands. The voluminous skirt was of lace panels and applique over rows of tulle ruffles. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a lace cap and she carried a cascade of pink and white rosebuds, with streamers of ivy and tufts of white satin ribbon.

Miss Norma Jean Ulery attended the bride as maid of honor. She was attired in a waltz-length pink chiffon with a matching lace picture hat and mitts. She wore dyed - to - match satin slippers and her bouquet was of pink and white carnations with streamers of ivy and tufts of blue satin ribbon. Miss Glenda Dull attended her sister as junior maid of honor and she wore a gown identical to Miss Ulery's with a picture brim headpiece and identical flowers. Bridesmaids included Miss Janice Jo Barclay of Washington, D. C., Miss Beryl Sach of North Dakota, and Miss Louise Dappelheuer. They were dressed in blue chiffon attire, fashioned as the maid of honor's. They carried cascade bouquets of pink and white carnations. Little Miss Pamela Rose Hay, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and she wore a floor length dress of white chiffon with a picture brim headpiece trimmed with white blossoms and carried a pink and white basket filled with rose petals.

Lt. Harold P. Southerland of Panama City, Florida, served the groom as best man. Capt. Charles G. White of Waldorf, Maryland; Lt. Jerry C. Frecka of Irontown, Ohio; Lt. Charles F. Swesey of Ithica, New York; and Lt. Jack T. Munsey of Connellsville, were ushers. Larry Dull, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the social rooms of the church. The bride's table, overlaid in white linen, bore the four - tier wedding confection with matching crystal candle holders burning white tapers placed on either side. Twin silver services were placed at opposite ends of the table. Over a hundred and fifty guests attended the reception.

The bride chose for travel a pink wool jersey sheath with accents of black. She wore a corsage of pink and white roses. The newlyweds departed on their wedding trip to the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia, on Monday, March 10. They will be at home in Washington, D. C., 325 Irvington Street, upon return.

The bride is a graduate of Connellsville Joint High School and the groom is a West Pointer.

Out - of - town guests attending the event from Louisiana were Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Holloway, Mrs. L. C. Parker of Baton Rouge, and Mrs. Walter Scott of Alexandria.

Girl Scout News

Echoes of Girl Scout Week are still coming in, showing that most troops took part in the celebration in some way. Troop 11, Brownie Scouts, under the leadership of Mrs. George Porter, presented a program at Lida Benton P.-T. A. Using an acrostic, "Brownie Scout Troop," each girl told of some part of the program of the troop. Concluding the program, the girls gave the Brownie Scout Promise and sang the "Brownie Smile Song."

Tuesday, Citizenship day in Girl Scout Week, happens to be the meeting day of Troop 48. As a part of the troop's learning about their community, the girls and their leaders visited the Ft. Miro D. A. R. Chapter house on the courthouse grounds. Eight of the chapter members came down to meet the girls and show them the mementos of a by-gone age. A spoon glass and a handmade coverlet made with wool carded by hand seemed to interest the girls particularly. The girls gave the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag in an appropriate ceremony.

Troop 48 recently celebrated the troop birthday with a birthday cake sent by Linda Battistone's mother. Townley Creighton was invested at the meeting and the girls received membership cards, most of them to start their fourth year in Scouting. Two new girls Susie Wright and Pamela Pomeroy, have recently come into the troop. Other girls receiving membership cards are: Ruth Ann Armstrong, Linda Battistone, Brenda Carso, Marilyn Denoux, Mary Echols, Suzanne Fisher, Kay Joyce, Janet Kiper, Pat Pickett, Mary Elizabeth Reynolds, Catherine Stone, Linda Williams, Dianne Wormack, Mary Alice Yeldell. Mrs. M. A. Denoux and Mrs. Floyd Stone are leaders of the troop.

Troop 73 at Shady Grove School, Mrs. Herbert Kennedy, leader, held a family night meeting during Scout Scout Week, sharing with the parents the plans they have made and the fun they have had. Organizations meetings are being held at the school to see about troops for girls of other age groups.

Troop 24, observed Health and Safety day with First Aid demonstrations, the girls especially being interested in the workings of a snake bite kit, their leader, Mrs. Edmund Middleton, states.

Troop 35, Mrs. Artis Kitchens and Mrs. Rupert Dunn, leaders, celebrated the Girl Scout birthday in traditional style with cake and candles. These girls are third graders at Plum Street School. Mrs. J. R. Goins and Mrs. J. E. Murphy, with a troop in the same school, say that their girls showed more enthusiasm for the pottery project than anything else they have done. The girls were proud as punch to carry home the little bowls they had made and decorated themselves.

Friday night at 7:30 is the camp rally at Georgia Tucker School. It's for families and everybody interested in camp. Attraction will be the showing of the slides taken at Pine Wood last summer.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH SOANE of San Antonio, Tex., announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Luther Neal Steward Jr., of Austin, Texas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Steward of Monroe. The wedding is planned for May in Our Lady of Grace Church in Houston.

DELTA BETA SIGMA has selected Miss Ann Youngblood as its outstanding member. Miss Youngblood will be representing Tau Chapter at the national convention to be held in Mobile, Alabama. She will be competing against thirteen other girls from different chapters of DBS in the South. Judging will be based on her personality and work in school, church and sorority.

'Camel Hair' Sweaters Newest Casual Fashion

With Marian Rahl

It may take a mental mirage for you to conjur up a picture of a camel but in fashion the newest vision is the "camel hair" sweater.

Off and on it has taken about ten years for the famous makers of lush cashmere sweaters, to achieve the sweater they wanted in camel's hair. They went after a certain effect for a casual sweater—something for use as a suburban casual style. There was the question of machinery—a heavier gauge that would knit yarn properly and give soft hand to the sweater. (Camels aren't the friendliest animals either.)

From the time the camels are clipped and plucked by their owners, it takes a whole year for a shipment of raw material from Mongolia to be made ready for knitting into sweaters. The best quality camel's hair is from Mongolia where the climate helps the animal produce a better wool — just as the cashmere from this area is also of a finer quality. Some of the natural camel hair or wool is cinnamon in color or red and it is all mixed together when sheared from the herd. It goes through a highlight process after mothproofing, dehairing, etc., and as a result it emerges a little lighter in color than when it came from the camel. Animals are clipped once a year in the spring. By - products are sold for weaving into fabrics.

The new line of camel hair sweaters is a small one and you will not see them in the stores for a few months. There's a very handsome one with sleeves and yoke all in one, a lovely cardigan and a few other styles all in the camel color. Some will retail at about $20.

This is the first time in America that such sweaters are being made for women.

DEAR ABBY

Powerful Lonesome But Too Particular

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 53 and my old m[illegible] is 71. We've been married almost thirty years but I'm ready to call it quits. He thinks he's a regular "Romeo" with the women lately. A young Italian couple moved into our building and he got the lady to teach him how to say "I love you" in Italian and always giggles and says it to her. He goes into her apartment and asks her to wash his hair. How can I get him down to earth or should I leave him? The whole building is talking. —JULIA

DEAR JULIA: Your "old man" is probably having a little innocent fun. If you want to make a mountain out of a molehill—just add a little dirt to it.

DEAR ABBY: I got married at the age of 15 because my parents were so strict they wouldn't let me go out of the house. I made a bad mistake because I married a man who was no good. This was 24 years ago and I am paying for my parents mistake but I want to tell you to tell all the other parents for me that being too strict is no good either. If I had the ch[illegible]ce to s[illegible] a few other men I sure wouldn't have married this one. —SORRY NOW

DEAR SORRY: I will print your letter and add my two cents. Being too strict is no good—and being too loose can cook one's goose.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend is very strong but he gets too rough times without meaning to. He kissed me so hard once my nose bled. When he kids around with me I carry the black and blue marks for weeks. My father says if he dosen't change his ways I can't go around with him anymore. Have you any suggestions? —BLACK AND BLUE

DEAR B AND B: Tell "Muscles" to cut out the rough and tumble and try a little tenderness. It isn't necessary to bruise a girl in order to make an "impression."

DEAR ABBY: I am a man, 51 years old with good character and a head full of hair (black and wavey) all my own. I'd like a woman not too tall and not too fat. I don't want a lady who is divorced or one who has children. I am not interested in a woman who smokes and drinks, either. I will not turn down a Jewess but I don't want a woman who was reared in a Catholic home. I am A-1 at the bank and am sending you my banker's name to prove it. I'm powerful lonesome.—KARL

DEAR KARL: For a man who's "Powerful Lonesome," you are powerful particular.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CHUCK: He who boozes, loses. Get back on the wagon. She loves you.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

South, 1 spade; West, Pass; North, 1 no trump; East, Pass. South, 3 spades; West, Pass; North, 4 spades; East, Pass. South, Pass; West, Pass.

Opening lead: King of clubs. When there is no short suit in dummy there would seem to be no good reason to postpone the drawing of trumps, unless dummy's trumps are required for purposes of entry.

In today's hand we find a situation in which no entries are required to dummy; there is apparently no short suit; and yet trumps should not be drawn because of the rare phenomenon of a three card suit in dummy being converted into a ruffing value.

The bidding on today's hand was normal. After North's response of one no trump, South elected to make the strongly invitational jump rebid of three spades. It is borderline, but the hand does possess a probable playing trick strength of seven tricks, which the jump rebid promises.

North went on to four spades, though some players prefer with the balanced distribution to go on in no trump, giving partner the opportunity to continue in spades if his hand is completely unbalanced.

The king of clubs was opened. The defense took three tricks in that suit and shifted to a heart. Declarer immediately extracted trumps and trusted that the diamonds would break. When this failed to materialize, the contract was set a trick.

Declarer's technique was not faultless. There was no need for him to assume diamonds would break. He should have cashed only two trumps and then proceeded to play the ace, king and queen of diamonds.

If everybody followed so that the 13th diamond became good, the last trump would be extracted and the hand claimed. If the diamonds did not fall, there was the added chance that the player who was unable to follow to the diamond would not have the remaining trump.

It is argued that the third diamond might be ruffed by the opposition. The answer is that in that case it would have done no good to draw trumps because a diamond trick would have been lost in any event, so that there was no way to make the hand.

Belts Freshen Favored Casuals

The classic belt of luggage tan smooth leather with gold fastening now is buckled down in new ways—with life-size gate hooks, trunk locks, and even padlocks and keys. Others are studded with brass nailheads and have plain brass buckles.

There are many wide soft belts of crushed leather with draped fronts and self-covered buckles. Hair calf, or calf tanned with the hair on, is used in wide, narrow and contoured belts with narrow metal closings.

Pin jeweled and enameled posies on spring and summer outfits. Earrings, pins and necklaces appear in life - like copies of poppies, carnations, cornflowers and roses, reports the Fashion Coordination Institute. Fine gold jewelry also comes in leaf and flower patterns, and pins come etched with leaf - like veins. Many sparkle with dew - drop brilliants for late afternoon wear.

MONROE FURNITURE

32 North Second Dial 3 224[illegible]

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH SOANE of San Antonio, Tex., announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Luther Neal Steward Jr., of Austin, Texas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Steward of Monroe. The wedding is planned for May in Our Lady of Grace Church in Houston.

DELTA BETA SIGMA has selected Miss Ann Youngblood as its outstanding member. Miss Youngblood will be representing Tau Chapter at the national convention to be held in Mobile, Alabama. She will be competing against thirteen other girls from different chapters of DBS in the South. Judging will be based on her personality and work in school, church and sorority.

'Camel Hair' Sweaters Newest Casual Fashion

With Marian Rahl

It may take a mental mirage for you to conjur up a picture of a camel but in fashion the newest vision is the "camel hair" sweater.

Off and on it has taken about ten years for the famous makers of lush cashmere sweaters, to achieve the sweater they wanted in camel's hair. They went after a certain effect for a casual sweater—something for use as a suburban casual style. There was the question of machinery—a heavier gauge that would knit yarn properly and give soft hand to the sweater. (Camels aren't the friendliest animals either.)

From the time the camels are clipped and plucked by their owners, it takes a whole year for a shipment of raw material from Mongolia to be made ready for knitting into sweaters. The best quality camel's hair is from Mongolia where the climate helps the animal produce a better wool — just as the cashmere from this area is also of a finer quality. Some of the natural camel hair or wool is cinnamon in color or red and it is all mixed together when sheared from the herd. It goes through a highlight process after mothproofing, dehairing, etc., and as a result it emerges a little lighter in color than when it came from the camel. Animals are clipped once a year in the spring. By - products are sold for weaving into fabrics.

The new line of camel hair sweaters is a small one and you will not see them in the stores for a few months. There's a very handsome one with sleeves and yoke all in one, a lovely cardigan and a few other styles all in the camel color. Some will retail at about $20.

This is the first time in America that such sweaters are being made for women.

DEAR ABBY

Powerful Lonesome But Too Particular

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 53 and my old man is 71. We've been married almost thirty years but I'm ready to call it quits. He thinks he's a regular "Romeo" with the women lately. A young Italian couple moved into our building and he got the lady to teach him how to say "I love you" in Italian and always giggles and says it to her. He goes into her apartment and asks her to wash his hair. How can I get him down to earth or should I leave him? The whole building is talking. —JULIA

DEAR JULIA: Your "old man" is probably having a little innocent fun. If you want to make a mountain out of a molehill—just add a little dirt to it.

DEAR ABBY: I got married at the age of 15 because my parents were so strict they wouldn't let me go out of the house. I made a bad mistake because I married a man who was no good. This was 24 years ago and I am paying for my parents mistake but I want to tell you to tell all the other parents for me that being too strict is no good either. If I had the chance to see a few other men I sure wouldn't have married this one. —SORRY NOW

DEAR SORRY: I will print your letter and add my two cents. Being too strict is no good—and being too loose can cook one's goose.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend is very strong but he gets too rough times without meaning to. He kissed me so hard once my nose bled. When he kids around with me I carry the black and blue marks for weeks. My father says if he dosen't change his ways I can't go around with him anymore. Have you any suggestions? —BLACK AND BLUE

DEAR B AND B: Tell "Muscles" to cut out the rough and tumble and try a little tenderness. It isn't necessary to bruise a girl in order to make an "impression."

DEAR ABBY: I am a man, 51 years old with good character and a head full of hair (black and wavey) all my own. I'd like a woman not too tall and not too fat. I don't want a lady who is divorced or one who has children. I am not interested in a woman who smokes and drinks, either. I will not turn down a Jewess but I don't want a woman who was reared in a Catholic home. I am A-1 at the bank and am sending you my banker's name to prove it. I'm powerful lonesome.—KARL

DEAR KARL: For a man who's "Powerful Lonesome," you are powerful particular.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CHUCK: He who boozes, loses. Get back on the wagon. She loves you.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

South, 1 spade; West, Pass; North, 1 no trump; East, Pass. South, 3 spades; West, Pass; North, 4 spades; East, Pass. South, Pass; West, Pass.

Opening lead: King of clubs. When there is no short suit in dummy there would seem to be no good reason to postpone the drawing of trumps, unless dummy's trumps are required for purposes of entry.

In today's hand we find a situation in which no entries are required to dummy; there is apparently no short suit; and yet trumps should not be drawn because of the rare phenomenon of a three card suit in dummy being converted into a ruffing value.

The bidding on today's hand was normal. After North's response of one no trump, South elected to make the strongly invitational jump rebid of three spades. It is borderline, but the hand does possess a probable playing trick strength of seven tricks, which the jump rebid promises.

North went on to four spades, though some players prefer with the balanced distribution to go on in no trump, giving partner the opportunity to continue in spades if his hand is completely unbalanced.

The king of clubs was opened. The defense took three tricks in that suit and shifted to a heart. Declarer immediately extracted trumps and trusted that the diamonds would break. When this failed to materialize, the contract was set a trick.

Declarer's technique was not faultless. There was no need for him to assume diamonds would break. He should have cashed only two trumps and then proceeded to play the ace, king and queen of diamonds.

If everybody followed so that the 13th diamond became good, the last trump would be extracted and the hand claimed. If the diamonds did not fall, there was the added chance that the player who was unable to follow to the diamond would not have the remaining trump.

It is argued that the third diamond might be ruffed by the opposition. The answer is that in that case it would have done no good to draw trumps because a diamond trick would have been lost in any event, so that there was no way to make the hand.

Belts Freshen Favored Casuals

The classic belt of luggage tan smooth leather with gold fastening now is buckled down in new ways—with life-size gate hooks, trunk locks, and even padlocks and keys. Others are studded with brass nailheads and have plain brass buckles.

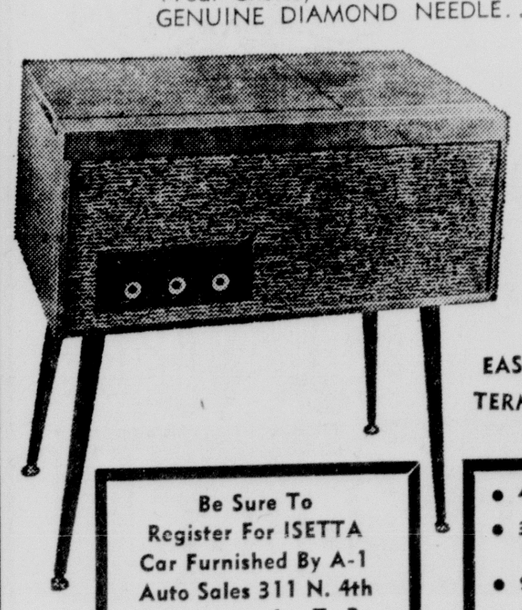

There are many wide soft belts of crushed leather with draped fronts and self-covered buckles. Hair calf, or calf tanned with the hair on, is used in wide, narrow and contoured belts with narrow metal closings.

Pin jeweled and enameled posies on spring and summer outfits. Earrings, pins and necklaces appear in life - like copies of poppies, carnations, cornflowers and roses, reports the Fashion Coordination Institute. Fine gold jewelry also comes in leaf and flower patterns, and pins come etched with leaf - like veins. Many sparkle with dew - drop brilliants for late afternoon wear.

Cancer Potential Described Here

"Approximately 225 of those of us now living in Ouachita parish will develop cancer in 1958, if present rates continue," according to the American Cancer Society.

Based on the population of the parish, the Cancer Society report estimates that 225 cancer patients will be new cases, cancers diagnosed for the first time. About 75 in the parish will be saved from cancer during 1958. About 150 will die of the disease.

These facts and other statistical data about cancer and Ouachita parish were made public yesterday by Fred Huenefeld, Jr., state chairman of the 1958 cancer crusade. The annual fund - raising and educational drive of the ACS begins Tuesday, April 1. The house - to - house crusade in Ouachita parish will be held on cancer control Sunday, April 13.

"I feel this is the right time to issue a statistical report about cancer," Huenefeld said. "I can't think of anything better designed to bring home the fact that cancer is the concern of each and every one of us."

"These are hard and predictable facts," he continued. "But there are hopeful facts too. And it is within our power to add to the credit side of the cancer ledger. You will notice from the figures quoted that one in every three cancer patients is now being saved. This is a lot better than the one in four of a few years ago. But it can be made better still. We actually have it within our power to reduce the number of cancer deaths here in Ouachita parish by having a checkup every year and by watching for the danger signals of cancer between checkups. Just remember that if cancer strikes we have a fifty-fifty chance — provided it can be diagnosed early enough to be properly treated."

Pause to Think

Dr. W. Kenneth Clark, acting director of the medical and scientific department of the American Cancer Society, suggests something to help us remember: Just walk along any street and count the houses, and pause to think that cancer will strike in two out of every three, not necessarily this week or this year, but sometime.

"The purpose of the crusade is to continue and expand the year round program of research, education, and service to patients. This era of medical achievement has taught us that little is impossible to our research scientists. It is the firm conviction of the American Cancer Society that our men of science can and will add cancer to the long list of controlled diseases — given time and the tools."

Senator Proposes Attorney General On Integration

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — An Alabama state senator proposed last night that each Southern state appoint a special attorney general for the express purpose of fighting integration.

Sen. Sam M. Engelhardt told a meeting of the Capital Citizens Council here that Southern states must "cooperate and coordinate" and put up a "solid front all down the line to remain free, independent and segregated."

The senators outlined measures taken in Alabama to restrict Negro voting and termed the ballot box "the key to the whole question of segregation."

"If you had an unlimited number of Negro voters, you can imagine what would happen not only at Central High School but in every grade school, high school and college in Arkansas," Engelhardt said.

Engelhardt formerly was executive secretary of the Association of Citizens Council of Alabama but he resigned the post recently when he announced as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

The senator, who represents Macon County, is sponsor of a state measure to redistrict Tuskegee, the county seat, in order to keep Negroes from voting in the city.

THE NEW "CHEMISE CLOCHE"

The Cloche Balances Chemise For Spring

The peak of the dashing, casually-chic chemise costume for spring is the upswept hat that focuses attention on your face. The high, off-face roundness of the roller-breton and the full-blown chemise cloche make a perfect balance for the tapering, narrow lines of the costume.

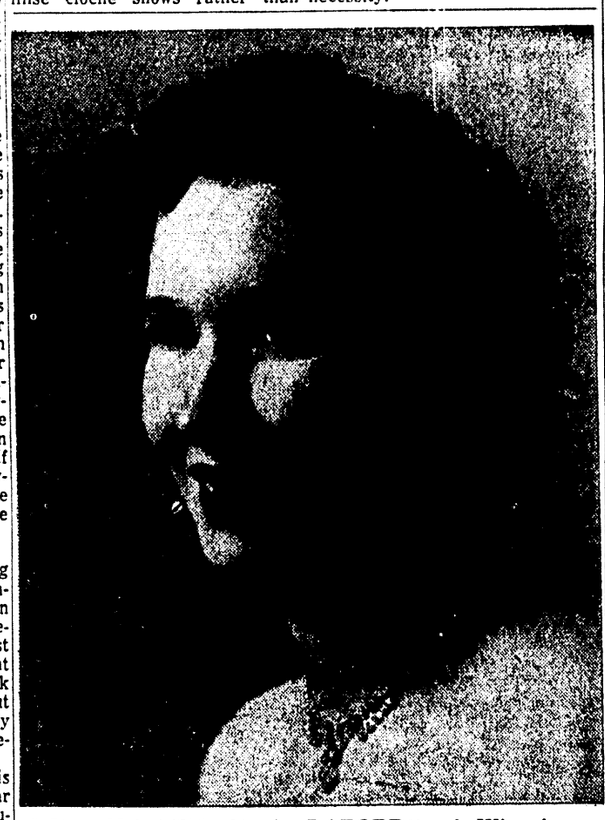

In a season of colorful clothes, the bright-colored hat is more "basic" than black. As the high point of a figure-skipping suit or dress of neutral beige or grey, try a blazing brightness of straw in orange, red or yellow. Subtly lighten the violent color of a spring suit with a blouse and hat of shadowed red, blue or yellow print laced with white. Punctuate a narrow coat of navy wool with a soaring turban of dotted silk or a fez of fragile silk anemones shading from violet to pink.

Hats Light Feeling

The tall-crowned cloche with the narrow brim is only vaguely reminiscent of the one worn by Clara Bow. With its headband resting high on the hairline, the 1958 chemise cloche shows rather than smothers the face. But its high, lofty look harmonizes attractively with soft, subtly-shaped modern versions of the chemise dress.

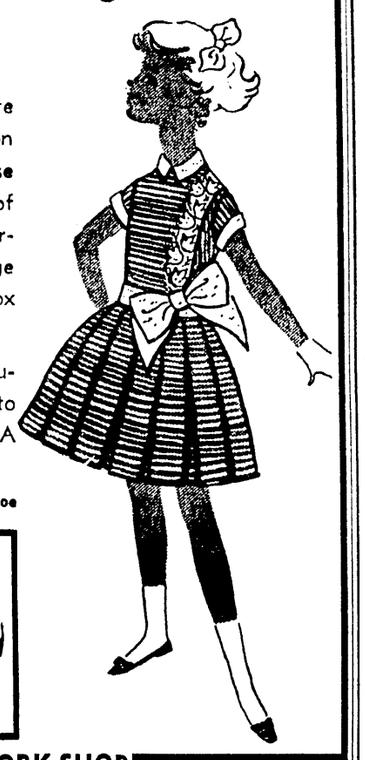

Easy-waisted, loose-fitting suits take neatly to snug, off-face cloches, rolled-back bretons and high, native - inspired turbans. Coats and tailleurs with controlled fullness toward the back need the balance of a forward-reaching brim, arched high bonnet-fashion or abbreviated at the back by a folded-up Watteau brim.

Attractive, important - looking hats are demanded by the understated new clothes of spring 1958. And for the woman whose legs are less than long - stemmed "American beauties," flattering, face-framing hats have become a necessity.

MR. AND MRS. RUFUS G. FRASIER

The Rufus G. Frasiers Are Feted With Open House On Their 50th Anniversary

On Saturday March 1, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus G. Frasier celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at an open house in the home of Mrs. Frasier's sister, Mrs. Willis Taylor in Ruston, Louisiana, between the hours of three and five o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Taylor invited the guests into the reception room where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Frasier, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Frasier, Jr. and Miss Gerry Elizabeth Frasier.

The golden motif was carried out in the decorations of the reception room. At one end of the mantel, there was a lovely arrangement of gold leaves, specimen daffodils, and acacia in a brassfooted compote. At the other end was a brass candelabra holding golden tapers. Seated at an antique mahogany table, was Mrs. Allen Sharp, Mr. Frasier's sister, who asked the guests to sign the anniversary book.

In the dining room, the table was laid with a white cut work cloth centered with twin heart-shaped cakes embossed in gold decors surrounded by acacia, gold ivy leaves and lace fern. On one cake was the name Rufus and the year of their marriage, 1908, and on the other was the name, Belva, and the date of the fiftieth anniversary. At one end the coffee service was presided over by Mrs. W. H. Taylor Jr. of Baton Rouge. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. P. A. Colvin of Monroe and Mrs. Billy Ray Stewart of Tallulah. The buffet featured a massed line arrangement of golden daffodils, gladioli and acacia centered around a wedding ring with the numbers fifty emphasizing the significance of the occasion.

Mr. Willis Taylor invited the guests into the room where the many gifts were being opened and displayed by Mrs. Carl Wilson of Monroe.

During the appointed hours, several hundred guests called. Among these were the following guests who attended the wedding fifty years ago: Mrs. Alma Hogg, Tay Hogg, Mrs. Eva Smith, Lane Colvin, Needham Colvin, Mrs. Stella Colvin, all of Dubach; Dr. Clyde Colvin of Bernice, Ainsley Colvin of Quitman, Clyde Frasier, W. L. Frasier, Mrs. A. E. Sharp, all of Ruston; and P. A. Colvin of Monroe.

All Hands Are Well Dressed

To glorify the supple silhouette of fashion, accessories have assumed new importance this spring, and gloves are no exception. They feature exciting colors and distinctive patterns and trims. Making news, too, are longer eight-button lengths.

Newest glove colors are off-white shades of oyster and bone and pale shades of willow green and delicate almond yellow, along with water color tones of blue and pink.

Also new and popular are the bright, clear citrus and apricot shades and the whole family of blues. Navy and red are favored as accent colors.

Embroidered touches of all kinds include cutout embroidery. Schiffi embroidery and floral motifs, with white-on-white embroidery looking especially refreshing.

Among the other popular glove trims are laces, little bows, seed pearls, tear drop buttons fagotting, perforations and satin stitching. The new longer length is often shirred.

There are printed fabrics of all kinds, as well as the perennial favorites, cotton and kid. Often two fabrics are combined, as in a taffeta print shortie style with silk jersey palms.

Coats and tailleurs with controlled fullness toward the back need the balance of a forward-reaching brim, arched high bonnet-fashion or abbreviated at the back by a folded-up Watteau brim.

Attractive, important - looking hats are demanded by the understated new clothes of spring 1958. And for the woman whose legs are less than long - stemmed "American beauties," flattering, face-framing hats have become a necessity.

MR. AND MRS. D. A. LABORDE of Winnsboro, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Elaine, to James Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clark of Winnsboro. The wedding will be an event of April 18, at seven o'clock in the evening at the Fish Bayou Baptist church. The Rev. Sardis Beaver will officiate.

MR. AND MRS. RUFUS G. FRASIER

On Saturday March 1, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus G. Frasier celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at an open house in the home of Mrs. Frasier's sister, Mrs. Willis Taylor in Ruston, Louisiana, between the hours of three and five o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Taylor invited the guests into the reception room where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Frasier, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Frasier, Jr. and Miss Gerry Elizabeth Frasier.

The golden motif was carried out in the decorations of the reception room. At one end of the mantel, there was a lovely arrangement of gold leaves, specimen daffodils, and acacia in a brassfooted compote. At the other end was a brass candelabra holding golden tapers. Seated at an antique mahogany table, was Mrs. Allen Sharp, Mr. Frasier's sister, who asked the guests to sign the anniversary book.

In the dining room, the table was laid with a white cut work cloth centered with twin heart-shaped cakes embossed in gold decors surrounded by acacia, gold ivy leaves and lace fern. On one cake was the name Rufus and the year of their marriage, 1908, and on the other was the name, Belva, and the date of the fiftieth anniversary. At one end the coffee service was presided over by Mrs. W. H. Taylor Jr. of Baton Rouge. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. P. A. Colvin of Monroe and Mrs. Billy Ray Stewart of Tallulah. The buffet featured a massed line arrangement of golden daffodils, gladioli and acacia centered around a wedding ring with the numbers fifty emphasizing the significance of the occasion.

Mr. Willis Taylor invited the guests into the room where the many gifts were being opened and displayed by Mrs. Carl Wilson of Monroe.

During the appointed hours, several hundred guests called. Among these were the following guests who attended the wedding fifty years ago: Mrs. Alma Hogg, Tay Hogg, Mrs. Eva Smith, Lane Colvin, Needham Colvin, Mrs. Stella Colvin, all of Dubach; Dr. Clyde Colvin of Bernice, Ainsley Colvin of Quitman, Clyde Frasier, W. L. Frasier, Mrs. A. E. Sharp, all of Ruston; and P. A. Colvin of Monroe.

All Hands Are Well Dressed

To glorify the supple silhouette of fashion, accessories have assumed new importance this spring, and gloves are no exception. They feature exciting colors and distinctive patterns and trims. Making news, too, are longer eight-button lengths.

Newest glove colors are off-white shades of oyster and bone and pale shades of willow green and delicate almond yellow, along with water color tones of blue and pink.

Also new and popular are the bright, clear citrus and apricot shades and the whole family of blues. Navy and red are favored as accent colors.

Embroidered touches of all kinds include cutout embroidery. Schiffi embroidery and floral motifs, with white-on-white embroidery looking especially refreshing.

Among the other popular glove trims are laces, little bows, seed pearls, tear drop buttons fagotting, perforations and satin stitching. The new longer length is often shirred.

There are printed fabrics of all kinds, as well as the perennial favorites, cotton and kid. Often two fabrics are combined, as in a taffeta print shortie style with silk jersey palms.

The wedding was solemnized at the First Baptist Church in Winnfield, February 27, at four o'clock in the afternoon, with Dr. W. L. Holcomb officiating at the impressive double ring ceremony. The couple is making their home in Winnfield.

New Chemise Blouson Sheath, And Bell Shape

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (UP) — Christian Dior, who hid legs in his first big "Look" in 1947, put them back in style in his last collection.

The Dior-New York spring line, which the high-fashion dictator designed shortly before his death Oct. 23, was unveiled today at the semi-annual fashion show of 30 top collections, sponsored by the couturie group of the New York Dress Institute. This line is the last to bear the Dior touch, but the House will continue under his name.

Dior's collection, which he named "The New Era," led the eye to the leg instead of the bosom. It featured three major silhouettes—the chemise, the blouson sheath, and the bell shape.

The designer soft-pedaled the bust under loose or semi-fitted bodices, and pointed up our pins with skirts which are slim and tapered or rounded and gathered at the hemline. He kept skirts short—about 16 inches.

Low Waistlines

Most waistlines are dropped. "But blousons have natural waists and some chemises are belted because we always get calls for them," said a spokesman for the fashion house.

There is a blouson in every fabric. Even sleeves have a blouson cuff and are gathered at the inner side of the elbow.

Dior's suits have boxy or semi-fitted jackets. Costumes have jackets over chemise dresses. Collars are wide or non-existent. Coats, with either wide collars or bateau necklines, are belted in front and loose in back or tapered from wide, sloping shoulders.

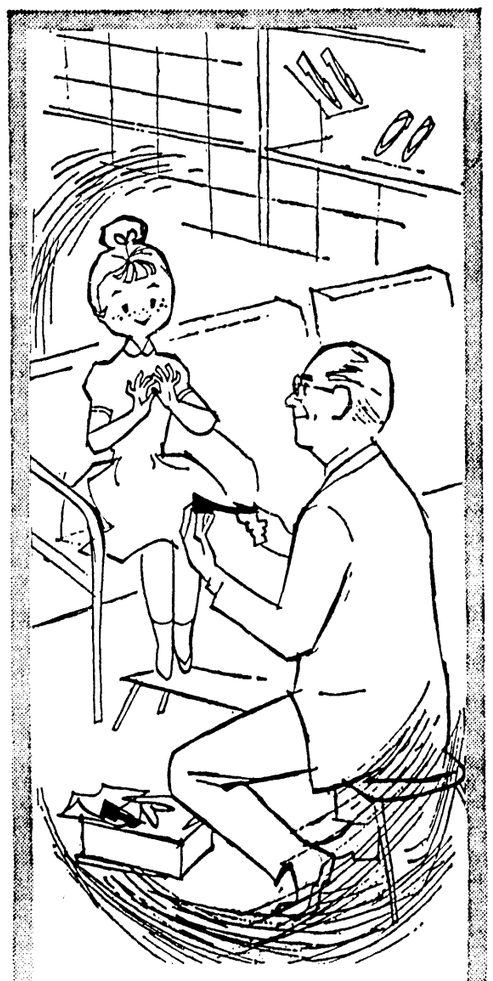

Prints are Bright

THE SHOE FITS IF IT'S FROM PENNEY'S!

SO MUCH GOES INTO A PENNEY SHOE BEFORE SISTER PUTS IT ON!

Next to Mother, no one is more careful than Penney's about children's shoes. Penney's buys from top makers only, because long experience of experts alone can produce shoes that meet Penney's standards!

Before manufacturers put Penney's shoe orders into production everything about them is pretested! The last, patterns, materials. As a final test, a select number of children test these sample shoes by wearing them, and detailed analyses are made of their reports.

Only when thorough testing proves them the ultimate for wear and fit do the big shoe houses start making them for Penney's. What's more, Penney buyers spot check shoe factories, stores, to keep Penney's standards up to par.

As an extra protection to our young customers Penney's shoes are Sanitized to keep them hygienically clean and fresh.

To make sure they feel as good as they look, Penney's fits children with the Brannock device. It measures length, width, carefully allowing for toe room, grow room, everything that's good for youngsters' feet.

Why not join the millions of mothers who know it pays to put children's feet in our hands.

MANY SILHOUETTES

Belting Enters Scene For 1958

Whether the chemise will be the fashion with the majority of women in this country or not—depends wholly on Miss and Mrs. America . . . the buyers!

But, straight from the shoulder . . . this fashion on the loose has arrived!

Although most authorities say that the chemise has been incommunicado since the flapper era, the chemise has long been part of the fashion world — incognito perhaps — or, in other guises before and since.

Remember the four-sizes-too-large "Sloppy Joe" sweaters over the straightest of skirts? . . . the ever wandering waistlines of just a few seasons back? And, since 1820, Polynesians have been wearing modified chemise such as muumuus and lava-lavas!

Two gentlemen from California (Rudi Gernreich of Walter Bass and Howard Green) pointed up the "no-waist, no-shape" look in their collections as long ago as four years — and made headlines then!

Though to belt or not to belt may be the fashion question of the year, milady still has a wide choice of other silhouettes from which to make her spring and Easter-parade selections.

Lots of Romantic Frocks

Don't despair . . . there are other shapes to wear. The very flattering modified sheath with gentle waistline and flattering slim skirt is very much on the scene in day and evening fashions.

Full-skirted, nipped-in waist frocks — especially in silks and cottons — have a demure look and romantic, antebellum charm.

Sophisticated Moods

Sweetheart necklines, deep plunging V's and deep-cut scoops are top notes for other fashions with soft lines and fuller skirts.

More Feminine Fancies

Whatever the silhouette, they all have the variable waistline in common.

Gentle tunics, coat-dresses and soft shirtwaist types flatter the normal-to-slightly lower waistline. Cummerbunds, sashes, widebelted fashions, all raise the waistline to a hint above the waist.

The petal skirt, the bell, the goblet and harem skirt . . . the full-whirler, the balloon and the oval pouff — all let the waistline stay where nature intended!

Many dresses wear drapes where drapes do the most good. Embroideries . . . appliques . . . bows . . . subtle sparkle trims also help to give milady that wanted more feminine look.

Sweater Ensembles

In neat, discreet dressy-looking twosomes, lovely linens, silks and polished cottons go hand-in-hand with soft-as-a-whisper sweater tops. Embroidered, hand-screened or appliqued florals that trim the dress are repeated on the sweater.

Coat and Dress Duets

There's always a bonus for the fashion-and-budget conscious woman who selects a smart ensemble of printed dress and coat!

This year, white, bamboo, bone and ivory are the leading coat colors, their linings are very gay and match perfectly the dress—light grounds abloom with brilliant florals . . . spaced, abstract or water-color printed.

Something for Everyone

So whether you decide to meet the challenge of the chemise or not — spring demands a fashion change! Whatever you wear — classic or controversial — you'll love its color, its fabric and above-all — its newness.

FUN CAPEZIOS — This creation is styled to reflect the wit and humor attitude of Americana, 1958. Gay strappings of white kid from vamp to ankle contrasted with paprika suede are combined in a new Roman boot creation. A touch of humor in checked gingham fabric is the pleated fan mule adorned with a gross-grain bow.

MORE INFLUENTIAL FOOTING—It's cut as supplely as silk, it's design of definite fashion. Further claim to smartness is its little "prism" shaped leather toe with triangular tongue caught by a narrow tie.

Reporter Held At Gunpoint By Boy

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—A Birmingham News reporter rode around under the gun of a young hitchhiker for three hours yesterday before talking the youth out of robbing or murdering him.

Bud Gordon, News police reporter, finally persuaded the 15-year-old Birmingham boy to go with him to Gordon's close friend, the Rev. F. E. Jordan, pastor of the Bessemer First Presbyterian Church.

After the reporter and preacher pleaded with the youth for 45 minutes he finally emptied the shells from the pistol and dropped the weapon on the floor. Gordon and Jordan agreed not to reveal the name of the boy, and the reporter drove him home.

Gordon said in a letter to "Bill," the only name used in his newspaper account of the holdup, that the boy had a juvenile court record.

Gordon picked up the youth as he was driving home from work. Soon afterwards the boy pulled out a pistol.

When Gordon brought out his wallet, he held it so the boy saw his police press pass.

"You saw the pass and the word 'police' and looked straight at me and said, 'Brother, if you're a cop you're gonna be dead soon,'" Gordon wrote.

"I explained that the card meant I was a police reporter and that I had seen many boys like you ruin their lives trying to be big men. Remember how I tried to tell you of the seriousness of the crime you were ready to commit?

"I talked and talked hard and the words came easy. For the first time my very life depended on the effect of the words I said. My throat was dry, my heart pounded, and I felt my palms become moist with sweat.

"I don't know what I finally said that reached you, Bill, but I remember breathing a sigh of relief when you said 'Hell, now I don't know what to do. If I shoot you I'm a killer, and if I let you go you'll run to the cops and I'll go to jail anyhow.'

"'But not for murder,' I told you and I felt my anger and fear changing to pity."

After more discussion the boy tucked the pistol into his belt and finally agreed to go to the home of the preacher. From there Gordon drove him to his own home and let him out.

"I'm glad we decided to return you to your home and not mention the incident to your parents or the police," Gordon wrote. "I recall how you made me a promise when you left my car at 7 p.m., and I recall the tear that rolled down your cheek and the sincere handshake you offered.

"All who read this will know our story, Bill, but only God, Rev. Jordan, you and I will know your real identity as long as you keep your word."

Shoes Showed Man's Position In Old Egypt

In ancient Egypt it wasn't his clothes that proclaimed the man. It was his shoes.

Historical data collected by the National Shoe Institute reveals that a man of rank in the time of the Pharaohs would be followed by a servant carrying a pair of sandals. Whenever the master felt he needed them, he would stop, beckon to the servant, and be helped into his sandals.

In the presence of a superior even a man of rank removed his shoes. In the presence of the Pharaoh himself, only the ruler was permitted to wear sandals—the only footwear known to have existed at that time.

Shoes For Boys, Girls Showing Spring Shape

For foot comfort, children's shoes are scientifically lasted to fit growing young feet, and use flexible leathers and softer construction.

Black is the top shade in both boys' and girls' shoes. White, red and navy come next in popularity with little girls, and shades of brown with boys.

T-straps are much in evidence on school and party shoes. Teardrop cutouts just like those on mother's dress shoes appear on the dress-up styles, along with fringed leather bars and even jeweled trim, where the strap is fastened.

Smooth and patent leathers are liked for girls shoes, with suede leather used in party shoes. Grained leather appears in small boys' shoes, and in combination with smooth leather.

There are more slip-ons for the boys, sporting such grown - up features as straps, buckles, pointed tongues and elasticized goring.

STEPPING OUT — In step with Spring is this tapered toe pump of textured leather with large bow at throat, mid-high heel.

Warden Banishes The Sack Dress

CHICAGO (AP)—The sack look is banished from the city jail for women, by decree of the warden. The inmates, he says, approve.

"I just didn't like the style," said Warden Frank Sain of Bridewell yesterday.

He said the women cheerfully donned new form-fitting uniforms, shedding their traditional droopy chemises.

"They were tickled to death," he told newsmen. "Some of them even volunteered to pose for photographers."

Gone were the beltless, shapeless costumes that had served as uniforms since 1852.

"They had no style, and they didn't look good on the girls," Sain said. "So I asked the reformatory at Dwight for a new design, and they supplied it."

The new frocks have collars, short sleeves with cuffs, and pockets at the waist and along the skirt. The material is white percale with blue stripes.

This year, white, bamboo, bone and ivory are the leading coat colors, their linings are very gay and match perfectly the dress—light grounds abloom with brilliant florals . . . spaced, abstract or water-color printed.

Something for Everyone

So whether you decide to meet the challenge of the chemise or not — spring demands a fashion change! Whatever you wear — classic or controversial — you'll love its color, its fabric and above-all — its newness.

FUN CAPEZIOS — This creation is styled to reflect the wit and humor attitude of Americana, 1958. Gay strappings of white kid from vamp to ankle contrasted with paprika suede are combined in a new Roman boot creation. A touch of humor in checked gingham fabric is the pleated fan mule adorned with a gross-grain bow.

MORE INFLUENTIAL FOOTING—It's cut as supplely as silk, it's design of definite fashion. Further claim to smartness is its little "prism" shaped leather toe with triangular tongue caught by a narrow tie.

Reporter Held At Gunpoint By Boy

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—A Birmingham News reporter rode around under the gun of a young hitchhiker for three hours yesterday before talking the youth out of robbing or murdering him.

Bud Gordon, News police reporter, finally persuaded the 15-year-old Birmingham boy to go with him to Gordon's close friend, the Rev. F. E. Jordan, pastor of the Bessemer First Presbyterian Church.

After the reporter and preacher pleaded with the youth for 45 minutes he finally emptied the shells from the pistol and dropped the weapon on the floor. Gordon and Jordan agreed not to reveal the name of the boy, and the reporter drove him home.

Gordon said in a letter to "Bill," the only name used in his newspaper account of the holdup, that the boy had a juvenile court record.

Gordon picked up the youth as he was driving home from work. Soon afterwards the boy pulled out a pistol.

When Gordon brought out his wallet, he held it so the boy saw his police press pass.

"You saw the pass and the word 'police' and looked straight at me and said, 'Brother, if you're a cop you're gonna be dead soon,'" Gordon wrote.

"I explained that the card meant I was a police reporter and that I had seen many boys like you ruin their lives trying to be big men. Remember how I tried to tell you of the seriousness of the crime you were ready to commit?

"I talked and talked hard and the words came easy. For the first time my very life depended on the effect of the words I said. My throat was dry, my heart pounded, and I felt my palms become moist with sweat.

"I don't know what I finally said that reached you, Bill, but I remember breathing a sigh of relief when you said 'Hell, now I don't know what to do. If I shoot you I'm a killer, and if I let you go you'll run to the cops and I'll go to jail anyhow.'

" 'But not for murder,' I told you and I felt my anger and fear changing to pity."

After more discussion the boy tucked the pistol into his belt and finally agreed to go to the home of the preacher. From there Gordon drove him to his own home and let him out.

"I'm glad we decided to return you to your home and not mention the incident to your parents or the police," Gordon wrote. "I recall how you made me a promise when you left my car at 7 p.m., and I recall the tear that rolled down your cheek and the sincere handshake you offered.

"All who read this will know our story, Bill, but only God, Rev. Jordan, you and I will know your real identity as long as you keep your word."

Shoes Showed Man's Position In Old Egypt

Historical data collected by the National Shoe Institute reveals that a man of rank in the time of the Pharaohs would be followed by a servant carrying a pair of sandals. Whenever the master felt he needed them, he would stop, beckon to the servant, and be helped into his sandals.

In the presence of a superior even a man of rank removed his shoes. In the presence of the Pharaoh himself, only the ruler was permitted to wear sandals—the only footwear known to have existed at that time.

Shoes For Boys, Girls Showing Spring Shape

For foot comfort, children's shoes are scientifically lasted to fit growing young feet, and use flexible leathers and softer construction.

Black is the top shade in both boys' and girls' shoes. White, red and navy come next in popularity with little girls, and shades of brown with boys.

T-straps are much in evidence on school and party shoes. Teardrop cutouts just like those on mother's dress shoes appear on the dress-up styles, along with fringed leather bars and even jeweled trim, where the strap is fastened.

Smooth and patent leathers are liked for girls shoes, with suede leather used in party shoes. Grained leather appears in small boys' shoes, and in combination with smooth leather.

There are more slip-ons for the boys, sporting such grown-up features as straps, buckles, pointed tongues and elasticized goring.

Warden Banishes The Sack Dress

CHICAGO (AP)—The sack look is banished from the city jail for women, by decree of the warden. The inmates, he says, approve.

"I just didn't like the style," said Warden Frank Sain of Bridewell yesterday.

He said the women cheerfully donned new form-fitting uniforms, shedding their traditional droopy chemises.

"They were tickled to death," he told newsmen. "Some of them even volunteered to pose for photographers."

Gone were the beltless, shapeless costumes that had served as uniforms since 1852.

"They had no style, and they didn't look good on the girls," Sain said. "So I asked the reformatory at Dwight for a new design, and they supplied it."

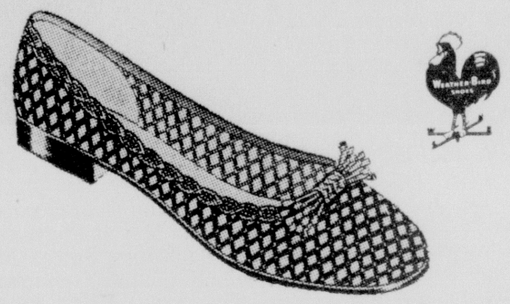

The new frocks have collars, short sleeves with cuffs, and pockets at the waist and along the skirt. The material is white percale with blue stripes.

Soviets Sensitive To U.S. Sputniks

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope came home from a week's visit to Moscow and reported that the Russians like American clothes, rock 'n' roll music, and even humor.

He found them quite touchy on the subject of "American Sputniks," however.

He termed the visit very interesting and said:

"I wouldn't have missed it for anything. It's an amazing picture there. It looked like a casting lot for 'Lost Horizons' or a Charlie Chan picture. There were about 40 different types of people.

"The Russians are interested in American entertainment. They like American humor. They dig most of the jokes. They watch us closely. They are wearing our clothing, and they would like to have more."

Hope filmed a television show while in Moscow—the first U.S. entertainer ever to do so. The film—or whatever parts of it the Russians don't frown upon—will be televised in this country April 5.

Hope said Soviet interpreters and a technical crew were assigned to the filming. The technicians who processed the film held it 36 hours and then made "suggestions" as to how it might be used or cut, he said. As for the visit in general, Hope said:

FORERUNNER—This is a creation of things to come. It is a blunt toe shoe in smooth black leather. Large perforations lend eye-interest to the gleaming leather.

STYLISTS ACTIVE

Color And Detail Mark Shoe Styles

There's a terrific feeling of zest and excitement in the new shoes for spring . . .

Color is the biggest news! Much of the color will come from the many printed fabrics that shape new shoe fashions.

Florals and stripes lead the printed-fabric line - up, and are used alone or together with match-or-contrast leathers.

White Is Important!

Whate too, blazes brightly in the shoe picture. White will trim, black patent leathers, navy, bright reds, tans, beiges, green and will even spark-up off-whites.

White accents give summery-accents to the pinks, lighter blues, yellows, orange-ices and light greens of other shoe hues.

Allover-white — in mesh, soft buttery leathers and velvety-naps; lightly - grained or perforated, or striped—will be so right for deep summer.

More Open Silhouettes

There will be a more open look to warm-weather shoes to supplement the many tapered toe closed-pump styles that remain as a so-smart holdover from past seasons.

Newest shoes show interesting variatinos on pumps, ties and T-straps: Toes are closed . . . backs open; sides, cut low . . . vamps cut out; very open sandals; wide bands, thongs, and strippings — all play up the newer look.

Heel Heights Are Lower

Heels are "newly - lowered." The very - slim, finely - tapered heel descends slightly . . . the shaped-Louis is pointed up as the high style heel . . . scooped wedges . . . built-up leather heels—are all new, very smart—but now lower in height to complement the summer-line and shorter skirt of the chemise-type silhouette.

Dramatic Detailing

Draping, pleating, folding, stitching, perforating and cutouts lend excitement to foot-wear fashions.

Patent leather packs a potent punch to spring prints and whites! There's high polish, too, to other leathers thanks to a new lacquer finish. Lustered cottons, satins, moire-satins, and shiny finishes on straws, straw cloths add smart gleams to shoe fabrics.

For A One-Color Look!

The smartest complements to spring's one—color-from-head-to-toes, show up brightly in the new show styles!

Reds run rampant afoot — in orange-vermillion hues . . . in scarlets and in high fashion rosy-reds. Blues take on flower hues, bright and strong; light and lovely or deep and dark such as bright navy.

All in all, shoe fashions point up "elongated, simple elegance"—long on good looks,, light, bright in fabric and color and reflecting the classic, easy lines of the new clothes for spring.

New Stylings Give Smarter Look For Men

Gentlemen, step forward! Your new spring shoes offer texture interest combinations, bold simplicity in styling, lightness and fine craftsmanship!

That men's shoe-making is a fine art is pointed up by both fashion and construction that owe their beauty and success to the influence of the fine Italian hand.

There are a lot of moccasin toes, even on dress shoes.

Two or three eyelet closings are favored; the one eyelet closing no longer is tops!

Shoes that are correct for both town and country wear get star billing in slip-ons with plain or moccasin toes; perforations for comfort; with handsomely-stitched detail — here too, there is an over-all look of simplicity.

Leathers continue to feature texture, and a combination of leathers such as: reverse leathers with a deep plushy nap, smooth leathers, morocco grains, soft glove leather, and nylon or shantung.

In the luxury class are alligator, reptile and ostrich. These too have uncluttered lines, and show off with eyelet and tassel lacings.

Hot weather shoes feature the "cool-look" in brown, and black or blue with the all white is predicted to become a summer star!

Blues, from light to midnight, and navy, are the new high fashion shade for men.

CO-ORDINATED — Well coordinated for Spring are mid-heel shoes with one-eyelet tie and large but graceful handbag, both of matching smooth and suede leathers in hues of green. Matching gloves have black leather rick-rack border.

THE RETURN

Israel Changes In Ten Years

BY ELIAV SIMON

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—How this country has changed!

A visitor, returning to Israel after a 10 year absence, would never recognize the place.

The population has more than doubled, to nearly two million. Some 880,000 newcomers settled here in the past 10 years.

The building of factories and apartments goes on at a record clip. More than 430 settlements have been founded and the government has built more than 180,000 apartments to house its people. Some 1,250 new plants and businesses have been established and most are flourishing.

Electric Power

Almost 300,000 kilowatts of electric power are produced today compared with 53,000 kw. in 1948 and the 8,000-square mile Republic of Israel was created in the Holy Land.

Personal consumption has risen from $448 to $588, despite serious shortages in 1951 that led to rationing.

Today, Israel raises two - thirds of her own food. Exports are 300 per cent higher than in 1950 and imports have risen less than 50 per cent.

Other symptoms of prosperity: There now are 80,000 telephones in Israel, compared with 18,000 in 1948. Israel now prints 1,200 books a year, one of the highest publishing ratios in the world. Newspape. circulation rises steadily, along with the number of visits to theatres, concerts and museums.

Gross Product Rises

The gross national product has risen 90 per cent in the past six years—from about 745 million dollars to 1.4 billion.

The equalizing is done by taxation. A man with a wife and two children who earns $450 a month takes home $319.

Still, Israelis not only eat better, dress better and live in larger apartments than they did 10 years ago, but they also buy more electrical appliances. Refrigerators are no longer a rare item here, and neither is gas.

Aiding this prosperity is the one million dollars a day that is pumped into Israel's economic veins to keep her alive. The money goes into agriculture, industry, mining and the government sees to it that incoming goods are distributed equitably to all plants.

Defense Investment

Of some three billion dollars invested in Israel in the past 10 years, most goes for defense.

What are Israel's economic prospects?

Output, far below any European standard, is valued at $1,100 to $1,200 a year per worker. An American's output is about $6,000. Finance Minister Levi Eshkol has said: "I demand an increase in productivity and output so we may approach the level of production in West European countries." That figure is about $2,000 per worker.

The prospects for future aid from abroad depends largely upon prosperity in America. The same holds to grants-in-aid from the American government.

Open House Set At Winnsboro Fire Station

WINNSBORO (Special) —Winnsboro's new $11,000 fire station has been completed and according to Mayor Robert F. Mulhearn, the official dedication and open house will be held at the station April 2, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard of Monroe will be principal speaker for the occasion and refreshments will be served during the two hour open house.

Also scheduled to take part in the dedication ceremonies are members of the Winnsboro Ministerial Association; Allen Robinson, fire chief; Homer E. Lowry, assistant chief; L. L. "Red" Miller, captain; Bill Hughes and Olin Jewell, resident drivers; and the 20 member volunteer Winnsboro fire department.

The new fire station is only one of the many improvements made by the town of Winnsboro since Mulhearn was elected mayor 10 years ago. Other improvements include the street improvement program; completion of an ultra-modern water plant and water improvement and fire protection system; and the completion of the $250,000 garment factorw building.

Softer Shapes Are Featured In Handbags

Handbags for spring have a rich, full look. The squares and rectangles have been softened by drapes, pleats or gussets, and there are new pouch and satchel shapes.

For daytime handbags of extra-soft, supple leather, favored hues are black, red, oyster beige, bright blue and navy. Many have shaped leather handles, slightly longer than last season's. Gilt locks and name plates add interest.

Organized for efficiency the new handbags have enough inside pockets to hold everything — or almost everything — in a special place. Many have outside pockets for coin purses, passports, keys and other paraphenalia. One pouch bag has a recessed section at the top within which adjustable snapped bands hold umbrella or papers.

Suede leather clutches and long oval pouches appear in bright colors such as hibiscus red, orange, turquoise and hot pink. Often, they're fastened with clips on silver mountings.

Some unusual shapes for smooth leather bags are cartridge boxes, rural mail boxes, deed boxes and flower baskets.

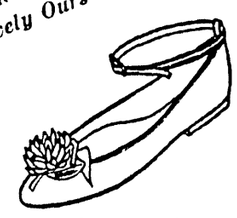

Afternoon bags of suede leather show soft, draped shapes in muted taupe and off-black tones. Late day sees the bag smaller and neater with clipped square edges.

"Red" Miller, captain; Bill Hughes and Olin Jewell, resident drivers; and the 20 member volunteer Winnsboro fire department.

The new fire station is only one of the many improvements made by the town of Winnsboro since Mulhearn was elected mayor 10 years ago. Other improvements include the street improvement program; completion of an ultra-modern water plant and water improvement and fire protection system; and the completion of the $250,000 garment factorw building.

MANY SILHOUETTES

Belting Enters Scene For 1958

Whether the chemise will be the fashion with the majority of women in this country or not—depends wholly on Miss and Mrs. America . . . the buyers!

But, straight from the shoulder . . . this fashion on the loose has arrived!

Although most authorities say that the chemise has been incommunicado since the flapper era, the chemise has long been part of the fashion world — incognito perhaps — or, in other guises before and since.

Remember the four-sizes-too-large "Sloppy Joe" sweaters over the straightest of skirts? . . . the ever wandering waistlines of just a few seasons back? And, since 1820, Polynesians have been wearing modified chemise such as mumuus and lava-lavas!

Two gentlemen from California (Rudi Gernreich of Walter Bass and Howard Greer) pointed up the "no-waist, no-shape" look in their collections as long ago as four years — and made headlines then!

Though to belt or not to belt may be the fashion question of the year, milady still has a wide choice of other silhouettes from which to make her spring and Easter-parade selections.

Lots of Romantic Frocks

Don't despair . . . there are other shapes to wear. The very flattering modified sheath with gentle waistline and flattering slim skirt is very much on the scene in day and evening fashions.

Full-skirted, nipped-in waist frocks — especially in silks and cottons — have a demure look and romantic, antebellum charm.

Sophisticated Moods

Sweetheart necklines, deep plunging V's and deep-cut scoops are top notes for other fashions with soft lines and fuller skirts.

More Feminine Fancies

Whatever the silhouette, they all have the variable waistline in common.

Gentle tunics, coat-dresses and soft shirtwaist types flatter the normal-to-slightly lower waistline. Cummerbunds, sashes, widebelted fashions, all raise the waistline to a hint above the waist.

The petal skirt, the bell, the goblet and harem skirt . . . the full-whirler, the balloon and the oval pouff — all let the waistline stay where nature intended!

Many dresses wear drapes where drapes do the most good. Embroideries . . . appliques . . . bows . . . subtle sparkle trims also help to give milady that wanted more feminine look.

Sweater Ensembles

In neat, discreet dressy-looking twosomes, lovely linens, silks and polished cottons go hand-in-hand with soft-as-a-whisper sweater tops. Embroidered, hand-screened or appliqued florals that trim the dress are repeated on the sweater.

Coat and Dress Duets

There's always a bonus for the fashion-and-budget conscious woman who selects a smart ensemble of printed dress and coat!

This year, white, bamboo, bone and ivory are the leading coat colors, their linings are very gay and match perfectly the dress—light grounds abloom with brilliant florals . . . spaced, abstract or water-color printed.

Something for Everyone

So whether you decide to meet the challenge of the chemise or not — spring demands a fashion change! Whatever you wear — classic or controversial — you'll love its color, its fabric and above-all — its newness.

FUN CAPEZIOS — This creation is styled to reflect the wit and humor attitude of Americana, 1958. Gay strappings of white kid from vamp to ankle contrasted with paprika suede are combined in a new Roman boot creation. A touch of humor in checked gingham fabric is the pleated fan mule adorned with a gross-grain bow.

MORE INFLUENTIAL FOOTING—It's cut as supplely as silk, it's design of definite fashion. Further claim to smartness is its little "prism" shaped leather toe with triangular tongue caught by a narrow tie.

Reporter Held At Gunpoint By Boy

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—A Birmingham News reporter rode around under the gun of a young hitchhiker for three hours yesterday before talking the youth out of robbing or murdering him.

Bud Gordon, News police reporter, finally persuaded the 15-year-old Birmingham boy to go with him to Gordon's close friend, the Rev. F. E. Jordan, pastor of the Bessemer First Presbyterian Church.

After the reporter and preacher pleaded with the youth for 45 minutes he finally emptied the shells from the pistol and dropped the weapon on the floor. Gordon and Jordan agreed not to reveal the name of the boy, and the reporter drove him home.

Gordon said in a letter to "Bill," the only name used in his newspaper account of the holdup, that the boy had a juvenile court record.

Gordon picked up the youth as he was driving home from work. Soon afterwards the boy pulled out a pistol.

When Gordon brought out his wallet, he held it so the boy saw his police press pass.

"You saw the pass and the word 'police' and looked straight at me and said, 'Brother, if you're a cop you're gonna be dead soon,'" Gordon wrote.

"I explained that the card meant I was a police reporter and that I had seen many boys like you ruin their lives trying to be big men. Remember how I tried to tell you of the seriousness of the crime you were ready to commit?

"I talked and talked hard and the words came easy. For the first time my very life depended on the effect of the words I said. My throat was dry, my heart pounded, and I felt my palms become moist with sweat.

"I don't know what I finally said that reached you, Bill, but I remember breathing a sigh of relief when you said 'Hell, now I don't know what to do. If I shoot you I'm a killer, and if I let you go you'll run to the cops and I'll go to jail anyhow.'

"'But not for murder,' I told you and I felt my anger and fear changing to pity."

After more discussion the boy tucked the pistol into his belt and finally agreed to go to the home of the preacher. From there Gordon drove him to his own home and let him out.

"I'm glad we decided to return you to your home and not mention the incident to your parents or the police," Gordon wrote. "I recall how you made me a promise when you left my car at 7 p.m., and I recall the tear that rolled down your cheek and the sincere handshake you offered.

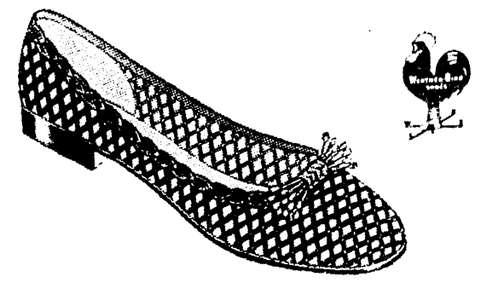

"All who read this will know our story, Bill, but only God, Rev. Jordan, you and I will know your real identity as long as you keep your word."

Shoes Showed Man's Position In Old Egypt

Historical data collected by the National Shoe Institute reveals that a man of rank in the time of the Pharaohs would be followed by a servant carrying a pair of sandals. Whenever the master felt he needed them, he would stop, beckon to the servant, and be helped into his sandals.

In the presence of a superior even a man of rank removed his shoes. In the presence of the Pharaoh himself, only the ruler was permitted to wear sandals—the only footwear known to have existed at that time.

Shoes For Boys, Girls Showing Spring Shape

For foot comfort, children's shoes are scientifically lasted to fit growing feet, and use flexible leathers and softer construction.

Black is the top shade in both boys' and girls' shoes. White, red and navy come next in popularity with little girls, and shades of brown with boys.

T-straps are much in evidence on school and party shoes. Teardrop cutouts just like those on mother's dress shoes appear on the dress-up styles, along with fringed leather bars and even jeweled trim, where the strap is fastened.

Smooth and patent leathers are liked for girls shoes, with suede leather used in party shoes. Grained leather appears in small boys' shoes, and in combination with smooth leather.

There are more slip-ons for the boys, sporting such grown - up features as straps, buckles, pointed tongues and elasticized goring.

Warden Banishes The Sack Dress

CHICAGO (AP)—The sack look is banished from the city jail for women, by decree of the warden. The inmates, he says, approve.

"I just didn't like the style," said Warden Frank Sain of Bridewell yesterday.

He said the women cheerfully donned new form-fitting uniforms, shedding their traditional droopy chemises.

"They were tickled to death," he told newsmen. "Some of them even volunteered to pose for photographers."

Gone were the beltless, shapeless costumes that had served as uniforms since 1852.

"They had no style, and they didn't look good on the girls," Sain said. "So I asked the reformatory at Dwight for a new design, and they supplied it."

The new frocks have collars, short sleeves with cuffs, and pockets at the waist and along the skirt. The material is white percale with blue stripes.

ELEGANT—Not only elegant, but daintily detailed gloves are on hand for Spring in many lengths. Shown is longer-length glove trimmed in Schiffli lace. And for more elegance, there's perfume-here in a new atomizer to prevent evaporation.

Soviets Sensitive To U.S. Sputniks

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope came home from a week's visit to Moscow and reported that the Russians like American clothes, rock 'n' roll music, and even humor.

He found them quite touchy on the subject of "American Sputniks," however.

He termed the visit very interesting and said:

"I wouldn't have missed it for anything. It's an amazing picture there. It looked like a casting lot for 'Lost Horizons' or a Charlie Chan picture. There were about 40 different types of people.

"The Russians are interested in American entertainment. They like American humor. They dig most of the jokes. They watch us closely. They are wearing our clothing, and they would like to have more."

Hope filmed a television show while in Moscow—the first U.S. entertainer ever to do so. The film—or whatever parts of it the Russians don't frown upon—will be televised in this country April 5.

Hope said Soviet interpreters and a technical crew were assigned to the filming. The technicians who processed the film held it 36 hours and then made "suggestions" as to how it might be used or cut, he said. As for the visit in general, Hope said: "They gave us great treatment all the way."

FORERUNNER—This is a creation of things to come. It is a blunt toe shoe in smooth black leather. Large perforations lend eye-interest to the gleaming leather.

STYLISTS ACTIVE

Color And Detail Mark Shoe Styles

There's a terrific feeling of zest and excitement in the new shoes for spring . . .

Color is the biggest news! Much of the color will come from the many printed fabrics that shape new shoe fashions.

Florals and stripes lead the printed-fabric line - up, and are used alone or together with match-or-contrast leathers.

White Is Important!

Whate too, blazes brightly in the shoe picture. White will trim, black patent leathers, navy, bright reds, tans, beiges, green and will even spark-up off-whites.

White accents give summery-accents to the pinks, lighter blues, yellows, orange-ices and light greens of other shoe hues.

Allover-white — in mesh, soft buttery leathers and velvety-naps; lightly - grained or perforated, or striped—will be so right for deep summer.

More Open Silhouettes

There will be a more open look to warm-weather shoes to supplement the many tapered toe closed-pump styles that remain as a so-smart holdover from past seasons.

Newest shoes show interesting variatinos on pumps, ties and T-straps! Toes are closed . . . backs open; sides, cut low . . . vamps cut out; very open sandals; wide bands, thongs, and strippings — all play up the newer look.

Heel Heights Are Lower

Heels are "newly - lowered." The very - slim, finely - tapered heel descends slightly . . . the shaped-Louis is pointed up as the high style heel . . . scooped wedges . . . built-up leather heels—are all new, very smart—but now lower in height to complement the summer-line and shorter skirt of the chemise-type silhouette.

Dramatic Detailing

Draping, pleating, folding, stitching, perforating and cutouts lend excitement to foot-wear fashions.

Patent leather packs a potent punch to spring prints and whites! There's high polish, too, to other leathers thanks to a new lacquer finish. Lustered cottons, satins, moire-satins, and shiny finishes on straws, straw cloths add smart gleams to shoe fabrics.

For A One-Color Look!

The smartest complements to spring's one—color-from-head-to-toes, show up brightly in the new show styles!

Reds run rampant afoot — in orange-vermillion hues . . . in scarlets and in high fashion rosy-reds. Blues take on flower hues, bright and strong; light and lovely or deep and dark such as bright navy.

Pink starts off "hot" . . . turns rosy-pale or cooly, clearly sheel-toned!

Yellows are clear, some with a tint of gold-orange . . . others with a hint of green.

All in all, shoe fashions point up "elongated, simple elegance" —long on good looks,, light, bright in fabric and color and reflecting the classic, easy lines of the new clothes for spring.

New Stylings Give Smarter Look For Men

Gentlemen, step forward! Your new spring shoes offer texture interest combinations, bold simplicity in styling, lightness and fine craftsmanship!

That men's shoe-making is a fine art is pointed up by both fashion and construction that owe their beauty and success to the influence of the fine Italian hand.

There are a lot of moccasin toes, even on dress shoes.

Two or three eyelet closings are favored; the one eyelet closing no longer is tops!

Shoes that are correct for both town and country wear get star billing in slip-ons with plain or moccasin toes; perforations for comfort; with handsomely-stitched detail — here too, there is an over-all look of simplicity.

Leathers continue to feature texture, and a combination of leathers such as: reverse leathers with a deep plushy nap, smooth leathers, morocco grains, soft glove leather, and nylon or shantung.

In the luxury class are alligator, reptile and ostrich. These too have uncluttered lines, and show off with eyelet and tassel lacings.

Hot weather shoes feature the "cool-look" in brown, and black or blue with the all white is predicted to become a summer star!

Blues, from light to midnight, and navy, are the new high fashion shade for men.

CO-ORDINATED — Well coordinated for Spring are mid-heel shoes with one-eyelet tie and large but graceful handbag, both of matching smooth and suede leathers in hues of green. Matching gloves have black leather rick-rack border.

THE RETURN

Israel Changes In Ten Years

BY ELIAV SIMON

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—How this country has changed!

A visitor, returning to Israel after a 10 year absence, would never recognize the place.

The population has more than doubled, to nearly two million. Some 880,000 newcomers settled here in the past 10 years.

The building of factories and apartments goes on at a record clip. More than 430 settlements have been founded and the government has built more than 180,000 apartments to house its people. Some 1,250 new plants and businesses have been established and most are flourishing.

Electric Power

Almost 300,000 kilowatts of electric power are produced today compared with 58,000 kw. in 1948 and the 8,000-square mile Republic of Israel was created in the Holy Land.

Personal consumption has risen from $448 to $588, despite serious shortages in 1951 that led to rationing.

Today, Israel raises two - thirds of her own food. Exports are 300 per cent higher than in 1950 and imports have risen less than 50 per cent.

Other symptoms of prosperity: There now are 80,000 telephones in Israel, compared with 18,000 in 1948. Israel now prints 1,200 books a year, one of the highest publishing ratios in the world. Newspapc. circulation rises steadily, along with the number of visits to theatres, concerts and museums.

Gross Product Rises

The gross national product has risen 90 per cent in the past six years—from about 745 million dollars to 1.4 billion.

The equalizing is done by taxation. A man with a wife and two children who earns $450 a month takes home $319.

Still, Israelis not only eat better, dress better and live in larger apartments than they did 10 years ago, but they also buy more electrical appliances. Refrigerators are no longer a rare item here, and neither is gas.

Aiding this prosperity is the one million dollars a day that is pumped into Israel's economic veins to keep her alive. The money goes into agriculture, industry, mining and the government sees to it that incoming goods are distributed equitably to all plants.

Defense Investment

Of some three billion dollars invested in Israel in the past 10 years, most goes for defense.

What are Israel's economic prospects?

Output, far below any European standard, is valued at $1,100 to $1,200 a year per worker. An American's output is about $6,000. Finance Minister Levi Eshkol has said: "I demand an increase in productivity and output so we may approach the level of production in West European countries." That figure is about $2,000 per worker.

The prospects for future aid from abroad depends largely upon prosperity in America. The same holds to grants-in-aid from the American government.

Open House Set At Winnsboro Fire Station

WINNSBORO (Special) —Winnsboro's new $11,000 fire station has been completed and according to Mayor Robert F. Mulhearn, the official dedication and open house will be held at the station April 2, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard of Monroe will be principal speaker for the occasion and refreshments will be served during the two hour open house.

Also scheduled to take part in the dedication ceremonies are members of the Winnsboro Ministerial Association; Allen Robinson, fire chief; Homer E. Lowry, assistant chief; L. L. "Red" Miller, captain; Bill Hughes and Olin Jewell, resident drivers; and the 20 member volunteer Winnsboro fire department.

The new fire station is only one of the many improvements made by the town of Winnsboro since Mulhearn was elected mayor 10 years ago. Other improvements include the street improvement program; completion of an ultra-modern water plant and water improvement and fire protection system; and the completion of the $250,000 garment factorw building.

Softer Shapes Are Featured In Handbags

Handbags for spring have a rich, full look. The squares and rectangles have been softened by drapes, pleats or gussets, and there are new pouch and satchel shapes.

For daytime handbags of extra-soft, supple leather, favored hues are black, red, oyster beige, bright blue and navy. Many have shaped leather handles, slightly longer than last season's. Gilt locks and name plates add interest.

Organized for efficiency the new handbags have enough inside pockets to hold everything — or almost everything — in a special place. Many have outside pockets for coin purses, passports, keys and other paraphenalia. One pouch bag has a recessed section at the top within which adjustable snapped bands hold umbrella or papers.

Suede leather clutches and long oval pouches appear in bright colors such as hibiscus red, orange, turquoise and hot pink. Often, they're fastened with clips on silver mountings.

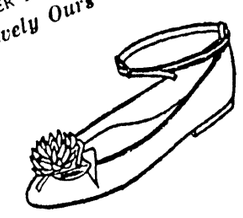

Some unusual shapes for smooth leather bags are cartridge boxes, rural mail boxes, deed boxes and flower baskets.

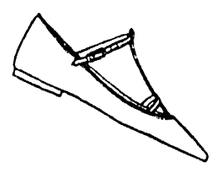

Afternoon bags of suede leather show soft, draped shapes in muted taupe and off-black tones. Late day sees the bag smaller and neater with clipped square edges.

ELEGANT—Not only elegant, but daintily detailed gloves are on hand for Spring in many lengths. Shown is longer-length glove trimmed in Schiffli lace. And for more elegance, there's perfume-here in a new atomizer to prevent evaporation.

Soviets Sensitive To U.S. Sputniks

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope came home from a week's visit to Moscow and reported that the Russians like American clothes, rock 'n' roll music, and even humor.

He found them quite touchy on the subject of "American Sputniks," however.

He termed the visit very interesting and said:

"I wouldn't have missed it for anything. It's an amazing picture there. It looked like a casting lot for 'Lost Horizons' or a Charlie Chan picture. There were about 40 different types of people.

"The Russians are interested in American entertainment. They like American humor. They dig most of the jokes. They watch us closely. They are wearing our clothing, and they would like to have more."

Hope filmed a television show while in Moscow—the first U.S. entertainer ever to do so. The film—or whatever parts of it the Russians don't frown upon—will be televised in this country April 5.

Hope said Soviet interpreters and a technical crew were assigned to the filming. The technicians who processed the film held it 36 hours and then made "suggestions" as to how it might be used or cut, he said. As for the visit in general, Hope said:

FORERUNNER—This is a creation of things to come. It is a blunt toe shoe in smooth black leather. Large perforations lend eye-interest to the gleaming leather.

STYLISTS ACTIVE

Color And Detail Mark Shoe Styles

There's a terrific feeling of zest and excitement in the new shoes for spring . . .

Color is the biggest news! Much of the color will come from the many printed fabrics that shape new shoe fashions.

Florals and stripes lead the printed-fabric line - up, and are used alone or together with match-or-contrast leathers.

White Is Important!

Whate too, blazes brightly in the shoe picture. White will trim, black patent leathers, navy, bright reds, tans, beiges, green and will even spark-up off-whites.

White accents give summery-accents to the pinks, lighter blues, yellows, orange-ices and light greens of other shoe hues.

Allover-white — in mesh, soft buttery leathers and velvety-naps; lightly - grained or perforated, or striped—will be so right for deep summer.

More Open Silhouettes

There will be a more open look to warm-weather shoes to supplement the many tapered toe closed-pump styles that remain as a so-smart holdover from past seasons.

Newest shoes show interesting variatinos on pumps, ties and T-straps! Toes are closed . . . backs open; sides, cut low . . . vamps cut out; very open sandals; wide bands, thongs, and strippings — all play up the newer look.

Heel Heights Are Lower

Heels are "newly - lowered." The very - slim, finely - tapered heel descends slightly . . . the shaped-Louis is pointed up as the high style heel . . . scooped wedges . . . built-up leather heels—are all new, very smart—but now lower in height to complement the summer-line and shorter skirt of the chemise-type silhouette.

Dramatic Detailing

Draping, pleating, folding, stitching, perforating and cutouts lend excitement to foot-wear fashions.

Patent leather packs a potent punch to spring prints and whites! There's high polish, too, to other leathers thanks to a new lacquer finish. Lustered cottons, satins, moire-satins, and shiny finishes on straws, straw cloths add smart gleams to shoe fabrics.

For A One-Color Look!

The smartest complements to spring's one—color-from-head-to-toes, show up brightly in the new show styles!

Reds run rampant afoot — in orange-vermillion hues . . . in scarlets and in high fashion rosy-reds. Blues take on flower hues, bright and strong; light and lovely or deep and dark such as bright navy.

Pink starts off "hot" . . . turns rosy-pale or cooly, clearly sheel-toned!

Yellows are clear, some with a tint of gold-orange . . . others with a hint of green.

All in all, shoe fashions point up "elongated, simple elegance"—long on good looks,, light, bright in fabric and color and reflecting the classic, easy lines of the new clothes for spring.

CO-ORDINATED — Well coordinated for Spring are mid-heel shoes with one-eyelet tie and large but graceful handbag, both of matching smooth and suede leathers in hues of green. Matching gloves have black leather rick-rack border.

Softer Shapes Are Featured In Handbags

Handbags for spring have a rich, full look. The squares and rectangles have been softened by drapes, pleats or gussets, and there are new pouch and satchel shapes.

For daytime handbags of extra-soft, supple leather, favored hues are black, red, oyster beige, bright blue and navy. Many have shaped leather handles, slightly longer than last season's. Gilt locks and name plates add interest.

Organized for efficiency the new handbags have enough inside pockets to hold everything — or almost everything — in a special place. Many have outside pockets for coin purses, passports, keys and other paraphenalia. One pouch bag has a recessed section at the top within which adjustable snapped bands hold umbrella or papers.

Suede leather clutches and long oval pouches appear in bright colors such as hibiscus red, orange, turquoise and hot pink. Often, they're fastened with clips on silver mountings.

Some unusual shapes for smooth leather bags are cartridge boxes, rural mail boxes, deed boxes and flower baskets.

Afternoon bags of suede leather show soft, draped shapes in muted taupe and off-black tones. Late day sees the bag smaller and neater with clipped square edges.

THE RETURN

Israel Changes In Ten Years

BY ELIAV SIMON

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—How this country has changed!

A visitor, returning to Israel after a 10 year absence, would never recognize the place.

The population has more than doubled, to nearly two million. Some 880,000 newcomers settled here in the past 10 years.

The building of factories and apartments goes on at a record clip. More than 430 settlements have been founded and the government has built more than 180,000 apartments to house its people. Some 1,250 new plants and businesses have been established and most are flourishing.

Electric Power

Almost 300,000 kilowatts of electric power are produced today compared with 53,000 kw. in 1948 and the 8,000-square mile Republic of Israel was created in the Holy Land.

Personal consumption has risen from $448 to $588, despite serious shortages in 1951 that led to rationing.

Today, Israel raises two - thirds of her own food. Exports are 300 per cent higher than in 1950 and imports have risen less than 50 per cent.

Other symptoms of prosperity: There now are 80,000 telephones in Israel, compared with 18,000 in 1948. Israel now prints 1,200 books a year, one of the highest publishing ratios in the world.

Newspape. circulation rises steadily, along with the number of visits to theatres, concerts and museums.

Gross Product Rises

The gross national product has risen 90 per cent in the past six years—from about 745 million dollars to 1.4 billion.

The equalizing is done by taxation. A man with a wife and two children who earns $450 a month takes home $319.

Still, Israelis not only eat better, dress better and live in larger apartments than they did 10 years ago, but they also buy more electrical appliances. Refrigerators are no longer a rare item here, and neither is gas.

Aiding this prosperity is the one million dollars a day that is pumped into Israel's economic veins to keep her alive. The money goes into agriculture, industry, mining and the government sees to it that incoming goods are distributed equitably to all plants.

Defense Investment

Of some three billion dollars invested in Israel in the past 10 years, most goes for defense.

What are Israel's economic prospects?

Output, far below any European standard, is valued at $1,100 to $1,200 a year per worker. An American's output is about $6,000. Finance Minister Levi Eshkol has said: "I demand an increase in productivity and output so we may approach the level of production in West European countries." That figure is about $2,000 per worker.

The prospects for future aid from abroad depends largely upon prosperity in America. The same holds to grants-in-aid from the American government.

New Stylings Give Smarter Look For Men

Gentlemen, step forward! Your new spring shoes offer texture interest combinations, bold simplicity in styling, lightness and fine craftsmanship!

That men's shoe-making is a fine art is pointed up by both fashion and construction that owe their beauty and success to the influence of the fine Italian hand.

There are a lot of moccasin toes, even on dress shoes.

Two or three eyelet closings are favored; the one eyelet closing no longer is tops!

Shoes that are correct for both town and country wear get star billing in slip-ons with plain or moccasin toes; perforations for comfort; with handsomely-stitched detail — here too, there is an over-all look of simplicity.

Leathers continue to feature texture, and a combination of leathers such as: reverse leathers with a deep plushy nap, smooth leathers, morocco grains, soft glove leather, and nylon or shantung.

In the luxury class are alligator, reptile and ostrich. These too have uncluttered lines, and show off with eyelet and tassel lacings.

Hot weather shoes feature the "cool-look" in brown, and black or blue with the all white is predicted to become a summer star!

Blues, from light to midnight, and navy, are the new high fashion shade for men.

How To Fit: Push, Pinch Then Tip-Toe

The man who coined the phrase "Baby needs a new pair of shoes" was a thoughtful parent, statistics of the National Shoe Institute show.

Beween infancy and the twentieth year, the average child needs at least 65 pairs of shoes to give proper support to growing feet. This table shows the average frequency of shoe changes needed:

Age Larger Size Needed
2-5 Every 3-4 months
6-10 Every 5-6 months
10-12 Every 6-8 months
12-15 Every 4-5 months
15-20 Every 10 months or age 20

Experts at the Institute say it is vitally important that parents take charge of their own shoes and buy for him. He's the one who has to wear them, and proper fit can't be determined without him.

Parents can keep a running check on their children's shoe needs with two simple tests that should be made periodically:

1. Press your thumb on the toe of the child's shoe. The shoe has proper length if it is one-half to three-quarters of an inch longer than the longest toe.

2. Pinch the leather on top of the shoe over the ball of your child's foot. If you can draw some leather between your thumb and forefinger, the width is adequate.

If the shoe fails either of these tests it should be discarded at once because it can no longer give proper support and comfort to your child's foot.

RE-ENLISTMENT PLAN

Ex-servicemen of any branch of the service may reenlist in the Navy, recruiters at the local office announced yesterday. Army, Marine and Air Force veterans, as well as ex-Navy men who were honorably discharged may reenlist, regardless of the time since their discharge.

Those who held grade E4 or above will be enlisted in pay grade E3. Waivers must be obtained if the enlistee has more than two dependents. Those who held E3 previously may reenlist in this pay grade, and have two dependents. E2's and E1's may reenlist in the grade they held when discharged and are allowed one dependent.

SCIENCE TODAY

Mental Health Is A 'Practice'

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — As Dr. Charles E. Goshen says, people are always telling you "mental health is wonderful," but they don't tell you what mental health is. To fill this crying need, Goshen tells you:

First of all, mental health is a "practice," he said. Definitely it is not merely being "for" something, but of "practicing something in a concrete and consistent way." The whole matter, then, simply is a matter of "good mental health practices."

Defines Poor Practices

These practices are those attitudes and activities which have "the characteristics of being reasonable, human, co-operative, honest, responsible, far-sighted, considerate, warm, friendly, democratic, and tolerant," he said.

Turning over the coin, he defined poor mental health practices as attitudes and activities which are "unreasonable, cruel, corrupt, reckless, short-sighted, unkind, unfriendly, dogmatic, intolerant, autocratic, dominating and exploitative."

Dr. Goshen is an official of the American Psychiatric Assn.—in charge of the association's project for educating general medical practitioners in psychiatric principles. He was lecturing in the technical journal of the American Academy of General Practice.

"All of us are concerned, in a far-reaching way, with the problem of our own self-esteem, or pride," he said, speaking of people in general. 'That we base our self-esteem on, what we do in life to preserve it, or elevate it, or destroy it, has a great deal to do with determining what kind of people we are.

Unreasonable People

"The unreasonable people we meet (and they may be known as neurotics, psychotics, delinquents, people with psychosmatic problems or maladjusted people,) generally base their self-esteem or self-confidence they are fighting for.

"In contrast, the person who engages in good mental health practices is one who bases his self-esteem on being something desirable through the practice of desirable qualities.

Shoe Place Big Accent On Leather

Women's shoes come straight to the point this spring in simple, straight sided shapes that depend largely on the beauty of the leather for their distinction. Thus they complement new fashions in clothing, which emphasize line, fabric and color.

Popular choices include sleek, shiny smooth leathers: highly-polished textured leathers with fine, light grains; bright-colored suedes; and patents in both black and bright colors — especially, a brilliant, shiny red. Beautiful aniline leather, showing the natural markings of the skin, if often glazed or given a matte finish.

Daytime shoes are cut high and straight, with throats either straight or "V" shaped, tailored pumps have new trims such as flat bows of real gold or silver, and unvarnished wood buttons.

In spectators the second color or texture of leather is applied in new and fancy shapes.

There are straps galore on all kinds of shoes; T-straps, instep straps, double straps and shaped straps.

More low, curvy heels are seen on the daytime shoes.

Dress-up shoes, also simple in shape, boast imaginative trim ranging from large, life-like daisies and anemones to bunches of cherries (these on red patent) to jeweled wishbones.

Colors are bright with a new bright navy, bright red and an electric blue leading the list. Beige is most often seen in a light "oyster" shade, but very dark beige (almost a light brown) is also important.

WONDERFUL ACCENT — For a spring costume, nothing could give more wonderful accentuation than the pair of plush sueded leather pumps shown here with softly folded tongue that rises gracefully up the instep. Called the "Lady Slipper, this style comes in soft pale green called Linden Beldi, with the tongue in a washed out beige tone. The slim heel and tapered toes are style points to remember when selecting pumps for your Easter costume.

FROM U. S. CUSTODY

Moneybags Giraffe Wins His Release

WASHINGTON (UP) — Moneybags the giraffe triumphed Friday over the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The department made its surrender unconditional by agreeing to pick up Moneybags' foot chits for the last 18 months.

Agriculture officials took on Moneybags more than 18 months ago when the giraffe arrived by ship from Africa.

Moneybags was en route to the United States to work in a Boca Raton, Fla., zoo operated by Jack James Pederson. But the Agriculture Department said no because Pederson's zoo was private and not under "government control." Clifton, N.J.

Pederson sued. Last month the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled that the department was discriminating against private zoos. It ordered Moneybags released.

The government debated taking the case to the Supreme Court, but decided against it.

However, the Agriculture Department wasn't through yet. Moneybags had been eating on the taxpayers for 18 months. The tab was $2,100. The department passed it to Pederson.

Pederson and his lawyer objected and went back to court. But the outcome of the case never will be known.

The department caved in Friday. It decided it couldn't ask Pederson to pay Moneybags' feed bill because the quarantine was ruled illegal.

"It's a wonderful thing to know that giraffes and plain ordinary American citizens can ask justice of the United States government and finally get it" Pederson said.

How To Fit: Push, Pinch Then Tip-Toe

The man who coined the phrase "Baby needs a new pair of shoes" was a thoughtful parent, statistics of the National Shoe Institute show.

Beween infancy and the twentieth year, the average child needs at least 65 pairs of shoes to give proper support to growing feet. This table shows the average frequency of shoe changes needed:

Age	Larger Size Needed
2-5	Every 1-2 months
6-10	Every 2-3 months
10-12	Every 3-4 months
12-15	Evrey 4-5 months
15-20	Every 16 months till age 20.

Experts at the Institute say it is vitally important that parents take Junior along when new shoes are bought for him. He's the one who has to wear them, and proper fit can't be determined without him.

Parents can keep a running check on their children's shoe needs with two simple tests that should be made periodically:

1. Press your thumb on the toe of the child's shoe. The shoe has proper length if it is one-half to three-quarters of an inch longer than the longest toe.

2. Pinch the leather on top of the shoe over the ball of your child's foot. If you can draw some leather between your thumb and forefinger, the width is adequate.

If the shoe fails either of these tests ,it should be discarded at once because it can no longer give proper support and comfort to your child's foot.

RE-ENLISTMENT PLAN

Ex-servicemen of any branch of the service may re-enlist in the Navy, recruiters at the local office announced yesterday. Army, Marine and Air Force veterans, as well as ex-Navy men who were honorably discharged may re-enlist, regardless of the time since their discharge.

Those who held grade E4 or above will be enlisted in pay grade E3. Waivers must be obtained if the enlistee has more than two dependents. Those who held E3 previously may reenlist in this pay grade, and have two dependents. E2's and E1's may reenlist in the grade they held when discharged and are allowed one dependent.

SCIENCE TODAY

Mental Health Is A 'Practice'

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — As Dr. Charles E. Goshen says, people are always telling you "mental health is wonderful," but they don't tell you what mental health, is. To fill this crying need, Goshen tells you.

First of all, mental health is a 'practice," he said. Definitely it is not merely being "for" something, but of "practicing something in a concrete and consistent way." The whole matter, then, simply is a matter of "good mental health practices."

Defines Poor Practices

These practices are those attitudes and activities which have "the characteristics of being reasonable, human, co-operative, honest, responsible, far-sighted, considerate, warm, friendly, democratic, and tolerant," he said.

Turning over the coin, he defined poor mental health practices as attitudes and activities which are "unreasonable, cruel, corrupt, reckless, short-sighted, unkind, unfriendly, dogmatic, intolerant, autocratic, dominating and exploitative."

Dr. Goshen is an official of the American Psychiatric Assn.—in charge of the association's project for educating general medical practitioners in psychiatric principles. He was lecturing in the technical journal of the American Academy of General Practice.

"All of us are concerned, in a far-reaching way, with the problem of our own self-esteem, or pride," he said, speaking of people in general. 'That we base our self-esteem on, what we do in life to preserve it, or elevate it, or destroy it, has a great deal to do with determining what kind of people we are.

Unreasonable People

"The unreasonable people we meet (and they may be known as neurotics, psychotics, delinquents, people with psychosmatic problems or maladjusted people,) generally base their self-esteem or self-confidence they are fighting for.

"In contrast, the person who engages in good mental health practices is one who bases his self-esteem on being something desirable through the practice of desirable qualities.

Shoe Place Big Accent On Leather

Women's shoes come straight to the point this spring in simple, straight sided shapes that depend largely on the beauty of the leather for their distinction. Thus they complement new fashions in clothing, which emphasize line, fabric and color.

Popular choices include sleek, shiny smooth leathers: highly-polished textured leathers with fine, light grains; bright-colored suedes; and patents in both black and bright colors — especially, a brilliant, shiny red. Beautiful aniline leather, showing the natural markings of the skin, if often glazed or given a matte finish.

Daytime shoes are cut high and straight, with throats either straight or "V" shaped, tailored pumps have new trims such as flat bows of real gold or silver, and unvarnished wood buttons.

In spectators the second color or texture of leather is applied in new and fancy shapes.

There are straps galore on all kinds of shoes; T-straps, instep straps, double straps and shaped straps.

More low, curvy heels are seen on the daytime shoes.

Dress-up shoes, also simple in shape, boast imaginative trim ranging from large, life - like daisies and anemones to bunches of cherries (these on red patent) to jeweled wishbones.

Colors are bright with a new bright navy, bright red and an electric blue leading the list. Beige is most often seen in a light 'oyster" shade, but very dark beige (almost a light brown) is also important.

WONDERFUL ACCENT — For a spring costume, nothing could give more wonderful accentuation than the pair of plush sueded leather pumps shown here with softly folded tongue that rises gracefully up the instep. Called the "Lady Slipper, this style comes in soft pale green called Linden Beldi, with the tongue in a washed out beige tone. The slim heel and tapered toes are style points to remember when selecting pumps for your Easter costume.

Moneybags Giraffe Wins His Release

WASHINGTON (UP) — Moneybags the giraffe triumphed Friday over the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The department made its surrender unconditional by agreeing to pick up Moneybags' foot chits for the last 18 months.

Agriculture officials took on Moneybags more than 18 months ago when the giraffe arrived by ship from Africa.

Moneybags was en route to the United States to work in a Boca Raton, Fla., zoo operated by Jack James Pederson. But the Agriculture Department said no because Pederson's zoo was private and not under "government control." Clifton, N.J.

Pederson sued. Last month the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled that the department was discriminating against private zoos. It ordered Moneybags released.

The government debated taking the case to the Supreme Court, but decided against it.

However, the Agriculture Department wasn't through yet. Moneybags had been eating on the taxpayers for 18 months. The tab was $2,100. The department passed it to Pederson.

Pederson and his lawyer objected and went back to court. But the outcome of the case never will be known.

The department caved in Friday. It decided it couldn't ask Pederson to pay Moneybags' feed bill because the quarantine was ruled illegal.

"It's a wonderful thing to know that giraffes and plain ordinary American citizens can ask justice of the United States government and finally get it" Pederson said.

CABLE PLANNED

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —Mississippi Power and Light Co. said Friday it plans a $300,000 underground cable nearly a mile from its substation to the business district here.

COMPLEMENTING THE CHEMISE LOOK — This big handbag adds a note of drama to slim, narrow line. Shown here, a big bag in grained leather, shorty gloves of butternut-smooth leather take on detailings of scallops and stitching. Handsome accessories for any gal's handbag are printed leather purse extras such as cigarette case and French purse also shown.

Men's Shoes Will Present New Look

Men's shoes will have a new look this spring, according to Leather Industries of America. It will be seen in the shape of toes, in new kinds of straps — but mostly in new soft, supple leathers that make all styles feel as easy on the foot as slippers.

There will be more textured leather in business shoes, as well as those for leisure wear, but all textures will be soft and lightly etched. Leather soles, too, will be lighter and more resilient.

Toes will be long and lean. Some of them will be pointed at the end, some squared off, but most of them will be rounded.

The three-eyelet tie will be the most popular sayle. There will be some five eyelets, but they will be cut almost as low as the three-eyelet. All ties will have the easy going, casual look of slipons.

New ways with perforations and seams will distinguish the new slipons. Some slipons will have graduated perforations around the topline, with the largest ones at the back, smaller ones to the front. Others will have perforations in horizontal rows around the toe of the shoe and in vertical rows up the tongue. Some moc toes will be outlined with perforations.

Seams will be fine and many of them will be inverted, giving a smooth line. Sometimes a seam will run down the center of a plain toe. And slipons will often have a swirling seam along one side of the toe.

The buckle and strap shoe formerly worn only for casual wear., will be seen in business shoes as well. Probably the most dressy strap will be one only a quarter of an inch wide that fastens in the center with a tiny self-buckle.

Teen-Agers Have Own Ideas About Styles Of Shoes

Teeners, both girls and boys, like shoes that follow their elders' styles, but they must have the teeners' distinct stamp.

This is especially true of the teen girls's flats as much a part of her life as the phone and the corner drug store.

Like her mothers shoes, they are pointed this spring, and the ever-popular ballet slipper is dressed up with T-straps. New details mark these flats as belonging to the high school set.

They have, for one thing, inch-high heels shaped like pears or fiddles, or round as pancakes. Ghillie-type laces are another identifying mark. Fruit and nut clusters, pompoms and flower bouquets in brilliant colors provide lighthearted trim.

Soft leather in plain-but-pretty designs make flats more appealing than ever. Fine-textured suede leather shares the honors with smooth leathers.

Red and black are favored colors. Other leaders are coral, turquoise and bright blue in suede and oyster beige and turf in smooth, shiny leather.

Among two-and three-colored flats, there are such combinations as black patent leather on one side and gray suede on the other or oyster beige with turf, in smooth, shiny leather. And there are lots of flats in red, white and blue.

COMBINED UTILITY — Carrying capacity and good looks are combined in handbag with two outside pockets, compartment and pockets inside.

Cold Halts Red Tide In Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Florida's severest winter of the century has brought big troubles to farming and the tourist business but it did one good thing — it halted the fish killing Red Tide.

The Red Tide burst into one of its lethal stages last September, and during the fall struck terror along 200 miles of Florida Gulf coast from Tarpon Springs to south of Cape Romano. Although commercial varieties were generally unaffected, other types were hard hit.

Then came the first drastic freeze of the winter season.

The effects of that December cold spell were not too noticeable at once, but Dr. Robert F. Hutton, biologist of the state conservation department, reports that succeeding cold waves caused big changes in the density of the Red Tide.

"The cold seems to have done the job for us," said Dr. Hutton who is in charge of the state forces trying to control the scourge. Since the first of the year no Red Tide organisms have been found in the northern sector of the infested belt and only a few have been detected in the southern end.

Dr. Hutton won't predict what this mysterious fish killer will do in the future.

Red Tide actually is a tiny marine organism, Gymnodinium Brevis (GB), which multiplies rapidly under certain conditions. When the GB count reaches 300-350,000 to a quart of water it's a fish killer. The organisms throw off a neuro toxin which kills fish by paralyzing their bodily functions.

The plague gets its name because the rapid growth of these tiny bugs turns sea waters reddish brown.

Scientists still are working to learn the specific cause of these outbreaks and how to control them. However, temperature and the presence of nutrient materials washed into the Gulf of Mexico by rain - swelled streams are known to be important.

The poison released by these rampaging organisms is carried by droplets of water and can become irritating to humans. Beach residents may be bothered with coughing or sore throats.

For the first time last fall copper sulphate was used with success to kill big patches of Red Tide. Patrol boats and spray planes scattered copper spray. Even bags of the chemical were tied at passes to treat infested tidal waters. But the Gulf is a big place and to spray all the blighted area would take lots of money. Further, copper sulphate has no lasting effect and repeated sprayings are necessary.

The pest did not hurt fishing last fall as it did in 1947-48. Neither was it as bad this latest time as in 1952-53.

My Struggle With Fear

By ANN SOTHERN

Star of Screen and TV

My personal journey from fear to faith started eight years ago after I had recovered from a severe attack of infectious hepatitis. This illness left me emotionally broken and my nerves shrinkingly sensitive to the slightest disturbance.

Prior to that I had the usual amounts of ordinary fears balanced by ordinary faith. I worried a little and prayed a little and got by, just like hundreds of others.

But when those fears suddenly magnified, I was so tortured with self-doubt that I was sure I could never again make even normal decisions, much less face the cameras. At that point I had to reach out for something beyond ordinary faith, or perish.

For me there was no such thing as learning to live with fear. It was killing me. I was physically as well as medical science could make me; but fear, as I now know has a definite effect on the body as well as the mind, and for this there was no medical prescription.

Afraid of Fear

I had to do something to face my present fear squarely. What was I afraid of?

A number of things, but chiefly fear itself.

So what was I to do about it? "Replace fear with faith," was a phrase I had heard many times. How did I begin doing this?

The answer came to me that prayer was the link between man, the visible, and God, the invisible. So I started with prayer. Simple asking for faith and strength. I was incapable of anything profound.

I wasn't answered by a vision or any immediate release. Yet after my prayer came the growing consciousness that there were other steps I could take to help myself.

I saw, for example, that I had to let yesterday go, leave tomorrow to God, and live today. Now was the time that really should concern me.

Fear of Failure

Then I had to face that fact that my indecision, which had been turning today from a period of activity into a waste, was simply another form of fear . . . fear of failure . . . fear of making a mistake. So I told myself, "You have made bad decisions in the past. And plenty of mistakes. You are fallible. Who isn't?"

Well, God wasn't. God was infallible. So I began to ask His help each morning in making the decisions for today.

Next thing I had to face was my fear of others. Did I fear their opinion of me? That I might be misunderstood? Or did I fear my mask would slip, enabling people to glimpse me as I really was?

Could my big step toward eliminating fear of people be complete honesty, first with myself and then with others?

Deceits Blasted

I talked it over with a director friend of mine. He agreed that much of our fear of others could lie in having our "ego-protective" deceits blasted. I was still pondering this when he went out and, by chance, demonstrated what he meant.

For many months he had been working on a weekly TV series with a producer, Mr. X, notoriously exacting and difficult. It made for a tense and fearful relationship.

Directly after our talk he had gone to the projection room to view a film they had completed the previous day. When the lights went up there was an ominous silence.

"That script," bellowed Mr. X, "is not the right one. That script is for next month." He glared at my director friend. "What happened to the one scheduled for this month?"

My friend admitted that for a moment he was frightened. Mr. X was a big man, this was a big series, and here was a big error.

He Admitted It

"I made a mistake," he said quietly. "I'm sorry."

The producer's jaw, set for battle, dropped. "Are you sure," he said, "that your stenographer didn't get the schedule change from the sponsor?" It was tempting, this out, but my friend had plunged in and he was now prepared to go all the way.

"I got the schedule change," he said. "I made a stupid mistake. I'd like to start shooting the right script tomorrow. I think I can make it in time for our release date."

Mr. X then walked over and looked my friend squarely in the eye. "I've been around for a long time. This is the first time I have ever heard anyone admit full responsibility for a mistake."

A new relationship, based on absolute honesty, was establihhed that day. Fear and tension were eliminated from their work together.

Fears Evaporated

And I found as I tried to adhere to this same pattern of honesty that my own fears began to evaporate and my relationship with others became easier and happier.

But I still had to face the biggest fear of all. Fear of myself, of my own inadequacy. "I can do it. I can drive to the doctor's alone," I said to myself one day. But, after traveling only a block from the house, I was so shaken and frightened I had to return.

Then one day my young daughter, Patricia, faced with her first serious exams at school, came to me scared to death.

"Relax, honey," I advised. "If you let fear take over, you won't be able to think clearly. God has made you in His image and likeness. Your body, your beauty — He gave you—and your mind as well. You've studied. Done your part. What makes you think he'll desert you when you need Him?"

"God Can"

"But I can't pass," she wailed. "I know I can't."

"Well, where you cant, God can," I said. And then I heard what I had said. If I had any talent, hadn't He given me that, too? And wasn't "I can't" the very thing that was blocking me? Separated from Him, what could I do? But "I can do all things through Christ which strengthene me."

That way — asking Divine Guidance, trying my best to follow it, living in loving honesty with my fellow men—what had I to fear? In the months that followed, I was able to meet the demands of both career and personal life — because I had learned not to rely solely on strength from my own very imited reservoir, but to draw from my Father's inexhaustible spring.

Alcoholism Up In Past 5 Years

CHICAGO (UP) — An increase of one million during the past five years has swelled the nation's alcoholic case load to about five million, according to Mrs. Marty Mann, executive director of the National Council on Alcoholism.

Mrs. Mann said Friday there now is one woman alcoholic for every 5.5 men addicted to excessive drink.

Although the number of alcoholics has risen, this does not mean that the alcoholic rate for the country also has increased, Mrs. Mann told the 9th annual Conference on Tuberculosis.

The increase, she explained, can be attributed to the rising population from which larger numbers of persons are reaching the legal drinking age.

She described alcoholism and tuberculosis as "mutually attractive" to each other. Alcoholics, she said, are highly susceptible to tuberculosis because of poor nutrition, lack of sleep and the fact that their addiction precludes regular living.

Big Explosion Injures Two At Oil Plant

SUPERIOR, Wis. (UP) — Two men were injured early today when a series of explosions at a crude oil refinery rocked this city.

A semi-trailer tank truck was blown apart and remnants were thrown 150 feet. Two fires resulting from the explosion were quickly brought under control by firemen.

Fire officials said the explosions, one large one followed by a series of smaller blasts, occurred in the loading shack area of the Lake Superior Refining Co. on the city's outskirts.

Norman Bartylla, 24, Superior, a refinery employe, and Ray Oetterer, 32, Finlayson, Minn., suffered cuts, bruises and foot injuries when they leaped from a 12-foot loading dock to escape the blaze.

Authorities said automatic cut-offs which terminate the flow of oil to the tanks were immediately thrown. All available fire equipment and ambulances were rushed to the scene following the blasts which occurred at about 6:25 a.m. c.s.t. The explosions awoke townspeople five miles away.

A number of crude oil tanks escaped the blaze due to quick action by the fire department. Officials cited static electricity in the loading shack as the probable cause of the explosion.

"Well, it's blown again," one of the refinery workers was heard to say today.

Men's shoes will have a new look this spring, according to Leather Industries of America. It will be seen in the shape of toes, in new kinds of straps — but mostly in new soft, supple leathers that make all styles feel as easy on the foot as slippers.

There will be more textured leather in business shoes, as well as those for leisure wear, but all textures will be soft and lightly etched. Leather soles, too, will be lighter and more resilient.

Toes will be long and lean. Some of them will be pointed at the end, some squared off, but most of them will be rounded.

The three-eyelet tie will be the most popular sayle. There will be some five eyelets, but they will be cut almost as low as the three-eyelet. All ties will have the easy going, casual look of slipons.

New ways with perforations and seams will distinguish the new slipons. Some slipons will have graduated perforations around the topline, with the largest ones at the back, smaller ones to the front. Others will have perforations in horizontal rows around the toe of the shoe and in vertical rows up the tongue. Some moc toes will be outlined with perforations.

Seams will be fine and many of them will be inverted, giving a smooth line. Sometimes a seam will run down the center of a plain toe. And slipons will often have a swirling seam along one side of the toe.

The buckle and strap shoe formerly worn only for casual wear., will be seen in business shoes as well. Probably the most dressy strap will be one only a quarter of an inch wide that fastens in the center with a tiny self-buckle.

Teen-Agers Have Own Ideas About Styles Of Shoes

Teeners, both girls and boys, like shoes that follow their elders' styles, but they must have the teeners' distinct stamp.

This is especially true of the teen girls's flats as much a part of her life as the phone and the corner drug store.

Like her mothers shoes, they are pointed this spring, and the ever-popular ballet slipper is dressed up with T-straps. New details mark these flats as belonging to the high school set.

They have, for one thing, inch-high heels shaped like pears or fiddles, or round as pancakes. Ghillie-type laces are another identifying mark. Fruit and nut clusters, pompoms and flower bouquets in brilliant colors provide lighthearted trim.

Soft leather in plain-but-pretty designs make flats more appealing than ever. Fine-textured suede leather shares the honors with smooth leathers.

Red and black are favored colors. Other leaders are coral, turquoise and bright blue in suede and oyster beige and turf in smooth, shiny leather.

Among two-and three-colored flats, there are such combinations as black patent leather on one side and gray suede on the other or oyster beige with turf, in smooth, shiny leather. And there are lots of flats in red, white and blue.

COMBINED UTILITY — Carrying capacity and good looks are combined in handbag with two outside pockets, compartment and pockets inside.

TWO-TONE LOOK IN SHOES —The long, lean and lithe silhouette of shoes is shown in stark white calf with an underlay of dark calf that highlights the lacy perforation motif which is described as "so smart for spring and into the summer."

Cold Halts Red Tide In Florida

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Florida's severest winter of the century has brought big troubles to farming and the tourist business but it did one good thing — it halted the fish killing Red Tide.

The Red Tide burst into one of its lethal stages last September, and during the fall struck terror along 200 miles of Florida Gulf coast from Tarpon Springs to south of Cape Romano. Although commercial varieties were generally unaffected, other types were hard hit.

Then came the first drastic freeze of the winter season.

The effects of that December cold spell were not too noticeable at once, but Dr. Robert F. Hutton, biologist of the state conservation department, reports that succeeding cold waves caused big changes in the density of the Red Tide.

"The cold seems to have done the job for us," said Dr. Hutton who is in charge of the state forces trying to control the scourge. Since the first of the year no Red Tide organisms have been found in the northern sector of the infested belt and only a few have been detected in the southern end.

Dr. Hutton won't predict what this mysterious fish killer will do in the future.

Red Tide actually is a tiny marine organism, Gymnodinium Brevis (GB), which multiplies rapidly under certain conditions. When the GB count reaches 300-350,000 to a quart of water it's a fish killer. The organisms throw off a neuro toxin which kills fish by paralyzing their bodily functions.

The plague gets its name because the rapid growth of these tiny bugs turns sea waters reddish brown.

Scientists still are working to learn the specific cause of these outbreaks and how to control them. However, temperature and the presence of nutrient materials washed into the Gulf of Mexico by rain - swelled streams are known to be important.

The poison released by these rampaging organisms is carried by droplets of water and can become irritating to humans. Beach residents may be bothered with coughing or sore throats.

For the first time last fall copper sulphate was used with success to kill big patches of Red Tide. Patrol boats and spray planes scattered copper spray. Even bags of the chemical were tied at passes to treat infested tidal waters. But the Gulf is a big place and to spray all the blighted area would take lots of money. Further, copper sulphate has no lasting effect and repeated sprayings are necessary.

The pest did not hurt fishing last fall as it did in 1947-48. Neither was it as bad this latest time as in 1952-53.

My Struggle With Fear

By ANN SOTHERN

Star of Screen and TV

My personal journey from fear to faith started eight years ago after I had recovered from a severe attack of infectious hepatitis. This illness left me emotionally broken and my nerves shriekingly sensitive to the slightest disturbance.

Prior to that I had the usual amounts of ordinary fears balanced by ordinary faith. I worried a little and prayed a little and got by, just like hundreds of others.

But when those fears suddenly magnified, I was so tortured with self-doubt that I was sure I could never again make even normal decisions, much less face the cameras. At that point I had to reach out for something beyond ordinary faith, or perish.

For me there was no such thing as learning to live with fear. It was killing me. I was physically as well as medical science could make me; but fear, as I now know has a definite effect on the body as well as the mind, and for this there was no medical prescription.

Afraid of Fear

I had to do something to face my present fear squarely. What was I afraid of?

A number of things, but chiefly fear itself.

So what was I to do about it? "Replace fear with faith," was a phrase I had heard many times. How did I begin doing this?

The answer came to me that prayer was the link between man, the visible, and God, the invisible. So I started with prayer. Simple asking for faith and strength. I was incapable of anything profound.

I wasn't answered by a vision or any immediate release. Yet after my prayer came the growing consciousness that there were other steps I could take to help myself.

I saw, for example, that I had to let yesterday go, leave tomorrow to God, and live today. Now was the time that really should concern me.

Fear of Failure

Then I had to face that fact that my indecision, which had been turning today from a period of activity into a waste, was simply another form of fear . . . fear of failure . . . fear of making a mistake. So I told myself, "You have made bad decisions in the past. And plenty of mistakes. You are fallible. Who isn't?"

Well, God wasn't. God was infallible. So I began to ask His help each morning in making the decisions for today.

Next thing I had to face was my fear of others. Did I fear their opinion of me? That I might be misunderstood? Or did I fear my mask would slip, enabling people to glimpse me as I really was?

Could my big step toward eliminating fear of people be complete honesty, first with myself and then with others?

Deceits Blasted

I talked it over with a director friend of mine. He agreed that much of our fear of others could lie in having our "ego-protective" deceits blasted. I was still pondering this when he went out and, by chance, demonstrated what he meant.

For many months he had been working on a weekly TV series with a producer, Mr. X, notoriously exacting and difficult. It made for a tense and fearful relationship.

Directly after our talk he had gone to the projection room to view a film they had completed the previous day. When the lights went up there was an ominous silence.

"That script," bellowed Mr. X, "is not the right one. That script is for next month." He glared at my director friend. "What happened to the one scheduled for this month?"

My friend admitted that for a moment he was frightened. Mr. X was a big man, this was a big series, and here was a big error.

He Admitted It

"I made a mistake," he said quietly. "I'm sorry."

The producer's jaw, set for battle, dropped. "Are you sure," he said, "that your stenographer didn't get the schedule change from the sponsor?" It was tempting, this out, but my friend had plunged in and he was now prepared to go all the way.

"I got the schedule change," he said. "I made a stupid mistake. I'd like to start shooting the right script tomorrow. I think I can make it in time for our release date."

Mr. X then walked over and looked my friend squarely in the eye. "I've been around for a long time. This is the first time I have ever heard anyone admit full responsibility for a mistake."

A new relationship, based on absolute honesty, was establihhed that day. Fear and tension were eliminated from their work together.

Fears Evaporated

And I found as I tried to adhere to this same pattern of honesty that my own fears began to evaporate and my relationship with others became easier and happier.

But I still had to face the biggest fear of all. Fear of myself, of my own inadequacy. "I can do it. I can drive to the doctor's alone," I said to myself one day. But, after traveling only a block from the house, I was so shaken and frightened I had to return.

Then one day my young daughter, Patricia, faced with her first serious exams at school, came to me scared to death.

"Relax, honey," I advised. "If you let fear take over, you won't be able to think clearly. God has made you in His image and likeness. Your body, your beauty — He gave you—and your mind as well. You've studied. Done your part. What makes you think he'll desert you when you need Him?"

"God Can"

"But I can't pass," she wailed. "I know I can't."

"Well, where you cant, God can," I said. And then I heard what I had said. If I had any talent, hadn't He given me that, too? And wasn't "I can't" the very thing that was blocking me? Separated from Him, what could I do? But "I can do all things through Christ which strengthene me."

That way — asking Divine Guidance, trying my best to follow it, living in loving honesty with my fellow men—what had I to fear? In the months that followed, I was able to meet the demands of both career and personal life — because I had learned not to rely solely on strength from my own very imited reservoir, but to draw from my Father's inexhaustible spring.

Alcoholism Up In Past 5 Years

CHICAGO (UP) — An increase of one million during the past five years has swelled the nation's alcoholic case load to about five million, according to Mrs. Marty Mann, executive director of the National Council on Alcoholism.

Mrs. Mann said Friday there now is one woman alcoholic for every 5.5 men addicted to excessive drink.

Although the number of alcoholics has risen, this does not mean that the alcoholic rate for the country also has increased, Mrs. Mann told the 9th annual Conference on Tuberculosis.

The increase, she explained, can be attributed to the rising population from which larger numbers of persons are reaching the legal drinking age.

She described alcoholism and tuberculosis as "mutually attractive" to each other. Alcoholics, she said, are highly susceptible to tuberculosis because of poor nutrition, lack of sleep and the fact that their addiction precludes regular living.

Big Explosion Injures Two At Oil Plant

SUPERIOR, Wis. (UP) — Two men were injured early today when a series of explosions at a crude oil refinery rocked this city.

A semi-trailer tank truck was blown apart and remnants were thrown 150 feet. Two fires resulting from the explosion were quickly brought under control by firemen.

Fire officials said the explosions, one large one followed by a series of smaller blasts, occurred in the loading shack area of the Lake Superior Refining Co. on the city's outskirts.

Norman Bartylla, 24, Superior, a refinery employe, and Ray Oetterer, 32, Finlayson, Minn., suffered cuts, bruises and foot injuries when they leaped from a 12-foot loading dock to escape the blaze.

Authorities said automatic cut-offs which terminate the flow of oil to the tanks were immediately thrown. All available fire equipment and ambulances were rushed to the scene following the blasts which occurred at about 6:25 a.m. c.s.t. The explosions awoke townspeople five miles away.

A number of crude oil tanks escaped the blaze due to quick action by the fire department. Officials cited static electricity in the loading shack as the probable cause of the explosion.

A similar explosion occurred at the same refinery last year, destroying a loading shack and a truck.

"Well, it's blown again," one of the refinery workers was heard to say today.

NEW SHOES

Spring Leather Shines Bright

If your shoes were painted on your feet, they couldn't be brighter or pettier this spring. Many of the rich, imaginative colors to be shown this season will be at their most brilliant with the extra depth which leather gives them.

Red of course, is the most talked of among the new vivid colors and leather is favored this spring as the most beautiful way to see red. Probably the newest of the leather reds is one with a hint of coral that makes it as bright as a flying spark. There is an outburst of this red in patent as well as smooth and sueded leather, the Leather Industries of America reports.

Next to red in popularity will be an azure blue leather. It will be seen either alone, accented neatly with white, or in the famous tricolor: red, white and blue.

White leather, both textured and smooth, will also be used to set off bright orange and green in two-color shoes. And many one-color bright shoes will be accented with washable white leather soles.

There will be a whole group of exotic bright leathers including pueblo yellow, turquoise, Caribbean pink, petunia, tropical orange, salad green, raspberry and shrimp. A new mellow golden olive and a linden green, the color of the lindon tree's leaves, are also exciting.

Sometimes these bright leathers will be made even brighter by a trim and neat sole of washable white leather. And bright leather linings will match or contrast with the outside of the shoe.

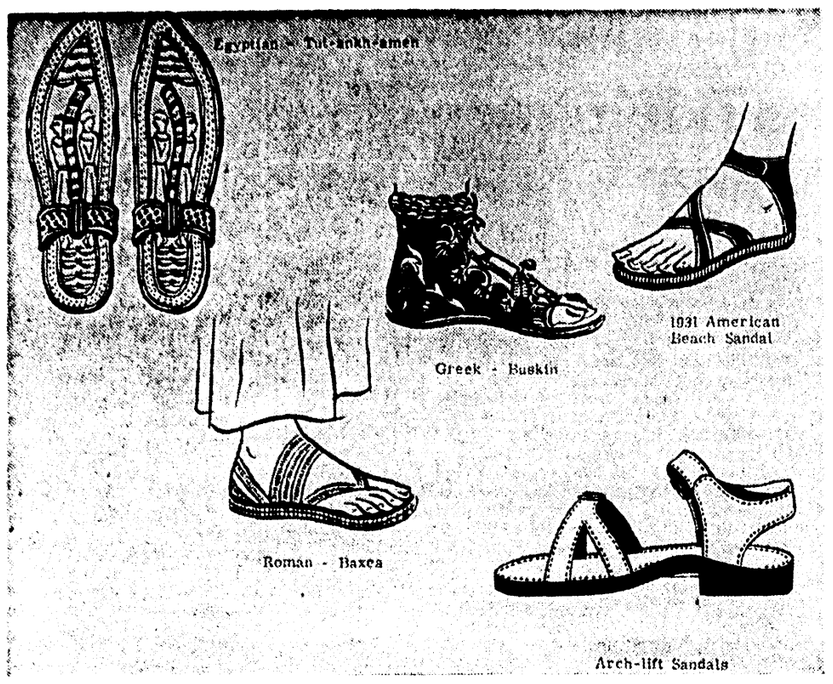

Traditional navy, as much a part of spring as the robin, will bloom this year in a spanking bright new shade.

Neutrals will be given new interest. Beiges, for instance, will be newest in very light bone tones or slightly touched with green. Tan will be represented by the warm benedictine shade. There will be some gray and loden green, but these will be limited to sports shoes.

Some designers have been so delighted with this spring's new leather colors that they've thrown a whole basketful of them exuberantly in one shoe. One, of yellow, pink, red, blue and green smooth leather in a floral print, is as fresh and appealing as a flower garden coming into bloom.

Another smooth leather shoe combines emerald and salad green with grayed green and muted yellow in long stripes from heel to toe. While one of the boldest mix-ups is of vibrant green, red and blue suede.

Other leather color combinations bright enough to make you catch your breath are: turquoise, melon and yellow; light green, blue and white; and blue; pink and purple.

EXOTIC FOOTWEAR— Egyptian: this gaily painted sandal was found in the tomb of King Tut-ankh-amen who ruled during the 14th century B. C. Buskin: This is a Greek sandal worn about the fifth century B. C., and originating, supposedly, after the famous battle of the Amazons. Baxea: When worn by the intellectual in Rome about 350 B.C., this sandal was indicative of his humility. 1931 Beach Sandal: Reserved for leisure time activities, the 1931 American sandal would have been uncomfortable if worn for any length of time. New Sandal: featuring an exclusive built-in metal arch support which relieves stress and strain, these arch-lift sandals are the last word in style and comfort, the manufacturer claims.

Padded-Hips Girdle Slated For Sackers

BY HAZEL K. JOHNSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, (UP) — Clothing manufacturer Fred Mellinger's latest contribution to the female form is a girdle with padded hips to round out the sack dress.

The foam rubber apparatus is designed to give the slimmest hipped gal the contours of a Marilyn Monroe.

To date, Mellinger (owner-operator of Frederick's of Hollywood) has kept his attempts to fill in the female form well above the waistline.

Foresaw Crisis

But when the chemise style came along Mellinger foresaw a new crisis for the diet-thin woman and decided he had a wide-open market for a girdle that "does something" for the sack dress.

Mellinger's current model (trade marked "Nu-Curve") has removable "fanny pads" which many a skinny customer clains are her salvation when it comes to wearing the straight - line fashions which are not designed to sag limply around the figure.

With this garment a success the firm has under "construction" a model which will pad the hips.

Will Give Little Service

Mellinger's product obviously will be of little service to the woman who buys a girdle with the idea of achieving results exactly contrary to those of his foam rubber creation.

And he's gambling that the chemise is here to stay—at least through the summer.

"Our girls can even wear shorts or go swimming. We've got a waterproof model." Mellinger said

Full-Scale War Looms For Cuba

By LARRY ALLEN

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — There's bombing, sabotage, kidnaping or killing going on almost every day in Havana—and a full-scale revolution could be just around the forner.

To the dauntless American tourist in this "gay, exotic" Caribbean capital, all this is just "interesting and exciting"—up to a point.

So long as it doesn't get too close to him, the average tourist is determined to go right on having fun. That's what he came for, so, "Why worry about Cuba's political troubles?"

But when there appears to be danger of personal involvement, John W. Tourist wants to get aboard the fastest plane for somewhere else. Last Tuesday, for example, after 42 religious, professional, fraternal and other organizations demanded that President Fulgencio Batista quit, there was a flurry in the tourist business.

Some American business organizations called off conventions planned for Havana. One hotel, for instance, reported four cancellations. Near-paralysis struck stores and businesses. International airlines reported some of their planes to and from Havana were nearly empty.

But the new 30-story 44-million-dollar Havana Hilton Hotel went ahead and opened Thursday, with nearly 100 armed policemen guarding the place and its gambling casino to prevent rebel bombings or kidnaping of guests, including some Hollywood stars. The rebels burned some carpeting in the hotel before its opening. Some Hollywood stars — Esther Williams and Rory Calhoun among them—failed to show up for the opening ceremonies.

But one of the unique things about Cuba's months of bloodshed and rising rebellion against Batista is that it failed for so long to dampen the ardor of fun-seeking tourists.

They poured into Havana by ship and plane as if nothing unusual was going on or nothing extraordinary was going to happen.

Only a week ago Armando Maribona, vice president of the Cuban Tourist Institute, was so optimistic that he predicted American tourists alone would be spending 100 million dollars annually in Cuba in less than five years.

Tourists left behind 37 million in 1956 and more than 40 million in 1957. The figure this year—in spite of violence and rebellion—might climb pretty close to 50 million.

Every American tourist seems to have a streak of adventure, and that is satisfied, along with funmaking, when he comes to Havana.

Candlesticks should not be immersed or soaked in water or scraped with a knife or sharp instrument to remove wax. Instead, sponge off the base with carbon tetrachloride or other cleaning fluid, and pour warm water into the socket. Let it stand until the wax softens, then wipe it out with a paper towel.

Leading Roles Assigned In School Play

Stuart Hill, Walter Bondurant, and Donald Skipper have been selected to carry the leads in the West Monroe High School fifth annual senior play. "The Defiance of David Charles" by Hal O'Neal Kesler has been chosen as this year's production by Mrs. Sue Hardin, sponsor.

Others in the cast are Winona Stewart, Connie Ware, Camille Camp, Linda Steele, Johnny Huntsman, Mike Stone, Mickey Bass, Larry Green, Tommie Sue Lowery, Rubye Faye Cloyd, Cherry Chapman, and Sondra Enete.

The play is scheduled to be presented in the school auditorium on April 10 and 11 at 8 p.m. Proceeds will go toward purchasing a gift to be left to the school on behalf of the graduating class.

Tourists left behind 37 million in 1956 and more than 40 million in 1957. The figure this year—in spite of violence and rebellion—might climb pretty close to 50 million.

Every American tourist seems to have a streak of adventure, and that is satisfied, along with funmaking, when he comes to Havana.

Candlesticks should not be immersed or soaked in water or scraped with a knife or sharp instrument to remove wax. Instead, sponge off the base with carbon tetrachloride or other cleaning fluid, and pour warm water into the socket. Let it stand until the wax softens, then wipe it out with a paper towel.

Leading Roles Assigned In School Play

Stuart Hill, Walter Bondurant, and Donald Skipper have been selected to carry the leads in the West Monroe High School fifth annual senior play. "The Defiance of David Charles" by Hal O'Neal Kesler has been chosen as this year's production by Mrs. Sue Hardin, sponsor.

Others in the cast are Winona Stewart, Connie Ware, Camille Camp, Linda Steele, Johnny Huntsman, Mike Stone, Mickey Bass, Larry Green, Tommie Sue Lowery, Rubye Faye Cloyd, Cherry Chapman, and Sondra Enete.

The play is scheduled to be presented in the school auditorium on April 10 and 11 at 8 p.m. Proceeds will go toward purchasing a gift to be left to the school on behalf of the graduating class.

Ambulance Driving Hard Work, No Glamour

Drivers Express Practical Views

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Ever wonder what an ambulance driver is thinking, as you watch his vehicle pass, sirens screaming and red light blinking?

"I'm watching out for traffic, mostly," reveals one "looking to see that no one pulls out in front of me. I'm just thinking about getting there."

Excitement, glamor, a continuing drama much like the movies?

"There's not much drama in it — ambulance driving is all hard work," the Twin Cities' drivers commented.

To anyone on the sidelines, the job seems to hold thrills you don't experience in everyday living.

Talk to a few of the drivers — they recall things in a matter of fact way. The things they recall are stark, chilling reality — you don't forget them easily.

Shootings, Stabbings

Shootings, stabbing, wrecks, heart attacks — and false alarms at 12:40 a.m.

"We had a false alarm at 12:40 a.m. a few days ago—supposed to be a bad wreck out at Lakeshore. As we got near there, one car came out of a side street, racing us, and another came right behind it. They had called us, wanted to see if they could beat us, and of course they could. State Police got one car in a few blocks," mentioned two ambulance men.

Most emergency calls, except for sickness, are cleared through the police switchboard; some people call the ambulance direct.

The harsh jang'e of the phone in the cities' funeral homes — headquarters for the ambulances — alerts the drivers. Each ambulance has one driver and one assistant.

"We drive as the traffic permits. In the city limits, we must abide by speed limits," drivers stated, adding that they usually go slightly faster than the other traffic.

"The law says that other cars are supposed to pull over parallel to the curb and stop when they hear a siren. Sometimes other motorists get nasty and cuss us out — it doesn't bother us though. But that's the type that will get highly indignant if they are in an ambulance and the other traffic doesn't move over," the drivers laughed.

"On the highway, where cars can't pull over, they either speed up until they find a turn-off — or slam on their brakes and block the road. We don't have much trouble in town; Monroe people are pretty good," they comment.

Thing of Past

The days of the 90 mile-per hour ambulance are a thing of the past.

"A new 1958 Cadillac ambulance costs $15,000. With so much money tied up in an ambulance, we don't want to wreck it. But when people hear the siren, they think we are driving fast, anyway," one driver remarked. "We hurry to a wreck, but if it's not bad, we take it easy coming back."

"You can't go fast when the person on the stretcher might have broken bones. If you jar someone who has broken ribs or back, you could kill him," drivers pointed out.

Many of the ambulance calls are to homes, for persons who have had a heart attack. But a glance at one driver's notebook, listing calls over a few days time, shows this:

One woman beat up; heart attack; wreck; man with stomach ulcers; drunk passed out; man fell down stairs; false alarm; cutting; wreck; heart attack; nobody hurt; woman having baby; attempted suicide; wreck.

A driver averages one to four calls each day.

"We deliver babies lots and lots of times. One night I delivered one at the corner of S. Second and Coleman in West Monroe, and another time in a house. People always wait until the last minute to call an ambulance," a driver of 14-years experience commented.

"We get them delivered, though. We've never lost one yet."

Sometimes people walk along the railroad bridge across the river. Ambulance drivers have to lift them off the tracks, after they get caught by a train.

"One man got hit in the daytime. I got out there with one foot balancing on the engine, the other on a piece of rail, and tried to help him up. One arm was cut off and he was bleeding badly, but all he did was laugh. He lived through it," a Monroe driver said, shaking his head.

The Unexpected

The unexpected in human nature crops up.

"We got a call at 7 a.m. one morning, wreck on a highway right outside of Monroe. Car crashed into a pole, and a woman was pinned in the wreckage. I was alone and couldn't get her out by myself. Lots of men going fishing went past in old clothes, wouldn't give me any help. A large, new car, driven by a chauffeur, stopped and a man in a white linen suit got out and helped me. He got blood all over his suit . . . and those fishermen in old clothes just looked," a driver frowned.

Only one fatal ambulance wreck has occurred in Monroe, drivers said.

A car hit an ambulance on Louisville Avenue, and the ambulance driver was killed. In the last 10 years, all other accidents have been minor.

"It's not that ambulance drivers are so good — just that they're careful drivers. We see so much of wrecks, we don't want to be involved in one," several drivers agreed.

Patients want to drive the ambulances.

Want Behind Wheel

"All the time, patients want to take the wheel — they try to get up there and drive. For psycho cases, we have restraining straps on the stretcher, just like the ones in hospitals," an assistant revealed.

"Patients get a kick out of the siren, and want you to blow it. Sometimes adults tell you to blow it when there's no emergency — they don't get their way, though," a driver laughed.

Ambulance drivers have encountered murderers.

how another driver started to a murder. When we got there, a flashlight was lying on the ground. One driver recalled how another driver startld to pick the flashlight up, as police shouted, "Don't touch it — it's the murderer's." In the next instant, the criminal, who was holding everyone off, fired a shot at the driver.

Another time a psychopathic case had cut his wrists with a razor. Ambulances were called. The ambulance driver recalls, "He wasn't going to cut me, but he said he was going to cut someone else before he died. I knew him and he finally turned the razor over to me. He died that day."

Must Stay Calm

Excitement panics people in an emergency. Ambulance drivers have to stay calm.

On house calls, relatives and friends often get excited and alarm the patient. "One man suffered a heart attack. He was scared of dying, got tense and couldn't relax. He died two days later — if he'd been calm, he probably would have lived through it," an ambulance assistant said.

"When a person is pinned under a dashboard, often all you have to do is push the little button next to the seat and move it back. Excitement keeps people from realizing this," a driver added.

Many times, ambulance drivers lift the whole back seat out of a car and place it in the ambulance, if they think the person on it has a broken back. The slightest movement could be fatal.

"We always pick up people the way we'd want it done for us," drivers mentioned.

Trapped in a burning car — that happens too.

"I was starting to help a man out of a wrecked car one night when it just flared up in a fire. You make yourself dive into the bayou to get someone drowning, or go into a fire to get someone out. Because you'd want somebody else to do it for you," is the way drivers summed this up.

Why does a man become an ambulance driver?

"There's not too much attraction in it for young men nowadays. Most drivers start young while they're in school — just as a job," a driver explained.

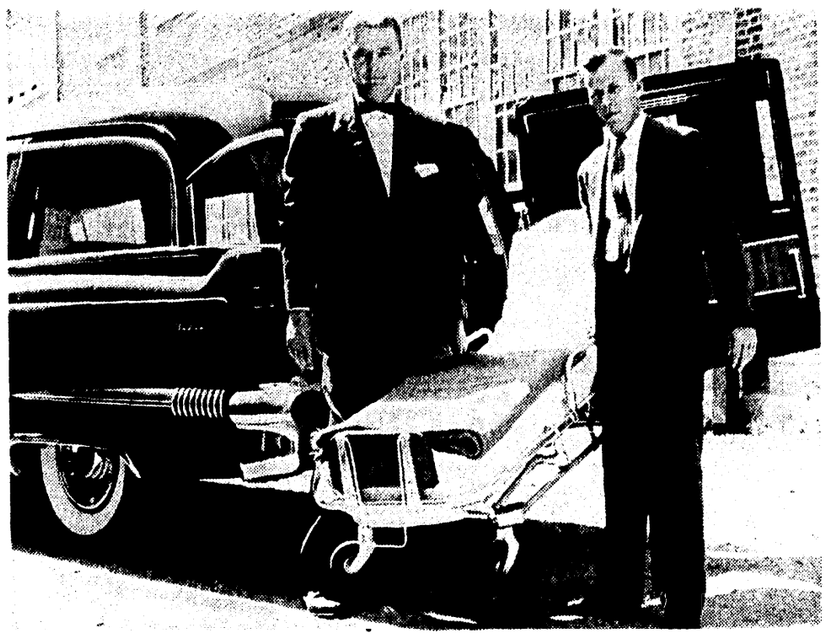

"The pay is fair, you work two days straight and have the third day off — and every third Sunday off. When you're not busy on the 48-hour shift, you can sleep, relax, do what you want," drivers pointed out.

"Something holds you to the job — I don't know what. The excitement wears off fast, but after a couple of years in the work, you stay in," they added.

"It's a small way to contribute toward helping people, like a nurse or a doctor does," a driver explained.

But they also have a warning:

"If anyone loses his sentiment, he should leave the work. If you get callous, you're not much good in this business . . . or any other business."

By UNITED PRESS

Winter's last storm roared out to sea Saturday, leaving the threat of spring floods behind.

The thaw that set in after the vicious storm passed posed the possibility that streams would overflow their banks along the northern half of the Eastern Seaboard.

Occasional snow fell from New England south to the Virginia mountains as residents of a 13-state area dug out rom under a fall that exceeded 46 inches at some points and piled up in six-foot drifts at others. It was the worst storm of its type in 20 years.

A United Press count showed at least 53 persons died in the storm, 27 in Pennsylvania, 8 in New York, 7 in New Jersey, 6 in Maryland, 3 in New England and 2 in Virginia.

William Casey, 13, Taunton, Mass., died in his family's home. The house was being heated with outdoor cooker because the house was without power. The cooker used up all the oxygen and the boy was suffocated.

The Pennsylvania turnpike, which had been closed throughout the storm, was opened again Saturday morning. Wind warning signals were withdrawn along the New England coast.

Telephone and electric power crews worked around the clock to restore service. About half the 110,000 phones knocked out by the storm in Pennsylvania had been restored by noon. Telephone damage in Pennsylvania was estimated at more than $1,000,000.

On Long Island, power was restored to 12,000 Nassau County homes.

In Hartord, Conn., the Weather Bureau said a "lood potential" was building up as temperatures climbed and snow drifts diminished. The danger was not considered imminent, however.

The Philadelphia Weather Bureau warned that the rapid thaw could pose a food threat.

The threat of floods was reported in the Susquehanna River basin, but only if a warm rain were to fall.

Meanwhile, bands of rain and snow showers pushed across the Rockies to the Panhandle areas of Texas and Oklahoma. Light rains were scattered through the Ozarks, and snow gradually spread southeast through the Dakotas and along the eastern slopes of the Rockies into Colorado.

Senators See Road Fund Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders of both parties joined Saturday in predicting passage next week of a major bill to speed up work in the nation's roadbuilding program.

The bill expected to come up for debate Tuesday, would make available to the states 1½ billion dollars more in federal funds this year than is possible under present law.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), chairman of the Public Roads subcommittee and sponsor of the measure, and Sen. Francis Case (R-SD), senior Republican on the subcommittee, both said they expect the bill to win Senate approval.

Gore told a reporter he hoped it might be possible to send his measure directly to conference with the House, which already has passed a less sweeping highway bill. But he emphasized this would be up to House leaders.

Case said he had reserved the right to seek some floor changes in details of the Gore bill but that he believes the main features would be acceptable.

The South Dakotan said changes made in the original measure by the Public Roads subcommittee had improved it from his point of view.

As introduced by Gore, the bill would have provided new financing schedules to meet all the increased cost of the new 41,000-mile national superhighway network and put it back on its original 13-year schedule.

The subcommittee took out the long-range financing and limited the new funds to the next three fiscal years. Gore said he had gone along with this but is confident the bill still would put the roadbuilding program on schedule for the years directly ahead.

Case said he does not believe the new cost estimates are firm enough to justify writing a revised long-range financing plan now. He said there is some evidence roadbuilding costs have turned downward.

The biggest floor fight is expected over a provision which would give the states a bonus to regulate billboards along the super-highway system.

Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) is preparing to lead a fight to try to knock this out of the bill.

The bill as sent to the floor would make available $1,100,000,000 more in funds for the superhighway network — the interstate system—than otherwise could be parceled out this year.

It also includes a special 400-million-dollar supplementary federal fund for the three other federal-aid systems — the primary, secondary and urban—for fiscal 1959 starting this July 1.

This 400 million would have to be matched by the states only on a 70-30 basis instead of 50-50 as is normally required. Two-thirds of the state's share could be borrowed from the federal government.

The stepped-up apportionments would be financed by suspending for fiscal 1959 and 1960 the pay-as-you-go amendment on the highway trust fund.

Marine Drowns

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP)—An Army paratrooper participating in Marine war games dropped into a bay off nearby Onslow Beach Saturday and drowned despite the heroic efforts of two officers to save him.

The Marine Public Information Office said the paratrooper was one of 180 from the 82nd airborne Division at Ft. Bragg attached to Marine aggressor forces.

The PIO said the other troopers landed safely on a cleared beach area but Sgt. Claud Bryson Lipscomb of Gainesville, Ga., landed in Mile Hammock Bay about 40 feet offshore of Onslow Beach.

Case said he had reserved the right to seek some floor changes in details of the Gore bill but that he believes the main features would be acceptable.

The South Dakotan said changes made in the original measure by the Public Roads subcommittee had improved it from his point of view.

As introduced by Gore, the bill would have provided new financing schedules to meet all the increased cost of the new 41,000-mile national superhighway network and put it back on its original 13-year schedule.

The subcommittee took out the long-range financing and limited the new funds to the next three fiscal years. Gore said he had gone along with this but is confident the bill still would put the roadbuilding program on schedule for the years directly ahead.

Case said he does not believe the new cost estimates are firm enough to justify writing a revised long-range financing plan now. He said there is some evidence roadbuilding costs have turned downward.

The biggest floor fight is expected over a provision which would give the states a bonus to regulate billboards along the super-highway system.

Sen. Kerr (D-Okla) is preparing to lead a fight to try to knock this out of the bill.

The bill as sent to the floor would make available $1,100,000,000 more in funds for the superhighway network — the interstate system—than otherwise could be parceled out this year.

It also includes a special 400-million-dollar supplementary federal fund for the three other federal-aid systems — the primary, secondary and urban—for fiscal 1959 starting this July 1.

This 400 million would have to be matched by the states only on a 70-30 basis instead of 50-50 as is normally required. Two-thirds of the state's share could be borrowed from the federal government.

The stepped-up apportionments would be financed by suspending for fiscal 1959 and 1960 the pay-as-you-go amendment on the highway trust fund.

This would enable the fund to get Treasury advances to cover the extra 1½ billion dollars in federal money allotted to the states this year.

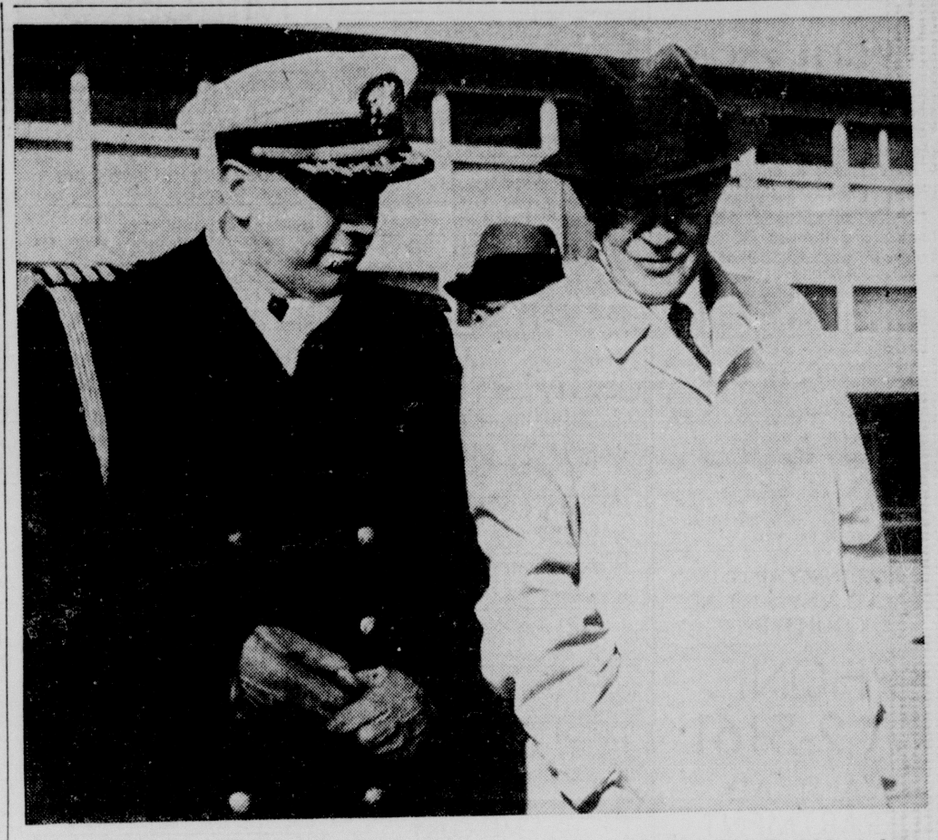

SOUNDS FIRE WARNING — Four-year-old Roger Myers, at safe distance behind fire plug, watches firemen extinguish flames after rescuing his grandmother minutes after Roger spread alarm of fire inside house to his mother in the backyard at New Orleans. The grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Murray, 60, overcome by smoke, was hospitalized. Damage was estimated to be more than $3,000 dollars. (AP Wirephoto)

Marine Drowns

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP)—An Army paratrooper participating in Marine war games dropped into a bay off nearby Onslow Beach Saturday and drowned despite the heroic efforts of two officers to save him.

The Marine Public Information Office said the paratrooper was one of 180 from the 82nd airborne Division at Ft. Bragg attached to Marine aggressor forces.

The PIO said the other troopers landed safely on a cleared beach area but Sgt. Claud Tryson Lipscomb of Gainesville, Ga., landed in Mile Hammock Bay about 40 feet offshore of Onslow Beach.

KNOWLAND-KNIGHT TALK — Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif), left, listens intently to Gov. Goodwin J. Knight at a courtesy call the senator paid at the Capitol yesterday. At a press conference earlier, Knowland, who is running for the outgoing governor's position, denied a statement by a Democratic leader that a deal was brewing between the two Republicans for mutual support. Knight is running for Knowland's seat. (AP Wirephoto)

Aerial View Of U.S. Pavilion On New Stamp

An aerial view of the United States Pavilion at Brussels will be featured on the 3-center to be issued in Detroit on April 17. The stamp honors the opening of the Brussels Universal and International Exibition.

Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations may send their addressed envelopes together with money order remittances covering the cost of the stamps to Postmaster, Detroit 33, Mich. The outside envelope shouud be endorsed "First Day Cover Brussels Stamps."

On the following day, April 18, the 25-cent Paul Revere stamp of the 1954 "Liberty" postage series will be issued. It will first go on sale at Boston. The date coincides with the anniversary of Revere's famous ride to warn the countryside that the British were coming.

The stamp depicts a likeness of Revere reproduced from a portrait by Gilbert Staurt.

First day covers of the Revere stamp may be obtained by sending your addressed envelopes to Postmaster, Boston 9 Mass., together with money order covering the cost of the stamps to be affixed. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be marked "First Day Cover Paul Revere Stamp."

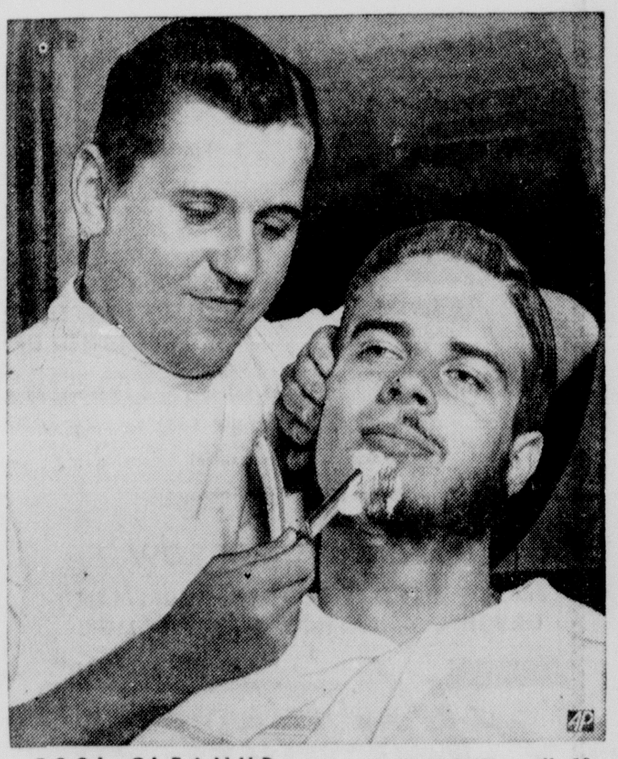

Three new stamps have been issued for Western Samoa to commemorate the inauguration of the new Western Samoan Parliament. The designs on the 4 pence and 6 pence are the same as the present 1 pence and 2 pence values. The 1 shilling illustrates an outline map of the Western Samoa Islands. Each stamp will bear the inscription "Samoa I Sisifo," and also "Fono Fou 1958." The words refer to the inauguration.

The Spanish territories and provinces in Africa (S. W. Sahara, Ifni, Guinea) have issued large pictorial semi - postals. Each shows coats of arms and birds of the respective territories. The additional values will go to the Valencia flood relief campaign.

Stamp Notes . . . Since 1911 when the Boy Scout Merit Badge for stamp collecting was originated, there have been 121,448 approved merit badges awarded . . . The International Assn. of First Day Cover Collectors has published its 1958 edition of the "Catalogue of First Day Covers." It is printed in five languages — English, French, Italian, German and Spanish . . . James A. Farley, former Postmaster General of the U. S., has presented additional items from his personal philatelic collection to the Smithsonian Institution.

ON WAY OUT — Soviet soldiers march in farewell parade through Fuerstenwalde, a town east of Berlin, as Russia starts announced withdrawal of 41,000 men from East Germany.

THE NEWEST!
DEMOIN RESTAURANT
JUST COMPLETED AND READY FOR LEASE:
HOUSED in a beautiful Roman brick building. The interior is unusually attractively decorated and arranged giving it a charm that makes it one of the most outstanding among the Twin Cities restaurants.
ALL booths, tables, chairs, counters, stools and show cases were planned and ordered especially designed. The star lighting fixtures and constant sweet music gives an atmosphere of comfort and delight. The newly remodeled motel adjoining has 40 rooms, when filled to capacity will fill entire restaurant. WE want ONLY a qualified lessee that will continue the fine service of serving the very best in seafoods, steaks and regular dinners.
We opened this restaurant for the benefit of you Motel customers and the fine citizens of the Twin Cities which is a success and WE THANK YOU. We now have it ready for lease on building and fixtures for sale. No worry about parking space. The largest available parking area of any restaurant in W.M.

THE NEWEST!
DEMOIN RESTAURANT
JUST COMPLETED AND READY FOR LEASE:
HOUSED in a beautiful Roman brick building. The interior is unusually attractively decorated and arranged giving it a charm that makes it one of the most outstanding among the Twin Cities restaurants.
ALL booths, tables, chairs, counters, stools and show cases were planned and ordered especially designed. The star lighting fixtures and constant sweet music gives an atmosphere of comfort and delight. The newly remodeled motel adjoining has 40 rooms, when filled to capacity will fill entire restautant.
WE want ONLY a qualified lessee that will continue the fine service of serving the very best in seafoods, steaks and regular dinners.
We opened this restaurant for the benefit of you Motel customers and the fine citizens of the Twin Cities which is a success and WE THANK YOU. We now have it ready for lease on building and fixtures for sale. No worry about parking space. The largest available parking area of any restaurant in W.M.

BAYOU DESIARD
IN BEAUTIFUL
BAYOU SHORES

You don't have to go to the moon to find a home that's out of this world.

NO CITY TAXES,
LA. POWER SERVICE

WORDS fail to adequately describe this gorgeous brand new brick country home. It has every detail that will appeal to you and your family. Constructed of warm pink rock - faced brick in a spacious setting on the banks of Monroe's Bayou DeSiard. Brand new and you will be the first to live within it's cozy rooms. This home is quite different in design and color combination — in as much as its attractive entrance features a curved waist - high brick planter that protects your entrance from too much view — actually a concrete patio, 24 ft. living room and dining area, the entrance hall features a lovely inside brick planter, metal lined, as a divider between dining and living. The bedrooms are so spacious indeed — the master bedroom overlooks bayou, nice private ceramic tile bath with glass enclosed shower, 3 sliding triple - door closets give you one whole wall as storage. The 2nd ceramic tile bath leads off the long hall in pink and blue ceramic tile with built - in dressing table, etc. And plenty of closets are all over the house. The kitchen and 26 ft. family room is surely "the little woman's dream world" — it's a perfect picture in rich birch paneling, French blue Formica counter tops and extra wide breakfast bar with storage all around, copper vent - a - hood, copper wall oven and table top range, Westinghouse dishwasher — it's just beautiful. Vinyl floors throughout, separate utility room, separate laundry room, nice big service porch big enough to sit in a rocking chair and view the bayou. Glass sliding wall in the family room. Centrally heated (Rheem), ducted for air conditioning, big attic fan, 2-car carport, wide driveway to the street. Lot 100x176 to the water's edge. Already filled, grass is planted. Now is the time to plant your flowers. It's ready to move into. Will take your home or your lot in as trade. It's low priced for quick sale and we have the key. Call us today. No obligation.

And the kitchen will demand compliments from this moment on. 2-car carport, lots of storage inside and out. Centrally heated, attic fan, ducted for air conditioning. Beautiful lot 100x150. $1300 down, $90 a month plus insurance and taxes. Total price, $15,250.
WANT TO SWAP YOUR HOUSE?

NEVER one like this one before. Here is a "Western Dream" ranch home. Red brick facing 200 ft. on the most beautiful section of Bayou DeSiard. 3,200 sq. ft. living area. 4 bedrooms, wonderful study, big roomy den, 2 huge baths, living room, dining room and worlds of walk-in closets. This home will impress you from the moment you approach its spacious tree — studded grounds of 200 ft. by 400 ft. Only 5 years old. Extra large double carport. Screened in barbecue or summer house for real "Bayou enjoyment." Fine boat pier. This home has a huge 38 ft. back porch overlooking the water fashioned in glass jalousies which make this an ideal summer and winter room giving it double living features. Owner built. Almost immediate possession. We will be glad to show you. Priced only $33,000.

BAYOU DESIARD
IN BEAUTIFUL
BAYOU SHORES

You don't have to go to the moon to find a home that's out of this world.
NO CITY TAXES,
LA. POWER SERVICE

WORDS fail to adequately describe this gorgeous brand new brick country home. It has every detail that will appeal to you and your family. Constructed of warm pink rock - faced brick in a spacious setting on the banks of Monroe's Bayou DeSiard. Brand new and you will be the first to live within it's cozy rooms. This home is quite different in design and color combination — in as much as its attractive entrance features a curved waist - high brick planter that protects your entrance from too much view — actually a concrete patio. 24 ft. living room and dining area, the entrance hall features a lovely inside brick planter, metal lined, as a divider between dining and living. The bedrooms are so spacious indeed — the master bedroom overlooks bayou, nice private ceramic tile bath with glass enclosed shower, 3 sliding triple - door closets give you one whole wall as storage. The 2nd ceramic tile bath leads off the long hall in pink and blue ceramic tile with built - in dressing table, etc. And plenty of closets are all over the house. The kitchen and 26 ft. family room is surely "the little woman's dream world" — it's a perfect picture in rich birch paneling, French blue Formica counter tops and extra wide breakfast bar with storage all around, copper vent - a - hood, copper wall oven and table - top range, Westinghouse dishwasher — it's just beautiful. Vinyl floors throughout, separate utility room, separate laundry room, nice big service porch big enough to sit in a rocking chair and view the bayou. Glass sliding wall in the family room. Centrally heated (Rheem), ducted for air conditioning, big attic fan. 2-car carport, wide driveway to the street. Lot 100x176 to the water's edge. Already filled, grass is planted. Now is the time to plant your flowers. It's ready to move into. Will take your home or your lot in as trade. It's low priced for quick sale and we have the key. Call us today. No obligation.

OWN MEDICINE

Business Moves To Halt Decline

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—What's business doing to halt recession?

While Washington talked about cuts, public works and military contracts, businessmen around the country last week were quietly concocting some potent anti-recession medicine of their own.

For the most part, the formula for this medicine was compounded of three main ingredients: product improvement, cost and price reduction, and "hard sell."

Among those taking part were the nation's largest general merchandise retail organization, the nation's two biggest banks, and some of the biggest names in U.S. advertising.

Sears Roebuck & Co. offered this prescription: cut prices on hundreds of items of merchandise and ease up on installment terms. The program as outlined by Theodore V. Houser, chairman of the sprawling retail chain, envisions conferences with Sears suppliers. They'll be asked to adopt new techniques for cutting production costs so prices of the products they sell to Sears can be lowered.

Savings, Houser says, will be passed on to consumers.

In California the Bank of America is helping contractors sell home owners on improvements ranging from installation of a basement playroom or cabinet kitchen to the addition of an entire wing—to be financed, naturally, with a loan from the bank. In New York the Chase Manhattan Bank has set aside a 100-million-dollar war chest for the "warehousing" of mortgages—a move intended to channel investment funds into the GI and FHA mortgage market.

Directors of the Advertising Council, an organization of top-flight ad agencies and clients, voted to go ahead with a massive, nationwide advertising drive against recession. It will be conducted in much the same way as the council's public service campaigns in behalf of traffic safety, better schools, and broader church attendance. Its aim: to combat recession fears and spur consumer buying.

Ond deterrent to consumer buying is the constant rise in living costs. The government's latest consumer price index tells the story in vivid terms: living costs at an all-time high with food at the top of the totem pole.

The cost of filling the family market basket in mid-February was up 4½ per cent from a year ago. This, coupled with the higher cost of rent, haircuts, dry cleaning, bus and train transportation, and medical care, more than offset lower prices for automobiles, appliances, clothing, fuel oil and gasoline.

The food cost picture has its brighter side. The business of growing, processing, packaging and selling food is one of the strongest spots in the economy right now.

Farm prices have recovered from their lows of two years ago. With the big drouth a thing of the past, farm implement dealers in the Southwest are enjoying their best spring business in five or six years.

Supermarket and food store sales are running 6 to 10 per cent ahead of 1957. Sales of food processing companies, according to the Grocery Manufacturers of America Inc., are as good or better than a year ago. Food, says the GMA, takes about 25 per cent of what the average U. S. consumer has left after taxes.

Cotton Future Prices Climb Slow, Steady

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures advanced slowly but steadily into higher ground this week.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange closed at prices ranging from $1.30 to $2.35 a bale higher than a week ago. All positions from distant March on scored new life-of-contract highs.

Several factors contributed to the market's firm tone. One was the expectation among traders that the final loan rate next season would be even higher than the present guaranteed minimum.

Weather conditions in the belt also encouraged futures buying. Traders noted that planting preparations have been slowed by snow and rain.

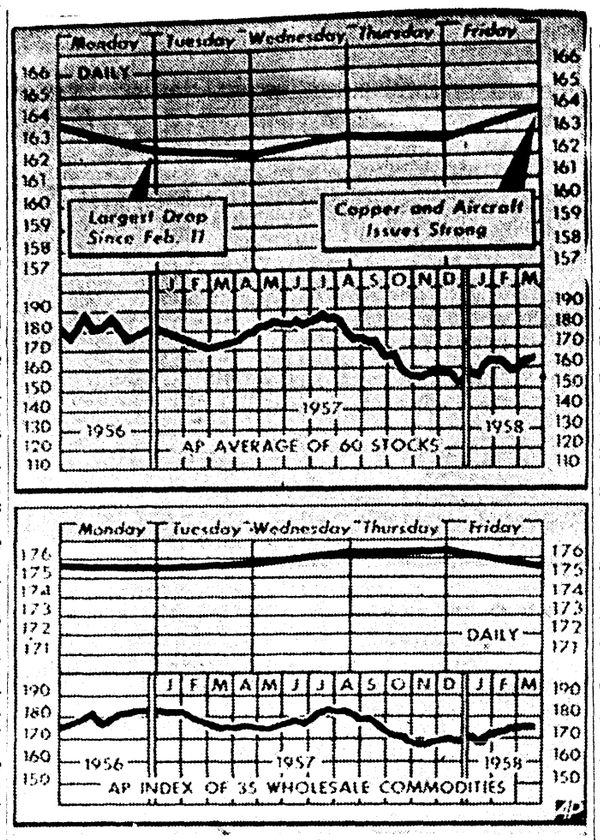

Also on the bullish side was the market's interpretation of the latest official ginnings report. The Census Bureau said 10,875,000 bales of 1957 crop had been ginned. Traders had thought the figure would be higher.

Offerings were furnished through hedging, profit-taking and bearishness prompted by slow business in the spot and goods markets.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 150,000 bales. This compared with 102,000 bales in the previous week and 193,000 in the like week last year.

For the season through March 18, exports were estimated at 3,789,000 bales against 5,012,000 at approximately the same time last season.

Stocks Climb For 3rd Week In Row

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market scored its third straight weekly advance this week but it was a tight squeak.

The Associated Press average nudged ahead 30 cents to $164.

This brought it once again within striking distance of the Feb. 4 recovery high of $165. That was the high-water mark of the snapback from the decline last October to $150.90, lowest point since January 1955.

The market performance this week had two big highlights—Monday and Friday. The Monday move was the sharpest drop since Feb. 11. Friday brought the biggest rise since March 11. The moves were exactly equal, based on changes of $1.20 in The AP average. Each involved an estimated 1½ billion dollars in the quoted values of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the movement in the average.

The other sessions brought minor changes. For the week as a whole, the averages are based on prominent blue chip issues. The so-called secondary stocks, not represented in the averages, did better than the average.

During most of the week, drugs, foods, tobaccos and selected issues in other groups made the best progress. In the final two sessions coppers made great strides on news of firmer prices for the red metal at home and abroad. Aircrafts rallied smartly late in the Friday session.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were Lorrillard up 4⅛ at 52⅛, U.S. Tobacco unchanged at 24½, Polaroid up 1¼ at 64; Standard Oil (New Jersey) off ¾ at 50¾ and U.S. Steel off ¼ at 59⅞.

U.S. government bonds advanced chiefly under the psychological spur of the Federal Reserve Board's latest antirecession move—slicing another ½ point from member bank reserve requirements to make available nearly three billion dollars for loans to business.

Oil Firms Fix Blame For Dip

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Oil company financial reports blamed the slump in demand on a general business recession and rapid cutbacks after the Suez Canal crisis eased.

The sharp curtailment of operations after the reopening of Suez is drawing major blame but most reports admit the industry was too optimistic in estimating 1957 demand.

The Texas Co. has advised its stockholders it is reasonable to expect domestic demand this year to rise two to three per cent. Continental Oil Co. said the year as a whole "may not show much, if any, increase over 1957."

The Continental report said early 1958 demand is below the 1957 comparable levels.

"To a considerable extent, this decline reflected further deterioration in general business conditions," the report said.

Some reports make no reference to the controversy over oil imports. Others present frank statements of policy.

Gulf Oil Corp., a major importer, said it believes the imports problem will diminish with time.

"Attitudes toward the import issue fluctuate between extremes according to the rate of growth in demand," Gulf's report said. "At present, with demand lagging, the complications and reactions are accentuated; upon the resumption of a more vigorous growth trend, many of the current difficulties will diminish, if not disappear."

Gulf said the government's voluntary program for curtailment of imports resulted from an accumulation of inventories and a weakening of the refined products price structure after the reopening of the Suez.

Continental, a non-importer, reported that its net crude production last year decreased 2.9 per lation of inventori and a weakbeing reduced 1,200,000 barrels a day since last March. The Continental report added:

"It is a striking fact that the decrease in Texas allowables exceeds the volume of crude oil imports allowed under the voluntary oil import program . . . which limits imports to approximately one million barrels daily."

THINKING OF SOME

Supports Freezing May Help Economy

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) The recession has raised the question of the advisability of using government farm price support programs as devices for helping give the economy a shot in the arm.

Certainly that is back of the thinking of some farm-state members of Congress pressing for legislation to freeze price supports at not less than last year's levels.

Top administration leaders are known to be weighing the matter.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has announced lower dollars-and-cents supports for wheat, milk, butterfat, soybeans, flaxseed, cottonseed, sorghum grains, barley, rye, rice, dry beans and honey. A higher rate has been set for cotton. No decision has been announced for other crops, including corn and peanuts.

These reductions might well lower producer returns half a billion dollars or more. This estimate—made by farm economists—is based upon the assumption that market prices would drop correspondingly with reductions in price supports. This they are expected to do.

Those pressing for a freeze of supports contend such action would help the general economy because it would pump new confidence into farmers as well as assure them of a higher level of spending power.

They say that much of today's lag in business can be traced back to rural areas where, they say, inadequate farm returns have prevented farmers and their rural neighbors from buying industrial goods that normally would flow to country areas.

Benson stoutly opposes proposals to freeze the supports. He contends such action would halt if not set back—efforts of the Eisenhower administration to help agriculture adjust from its present position of overproduction and accumulation of surpluses.

The administration says farmers must move toward more competitive prices in order to expand markets for their big productive capacity. It would open the way for lower prices by reducing price supports.

Congressional passage of legislation to freeze supports would put this question squarely before President Eisenhower:

Should the administration give away time in its efforts to change government farm policies for the sake of giving the farm economy a possible financial boost? Or should it stand pat in its determination to bring about farm program changes as quickly as possible.

A decision to give time would involve presidential acceptance of the idea of freezing supports. A decision to stand pat would involve a presidential veto of legislation freezing supports.

Some farm leaders take the position that perhaps Eisenhower and Benson are right on farm policies for the long-term development of agriculture, just as the President is right, they say, in his past statements that the government should make every effort to balance the budget.

But now, they add, the administration is putting antirecession measures ahead of efforts to balance the budget. Similarly, they contend, the government should put price - and - income - boosting measures for agriculture ahead of the longer-range price-reducing programs for agriculture until the economy is righted.

OIL OUTPUT UP

John W. Brice, president has announced that Carter Oil Company's crude oil production set a new high last year with an output of 25,400,000 barrels. This amounts to 69,600 barrels per day, an increase of seven per cent over 1956.

Brice said that increased production resulted from expanding waterflood operations, new development, and a strong demand during the first quarter. Production leveled off later in the year as a result of refinery strikes and cutbacks in state producing allowables.

Headquarters of Carter Oil Company are in Tulsa, Okla.

The net income for the company for 1957 totaled $18,900,000 compared to 1956 net income of $14,400,000.

STORE PLANNED

Plans were announced today for a new jewelry store to be built at the corner of St. John and DeSiard streets.

"It is hoped the new building will be completed by early fall," Aan F. Sugar, Monroe realtor, stated.

Sugar said Zale Jewelry Co., of Dallas had made arrangements with Monroe architect L. Milton King to draw up plans for the proposed two - story brick building.

Owners of the DeSiard street property are Mrs. Ida I. Kaplan, David M. Kaplan and Mrs. Alan F. Sugar.

Expansion Of Gas Industry Burdens FPC

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON (AP) — Growth of the natural gas industry and added responsibility for regulation of gas producers have created "a workload of almost unmanageable proportions" for the Federal Power Commission (FPC), the commission's chairman has told Congress.

"Despite increases in manpower and productivity in recent years," Jerome Kuykendall testified before a House Appropriations subcommittee, "The number of cases has risen so sharply that the carryover has reached alarming proportions."

Kuykendall's testimony, given in support of requests for money to increase the commission's staff, was made public this week by the committee.

Under questioning, Kuykendall restated his support of the Harris-O'Hara bill to exempt independent natural gas producers from utility type regulation by the FPC. The Supreme Court ruled in 1954 that the FPC had the responsibility of regulating the rates of all natural gas sold in interstate commerce.

In answer to Rep. Yates (D-Ill), Kuykendall said it was no secret that he favored the controversial bill.

He said the bill would not exempt gas producers from federal regulation but would provide efficient controls over them. The measure apparently is dead for this session of congress.

Kuykendall testified the combined total of pipeline rate cases before the FPC increased from 51 in 1956 to 74 in 1957. He estimated the number would rise to 83 in 1958 and 91 in 1959.

He said independent producer rate cases numbered 235 for 1956, 441 for 1957, 609 for 1958 and 669 for 1959.

"The carryover anticipated at the end of 1959 will in itself constitute more than a two-year workload for the larger staff requested," Kuykendall said. "Obviously the resulting delay in the settlement of rate cases is injurious to the public and to the industry and plans must be made to reduce it."

Sens. Long (D-La), Clark (D-Pa), Kefauver (D-Tenn) and Yarborough (D-Tex) have joined in introducing a bill that would eliminate from regulation by the FPC all small independent producers those selling less than two billion cubic feet of gas annually in interstate commerce.

The bill is identical to a substitute offered for the natural gas bill two years ago by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill). Similar legislation was proposed during consideration of the Harris-O'Hara bill in the House Commerce Committee last year and was rejected.

Long said he would prefer the Harris-O'Hara bill but believes that bill now is dead.

OWN MEDICINE

Business Moves To Halt Decline

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—What's business doing to halt recession?

While Washington talked about cuts, public works and military contracts, businessmen around the country last week were quietly concocting some potent anti-recession medicine of their own.

For the most part, the formula for this medicine was compounded of three main ingredients: product improvement, cost and price reduction, and "hard sell."

Among those taking part were the nation's largest general merchandise retail organization, the nation's two biggest banks, and some of the biggest names in U.S. advertising.

Sears Roebuck & Co. offered this prescription: cut prices on hundreds of items of merchandise and ease up on installment terms. The program as outlined by Theodore V. Houser, chairman of the sprawling retail chain, envisions conferences with Sears suppliers. They'll be asked to adopt new techniques for cutting production costs so prices of the products they sell to Sears can be lowered.

Savings, Houser says, will be passed on to consumers.

In California the Bank of America is helping contractors sell home owners on improvements ranging from installation of a basement playroom or cabinet kitchen to the addition of an entire wing—to be financed, naturally, with a loan from the bank. In New York the Chase Manhattan Bank has set aside a 100-million-dollar war chest for the "warehousing" of mortgages—a move intended to channel investment funds into the GI and FHA mortgage market.

Directors of the Advertising Council, an organization of top-flight ad agencies and clients, voted to go ahead with a massive, nationwide advertising drive against recession. It will be conducted in much the same way as the council's public service campaigns in behalf of traffic safety, better schools, and broader church attendance. Its aim: to combat recession fears and spur consumer buying.

Ond deterrent to consumer buying is the constant rise in living costs. The government's latest consumer price index tells the story in vivid terms: living costs at an all-time high with food at the top of the totem pole.

The cost of filling the family market basket in mid-February was up 4½ per cent from a year ago. This, coupled with the higher cost of rent, haircuts, dry cleaning, bus and train transportation, and medical care, more than offset lower prices for automobiles, appliances, clothing, fuel oil and gasoline.

The food cost picture has its brighter side. The business of growing, processing, packaging and selling food is one of the strongest spots in the economy right now.

Farm prices have recovered from their lows of two years ago. With the big drouth a thing of the past, farm implement dealers in the Southwest are enjoying their best spring business in five or six years.

Supermarket and food store sales are running 6 to 10 per cent ahead of 1957. Sales of food processing companies, according to the Grocery Manufacturers of America Inc., are as good or better than a year ago. Food, says the GMA, takes about 25 per cent of what the average U. S. consumer has left after taxes.

Cotton Future Prices Climb Slow, Steady

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange closed at prices ranging from $1.30 to $2.35 a bale higher than a week ago. All positions from distant March on scored new life-of-contract highs.

Several factors contributed to the market's firm tone. One was the expectation among traders that the final loan rate next season would be even higher than the present guaranteed minimum.

Weather conditions in the belt also encouraged futures buying. Traders noted that planting preparations have been slowed by snow and rain.

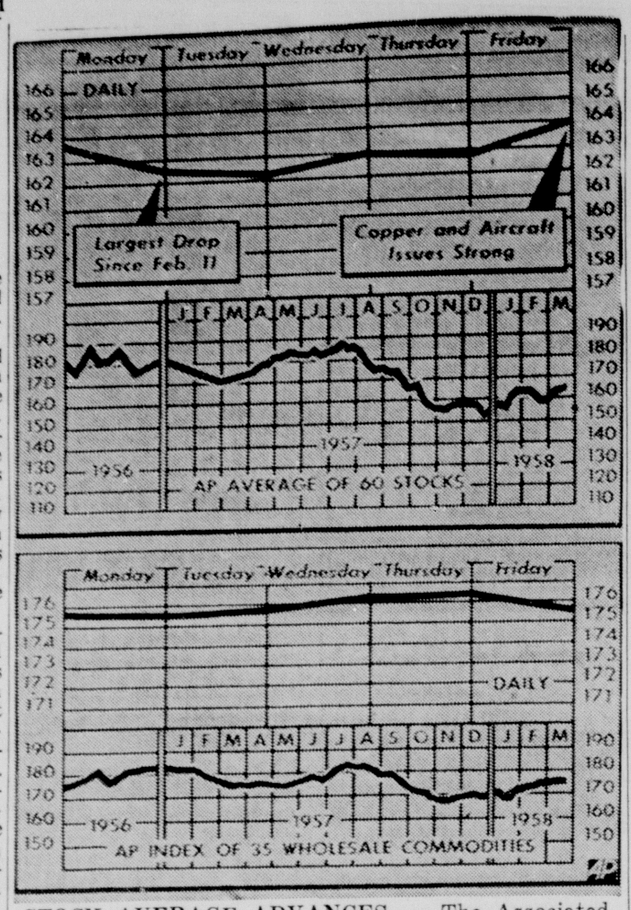

Also on the bullish side was the market's interpretation of the latest official ginnings report. The Census Bureau said 10,875,000 bales of 1957 crop had been ginned. Traders had thought the figure would be higher.

Offerings were furnished through hedging, profit-taking and bearishness prompted by slow business in the spot and goods markets.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 150,000 bales. This compared with 102 000 bales in the previous week and 193,000 in the like week last year.

For the season through March 18, exports were estimated at 3,789,000 bales against 5,012,000 at approximately the same time last season.

A higher rate has been set for cotton. No decision has been announced for other crops, including corn and peanuts.

These reductions might well lower producer returns half a billion dollars or more. This estimate—made by farm economists—is based upon the assumption that market prices would drop correspondingly with reductions in price supports. This they are expected to do.

Those pressing for a freeze of supports contend such action would help the general economy because it would pump new confidence into farmers as well as assure them of a higher level of spending power.

They say that much of today's lag in business can be traced back to rural areas where, they say, inadequate farm returns have prevented farmers and their rural neighbors from buying industrial goods that normally would flow to country areas.

Benson stoutly opposes proposals to freeze the supports. He contends such action would halt if not set back—efforts of the Eisenhower administration to help agriculture adjust from its present position of overproduction and accumulation of surpluses.

The administration says farmers must move toward more competitive prices in order to expand markets for their big productive capacity. It would open the way for lower prices by reducing price supports.

Congressional passage of legislation to freeze supports would put this question squarely before President Eisenhower:

Should the administration give away time in its efforts to change government farm policies for the sake of giving the farm economy a possible financial boost? Or should it stand pat in its determination to bring about farm program changes as quickly as possible.

A decision to give time would involve presidential acceptance of the idea of freezing supports. A decision to stand pat would involve a presidential veto of legislation freezing supports.

Some farm leaders take the position that perhaps Eisenhower and Benson are right on farm policies for the long-term development of agriculture, just as the President is right, they say, in his past statements that the government should make every effort to balance the budget.

But now, they add, the administration is putting antirecession measures ahead of efforts to balance the budget. Similarly, they contend, the government should put price - and - income - boosting measures for agriculture ahead of the longer-range price-reducing programs for agriculture until the economy is righted.

WINS BANK AWARD

The First Federal and Loan Association of Winnfield has installed an after - hour depository and winning in the contest announced by the bank was Miss Annette Payne of Dodson who was the 1000th after - hours depositor. Miss Payne received a $50 savings account award.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Payne and the late Mayor Malden Payne.

OIL OUTPUT UP

John W. Brice, president has announced that Carter Oil Company's crude oil production set a new high last year with an output of 25,400,000 barrels. This amounts to 69,600 barrels per day, an increase of seven per cent over 1956.

Brice said that increased production resulted from expanding waterflood operations, new development, and a strong demand during the first quarter. Production leveled off later in the year as a result of refinery strikes and cutbacks in state producing allowables.

Headquarters of Carter Oil Company are in Tulsa, Okla.

The net income for the company for 1957 totaled $18,900,000 compared to 1956 net income of $14,400,000.

STORE PLANNED

Plans were announced today for a new jewelry store to be built at the corner of St. John and DeSiard streets.

"It is hoped the new building will be completed by early fall," Aan F. Sugar, Monroe realtor, stated.

Sugar said Zale Jewelry Co., of Dallas had made arrangements with Monroe architect L. Milton King to draw up plans for the proposed two - story brick building.

Owners of the DeSiard street property are Mrs. Ida I. Kaplan, David M. Kaplan and Mrs. Alan F. Sugar.

Expansion Of Gas Industry Burdens FPC

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON (AP) — Growth of the natural gas industry and added responsibility for regulation of gas producers have created "a workload of almost unmanageable proportions" for the Federal Power Commission (FPC), the commission's chairman has told Congress.

"Despite increases in manpower and productivity in recent years," Jerome Kuykendall testified before a House Appropriations subcommittee, "The number of cases has risen so sharply that the carryover has reached alarming proportions."

Kuykendall's testimony, given in support of requests for money to increase the commission's staff, was made public this week by the committee.

Under questioning, Kuykendall restated his support of the Harris-O'Hara bill to exempt independent natural gas producers from utility type regulation by the FPC. The Supreme Court ruled in 1954 that the FPC had the responsibility of regulating the rates of all natural gas sold in interstate commerce.

In answer to Rep. Yates (D-Ill), Kuykendall said it was no secret that he favored the controversial bill.

He said the bill would not exempt gas producers from federal regulation but would provide efficient controls over them. The measure apparently is dead for this session of congress.

Kuykendall testified the combined total of pipeline rate cases before the FPC increased from 51 in 1956 to 74 in 1957. He estimated the number would rise to 83 in 1958 and 91 in 1959.

He said independent producer rate cases numbered 235 for 1956, 441 for 1957, 609 for 1958 and 669 for 1959.

"The carryover anticipated at the end of 1959 will in itself constitute more than a two-year workload for the larger staff requested," Kuykendall said. "Obviously the resulting delay in the settlement of rate cases is injurious to the public and to the industry and plans must be made to reduce it."

Sens. Long (D-La), Clark (D-Pa), Kefauver (D-Tenn) and Yarborough (D-Tex) have joined in introducing a bill that would eliminate from regulation by the FPC all small independent producers those selling less than two billion cubic feet of gas annually in interstate commerce.

The bill is identical to a substitute offered for the natural gas bill two years ago by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill). Similar legislation was proposed during consideration of the Harris-O'Hara bill in the House Commerce Committee last year and was rejected.

Long said he would prefer the Harris-O'Hara bill but believes that bill now is dead.

Hot Water Consumption Increasing As Use Of Modern Appliance Grows

Today's homemakers are using more and hotter water than you might think possible. Do you know that you turn on your hot water top 140 times a day?

For baths, showers, shaving, shampooing, dishwashing, laundry, cleaning and for many other uses in the home.

Remember when the whole house had to be decorated when walls and woodwork got dirty? Today walls, ceilings and woodwork in many homes are painted with washable paint or covered with that new washable wallpaper — certainly much cheaper to keep clean with hot water and soap than spending money on an entire re-decorating job.

Literally millions of homes since the war have been equipped with automatic appliances which use more hot water.

Automatic dishwashers, for instance, sterlize dishes sparkling clean but use more and hotter water in the process.

The automatic washing machine is one of the best examples of the increased use of hot water in the home. Millions of new owner-housewives are finding they use hotter water and more of it than with the old type non-automatic washer.

Laundry practices have changed too. The gas industry recently found in a research survey that more than 59 per cent of today's homemakers are washing two, three, and sometimes four times a week. Evidently many homemakers are finding that it's easier to do the laundry several times a week with the new easily-operated automatic washers than to save it all up for one-all-day task. It's a good idea, too, it seems to us. Fewer Monday washday blues and more time for fun and freedom with the family.

Research sponsored by the American Gas Association has turned up many ideas about hot water temperatures, too, which call for hotter water for laundry, for household cleaning and the myriad other hot water chores around the house.

For example, an automatic water heater is usually set at 140 degrees Fahrenheit for general household tasks. But some types of home laundering require 160 degrees hot water to get the clothes as clean and fresh as they should be. That's really hot water. Other laundry done at home should be washed in 140 degrees to get a cleaner whiter wash.

Sig Supply Needed

All these new labor-saving appliances and the newly-discovered fact that water should be much hotter for certain household tasks than hitherto thought necessary, necessitates a greater supply of hot water.

Because many water heaters are inadequate for the demands of the average home today, many a housewife has to carefully allot her housekeeping time to the amount of hot water available.

The family's hot bath or shower must be portioned out impartially to forstall any argument as to who takes the first bath.

Or the family washing can only be done when there's enough hot water flowing from the tap.

Perhaps even the four gallons needed for baby's bath must be specially heated on the kitchen stove because there isn't enough hot water.

To avoid these problems, be sure your water heater is big enough. Here are some tank capacities to help guide you, the American Gas Association's recommendations for proper size gas water heater based on the number of bedrooms and bathrooms in the home:

Proper Sizes

For one bathroom and one or two bedrooms — you need a 30-gallon tank.

For one bathroom and three or four bedrooms—a 40-gallon tank.

For two bathrooms and two or three bedrooms—you still need the 40-gallon tank.

For two bathroom and four or five bedrooms—a 50-gallon tank is necessary.

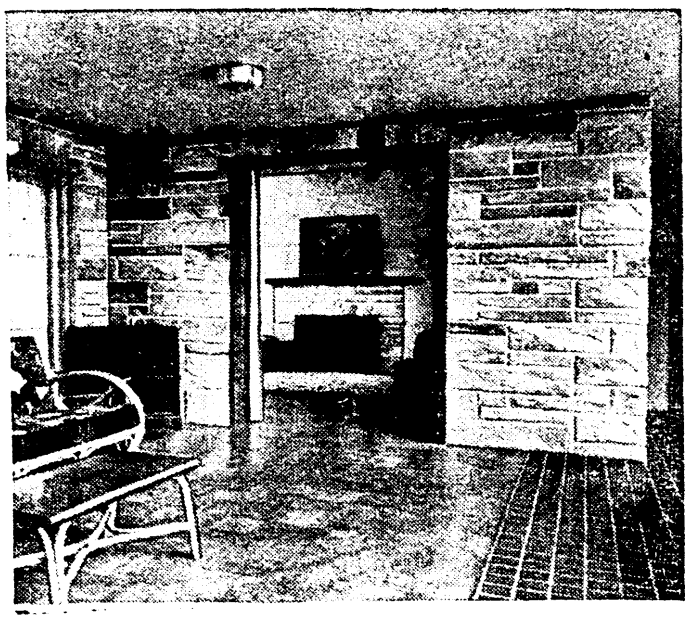

For three bathrooms and three bedrooms you will need the same capacity—50 gallons.

Child's Room Must Change With Needs

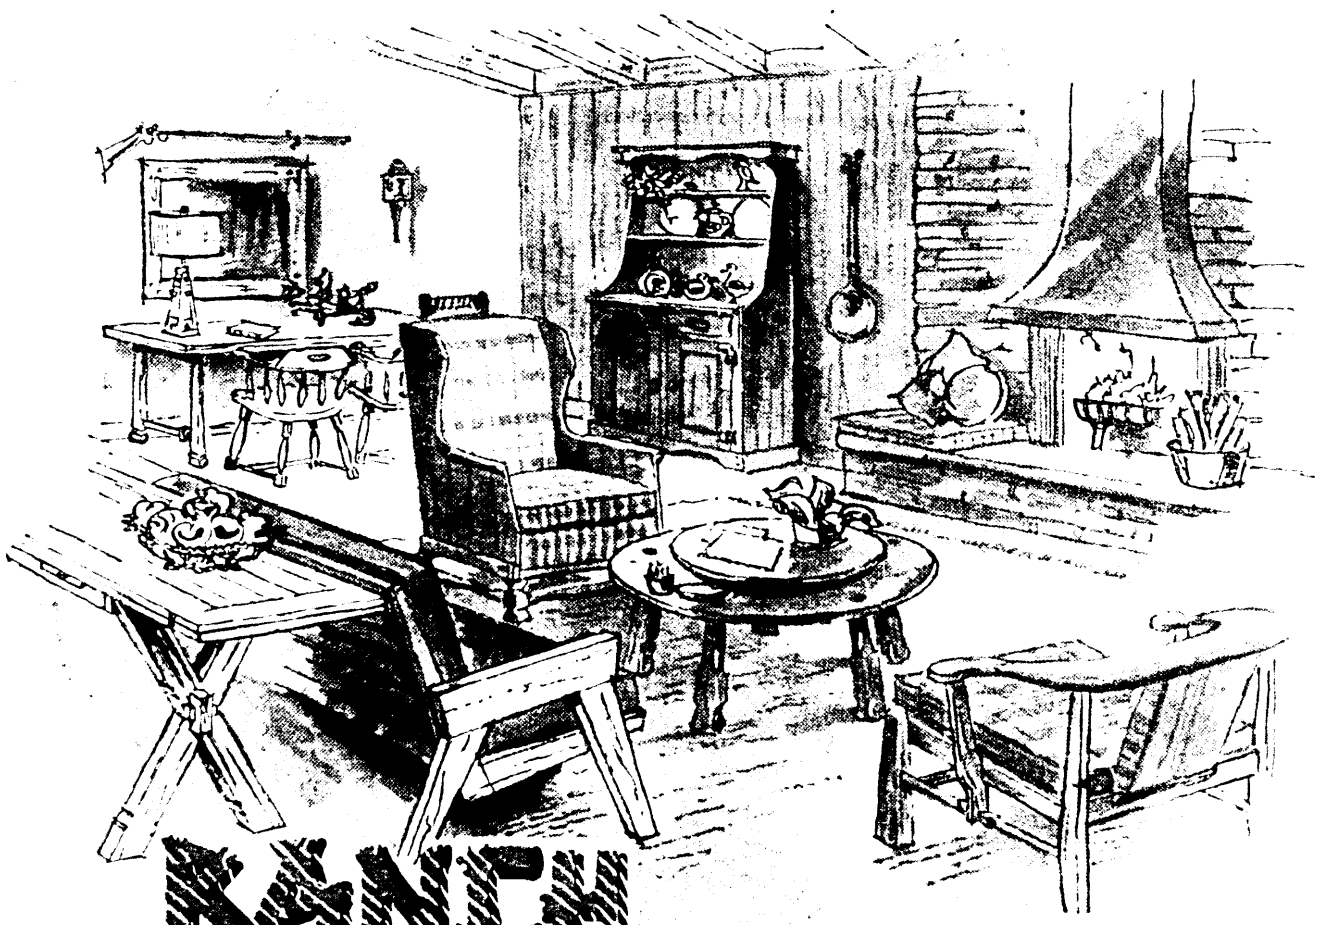

Flexibility is second only to comfort and convenience in a child's room, which must change to meet his requirements throughout his formative years.

During the early "writing" age, part of the wall area can be converted into a blackboard by covering the existing lower wall with Masonite Tempered Presdwood, sealing it and applying chalkboard paint. Later, this panel can be turned into an attractive wainscot by painting over the chalkboard surface.

"Peg-Board," panels, too, are a boon to parents who appreciate every bit of storage space for toys and clothes. By simply moving books to new locations on these perforated panels, you can arrange hobby displays, book shelves and other functional and decorative schemes.

PERMA-STONE achieves an attractive decorative effect inside this home. The moulded stone wall-facing, in pleasing color blends, is available through Perma-Stone dealers in all parts of the country.

HOW TO get needed room for dining and for a play area for their children faced the occupants of this small home. This view is from the existing living room toward cramped kitchen-dinette area.

Most Women Want To Make Changes

Better than eight out of ten women want to make some change in their present kitchen.

This fact emerged from a nation wide survey of housewives recently completed by the Steel Kitchen Cabinet Manufacturers Ass'n.

What kind of changes do they want to make? Most of them want more room in the kitchen (68%) and 42% want more cabinets or cupboards, more counter and more more storage space.

With the advances in kitchen equipment in recent years, probably no one thing stamps a home as "modern" so much as an up-to-date kitchen. Styles in furniture change rapidly and the modern room of two or three years ago is behind the times to the fashion-conscious today.

But there's a lasting freshness to a gleaming kitchen of steel. The baked enamel finishes of steel cabinets have the same lasting quality of the finishes on appliances and are just as easy to clean. In fact, ease of cleaning steel kitchen cabinets was an advantage most often mentioned by housewives in the countrywide survey.

The clean, functional lines of cabinets resist dating. In shape and form they match equally well with the new, square look of appliances and the older, more rounded refrigerator or range.

Color cabinets are available to match appliances or to provide the contrast in mix-or-match fashion so popular with some interior designers. It's significant, however, that of those covered in the survey the women preferring color only slightly exceeded those who wanted all-white kitchens. Of those wanting color, a single shade was preferred by more than 2-1 over a blend of colors. And the percentages were 60-40 in favor of appliances which matched the cabinets.

Yes, the American housewife wants changes in her kitchen. Next to more cabinets and storage space, this national survey shows that she would like a rearrangement for efficiency, space for eating, door, wall and window changes, built-in appliances and space for laundry equipment as well.

Portable Power Tools Provide For Versatility

Portable power tools—such as the Millers Falls power unit illustrated in a variety of uses below—provide the do-it-yourself home improvement fan with amazing versatility, ruggedness and economy.

There are so many attachments available that this basic unit can be adapted to just about every possible operation involved in remodeling.

It would probably be easier to list what this unit "isn't," but here's what it is, with all attachments:

It's a drill, of course, $^3/_8$-inch, 3200 r.p.m., 1 3-horsepower.

It's a 6-inch disc sander and a 6-inch polisher.

With an efficient bench base, it becomes a bench tool to drive wire brushes, grinding wheels and polishing buffs.

It can be an orbital sander.

It can be a bench saw, a jig saw (with table), portable circular saw or a portable power plane.

It can be used as a drill press, with a 27-inch-high stand and a vise.

It has a speed reducer for some drilling operations and driving a hole saw.

Council Activities Benefit Owners

Formation of the new Home Improvement Council, representing the building materials and home equipment industry at all levels, will be of substantial, long-range benefit to the homeowners of America, according to Council leaders.

Here are some of the Council's activities that are cited by industry spokesmen as a boon to homeowners:

1. Council member - manufacturers, retailers, contractors and others -- will be required to abide by a "fair practices pledge" that prohibits misrepresentation in the advertising or selling of home improvement materials and services.

2. The Council will prepare and distribute, through a variety of means, basic and authoritative information on all phases of home improvement and modernization—information designed to help every American family proceed sensibly to achieve a better standard of living.

3. Long-range Council plans call for helping all of its local members provide more complete, more helpful home improvement service. The objective is to make it possible for homeowners to procure all the needed materials and service for various modernization projects at a variety of one-stop shops.

4. The ultimate effect of the industry's home improvement crusade will be to halt the spread of housing blight and upgrade neighborhoods, thereby bulwarking the value of every family's house investment.

The Council, permanent successor to the "Operation Home Improvement" campaign undertaken as a promotional venture by manufacturers and trade associates two years ago, is in the process of organizing local Chapters throughout the country.

Local Chapters will, for example, organize home improvement clinics, where homeowners can get the answers to any of their improvement or modernization problems from industry experts. In some cases, they will stage exhibitions of the latest home improvement products and techniques.

Members—both at the national level and the local level—have been provided the distinctive Home Improvement Council emblem for use in their advertising or their place of business to show their interest in the homeowner's improvement plans.

Right Use Of Windows Has Way To Extra Room In Many Different Parts Of The House

There are a number of improvements to your home where the use of windows will give you an exxtra room you've always wanted . . . and economically, too.

Do you have a porch or a breezeway? Then here is a fine way to get a pleasant extra room. Enclose it with modern window units. Even without heat, enclosure will give you in two or three months of extra use in the spring and fall. Come rainy weather . . . your porch is still a pleasant room for the whole family.

Enclosure will keep out dust and rain, so you can keep this new room clean and furnish it with better furniture. Usually a porch or breezeway is easy to heat, so it is a very economical way of getting a cheerful extra room for the whole year.

Perhaps the second most popular use of windows in remodeling is to turn an unused attic into living space. Here windows will frequently make the difference between livable and unlivable rooms . . . for even with good insulation . . . second floor rooms require plenty of ventilation. And if you put up a large dormer, you'll not only get plenty of fresh air and plenty of light; you'll also get more space.

An extra room on the ground floor is frequently the solution to a growing family. In fact it's usually the only way to enlarge a home built in the popular ranch house style.

Sometimes the extra room can be obtained by converting an attached garage into living space. Sometimes the extra room has to be built on. Either case calls for windows . . . and of course there is no reason why you shouldn't use windows the way you've always wanted.

The final way to use windows is in the remodeling of existing rooms. Thousands of kitchens will be modernized next year. And the pleasantest of them will have plenty of windows. Many a dark and stuffy living room can be turned into a really livable room by the installation of a wide picture window.

But no matter what type of room improvement you are planning, remember that the windows are as important for all-round beauty, enjoyment and satisfaction as any other element.

Where to go for help? Your nearby lumberyard is a good bet. Your lumber dealer can supply you with the proper window units and other materials you need. What's more, most lumber dealers can help you plan your remodeling and guide you to a reliable contractor who specializes in this kind of work.

Kitchen's Faults Help To Guide Your Modernizing

HOME IMPROVEMENT SEC

Buying a new kitchen can be fun if you follow the advice of such experienced people as Diana Young, color styling and planning expert for Youngstown Kitchens who has outlined some basic rules for homeowners planning such a project.

Miss Young believes the homemaker must first determine what her kitchen is not doing for her. Then she can begin to assemble information from magazines and kitchen manufacturers on equipment that will eliminate these faults.

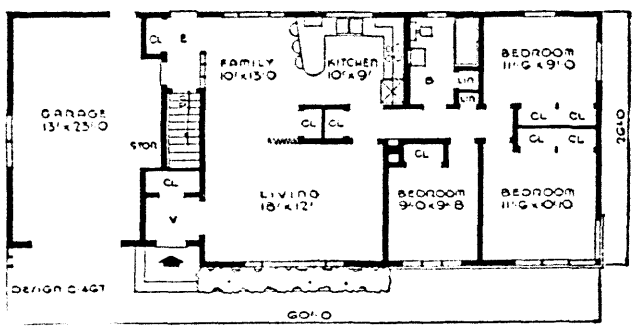

The next step is to locate a kitchen dealer who is equipped to provide planning and installation service and other helps that will make the kitchen completely satisfactory. "Use the dealer," Miss Young counsels. "He wants to provide the kind of kitchen you want, and he's equipped to help you do the planning." The up-to-date kitchen dealer can not only plan and install the kitchen, but can help with decorating.

Hot Water Consumption Increasing As Use Of Modern Appliance Grows

Today's homemakers are using more and hotter water than you might think possible. Do you know that you turn on your hot water top 140 times a day?

For baths, showers, shaving, shampooing, dishwashing, laundry, cleaning and for many other uses in the home.

Remember when the whole house had to be decorated when walls and woodwork got dirty? Today walls, ceilings and woodwork in many homes are painted with washable paint or covered with that new washable wallpaper — certainly much cheaper to keep clean with hot water and soap than spending money on an entire re-decorating job.

Literally millions of homes since the war have been equipped with automatic appliances which use more hot water.

Automatic dishwashers, for instance, sterlize dishes sparkling clean but use more and hotter water in the process.

The automatic washing machine is one of the best examples of the increased use of hot water in the home. Millions of new owner-housewives are finding they use hotter water and more of it than with the old type non-automatic washer.

Laundry practices have changed too. The gas industry recently found in a research survey that more than 59 per cent of today's homemakers are washing two, three, and sometimes four times a week. Evidently many homemakers are finding that it's easier to do the laundry several times a week with the new easily-operated automatic washers than to save it all up for one-all-day task. It's a good idea, too, it seems to us. Fewer Monday washday blues and more time for fun and freedom with the family.

Research sponsored by the American Gas Association has turned up many ideas about hot water temperatures, too, which call for hotter water for laundry, for household cleaning and the myriad other hot water chores around the house.

For example, an automatic water heater is usually set at 140 degrees Fahrenheit for general household tasks. But some types of home laundering require 160 degrees hot water to get the clothes as clean and fresh as they should be. That's really hot water. Other laundry done at home should be washed in 140 degrees to get a cleaner whiter wash.

Sig Supply Needed

All these new labor-saving appliances and the newly-discovered fact that water should be much hotter for certain household tasks than hitherto thought necessary, necessitates a greater supply of hot water.

Because many water heaters are inadequate for the demands of the average home today, many a housewife has to carefully allot her housekeeping time to the amount of hot water available.

The family's hot bath or shower must be portioned out impartially to forstall any argument as to who takes the first bath.

Or the family washing can only be done when there's enough hot water flowing from the tap.

Perhaps even the four gallons needed for baby's bath must be specially heated on the kitchen stove because there isn't enough hot water.

To avoid these problems, be sure your water heater is big enough. Here are some tank capacities to help guide you, the American Gas Association's recommendations for proper size gas water heater based on the number of bedrooms and bathrooms in the home:

Proper Sizes

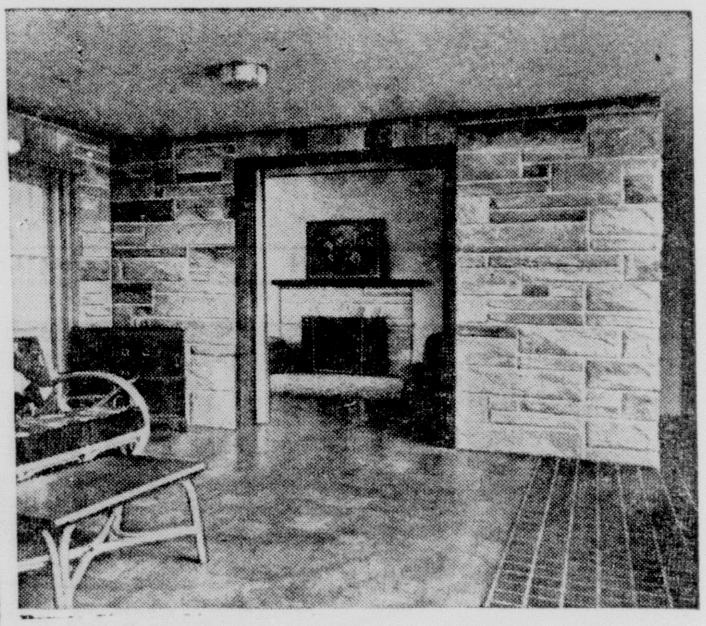

For one bathroom and one or two bedrooms — you need a 30-gallon tank.

For one bathroom and three or four bedrooms—a 40-gallon tank.

For two bathrooms and two or three bedrooms—you still need the 40-gallon tank.

For two bathroom and four or five bedrooms—a 50-gallon tank is necessary.

For three bathrooms and three bedrooms you will need the same capacity—50 gallons.

PERMA-STONE achieves an attractive decorative effect inside this home. The moulded stone wall-facing, in pleasing color blends, is available through Perma-Stone dealers in all parts of the country.

Child's Room Must Change With Needs

Flexibility is second only to comfort and convenience in a child's room, which must change to meet his requirements throughout his formative years.

During the early "writing" age, part of the wall area can be converted into a blackboard by covering the existing lower wall with Masonite Tempered Presdwood, sealing it and applying chalkboard paint. Later, this panel can be turned into an attractive wainscot by painting over the chalkboard surface.

"Peg-Board," panels, too, are a boon to parents who appreciate every bit of storage space for toys and clothes. By simply moving books to new locations on these perforated panels, you can arrange hobby displays, book shelves and other functional and decorative schemes.

Good Light Makes Kitchen Chores Easier

Preparing meals with modern kitchen equipment has become an easier task for the homemaker. But it could become even easier if she had enough light to see what she was doing.

This lack of light in the kitchen paves the way for accidents, making it one of the most dangerous rooms in the home, according to the American Home Lighting Institute.

"Stumbling along in the gloom of a single ceiling fixture, most homemakers find their work frustrating, irritating, and tiring," says a spokesman for the institute.

"As the lighting level is increased, more energy is free for useful work, and nervous tension is lessened."

Light Each Surface

A specific light fixture for each work surface and area is needed. This means light over the sink, range, and counters, as well as light for balance in the corner of the room, and light over the kitchen dining area.

Cooking over an inadequately lighted range, fumbling in shadowy cutlery drawers, and using electric kitchen appliances in gloomy surroundings are all dangers which can be eliminated with appropriate fixtures.

Improving kitchen lighting can be easy on the budget. In many cases, especially with counter lighting, fluorescent fixtures can be installed as a "do-it-your-self" project. Good lighting is just as suitable for old as new homes.

Two important things to watch when you plan for kitchen lighting are the color of light you choose, and glare protection. Generally, deluxe cool white fluorescent is preferred for the kitchen. This light is easy to see by, and provides excellent color rendition of materials you work with, including foods.

Shield From Eyes

All kitchen lighting should be shielded, so that none shines directly into the eyes. In most cases, this means a faceboard installed in front of the fixtures.

Generally, units installed under cabinets for counter lighting require no faceboards, since the cabinet itself conceals the lighting fixture. However, if the fixture is installed beneath the front of the cabinet, a faceboard is required.

Lighting over the sink can be concealed behind a faceboard so that the entire effect resembles a custom-built soffit, usually associated with remodeling jobs.

Your range needs adequate fixture lighting, even if it already has its own built-in lighting. This builtin unit is generally intended to illuminate the controls of the range only, and seldom enough to light up the cooking area.

Double Duty

A fluorescent wall braket installed to illuminate the range can also double as a condiment shelf if the top is covered with protective glass or plastic.

Complete information and advice on the correct light for your kitchen is available usually at no charge, from your local electrical, utility, or department store.

WHEN the kitchen of this Atlanta, Ga., home was remodeled with adequate wood storage facilities to eliminate the need for pantry storage, the walk-in pantry because a walk-in nursery instead.

Clinics Motivate Paneling Projects

Thousands of homeowners are going ahead with improvements which involve paneling as the result of a unique clinic being conducted by one manufacturer and local lumber dealers.

Although the plan was only inaugurated last September, close to 1,000 lumber dealers have already adopted "The Weldwood Clinic Plan," through which a program of free advice on how to make home improvements is conducted.

After seeing a half-hour film which shows step-by-step installation of several different types of panels, dealers show their audiences samples of the panels they have seen in the movie and give a series of installation tips designed to save time and money. Question and answer periods follow.

Many dealers are planning to repeat the clinics at regular intervals.

New Room Solves The Problem Of Post-War Homes

Short on living space? Your predicament will be shared by many who enter the Home Improvement Council's $125,000 "How's Your Home" contest.

(Entry blanks are available from your neighborhood building material dealer. All you do is fill the checklist with your home improvement needs and tell why you think it's important to improve your home. Don't delay because the contest closes June 30, 1958.)

If yours is a growing family facing an over crowded situation in a house built to skimpy proportions common in the immediate postwar years, there are several solutions for you.

Some families are finding the answer by converting basements into dens and attics into bedrooms. But what about the many small ranch type homes that have neither basement nor attic? Here's a clever way one suburban couple solved this problem.

They expanded their present home with a completely new but low cost family room addition.

Result: They gained needed living, work and storage area and, most important, it effected an outstanding transformation in the home interior. Key to the "new look" inside was the removal of a wall section where the added room joins the original house giving the home an "open plan" instead of a cramped interior. The hardwood plywood paneling and built-ins provided a decorative unity which the home lacked before.

Two walls of the living room leading toward the new room were paneled in elm plywood in a random-plank effect, and the new room was completely paneled in the same material. Flooring is oak plywood parquet squares to match the floors in the original house. A large breakfast bar-room divider made of oak plywood fills part of the space where the wall was removed. On the far wall of the new room is an eight-foot row of built-in cabinets with open bookshelves above, all made of oak plywood.

Leftover pieces of oak plywood were used to make valances for fluorescent strip lighting installed above picture windows in both the living room and new room. Oak flush doors completed the handsome setting of natural hardwoods. The beauty of the wood was heightened by installation of recessed lighting, twin spots and conical brass fixtures at strategic places.

The new room serves as a true all purpose room. It provides a place for children to play indoors, it serves as a dining room and as a study, and it makes an ideal area for entertaining guests.

The project was part professional and part "do it yourself". The job of laying the foundation was contracted out and two capenters were hired to frame the new room. One of the carpenters was retained on a part-time basis to hang the doors, install the windows, make the cabinets and trim out the job. An electrician was hired to do the added wiring.

So there's your answer to this familiar prablem. And besides the added livability, you are adding real dollar value to your home.

New Home Improvement Council's $125,000 How's Your Home' Quiz Good

An appealing contest for homeowners—with the catchy title, "How's Your Home?" — highlights 1958 activity of the home improvement and modernization industry banded together for the first time by the Home Improvement Council.

The contest, which has cash prizes totaling $125,000, helps the homeowning family compile valuable information about its home while competing for a total of $125,000 in cash prizes. The top prize is $25,000, second prize is $10,000, third is $3,000, and there are 1,000 other prizes adding up to $87,000.

Designed to stimulate participation by every member of the family, the complete contest guide and entry form makes a game out of what would normally seem an overwhelming chore: Careful examination of every room in a house, its exterior and the grounds around it.

A detailed checklist in the contest guide can be kept by the homeowner as a help in organizing his own home modernization program after he has entered the contest. The entry form itself consists of this statement: "Here's why we feel it is important for us to improve our present home (25 words or less) . . ."

Industry spokesmen explain that homeowners will be able to complete such a statement much more thoughtfully and effectively after they have made a thorough analysis of their homes in completing the home improvement checklist.

Deadline for entries in the contest is June 30, 1958. Only one entry will be accepted from each home. Entrants are not required to buy anything or do anything other than complete the checklist and entry form.

The main purpose of the contest, according to the Home Improvement Council, is to acquaint homeowners with their specific repair - remodel needs, the benefits of improvement and modernization—and the fact that it is possible to make dramatic changes in an older home.

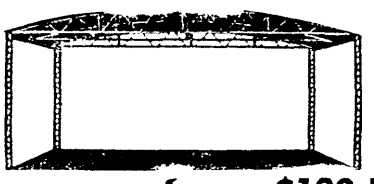

The complete contest guide and entry form can be obtained from any local member of the Council —among them building materials dealers, contractors of many types, bankers and other lenders, utilities and other firms in, or allied with, the home improvement business.

In many cases, local newspapers are presenting their readers with complete contest information and the entry form.

WAX AND CRACKS

Before painting a surface which has been waxed, remove all traces with turpentine or one of the products prepared especially for that purpose. Clean rags should be used for the final clean-up. If your painting job involves hiding cracks, rough or patched plaster or dry wall seams, try using a texture paint which is thicker than regular paint. First brush it on. Then stipple with a brush or sponge.

HOW TO get needed room for dining and for a play area for their children faced the occupants of this small home. This view is from the existing living room toward cramped kitchen-dinette area.

Most Women Want To Make Changes

Better than eight out of ten women want to make some change in their present kitchen.

This fact emerged from a nation wide survey of housewives recently completed by the Steel Kitchen Cabinet Manufacturers Ass'n.

What kind of changes do they want to make? Most of them want more room in the kitchen (68%) and 42% want more cabinets or cupboards, more counter and more more storage space.

With the advances in kitchen equipment in recent years, probably no one thing stamps a home as "modern" so much as an up-to-date kitchen. Styles in furniture change rapidly and the modern room of two or three years ago is behind the times to the fashion-conscious today.

But there's a lasting freshness to a gleaming kitchen of steel. The baked enamel finishes of steel cabinets have the same lasting quality of the finishes on appliances and are just as easy to clean. In fact, ease of cleaning steel kitchen cabinets was an advantage most often mentioned by housewives in the countrywide survey.

The clean, functional lines of cabinets resist dating. In shape and form they match equally well with the new, square look of appliances and the older, more rounded refrigerator or range.

Color cabinets are available to match appliances or to provide the contrast in mix-or-match fashion so popular with some interior designers. It's significant, however, that of those covered in the survey the women preferring color only slightly exceeded those who wanted all-white kitchens. Of those wanting color, a single shade was preferred by more than 2-1 over a blend of colors. And the percentages were 60-40 in favor of appliances which matched the cabinets.

Yes, the American housewife wants changes in her kitchen. Next to more cabinets and storage space, this national survey shows that she would like a rearrangement for efficiency, space for eating, door, wall and window changes, built-in appliances and space for laundry equipment as well.

Portable Power Tools Provide For Versatility

Portable power tools—such as the Millers Falls power unit illustrated in a variety of uses below—provide the do-it-yourself home improvement fan with amazing versatility, ruggedness and economy.

There are so many attachments available that this basic unit can be adapted to just about every possible operation involved in remodeling.

It would probably be easier to list what this unit "isn't," but here's what it is, with all attachments:

With an efficient bench base, it becomes a bench tool to drive wire brushes, grinding wheels and polishing buffs.

It can be an orbital sander.

It can be used as a drill press, with a 27-inch-high stand and a vise.

It has a speed reducer for some drilling operations and driving a hole saw.

Council Activities Benefit Owners

Formation of the new Home Improvement Council, representing the building materials and home equipment industry at all levels, will be of substantial, long-range benefit to the homeowners of America, according to Council leaders.

Here are some of the Council's activities that are cited by industry spokesmen as a boon to homeowners:

1. Council member - manufacturers, retailers, contractors and others — will be required to abide by a "fair practices pledge" that prohibits misrepresentation in the advertising or selling of home improvement materials and services.

2. The Council will prepare and distribute, through a variety of means, basic and authoritative information on all phases of home improvement and modernization—information designed to help every American family proceed sensibly to achieve a better standard of living.

3. Long-range Council plans call for helping all of its local members provide more complete, more helpful home improvement service. The objective is to make it possible for homeowners to procure all the needed materials and service for various modernization projects at a variety of one-stop shops.

4. The ultimate effect of the industry's home improvement crusade will be to halt the spread of housing blight and upgrade neighborhoods, thereby bulwarking the value of every family's house investment.

The Council, permanent successor to the "Operation Home Improvement" campaign undertaken as a promotional venture by manufacturers and trade associates two years ago, is in the process of organizing local Chapters throughout the country.

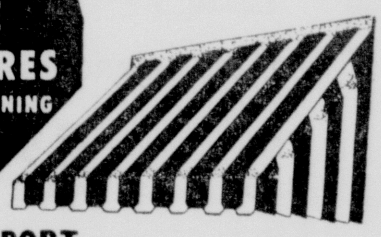

Local Chapters will, for example, organize home improvement clinics, where homeowners can get the answers to any of their improvement or modernization problems from industry experts. In some cases, they will stage exhibitions of the latest home improvement products and techniques.

Members—both at the national level and the local level—have been provided the distinctive Home Improvement Council emblem for use in their advertising or their place of business to show their interest in the homeowner's improvement plans.

Large panels of insulating siding go in place quickly. The courses are staggered as shown so vertical joints don't form a conspicuous line. As its name suggests, this material has effective insulating value. It requires no painting or staining.

New Tile For Do-It-Yourself

Ceramic tile — long a material requiring professional installation —is now available as a do-it-your self item.

The new wall tile, sold in major Sears, Roebuck and Co. stores, features special self - spacers for easy installation and is offered in six colors fer variety of decoration.

The new Homart tile sections have standard dimensions of 4¼ by 4¼ inches square. Also available is a complete line of trim pieces, adhesive, grouting cement and tools.

Complete instructions for installation of the tile are supplied. Sears experts in the retail stores will offer additional advice, if necessary.

The new tile and trim are available in six pastel shades, dawn gray, sunshine yellow, sage green, aquamarine, parchment beige and frosty pink. Black trim pieces and black cove base tile are also offered.

Homart ceramic tile can be applied to almost any hard surface with the government - approved rubber-base adhesive.

Because of the special self-spacers, the tile is installed quickly and uniformly.

CLEAN KITCHEN WALLS

One popular solution to the problems of grease and stains on kitchen walls is the application of plastic - finished Marlite panels, on both walls and ceiling. The panels, available in ten colors and seven wood grains, have baked plastic finish that seals in beauty and seals out moisture.

Cool Colors Make Home More Pleasant

TV's elaborate and detailed weather forecasters are proof of the importance that people everywhere place on the weather. Right now a great proportion of Americans are giving thought to how they can keep their houses cool once the heat of the summer has set in.

Until the time when total air-conditioning comes within the economic reach of all, many of u. will have to resort to ingenuity and less expensive ways of keeping our homes comfortable in summer.

It's a commonly known fact that light surfaces appear to be cooler. Begin then, by ridding your house of dark surfaces wherever you can. Cover your upholstered furniture with colorful summer slipcovers. Take down heavy draperies and use light, filmy curtains at the windows. Use light colored window shades and keep them drawn during the day against the sun's intense heat.

Dark Colors 'Hold Heat'

If your walls and woodwork are dark, they will seem to retain heat and make you feel subconsciously that it's even warmer than it really is. Keep this in mind when selecting paints for your new color schemes. The coolest colors are those which decorators refer to as "receding colors."

These are blue, green and gray. They also help create all illusion of space. They seem to push the walls away instead of bringing them closer, as the darer shades and warmer colors do. Ivory, light cream and oyster white are cool and spacious, too. These light tints have, in addition, a very restful effect.

When painting small rooms, remember the importance of light colors on the woodwork. Dark baseboards, mantels, doors, window sashes and other wood trim make a small room seem even smaller. Paint the woodwork the same color as the walls to make the room seem large and airy. You can also add to the apparent height of the room—if the ceiling is low—by "raising" it with color. White paint or a lighter tint of the wall color will make the ceiling seem higher.

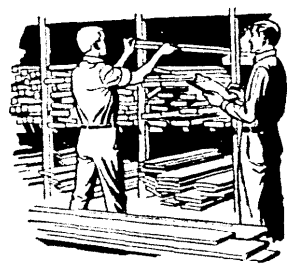

Remember the Porch

Pastel colors on porch and garden furniture provide a sense of coolness, too, for those pleasant times when the family can enjoy eating outdoors, or for those few relaxing moments you should allow yourself during the day.

An interesting booklet called "Courting Coolness," giving further ideas on combating summer heat, is offered by the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, 1500 Rhode Island Avenue, N. W., Washington 5, D. C.

The Bureau of Public Roads estimates that one worker in seven in the United States has work directly connected with highways or motor transportation.

Redwood Is Adaptable, Attractive Use Wallpaper To Dress Up Girl's Room

HERE is a truly outstanding living room with exposed beams, fireplace wall and built-ins constructed of one of the world's most beautiful woods—California Redwood. The warm glow of a fire reflecting the highlights in the rich, red tones of this wood makes this room write its own invitation to comfortable living.

The California Redwood is one of the rarest, most beautiful and most stable of woods. The special properties of Redwood make it adaptable for hundreds of inside and outside uses. It doesn't swell or contract, nor does it rot. In sects ignore it, and it can be used in areas where there is a great deal of moisture without adverse effect.

Redwood is the notable exception to the rule that wood burns easily, because it is very fire resistant. There are no volatile oils or resins in Redwood; it burns very slowly, and holds a heavy layer of charred wood.

This beautiful grained wood should be considered for many areas of home improvement. It's an excellent choice for wall paneling and built-ins for the living room, dining room or den. It is at home in the high wall areas above cabinets in the kitchen, and is an ideal choice for fireplace areas complementing either brick or stone.

Some of the new home designs include exposed beam ceilings and these can also be incorporated into the remodeling of an existing house. Redwood beams are at once attractive and sturdy.

Redwood has many faces. For interior use it can be varnished or shellacked to intensify its characteristic red color. Used as exterior siding in its natural state it weathers to a beautiful silver.

The addition of a garden room or patio to a home is an ideal place to use Redwood.

Discomfort May Cause Remodeling

If you want to remodel your house and don't know exactly why, the reason may be "emotional discomfort."

A leading architect blames this condition on houses of materials and design that are desolate and cheerless.

The National Lumber Manufacturers Association has some suggestion for remedying this problem—labeled by the architect as living in "an emotional draft."

If the house is planned with too much "open living," you can introduce a cozier sense of shelter by installing high room dividers of attractively stained or painted wood.

If there's too much glare or coldness from large glass areas, you can subdue the harshness of the light and warm up the room with wood paneling. Wood shutters outside or wood blinds inside, also contribute to a feeling of privacy and security.

If the house looks too much like a box on the outside, you can consult an architect on where and how to add a room so that your house takes on a feeling of homelike shelter with harmonions proportion of roof line. Fences or wind breaks may be used, too, to remedy your over-exposure to the rest of the world and, at the same time, add architectural enhancement to the house itself.

The architect who lowered the boom on the emotional coldness of some of today's houses is T. H. Robsjohn-Gibbings, speaking recently to the Architectural League of New York.

To back up its case for remodeling with wood, the lumber association quotes another architect, Frank Lloyd Wright, who said:

"Use wood as a beautiful material friendly to man—the supreme material for his dwelling purposes. If man is going to live, he should live with wood."

A new booklet published by the association offers ideas in pictures and text on use of wood for both prospective home owners and Built of Wood." are available free the booklet, "Better Homes Are home remodelers. Right Use Of Windows Has Way To Extra Room In Many Different Parts Of The House

There are a number of improvements to your home where the use of windows will give you an exxtra room you've always wanted . . . and economically, too.

Do you have a porch or a breezeway? Then here is a fine way to get a pleasant extra room. Enclose it with modern window units. Even without heat, enclosure will give you in two or three months of extra use in the spring and fall. Come rainy weather . . . your porch is still a pleasant room for the whole family.

Enclosure will keep out dust and rain, so you can keep this new room clean and furnish it with better furniture. Usually a porch or breezeway is easy to heat, so it is a very economical way of getting a cheerful extra room for the whole year.

Perhaps the second most popular use of windows in remodeling is to turn an unused attic into living space. Here windows will frequently make the difference between livable and unlivable rooms . . . for even with good insulation . . . second floor rooms require plenty of ventilation. And if you put up a large dormer, you'll not only get plenty of fresh air and plenty of light; you'll also get more space.

An extra room on the ground floor is frequently the solution to a growing family. In fact it's usually the only way to enlarge a home built in the popular ranch house style.

Sometimes the extra room can be obtained by converting an attached garage into living space. Sometimes the extra room has to be built on. Either case calls for windows . . . and of course there is no reason why you shouldn't use windows the way you've always wanted.

The final way to use windows is in the remodeling of existing rooms. Thousands of kitchens will be modernized next year. And the pleasantest of them will have plenty of windows. Many a dark and stuffy living room can be turned into a really livable room by the installation of a wide picture window.

But no matter what type of room improvement you are planning, remember that the windows are as important for all-round beauty, enjoyment and satisfaction as any other element.

Where to go for help? Your nearby lumberyard is a good bet. Your lumber dealer can supply you with the proper window units and other materials you need. What's more, most lumber dealers can help you plan your remodeling and guide you to a reliable contractor who specializes in this kind of work.

Kitchen's Faults Help To Guide Your Modernizing

HOME IMPROVEMENT SEC

Buying a new kitchen can be fun if you follow the advice of such experienced people as Diana Young, color styling and planning expert for Youngstown Kitchens who has outlined some basic rules for homeowners planning such a project.

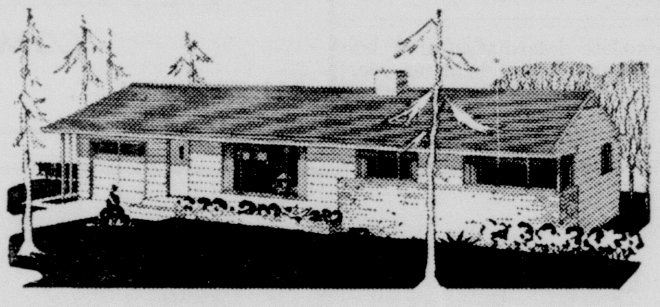

Miss Young believes the homemaker must first determine what her kitchen is not doing for her. Then she can begin to assemble information from magazines and kitchen manufacturers on equipment that will eliminate these faults.

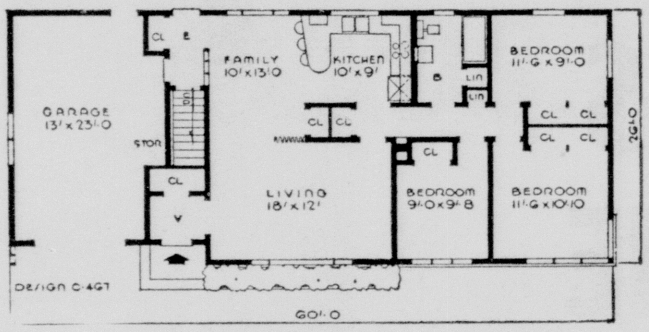

The next step is to locate a kitchen dealer who is equipped to provide planning and installation service and other helps that will make the kitchen completely satisfactory. "Use the dealer," Miss Young counsels. "He wants to provide the kind of kitchen you want, and he's equipped to help you do the planning." The up-to-date kitchen dealer can not only plan and install the kitchen, but can help with decorating.

'Sweet Dream' Now Because Of Insulation

Take it from Mrs. Michael J. Walsh, Jr., a White Plains, N. Y., housewife, comparing successive winters spent in a house with and without insulation "is like comparing a sweet dream and a nightmare."

Mrs. Walsh's family and about 130 others bought new homes in a development of ranch-style houses three years ago, but they forgot to ask an important question: "How well are the houses insulated?"

Impossible To Heat

The winter that followed gave them their answer. Inadequate insulation in the ceilings and none in the walls and floors over crawl spaces made it impossible to heat the houses comfortably or economically.

"It really was a nightmare," says Mrs. Walsh. "Even with our thermostats pushed up to 80, my neighbors and I had to go around with wool socks on. The children couldn't sit on the floor to watch TV. The wind on the floor would practically blow out a match. We always sat on our feet to keep them warm, and our fuel bills were so high we were frantic."

One by one, the homeowners, including the Walshes, called in an insulation contractor to have thick mineral wool blown into walls and ceilings, and thick blankets of insulation installed between floor joists in crawl spaces.

Fuel Cost Down

Overnight the houses became more comfortable. Thermostats could safely be pushed down to 70 or 72, and fuel costs dropped 40 to 50 per cent. Children got over their colds, and stayed healthy. Floors, free of drafts caused by chilled air dropping from cold walls and scudding across the room, became safe play havens.

"Our fuel bills now are $8 to $11 less per month than they were that first winter," says Mrs. Walsh. "No more wool socks, and we have fewer doctor bills. My mother, who refused to visit us in our 'barn,' comes regularly, and our friends, who stayed away in droves that first winter, are dropping in often again."

The mineral wool installed in these White Plains homes was blown into place under air pressure which forces it into wall spaces and between ceiling joists, packing it tightly around wires, pipes and braces for an efficient insulation seal.

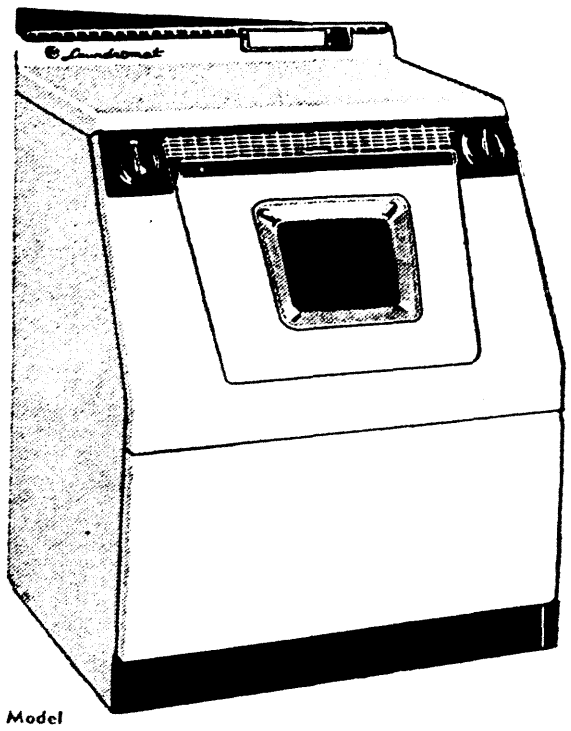

Contractors who do this work remove small pieces of siding and drill holes into sheathing to get at the wall spaces. When the wall is insulated, the house is sealed, and the siding is neatly replaced.

HALF a closet is better than none—or a tall one if it covers a window! So, here's a half closet which is tall enough for medium-length garments, yet short enough to let in daylight. The glass is covered in this photograph with a bamboo-type shade. Masonite "Peg-Board" panels on the back wall assure full use of limited storage capacity. An interesting feature is the battery of shelves at the right. Sliding doors which screen the closet from the living room have wear-resistant hardboard surfaces.
are still in the same location, for economy.

Variety Of Loans Available To Ease Improvement Jobs

If this year's big "How's Your Home" contest creates the desire in your family to start an improvement or modernization job, there's no need to hesitate because of a storage of cash.

Whether you're thinking of adding a room, installing a new heating system, putting in new plumbing or doing some papering or painting, you should have little trouble financing the job with a low-cost loan that you can pay off on a convenient monthly basis.

The first thing for you to do is get estimates from reliable contractors. If someone solicits your business who's a stranger to you, you'll do well to check his reputation. An established contractor will gladly give you references, including the names of satisfied customers.

Determine Capacity

As soon as you know how much the work will cost, you should try to figure out how much you will need to borrow, and how much you can repay monthly.

With these preliminaries taken care of, you are ready to talk to a bank, savings and loan association or other lender to make whatever financing arrangements may be necessary for the project you have in mind.

It isn't necessary, incidentally, for you to be a depositor with the lender you go to—banks welcome home improvement loan applications from depositors and non-depositors alike—and you needn't feel the slightest embarrassment about asking for a loan.

In fact, the attitude with which banks would like you to appreach them is that you're not asking for a favor any more than you are when you discuss any other type of financial transaction with an interested party. Making loans is an important part of their business and they're just as eager to serve you as you are to get advice and aid from them.

Four Different Loans

There are four principal types of loans which may be available for home improvements through commercial banks, trust companies and other financial institutions — conventional bank installment loans, government-insured Title I loans, open-end mortgage advances, and supplemental loans obtained through mortgage refinancing.

1. Conventional Bank Installment Loan. In making such loans, the bank's major concern is that the improvement will substantially protect or improve the basic livability or utility of your home, and that you will receive real value for the cost incurred. The amount and terms will depend primarily on the nature of the improvement and your ability to pay back the loan without hardship. Since these loans are made by the banks on their own, and hence are not subject to the regulations of FHA Title I loans, they are generally more flexible with regard to the purpose, the amount and terms of repayment. While the interest rate is usually slightly higher, some loans not covered under the FHA plan may be obtained through the bank's own home-improvement loan program.

Government Insured

2. Title I Loan. The Title I plan permits a bank or other qualified lender to advance the money you need under an insurance arrangement with the Federal Housing Administration. The maximum amount that can be borrowed under Title I is $3,500 and the maximum repayment term is five years for loans over $600. The interest charge is generally $5 discount per $100 per year. ("Discount" means that the full charges are deducted from the amount of the loan at the time the money is borrowed.) Title I financing can be used for most basic home improvements. It cannot serve however for certain items not considered essential to a home such as swimming pools, greenhouses or outdoor fireplaces or for appliances and items that are not substantially built into the property. Your local financial institution will be able to give you the specifics on the items eligible for Title I financing.

3. Open-End Mortgage Loan. If your mortgage contains an "open-end" provision, additional funds on the same mortgage may be available to you for home improvement purposes. It is usually necessary of course to have built up a substantial equity in order to obtain such an advance. In other words, before you can borrow money in this manner, the bank or other mortgage holder usually requires that you shall have made earlier mortgage payments totalling at least as much as the new advance. Your monthly repayments may be increased slightly to pay off the additional debt, or the time of repayment simply extended beyond the original expiration date.

New Mortgage

4. Mortgage Refinancing. If you have a conventional rather than open-end mortgage, you may be able to obtain the money you need by retiring the existing mortgage and obtain another in a new amount. Although this ordinarily involves a new title search, recording and other extra fees, your interest rate will be lower than under Title I or other short-term loans.

Home improvement projects can also be financed, of course, through personal loans obtained from banks, credit unions and small loan companies. However, many state laws limit the size of these loans, and repayment periods are usually shorter than for special home improvement loans.

Many Types Of Firms United In New Group

The home improvement industry, now united in its efforts to help you toward better living, is composed of a great variety of retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers, professionals, contractors institutions and others whose products and services contribute to that goal.

In fact, there is no other industry so diverse in services, products and interests. Recognizing this, the many segments of this commercial giant have banded together in the Home Improvement Council to make it easier for the homeowner to solve his home improvement problems.

What is home improvement? According to the Home Improvement Council, everything from maintenance, replacements and minor repairs to alteration, remodeling, addition and modernizing.

The Council membership represents these interests and more. Banks, savings and loan associations and other lending institutions are part of it.

Carpet and floor dealers are part of the industry, too, as are roofers, realtors and plastering contractors, chain and department stores, lumber yards, gas and electric companies.

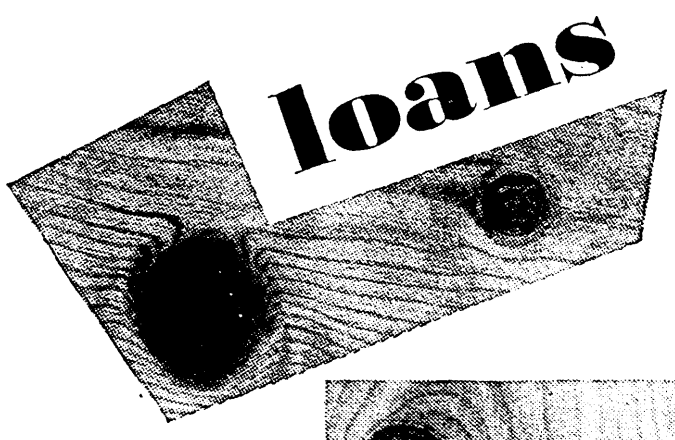

Also part of this sprawling, diverse industry are manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of appliances, building materials, furniture, glass, hardware, paint and wallpaper; architects, general contractors, gardeners, painters and tool rental firms; general contractors and home improvement contractors of all kinds; specialty dealers and unions.

HERE's a new idea in vacuum-cleaning to ease the work of housewives. It's a built-in vacuum cleaning system, with convenient wall inlets in various parts of the house—and the vacuum producing unit and receptacle in garage or basement. Cost of the system, Vacu-Flo, is as low as $220 for a three-bedroom house. The manufacturer is H-P Products, Inc., Louisville, Ohio.

PAINT BRUSH USE

Grip the brush on the metal ferrule, the handle between the thumb and forefinger. Use a long steady, even stroke. Lift the brush gradually at the end of the stroke to feather out the edge. Never ride your paint brush. A heavy forcing stroke does not distribute paint properly and ruins the brush. Dip the brush only half the length of its bristles and tap off paint against the side of the can opposite you.

A MODERN kitchen can also be a bright kitchen with planned and adequate lighting. In this example the central overhead fixture provides the general atmosphere of light for the entire room. Ample illumination for every inch of the counter area is guaranteed by unobstrusive wall brackets and a full width wall bracket above the stove is a cooking must. An indirect recessed light above the sing serves admirably well for the traditional window and has the added advantage of being available 24 hours a day as a light source. Each fixture is individually controlled.

Carpeting Fills Wide Variety Of Home Improvement Needs

When the time comes for renovating or redecorating, a family conference is usually the first step. Mom talks about beauty and convenience. Dad thinks about construction and cost. The rest of the family may throw in an assortment of requests and ideas.

If home improvement includes refurbishing the old floors, carpet should lead the list of essentials, for all these demands can be met at once. Carpets and rugs provide the basis for any decoration and color scheme, but they add more than beauty — they also provide comfort, warmth, quiet and safety. And the family financier will quickly see many ways of cutting costs with carpets.

Shopping Easy

Picking out the right carpet for your own home improvement project is getting easier and easier. Once you've decided what type of carpet or rug you want, it's a simple matter to visit stores with see-at-a glance sample racks, or take advantage of the in-home buying services which many stores offer.

Some of the new carpets now come with built-in underpadding—sponge rubber or polyurethene cushion laminated to the backing. Families using these new floor coverings will save the cost of buying additional padding, which normally is laid separately when carpets are installed.

Change Appearance

Choosing from among all these new carpet ideas will, of course, depend on your home construction as well as on decorative values. Carpets can create an illusion of space in a room. For example, if you can't knock out all the walls you'd like to, you can still make a small room look larger by using an unbroken area of carpeting in a solid color or continuous pattern. You can even overcome some architectural irregularities by "pulling together" chopped-up areas with carpeting.

These are some of the favored redecorating and remodeling spots in which carpet can play a major role:

1. The family room. Remember that it will see lots of activity—and, inevitably, accompanying noise—so sound-absorbing carpet is a necessity here. It's practical and easy care for, too. Many types of carpet, especially those made of the newer fibers, are resistant to spills and stains.

2. The attic room. If you're making use of extra space for a growing family, note that carpets provide insulation for an attic which might present a heating problem. Again, they muffle sounds to insure extra privacy upstairs.

3. The nursery. For young homemakers on their first remodeling spree, this extra room frequently heads the list. A carpet in the nursery means that the family newcomers will have warmth and quiet—and later, a soft, safe area for playing and learning to walk.

4. The teen-ager's room. Here's a chance to let the teen agers share in decorating plans and get an idea of a long-range investment for the home. They'll appreciate the decorative and practical features of carpets and rugs and will have a hey-day in picking out their favorite colors and designs.

5. The hallway and stairs. Probably the quickest way to give a new look to the entire house is to redecorate an entrance which greets visitors as they open the door. Stairs should be carpeted for safety reasons as well as decorative values.

Economical, Too

Best news for Dad is that all of these redecorating and remodeling features can be had with economy in mind. The wide availability of accredited installment plans makes it easy to have quality carpet now as a basis for your home improvement program. Quality carpets for two average - sized rooms can be purchased for as little as $15 a month on a 24-month plan.

Medicine Cabinet Prevents Poisoning

Since accidental poisoning kills more young children than polio, diphtheria and scarlet fever combined, it is important to select a sufficiently large medicine cabinet when planning to remodel your bathroom.

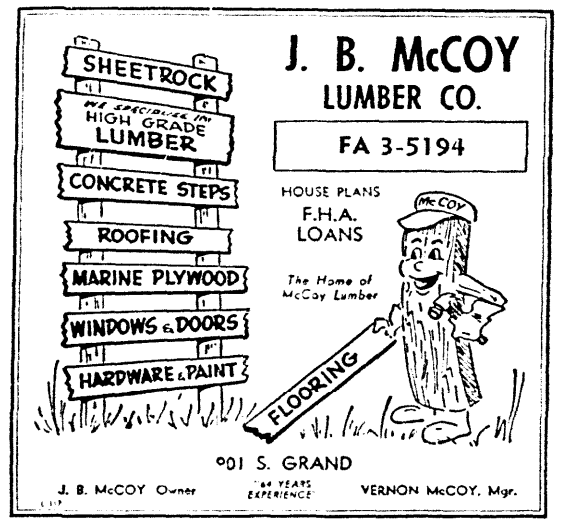

The medicine cabinet should be large enough to store all dangerous products out of the reach of small children. Standard cabinets are available with storage capacity ranging up to 1919 cubic inches, and capacity can be doubled or tripled through the use of twin or triple cabinet installations, joined together by simple joiner strips.

A special folder on this subject has been prepared by the F. H. Lawson Co., Cincinnati 4, Ohio, and is available free upon request.

PAINT AND VARNISH

The difference between paint and varnish goes right back to the make-up of the two materials. Paint is made by grinding pigments (colors) in drying oils. Varnish is made by melting transparent resins and mixing the melted resins with similar drying oils, after these oils have been raised to a high temperature. Paint is opaque and is intended to hide surfaces.

Good Light Makes Kitchen Chores Easier

Preparing meals with modern kitchen equipment has become an easier task for the homemaker, But it could become even easier if she had enough light to see what she was doing.

This lack of light in the kitchen paves the way for accidents, making it one of the most dangerous rooms in the home, according to the American Home Lighting Institute.

"Stumbling along in the gloom of a single ceiling fixture, most homemakers find their work frustrating, irritating, and tiring," says a spokesman for the institute.

"As the lighting level is increased, more energy is free for useful work, and nervous tension is lessened."

Light Each Surface

A specific light fixture for each work surface and area is needed. This means light over the sink, range, and counters, as well as light for balance in the corner of the room, and light over the kitchen dining area.

Cooking over an inadequately lighted range, fumbling in shadowy cutlery drawers, and using electric kitchen appliances in gloomy surroundings are all dangers which can be eliminated with appropriate fixtures.

Improving kitchen lighting can be easy on the budget. In many cases, especially with counter lighting, fluorescent fixtures can be installed as a "do-it-your-self" project. Good lighting is just as suitable for old as new homes.

Two important things to watch when you plan for kitchen lighting are the color of light you choose, and glare protection. Generally, deluxe cool white fluorescent is preferred for the kitchen. This light is easy to see by, and provides excellent color rendition of materials you work with, including foods.

Shield From Eyes

All kitchen lighting should be shielded, so that none shines directly into the eyes. In most cases, this means a faceboard installed in front of the fixtures.

Generally, units installed under cabinets for counter lighting require no faceboards, since the cabinet itself conceals the lighting fixture. However, if the fixture is installed beneath the front of the cabinet, a faceboard is required.

Lighting over the sink can be concealed behind a faceboard so that the entire effect resembles a custom-built soffit, usually associated with remodeling jobs.

Your range needs adequate fixture lighting, even if it already has its own built-in lighting. This builtin unit is generally intended to illuminate the controls of the range only, and seldom enough to light up the cooking area.

Double Duty

A fluorescent wall braket installed to illuminate the range can also double as a condiment shelf if the top is covered with protective glass or plastic.

A similar wall bracket can be used to light up the kitchen dinning table set against the wall.

Complete information and advice on the correct light for your kitchen is available usually at no charge, from your local electrical, utility, or department store.

Clinics Motivate Paneling Projects

Thousands of homeowners are going ahead with improvements which involve paneling as the result of a unique clinic being conducted by one manufacturer and local lumber dealers.

Although the plan was only inaugurated last September, close to 1,000 lumber dealers have already adopted "The Weldwood Clinic Plan," through which a program of free advice on how to make home improvements is conducted.

After seeing a half-hour film which shows step-by-step installation of several different types of panels, dealers show their audiences samples of the panels they have seen in the movie and give a series of installation tips designed to save time and money. Question and answer periods follow.

Many dealers are planning to repeat the clinics at regular intervals.

New Room Solves The Problem Of Post-War Homes

Short on living space? Your predicament will be shared by many who enter the Home Improvement Council's $125,000 "How's Your Home" contest.

(Entry blanks are available from your neighborhood building material dealer. All you do is fill the checklist with your home improvement needs and tell why you think it's important to improve your home. Don't delay because the contest closes June 30, 1958.)

If yours is a growing family facing an over crowded situation in a house built to skimpy proportions common in the immediate postwar years, there are several solutions for you.

Some families are finding the answer by converting basements into dens and attics into bedrooms. But what about the many small ranch type homes that have neither basement nor attic? Here's a clever way one suburban couple solved this problem.

They expanded their present home with a completely new but low cost family room addition.

Result: They gained needed living, work and storage area and, most important, it effected an outstanding transformation in the home interior. Key to the "new look" inside was the removal of a wall section where the added room joins the original house giving the home an "open plan" instead of a cramped interior. The hardwood plywood paneling and built-ins provided a decorative unity which the home lacked before.

Two walls of the living room leading toward the new room were paneled in elm plywood in a random-plank effect, and the new room was completely paneled in the same material. Flooring is oak plywood parquet squares to match the floors in the original house. A large breakfast bar-room divider made of oak plywood fills part of the space where the wall was removed. On the far wall of the new room is an eight-foot row of built-in cabinets with open bookshelves above, all made of oak plywood.

Leftover pieces of oak plywood were used to make valances for fluorescent strip lighting installed above picture windows in both the living room and new room. Oak flush doors completed the handsome setting of natural hardwoods. The beauty of the wood was heightened by installation of recessed lighting, twin spots and conical brass fixtures at strategic places.

The new room serves as a true all-purpose room. It provides a place for children to play indoors, it serves as a dining room and as a study, and it makes an ideal area for entertaining guests.

The project was part professional and part "do it yourself". The job of laying the foundation was contracted out and two capenters were hired to frame the new room. One of the carpenters was retained on a part-time basis to hang the doors, install the windows, make the cabinets and trim out the job. An electrician was hired to do the added wiring.

The family took care of the rest — sheathing, insulation, siding, roofing, ceiling and flooring tiles, wall paneling and wood finishes.

So there's your answer to this familiar problem. And besides the added livability, you are adding real dollar value to your home.

New Home Improvement Council's $125,000 How's Your Home' Quiz Good

An appealing contest for homeowners—with the catchy title, "How's Your Home?" — highlights 1958 activity of the home improvement and modernization industry banded together for the first time by the Home Improvement Council.

The contest, which has cash prizes totaling $125,000, helps the homeowning family compile valuable information about its home while competing for a total of $125,000 in cash prizes. The top prize is $25,000, second prize is $10,000, third is $3,000, and there are 1,000 other prizes adding up to $87,000.

Designed to stimulate participation by every member of the family, the complete contest guide and entry form makes a game out of what would normally seem an overwhelming chore: Careful examination of every room in a house, its exterior and the grounds around it.

A detailed checklist in the contest guide can be kept by the homeowner as a help in organizing his own home modernization program after he has entered the contest. The entry form itself consists of this statement: "Here's why we feel it is important for us to improve our present home (25 words or less) . . ."

Industry spokesmen explain that homeowners will be able to complete such a statement much more thoughtfully and effectively after they have made a thorough analysis of their homes in completing the home improvement checklist.

Deadline for entries in the contest is June 30, 1958. Only one entry will be accepted from each home. Entrants are not required to buy anything or do anything other than complete the checklist and entry form.

The main purpose of the contest, according to the Home Improvement Council, is to acquaint homeowners with their specific repair - remodel needs, the benefits of improvement and modernization—and the fact that it is possible to make dramatic changes in an older home.

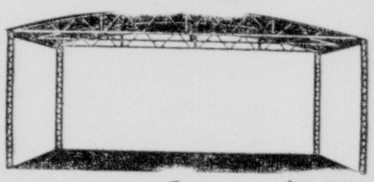

The complete contest guide and entry form can be obtained from any local member of the Council —among them building materials dealers, contractors of many types, bankers and other lenders, utilities and other firms in, or allied with, the home improvement business.

In many cases, local newspapers are presenting their readers with complete contest information and the entry form.

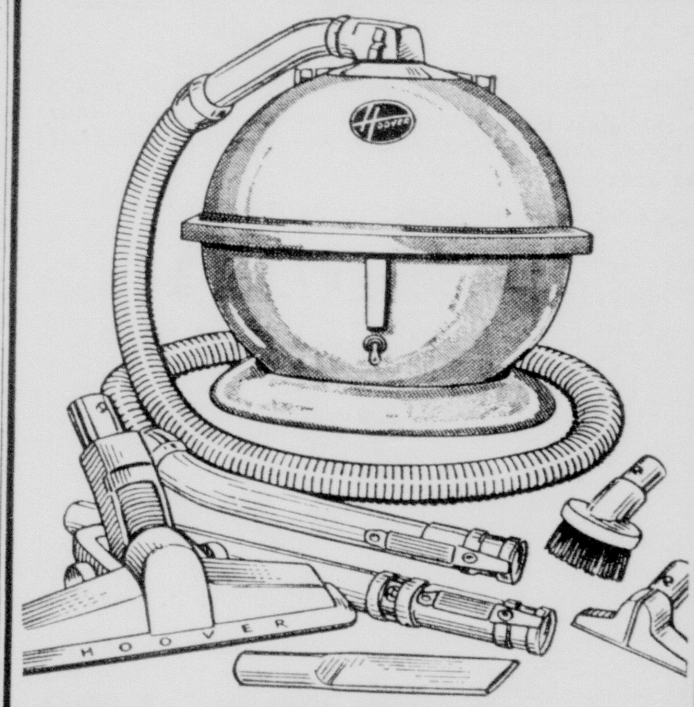

WAX AND CRACKS

Before painting a surface which has been waxed, remove all traces with turpentine or one of the products prepared especially for that purpose. Clean rags should be used for the final clean-up. If your painting job involves hiding cracks, rough or patched plaster or dry wall seams, try using a texture paint which is thicker than regular paint. First brush it on. Then stipple with a brush or sponge.

Redwood Is Adaptable, Attractive Use Wallpaper To Dress Up Girl's Room

HERE is a truly outstanding living room with exposed beams, fireplace wall and built-ins constructed of one of the world's most beautiful woods—California Redwood. The warm glow of a fire reflecting the highlights in the rich, red tones of this wood makes this room write its own invitation to comfortable living.

The California Redwood is one of the rarest, most beautiful and most stable of woods. The special properties of Redwood make it adaptable for hundreds of inside and outside uses. It doesn't swell or contract, nor does it rot. Insects ignore it, and it can be used in areas where there is a great deal of moisture without adverse effect.

Redwood is the notable exception to the rule that wood burns easily, because it is very fire resistant. There are no volatile oils or resins in Redwood; it burns very slowly, and holds a heavy layer of charred wood.

This beautiful grained wood should be considered for many areas of home improvement. It's an excellent choice for wall paneling and built-ins for the living room, dining room or den. It is at home in the high wall areas above cabinets in the kitchen, and is an ideal choice for fireplace areas complementing either brick or stone.

Some of the new home designs include exposed beam ceilings and these can also be incorporated into the remodeling of an existing house. Redwood beams are at once attractive and sturdy.

Redwood has many faces. For interior use it can be varnished or shellacked to intensify its characteristic red color. Used as exterior siding in its natural state it weathers to a beautiful silver.

The addition of a garden room or patio to a home is an ideal place to use Redwood.

The name Jesse is Hebrew for wealth.

Discomfort May Cause Remodeling

If you want to remodel your house and don't know exactly why, the reason may be "emotional discomfort."

A leading architect blames this condition on houses of materials and design that are desolate and cheerless.

The National Lumber Manufacturers Association has some suggestion for remedying this problem—labeled by the architect as living in "an emotional draft."

If the house is planned with too much "open living," you can introduce a cozier sense of shelter by installing high room dividers of attractively stained or painted wood.

If there's too much glare or coldness from large glass areas, you can subdue the harshness of the light and warm up the room with wood paneling. Wood shutters outside or wood blinds inside, also contribute to a feeling of privacy and security.

If the house looks too much like a box on the outside, you can consult an architect on where and how to add a room so that your house takes on a feeling of homelike shelter with harmonions proportion of roof line. Fences or wind breaks may be used, too, to remedy your over-exposure to the rest of the world and, at the same time, add architectural enhancement to the house itself.

The architect who lowered the boom on the emotional coldness of some of today's houses is T. H. Robsjohn-Gibbings, speaking recently to the Architectural League of New York.

To back up its case for remodeling with wood, the lumber association quotes another architect, Frank Lloyd Wright, who said:

"Use wood as a beautiful material friendly to man—the supreme material for his dwelling purposes. If man is going to live, he should live with wood."

A new booklet published by the association offers ideas in pictures and text on use of wood for both prospective home owners and Built of Wood." are available free the booklet, "Better Homes Are home remodelers. Large panels of insulating siding go in place quickly. The courses are staggered as shown so vertical joints don't form a conspicuous line. As its name suggests, this material has effective insulating value. It requires no painting or staining.

New Tile For Do-It-Yourself

Ceramic tile — long a material requiring professional installation —is now available as a do-it-your self item.

The new wall tile, sold in major Sears, Roebuck and Co. stores, features special self - spacers for easy installation and is offered in six colors for variety of decoration.

The new Homart tile sections have standard dimensions of 4¼ by 4¼ inches square. Also available is a complete line of trim pieces, adhesive, grouting cement and tools.

Complete instructions for installation of the tile are supplied. Sears experts in the retail stores will offer additional advice, if necessary.

The new tile and trim are available in six pastel shades, dawn gray, sunshine yellow, sage green, aquamarine, parchment beige and frosty pink. Black trim pieces and black cove base tile are also offered.

Homart ceramic tile can be applied to almost any hard surface with the government - approved rubber-base adhesive.

CLEAN KITCHEN WALLS

O..e popular solution to the problems of grease and stains on kitchen walls is the application of plastic - finished Marlite panels, on both walls and ceiling. The panels, available in ten colors and seven wood grains, have baked plastic finish that seals in beauty and seals out moisture.

Cool Colors Make Home More Pleasant

TV's elaborate and detailed weather forecasters are proof of the importance that people everywhere place on the weather. Right now a great proportion of Americans are giving thought to how they can keep their houses cool once the heat of the summer has set in.

Until the time when total air-conditioning comes within the economic reach of all, many of u. will have to resort to ingenuity and less expensive ways of keeping our homes comfortable in summer.

It's a commonly known fact that light surfaces appear to be cooler. Begin then, by ridding your house of dark surfaces wherever you can. Cover your upholstered furniture with colorful summer slipcovers. Take down heavy draperies and use light, filmy curtains at the windows. Use light colored window shades and keep them drawn during the day against the sun's intense heat.

Dark Colors 'Hold Heat'

If your walls and woodwork are dark, they will seem to retain heat and make you feel subconsciously that it's even warmer than it really is. Keep this in mind when selecting paints for your new color schemes. The coolest colors are those which decorators refer to as "receding colors."

These are blue, green and gray. They also help create all illusion of space. They seem to push the walls away instead of bringing them closer, as the darer shades and warmer colors do. Ivory, light cream and oyster white are cool and spacious, too. These light tints have, in addition, a very restful effect.

When painting small rooms, remember the importance of light colors on the woodwork. Dark baseboards, mantels, doors, window sashes and other wood trim make a small room seem even smaller. Paint the woodwork the same color as the walls to make the room seem large and airy. You can also add to the apparent height of the room—if the ceiling is low—by "raising" it with color. White paint or a lighter tint of the wall color will make the ceiling seem higher.

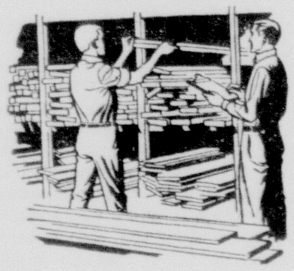

Remember the Porch

Pastel colors on porch and garden furniture provide a sense of coolness, too, for those pleasant times when the family can enjoy eating outdoors, or for those few relaxing moments you should allow yourself during the day.

An interesting booklet called "Courting Coolness," giving further ideas on combating summer heat, is offered by the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, 1500 Rhode Island Avenue, N. W., Washington 5, D. C.

The Bureau of Public Roads estimates that one worker in seven in the United States has work directly connected with highways or motor transportation.

Variety Of Loans Available To Ease Improvement Jobs

If this year's big "How's Your Home" contest creates the desire in your family to start an improvement or modernization job, there's no need to hesitate because of a storage of cash.

Whether you're thinking of adding a room, installing a new heating system, putting in new plumbing or doing some papering or painting, you should have little trouble financing the job with a low-cost loan that you can pay off on a convenient monthly basis.

The first thing for you to do is get estimates from reliable contractors. If someone solicits your business who's a stranger to you, you'll do well to check his reputation. An established contractor will gladly give you references, including the names of satisfied customers.

Determine Capacity

As soon as you know how much the work will cost, you should try to figure out how much you will need to borrow, and how much you can repay monthly.

With these preliminaries taken care of, you are ready to talk to a bank, savings and loan association or other lender to make whatever financing arrangements may be necessary for the project you have in mind.

It isn't necessary, incidentally, for you to be a depositor with the lender you go to—banks welcome home improvement loan applications from depositors and non-depositors alike—and you needn't feel the slightest embarrassment about asking for a loan.

In fact, the attitude with which banks would like you to appreach them is that you're not asking for a favor any more than you are when you discuss any other type of financial transaction with an interested party. Making loans is an important part of their business and they're just as eager to serve you as you are to get advice and aid from them.

Four Different Loans

There are four principal types of loans which may be available for home improvements through commercial banks, trust companies and other financial institutions — conventional bank installment loans, government-insured Title I loans, open-end mortgage advances, and supplemental loans obtained through mortgage refinancing.

1. Conventional Bank Installment Loan. In making such loans, the bank's major concern is that the improvement will substantially protect or improve the basic livability or utility of your home, and that you will receive real value for the cost incurred. The amount and terms will depend primarily on the nature of the improvement and your ability to pay back the loan without hardship. Since these loans are made by the banks on their own, and hence are not subject to the regulations of FHA Title I loans, they are generally more flexible with regard to the purpose, the amount and terms of repayment. While the interest rate is usually slightly higher, some loans not covered under the FHA plan may be obtained through the bank's own home-improvement loan program.

Government Insured

2. Title I Loan. The Title I plan permits a bank or other qualified lender to advance the money you need under an insurance arrangement with the Federal Housing Administration. The maximum amount that can be borrowed under Title I is $3,500 and the maximum repayment term is five years for loans over $600. The interest charge is generally $5 discount per $100 per year. ("Discount" means that the full charges are deducted from the amount of the loan at the time the money is borrowed.) Title I financing can be used for most basic home improvements. It cannot serve however for certain items not considered essential to a home such as swimming pools, greenhouses or outdoor fireplaces or for appliances and items that are not substantially built into the property. Your local financial institution will be able to give you the specifics on the items eligible for Title I financing.

3. Open-End Mortgage Loan. If your mortgage contains an "open-end" provision, additional funds on the same mortgage may be available to you for home improvement purposes. It is usually necessary of course to have built up a substantial equity in order to obtain such an advance. In other words, before you can borrow money in this manner, the bank or other mortgage holder usually requires that you shall have made earlier mortgage payments totalling at least as much as the new advance. Your monthly repayments may be increased slightly to pay off the additional debt, or the time of repayment simply extended beyond the original expiration date.

New Mortgage

4. Mortgage Refinancing. If you have a conventional rather than open-end mortgage, you may be able to obtain the money you need by retiring the existing mortgage and obtain another in a new amount. Although this ordinarily involves a new title search, recording and other extra fees, your interest rate will be lower than under Title I or other short-term loans.

Home improvement projects can also be financed, of course, through personal loans obtained from banks, credit unions and small loan companies. However, many state laws limit the size of these loans, and repayment periods are usually shorter than for special home improvement loans.

'Sweet Dream' Now Because Of Insulation

Take it from Mrs. Michael J. Walsh, Jr., a White Plains, N. Y., housewife, comparing successive winters spent in a house with and without insulation "is like comparing a sweet dream and a nightmare."

Mrs. Walsh's family and about 130 others bought new homes in a development of ranch-style houses three years ago, but they forgot to ask an important question: "How well are the houses insulated?"

Impossible To Heat

The winter that followed gave them their answer. Inadequate insulation in the ceilings and none in the walls and floors over crawl spaces made it impossible to heat the houses comfortably or economically.

"It really was a nightmare," says Mrs. Walsh. "Even with our thermostats pushed up to 80, my neighbors and I had to go around with wool socks on. The children couldn't sit on the floor to watch TV. The wind on the floor would practically blow out a match. We always sat on our feet to keep them warm, and our fuel bills were so high we were frantic."

One by one, the homeowners, including the Walshes, called in an insulation contractor to have thick mineral wool blown into walls and ceilings, and thick blankets of insulation installed between floor joists in crawl spaces.

Fuel Cost Down

Overnight the houses became more comfortable. Thermostats could safely be pushed down to 70 or 72, and fuel costs dropped 40 to 50 per cent. Children got over their colds, and stayed healthy. Floors, free of drafts caused by chilled air dropping from cold walls and scudding across the room, became safe play havens.

"Our fuel bills now are $8 to $11 less per month than they were that first winter," says Mrs. Walsh. "No more wool socks, and we have fewer doctor bills. My mother, who refused to visit us in our 'barn,' comes regularly, and our friends, who stayed away in droves that first winter, are dropping in often again."

The mineral wool installed in these White Plains homes was blown into place under air pdessure which forces it into wall spaces and between ceiling joists, packing it tightly around wires, pipes and braces for an efficient insulation seal.

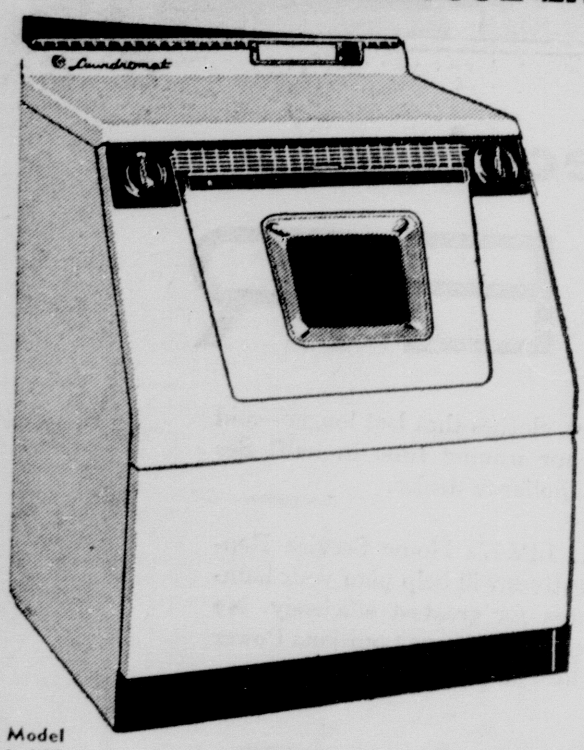

Contractors who do this work remove small pieces of siding and drill holes into sheathing to get at the wall spaces. When the wall is insulated, the house is sealed, and the siding is neatly replaced.

HALF a closet is better than none—or a tall one if it covers a window! So, here's a half closet which is tall enough for medium-length garments, yet short enough to let in daylight. The glass is covered in this photograph with a bamboo-type shade. Masonite "Peg-Board" panels on the back wall assure full use of limited storage capacity. An interesting feature is the battery of shelves at the right. Sliding doors which screen the closet from the living room have wear-resistant hardboard surfaces.

A MODERN kitchen can also be a bright kitchen with planned and adequate lighting. In this example the central overhead fixture provides the general atmosphere of light for the entire room. Ample illumination for every inch of the counter area is guaranteed by unobstrusive wall brackets and a full width wall bracket above the stove is a cooking must. An indirect recessed light above the sing serves admirably well for the traditional window and has the added advantage of being available 24 hours a day as a light source. Each fixture is individually controlled.

Carpeting Fills Wide Variety Of Home Improvement Needs

When the time comes for renovating or redecorating, a family conference is usually the first step. Mom talks about beauty and convenience. Dad thinks about construction and cost. The rest of the family may throw in an assortment of requests and ideas.

If home improvement includes refurbishing the old floors, carpet should lead the list of essentials, for all these demands can be met at once. Carpets and rugs provide the basis for any decoration and color scheme, but they add more than beauty — they also provide comfort, warmth, quiet and safety. And the family financier will quickly see many ways of cutting costs with carpets.

Shopping Easy

Picking out the right carpet for your own home improvement project is getting easier and easier. Once you've decided what type of carpet or rug you want, it's a simple matter to visit stores with see-at-a glance sample racks, or take advantage of the in-home buying services which many stores offer.

Some of the new carpets now come with built-in underpadding—sponge rubber or polyurethene cushion laminated to the backing. Families using these new floor coverings will save the cost of buying additional padding, which normally is laid separately when carpets are installed.

Change Appearance

Choosing from among all these new carpet ideas will, of course, depend on your home construction as well as on decorative values. Carpets can create an illusion of space in a room. For example, if you can't knock out all the walls you'd like to, you can still make a small room look larger by using an unbroken area of carpeting in a solid color or continuous pattern. You can even overcome some architectural irregularities by "pulling together" chopped-up areas with carpeting.

These are some of the favored redecorating and remodeling spots in which carpet can play a major role:

1. The family room. Remember that it will see lots of activity—and, inevitably, accompanying noise—so sound-absorbing carpet is a necessity here. It's practical and easy care for, too. Many types of carpet, especially those made of the newer fibers, are resistant to spills and stains.

2. The attic room. If you're making use of extra space for a growing family, note that carpets provide insulation for an attic which might present a heating problem. Again, they muffle sounds to insure extra privacy upstairs.

3. The nursery. For young homemakers on their first remodeling spree, this extra room frequently heads the list. A carpet in the nursery means that the family newcomers will have warmth and quiet—and later, a soft, safe area for playing and learning to walk.

4. The teen-ager's room. Here's a chance to let the teen agers share in decorating plans and get an idea of a long-range investment for the home. They'll appreciate the decorative and practical features of carpets and rugs and will have a hey-day in picking out their favorite colors and designs.

5. The hallway and stairs. Probably the quickest way to give a new look to the entire house is to redecorate an entrance which greets visitors as they open the door. Stairs should be carpeted for safety reasons as well as decorative values.

Economical, Too

Best news for Dad is that all of these redecorating and remodeling features can be had with economy in mind. The wide availability of accredited installment plans makes it easy to have quality carpet now as a basis for your home improvement program. Quality carpets for two average - sized rooms can be purchased for as little as $15 a month on a 24-month plan.

Medicine Cabinet Prevents Poisoning

Since accidental poisoning kills more young children than polio, diphtheria and scarlet fever combined, it is important to select a sufficiently large medicine cabinet when planning to remodel your bathroom.

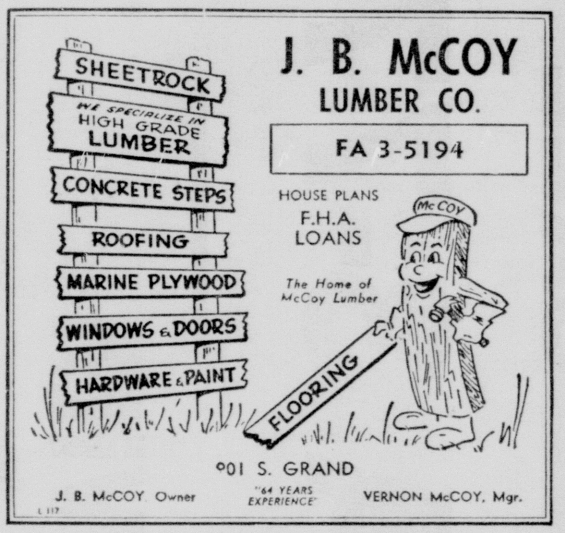

The medicine cabinet should be large enough to store all dangerous products out of the reach of small children. Standard cabinets are available with storage capacity ranging up to 1919 cubic inches, and capacity can be doubled or tripled through the use of twin or triple cabinet installations, joined together by simple joiner strips.

A special folder on this subject has been prepared by the F. H. Lawson Co., Cincinnati 4, Ohio, and is available free upon request.

PAINT AND VARNISH

The difference between paint and varnish goes right back to the make-up of the two materials. Paint is made by grinding pigments (colors) in drying oils. Varnish is made by melting transparent resins and mixing the melted resins with similar drying oils, after these oils have been raised to a high temperature. Paint is opaque and is intended to hide surfaces.

Many Types Of Firms United In New Group

The home improvement industry, now united in its efforts to help you toward better living, is composed of a great variety of retailers, wholesalers, manufacturers, professionals, contractors institutions and others whose products and services contribute to that goal.

In fact, there is no other industry so diverse in services,, products and interests. Recognizing this, the many segments of this commercial giant have banded together in the Home Improvement Council to make it easier for the homeowner to solve his home improvement problems.

What is home improvement? According to the Home Improvement Council, everything from maintenance, replacements and minor repairs to alteration, remodeling, addition and modernizing.

The Council membership represents these interests and more. Banks, savings and loan associations and other lending institutions are part of it.

Carpet and floor dealers are part of the industry, too, as are roofers, realtors and plastering contractors, chain and department stores, lumber yards, gas and electric companies.

Also part of this sprawling, diverse industry are manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of appliances, building materials, furniture, glass, hardware, paint and wallpaper; architects, general contractors, gardeners, painters and tool rental firms; general contractors and home improvement contractors of all kinds; specialty dealers and unions.

PAINT BRUSH USE

Grip the brush on the metal ferrule, the handle between the thumb and forefinger. Use a long steady, even stroke. Lift the brush gradually at the end of the stroke to feather out the edge. Never ride your paint brush. A heavy forcing stroke does not distribute paint properly and ruins the brush. Dip the brush only half the length of its bristles and tap off paint against the side of the can opposite you.

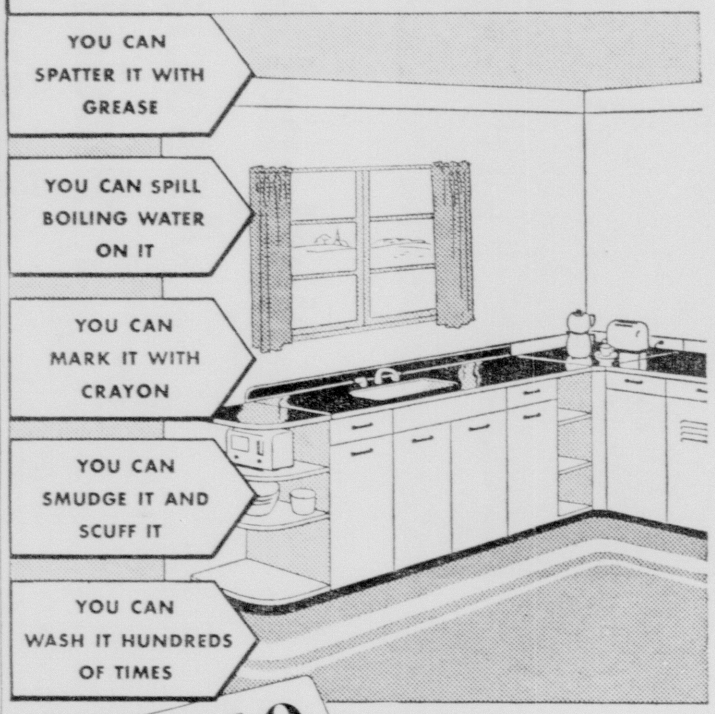

HERE's a new idea in vacuum-cleaning to ease the work of housewives. It's a built-in vacuum cleaning system, with convenient wall inlets in various parts of the house—and the vacuum producing unit and receptacle in garage or basement. Cost of the system, Vacu-Flo, is as low as $220 for a three-bedroom house. The manufacturer is H-P Products, Inc., Louisville, Ohio.

GOOD BOY, FRANK! HERE'S TH' DOC'S HOUSE...I'LL RING TH' BELL!

NEVER MIND NO BELL...DOC! QUICK, DOC! Y'HEAR ME?

BOO-HOO-HOO! WHY DID THAT OLD BUZZARD WANT TO HURT ANNIE? WHY? OOOO-HOO-HOO...

IT'S GOIN' TO BE ALL RIGHT, BIG FRANK... ANNIE'S COMIN' AROUND O.K.... FOR A FEW DAYS HER NECK MAY BE SORE...

NECK! THAT'S IT! I WAS SQUEEZIN' THAT OLD HEN'S HEAD! NECK! ...I'LL SQUEEZE HER NECK!

YEAH... YEAH... SURE, Y'WILL, BIG FRANK... LATER, EH?

HAROLD GRAY

YOU WERE SAYING, "MRS. LEVON"....

W-W-WHY, I... I THOUGHT YOU WERE DEAD!

AH, WELL... CAN'T PLEASE EVERYONE...

Steve Canyon

by Milton Caniff

STEVE, IF AN ALIEN SUBMARINE PUT MEN ASHORE TO OBSERVE OUR WAR GAMES, THEY WERE MEANT TO STAY!...

...MIZZOU MUST HAVE DISCOVERED THEM—SO THEY SHOVED OFF, TAKING HER ALONG AS A HOSTAGE...

...MIZZOU MADE AN S-O-S IN THE SAND WITH ONE FOOT AS SHE WAS KIDNAPPED...

THE SUB COULDN'T RISK WAITING, SO THEIR BOAT OR RAFT MUST NOT BE FAR FROM HERE...

YET OUR FIRST-DAY SEARCH-FLIGHT PHOTOS SHOWED NOTHING BUT DEBRIS...

THE FLIGHTS WILL BE COMING IN SOON—WE'LL HAVE A SECOND SET OF PICTURES

MEANWHILE = SEVERAL MILES OUT

SUN'S DOWN-STRIKE THE CAMOUFLAGE!

UP SAIL AND START ENGINES!

S.S. CONCHITA

WOW! THE AIR CONDITIONING ON THIS YACHT NEEDS OVER-HAULING!

THE SOUND OF THE SEARCH PLANES WAS CLOSER TODAY...THE FLYBOYS HAVEN'T FORGOTTEN US...

S.S. CONCHITA

WANT TO MAKE UP A CIGARETTE POOL ON HOW MANY MILES WE TRAVEL TONIGHT?

YOU TALK TOO MUCH, WOMAN!

OKAY, CAPTAIN, IF YOU WON'T LISTEN I'LL GAB WITH THE CREW! HI, TOOTS!

WHILE IN THE FINGER ISLANDS PHOTO LABORATORY...

WE SAW NOTHING NEW, BUT WE PHOTOGRAPHED EVERYTHING—AS YOU ORDERED, COL. CANYON!

GOT A HUNCH, STEVE?

MAYBE! WHAT'S THIS OBJECT?

HERE'S THE BLOWUP!—SEE THE MARKINGS?

I DO—AND I ALSO SEE THAT IT HAS MOVED MILES EAST OF ITS FIRST DAY POSITION, WHILE THE OTHER SURFACE DEBRIS DRIFTED NORTH!
